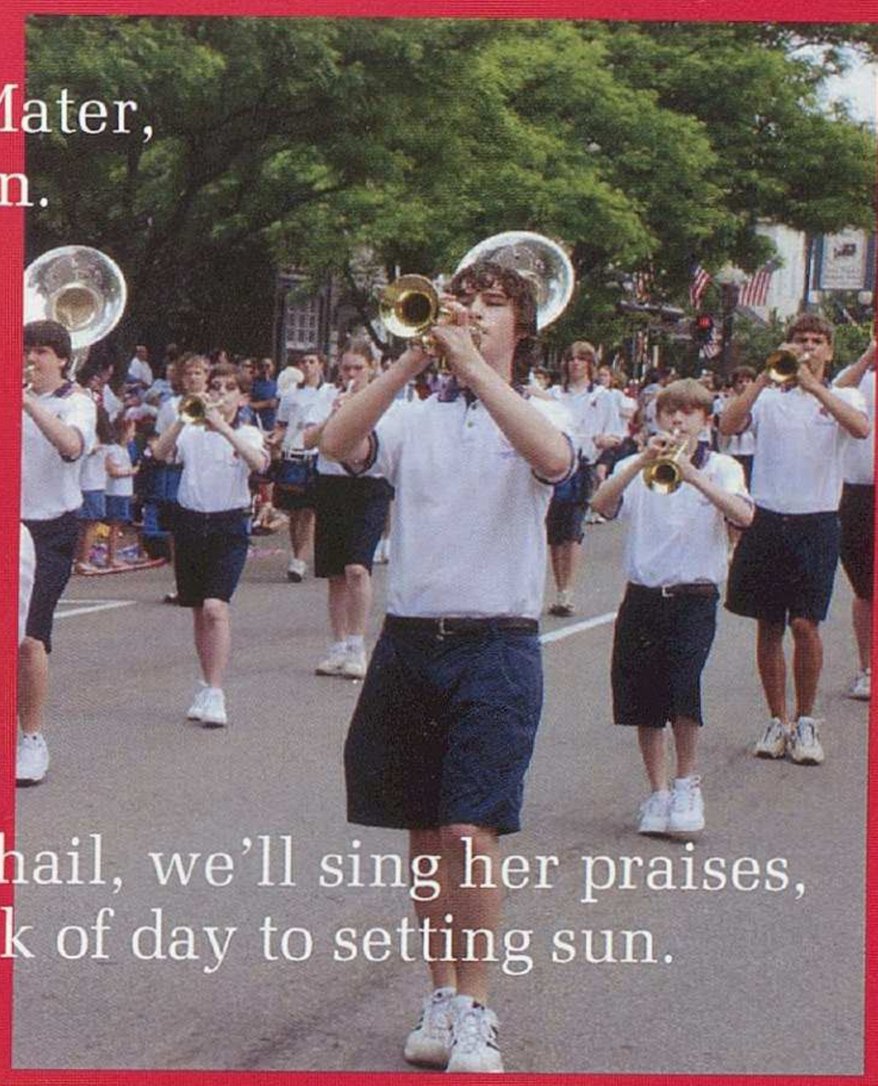
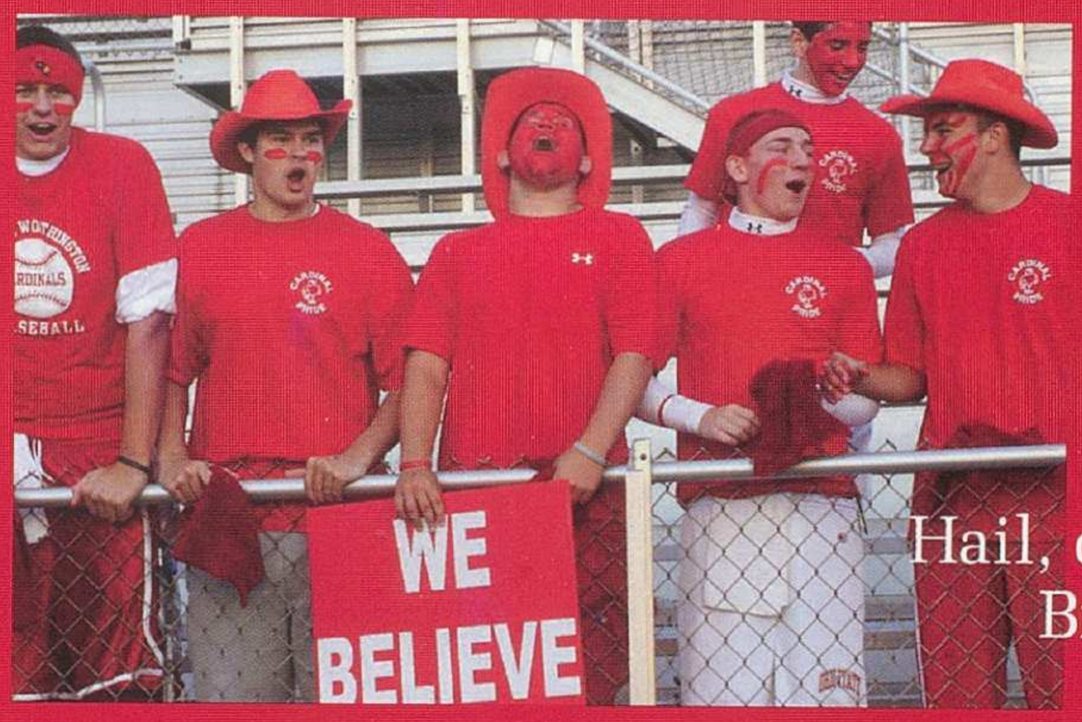
Thomas Worthington High School

Volume 66

THE CARDINAL 2007

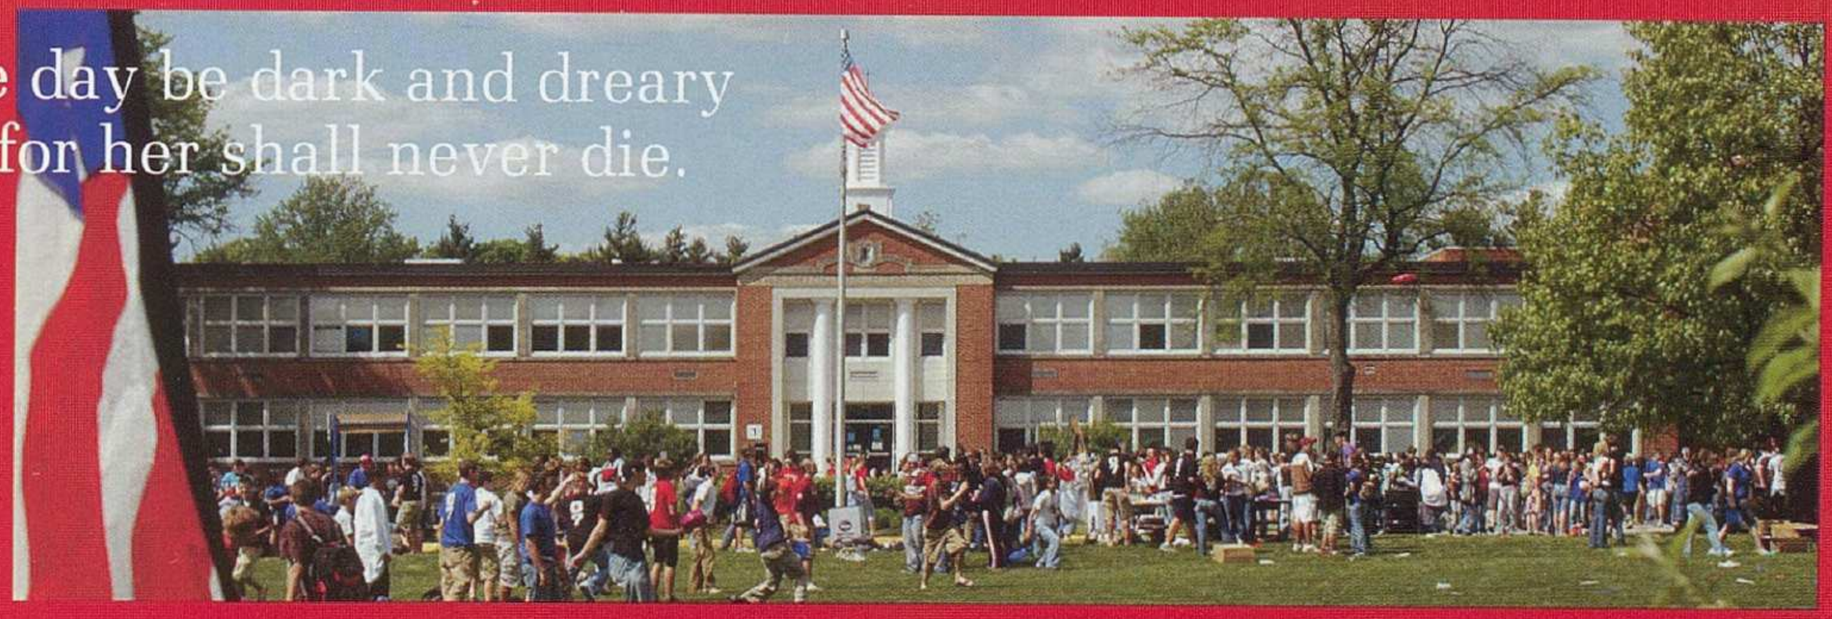
O, come, let's sing our Alma Mater,
to our dear our Worthington.





Hail, oh hail, we'll sing her praises,
Break of day to setting sun.

Though the day be dark and dreary
Our love for her shall never die.



Worthington, we'll always love you
As the years go drifting by.
Oh, Worthington!

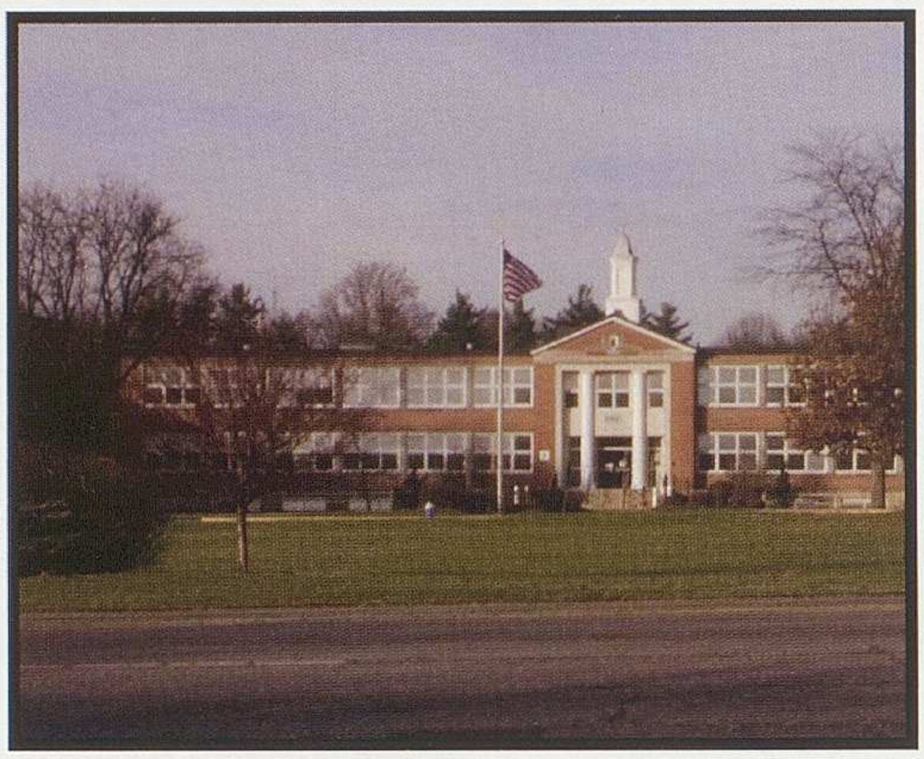
Thomas Worthington High School



Where do you see yourself in 10 years?

I hope to be still standing and educating new Cardinals. I also hope to give students new opportunities and life lessons. In 10 years, I hope that we further our academic achievements and inspire students to be successful in life. I hope that we carry on the Cardinal spirit that has been around for 199 years.

Favorite Music: Alma Mater & Stand Up and Cheer
Favorite Book: The Cardinal, The Phoenix, and The Oracle
Favorite Teacher: All of them
Favorite thing about TWHS: The students and faculty members
Favorite/Worst Memory of TWHS: In 1980, the USA Olympic Ice Hockey team won the gold medal, beating the Russian team. One of the administrators ran down the halls, carrying an American flag and chanting "USA!"

During one of the varsity boy's OCC basketball games awhile back, a player shot from half court and scored the winning point, with only a few seconds left in the game.

What do you think of Thomas Worthington High School?

"This school is totally wicked and it's been a really rad year!"

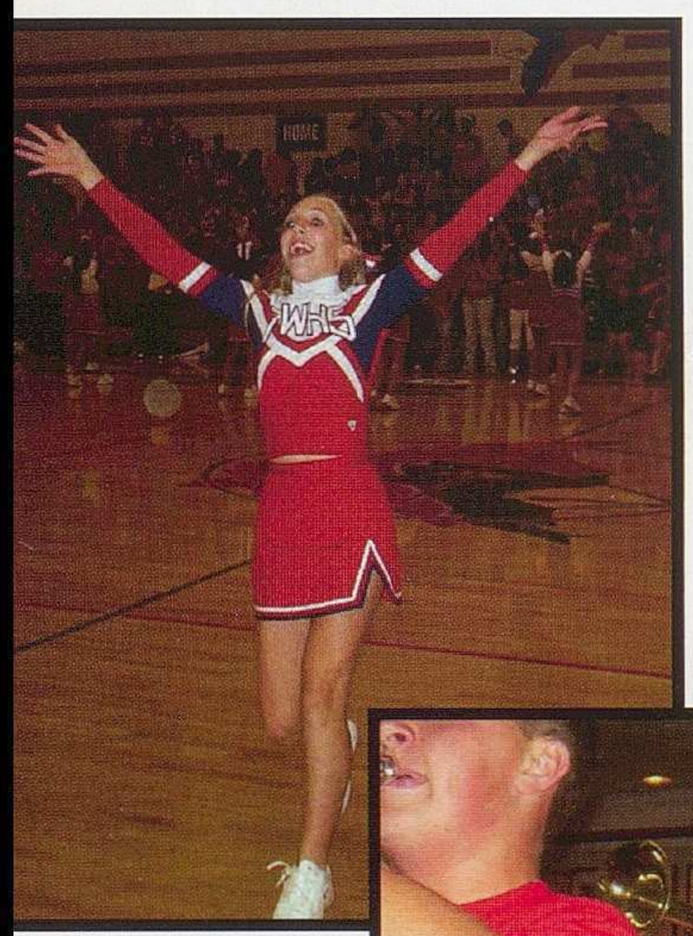
-Tamara Mueller

"I can't really complain, but there are some unnecessary rules. I think Juniors should be able to go out for lunch. I like the teachers and the bell schedule."

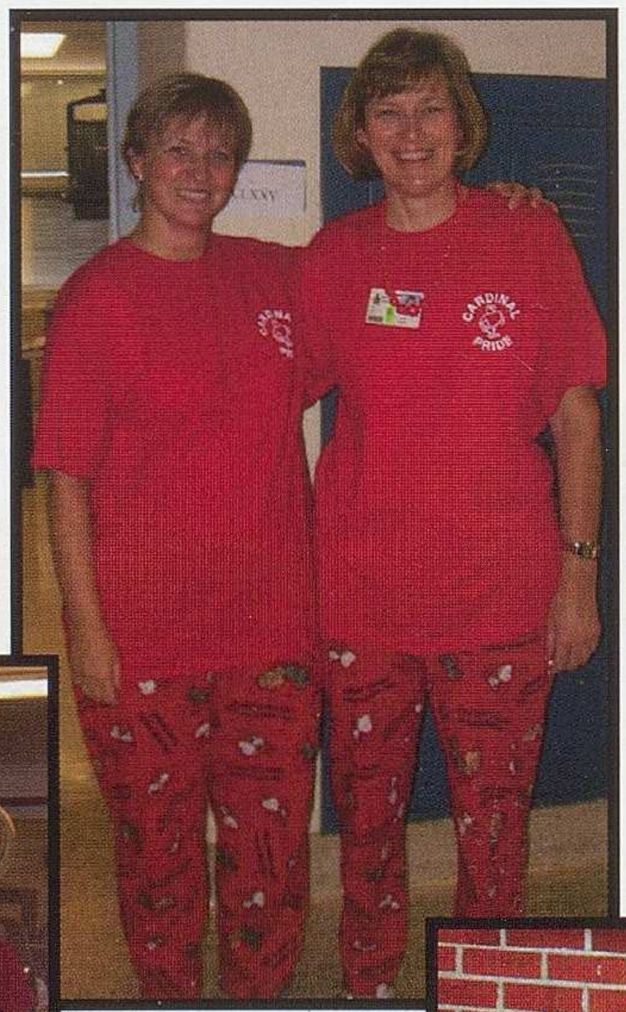
-James Towler

"I think Thomas Worthington is a good school. It has nice people, excellent academics, and helpful resources. It offers a lot of classes and numerous sports and clubs.

-Marchella Vann

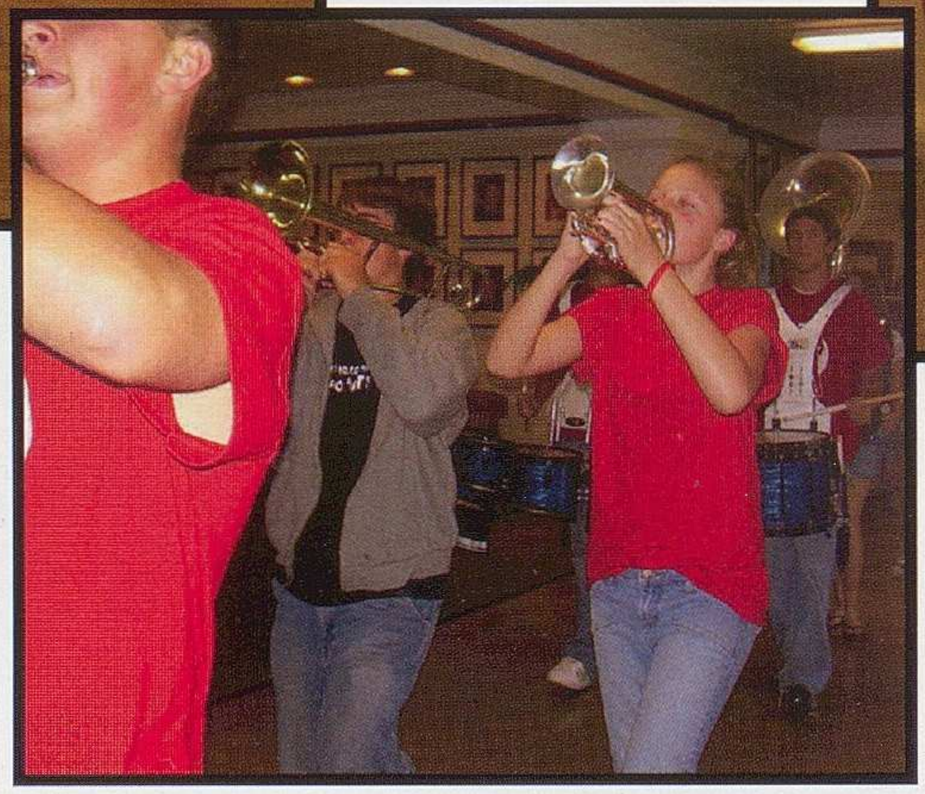


Getting her cheer on in the main gym, Morgan Clarke gets the crowd all riled up.

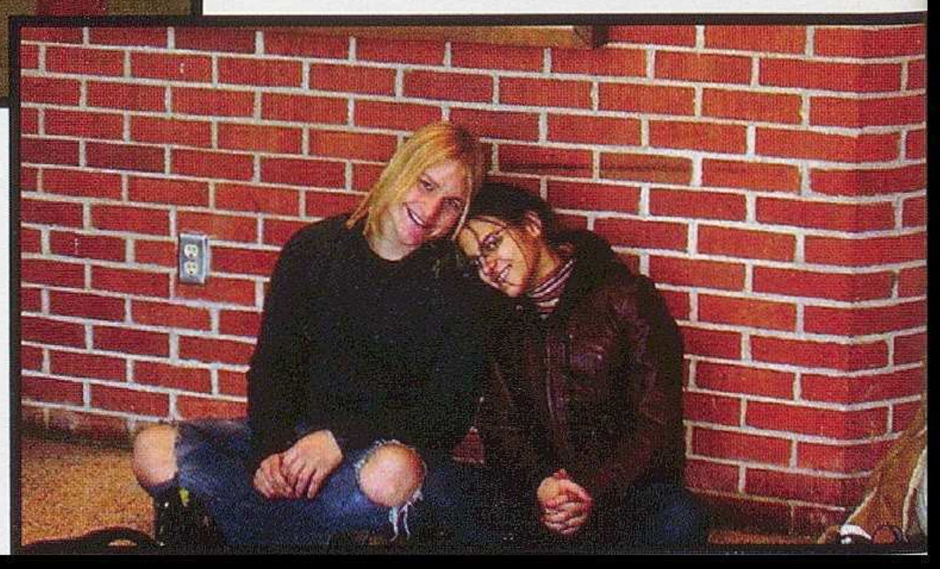


Decked out in red for Twin Day are Mrs. Galasso and Mrs. Davis.

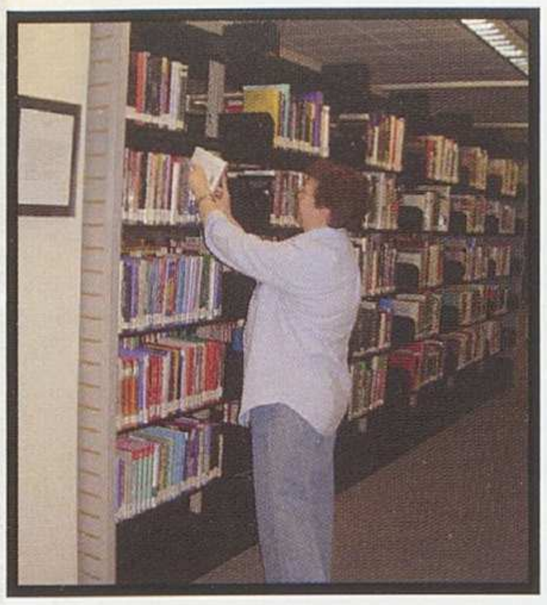
In study hall room 230, Erika Eisenshmidt patiently waits for the bell to ring.



The band began the fall pep rally by playing our fight song down the hallways.

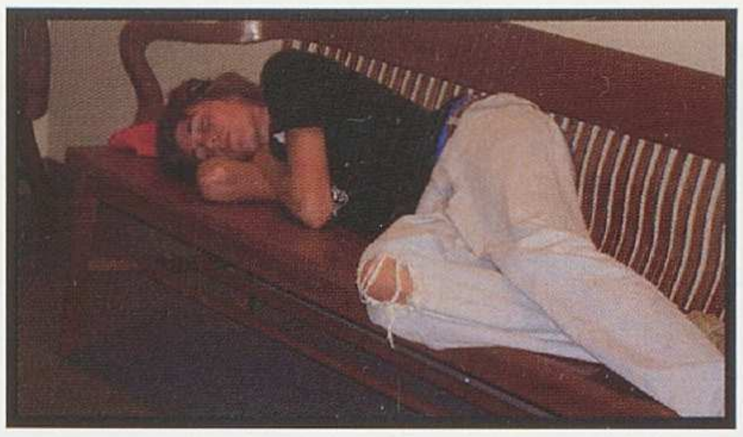


Justin Boles and Megan Van Fossen study for their exams in the bus lobby during the lunch break.

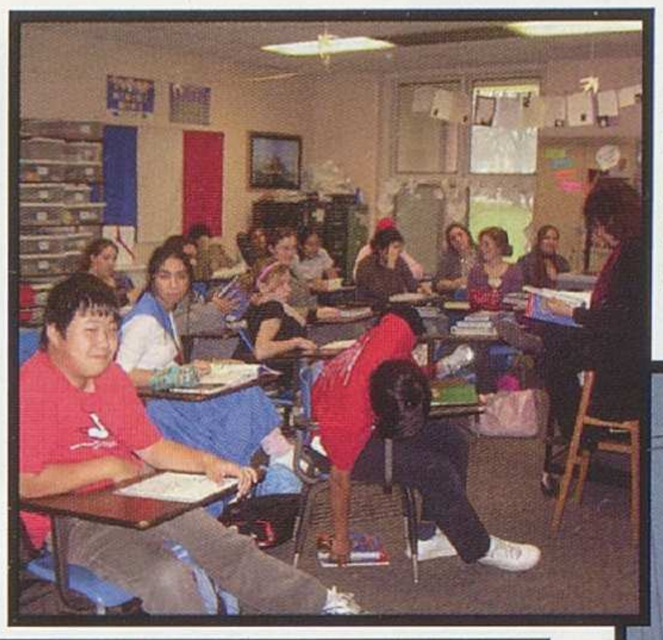


Librarian, Mrs. Baker, keeps busy by making sure the library books are put on their proper shelf.

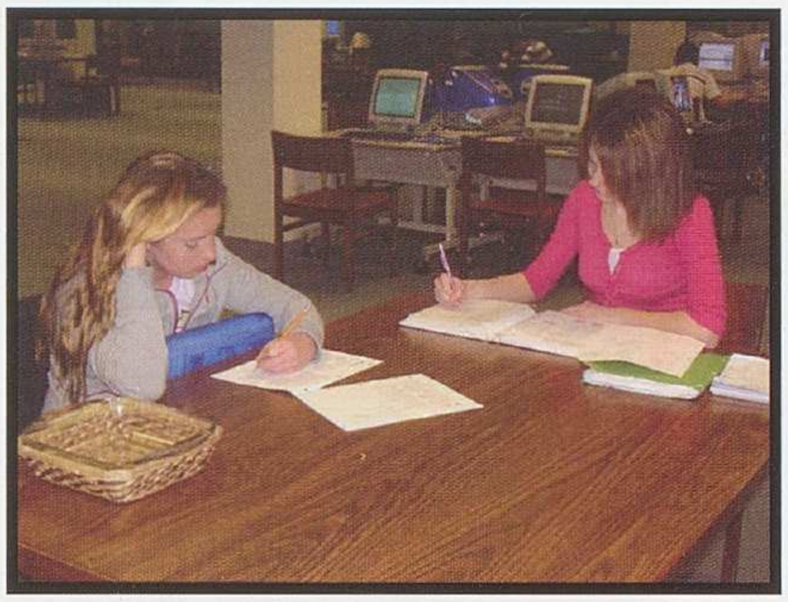
Studious Emily Azadpour and Rachel Spencer come to the library to get their homework done so they can have more free time over the weekend.



Kevin Steele takes a quick nap on one of the benches in the walkway before he goes to his next class.



In our foreign language hall we have Mrs. Larson's 8th period French class learning a new lesson.



Making some last minute touch ups on a picture for his photography portfolio is Jackson Proctor.

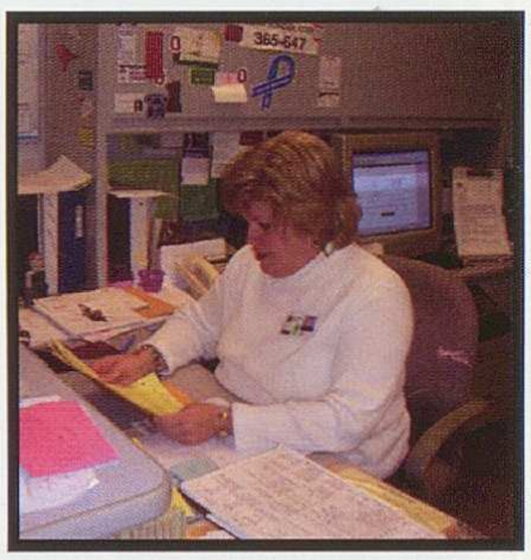
A Look Around



Our Guidance offices are always busy with filing papers, making phone calls, or assigning appointments; just ask Mrs. Dow.

Ali Jacobs works diligently on her pen using one of the many different tools used in her wood shop class.

Showing off their New York Rockettes dance moves in Administrative Services are Mrs. Sitler, Mrs. Hanlin, and Mrs. Burkholder.

There's always something cooking in the FCS room. Peter Schera and Susan Harris just finished baking a batch of cookies.

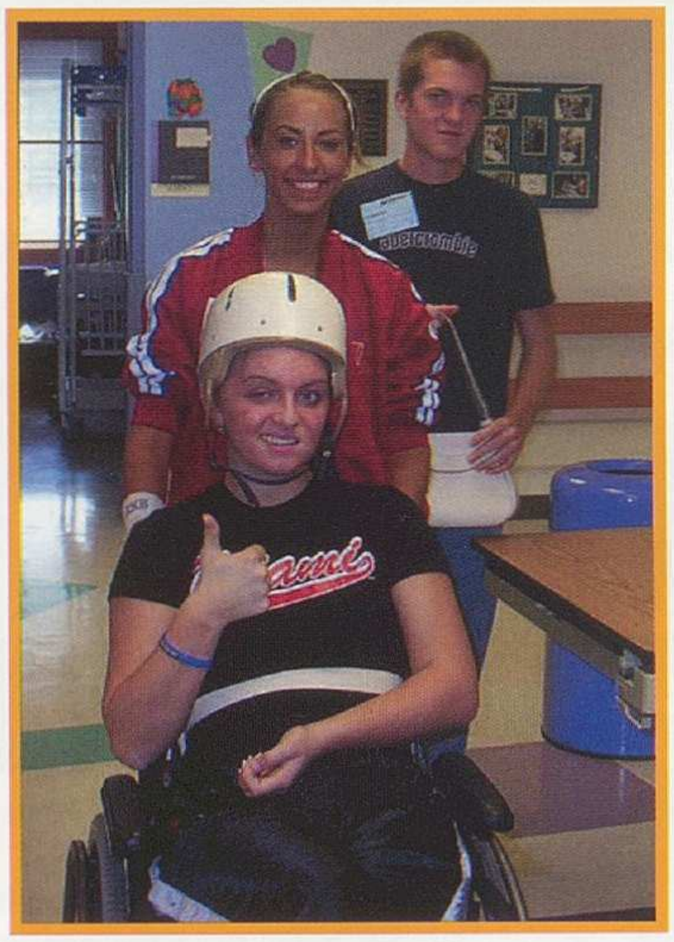
Mr. Luthy's science class uses the cafeteria to perform an experiment.

Liya Silina spends a Saturday morning at an open art studio to finish her painting.

At the fall teaser, Molly Baird gives the audience a sneak peek of the play, All I need to Know Is What I Learned in Kindergarten.

Freshmen Melissa Girgis and Maneesha Sivalinggam use the computer lab in the cafeteria to type up their labs for Mr. Genuisz.

Rachel Barezinsky



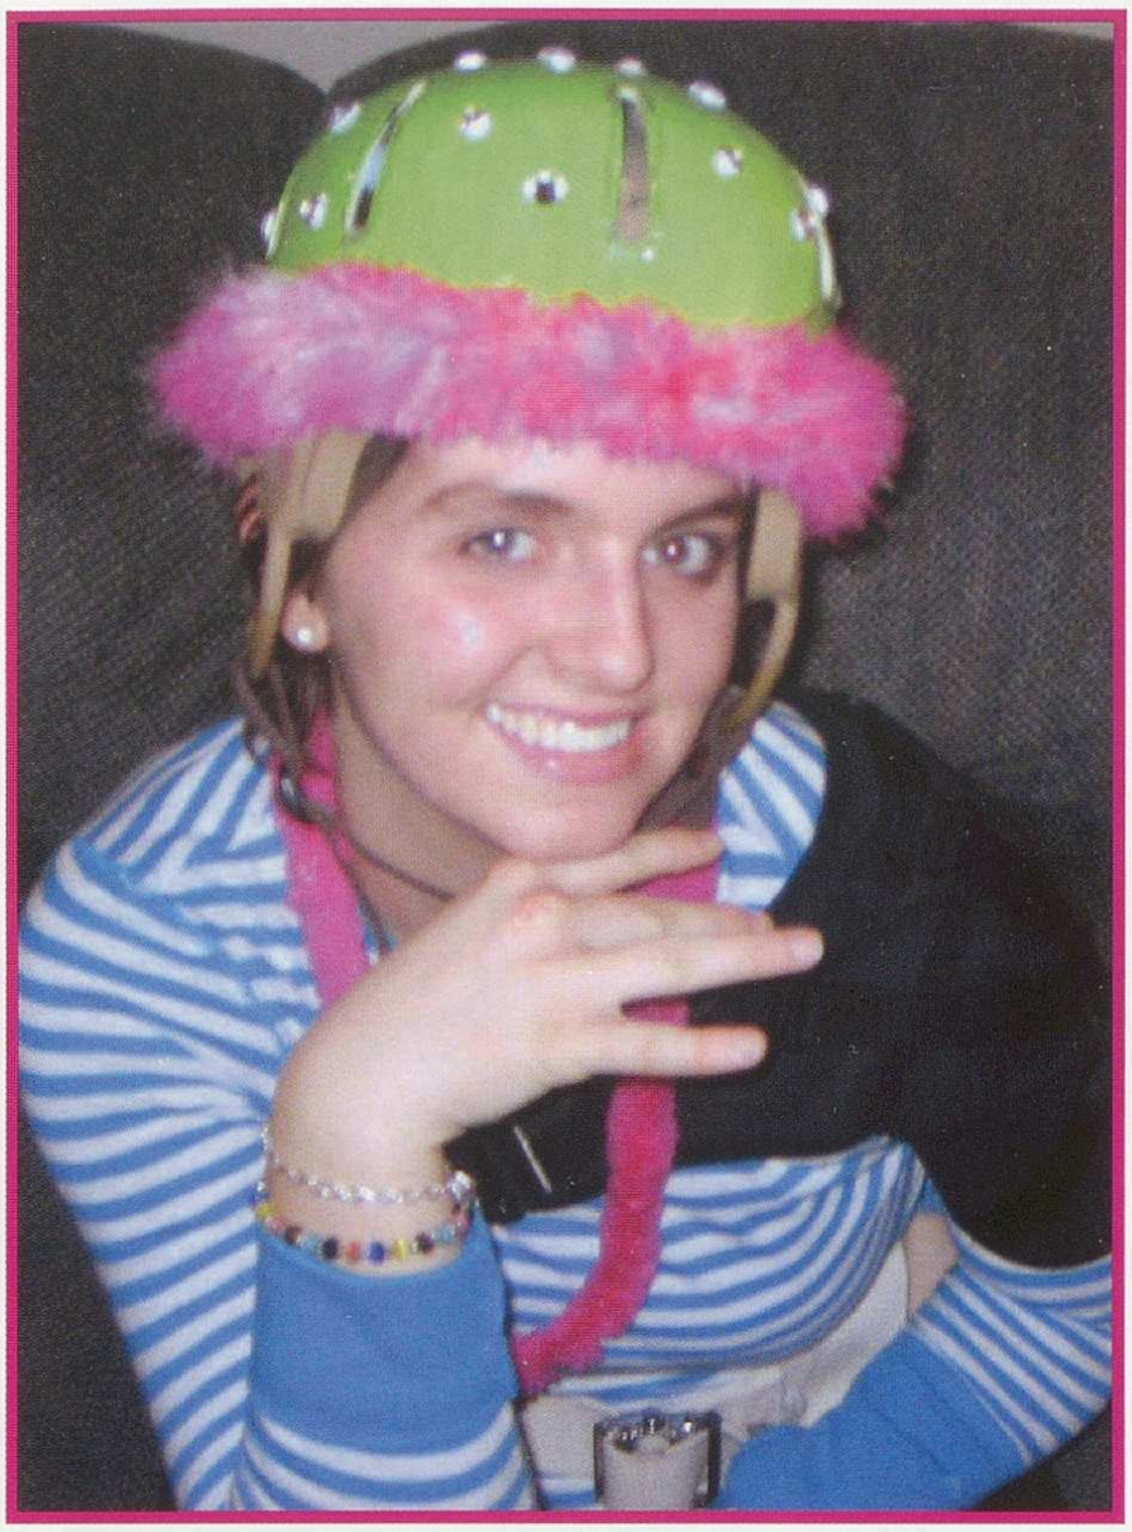
Rachel has always had a lot of friends. It is completely true when people say everyone loves Rachel. Her strong-willed, kind, giving personality and optimistic view on life has touched many people. Rachel has definitely left footprints on numerous people's hearts. Friends, family, neighbors and people around the country have been doing all they can to show Rachel how much she is loved and cared for.

Rachel Barezinsky was expecting to begin her senior year at Thomas Worthington, cheering at the first football game of the season. She was excited to be a senior and couldn't wait to see all of her friends at school. Rachel and her friends knew that summer was coming to an end and they decided to spend their last days having as much fun as possible. On August 22, 2006 they decided to investigate a house that many high school students deem as haunted. As the girls innocently left, the owner retaliated. At 10:06 PM. gunshots rang out from the darkened house striking Rachel in the head and shoulder. Against all odds Rachel lived through the night, and as the weeks passed it became more clear that she would survive this. On August 23 there was a vigil held in honor of Rachel and the support from the Worthington community was incredible. Thomas Worthington is known to come together in the time of need and in this dire situation we held strong and kept Rachel in our hearts. Rachel spent three weeks at the Ohio State University hospital and made a miraculous recovery. From there she went to rehab at Children's Hospital, or in Rachel's words the "Pital," where she spent 10 weeks. There she worked to strengthen her legs and her "lefty" or her left arm. She was also able to complete her required speech credit, so she could walk and graduate with her class of 2007. Since then Rachel has returned to Thomas, bringing back her well-known and loved sarcastic humor. Rachel Kathryn Barezinsky, our 2006 Homecoming Queen, is a walking miracle. Welcome home Rach, you'll always be in our hearts and prayers.

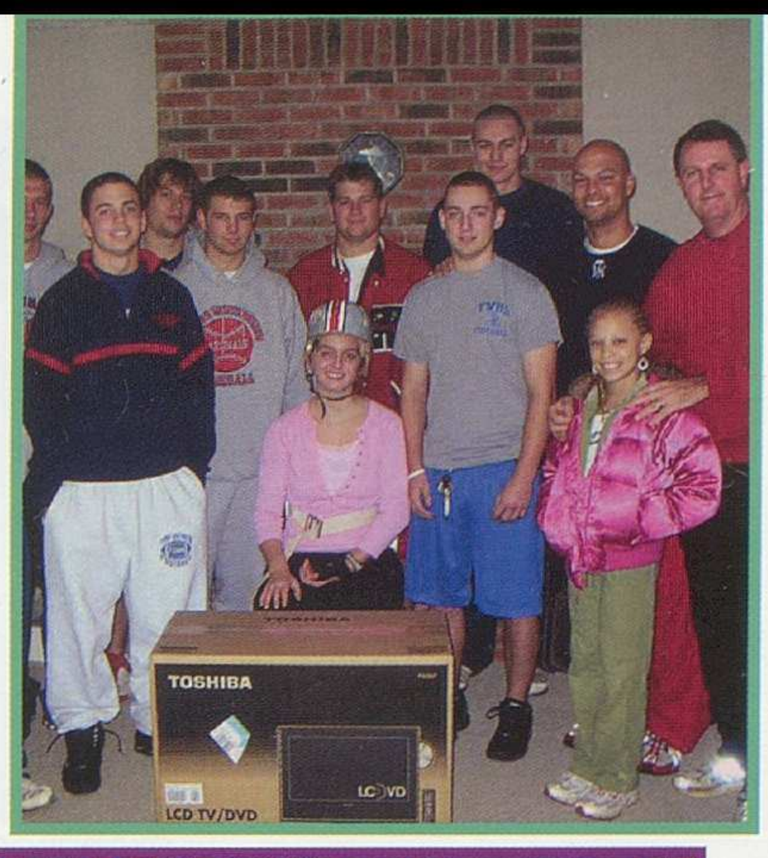
Everyone knows Christmas is Rachel's favorite time of the year! As you can tell from her smile, Rachel is very happy to be with her family on Christmas Day.

On Senior Night Rachel amazed many people when she left the hospital and was able to walk across the football field with just a little help from her family.

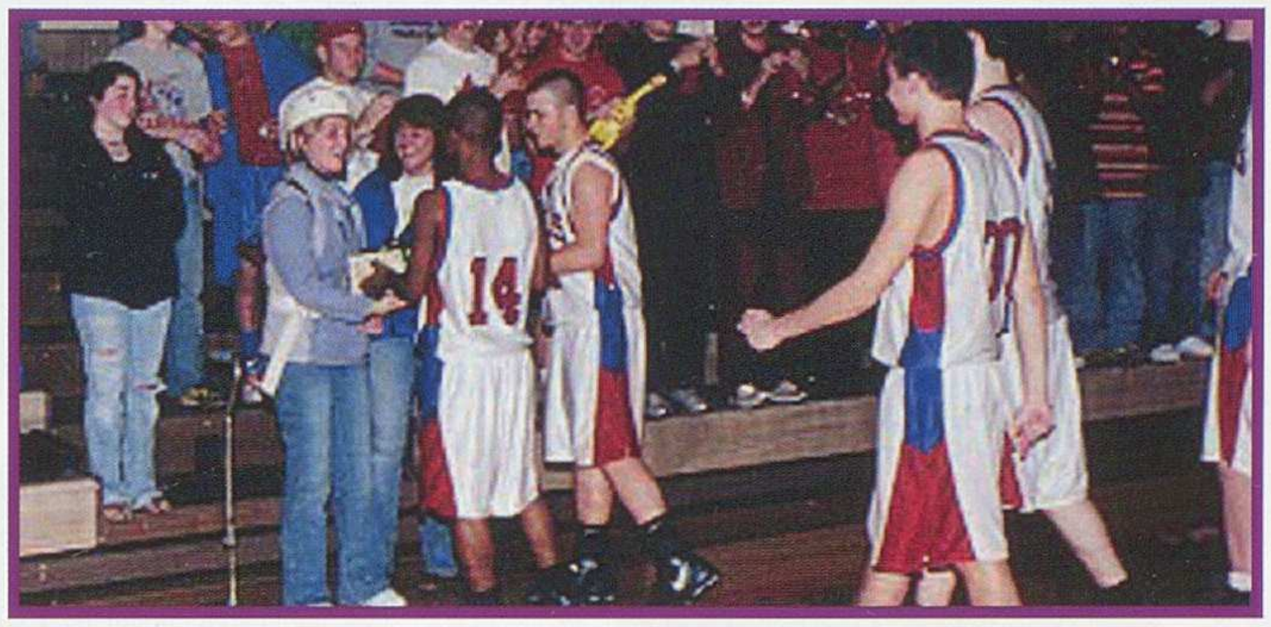
Tired after a long day of work, Rachel and Mrs. Miller take a beauty nap on the couch. Mrs. Miller helped Rachel at school daily and they became really close, as the picture shows!



Always ready for the camera, Rachel smiles wide for the picture. Her helmet was decorated pink and green with rhinestones to signify her 18th birthday. Rachel's friends and family threw her a surprise birthday party and decorated her helmet so she could stand out at school on her special day.

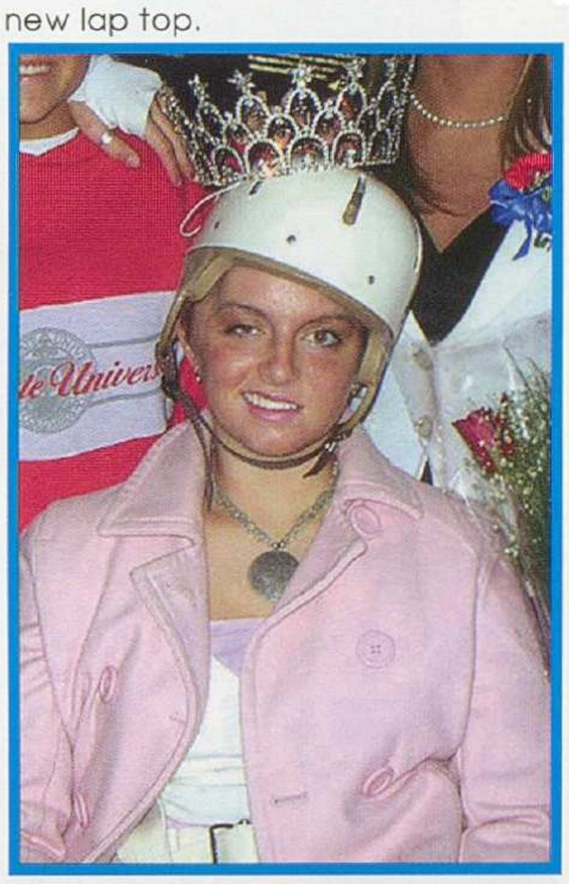


Rachel loves the boys and the boys sure love her. Our baseball team was very generous and helpful in supporting Rachel and her family.



"We have a very special guest with us tonight," says Bob Miller. Rachel made it to every 2006-2007 basketball game and to show their appreciation they bought her a brand new lap top.

At the beginning of the year, Rachel's friends put up a sign in front of Student Services. The sign hung there all year and it reminded every one that each and every day is a blessing.



Rachel got a pass from the hospital to go to the homecoming football game. Not only did the boys win the game but Rachel won homecoming queen!

Working out Rachel's muscles is her dad, Greg. Each day Rachel has to do physical therapy to get back her strength. Mrs. Postak would be so proud!

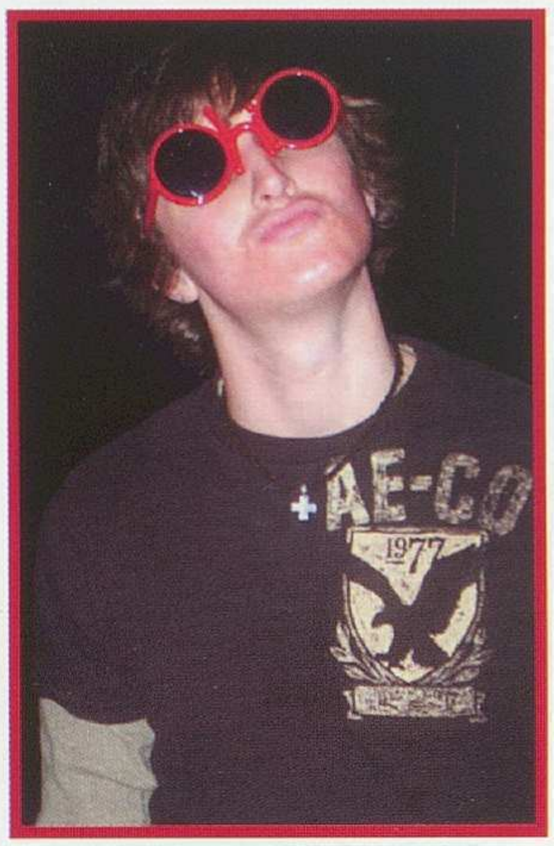
Go Buckeyes!!!!

Avid Ohio State fans had much to cheer about throughout the 2006 football season. From being ranked number one pre-season to beating Michigan in November, the Buckeyes shined with Scarlet and Grey greatness. Of course, January 8th in Glendale, AZ was a depressing end to a season, but the first seven seconds of the game were fun to watch, right? Troy Smith won the Heisman, and Jim Tressel with his sweater-vests and expertise continued to impress the nation. In our little town of Worthington, OH, devoted Thomas Worthington high school students and faculty showed their Buckeye support by wearing the beloved Scarlet and Grey to school. It is great to see a busy class exchange that is packed full of red hoodies and t-shirts reading, Ohio State. Central Ohio is home of the Buckeyes and home to many passionate fans.
(Search these pages for The "OHIO" sunglasses. How many times are they shown?....)



All right, so brown is not an OSU color, but the glasses are sweet. Tyler Spears wears both well, along with his "too cool for you" face.

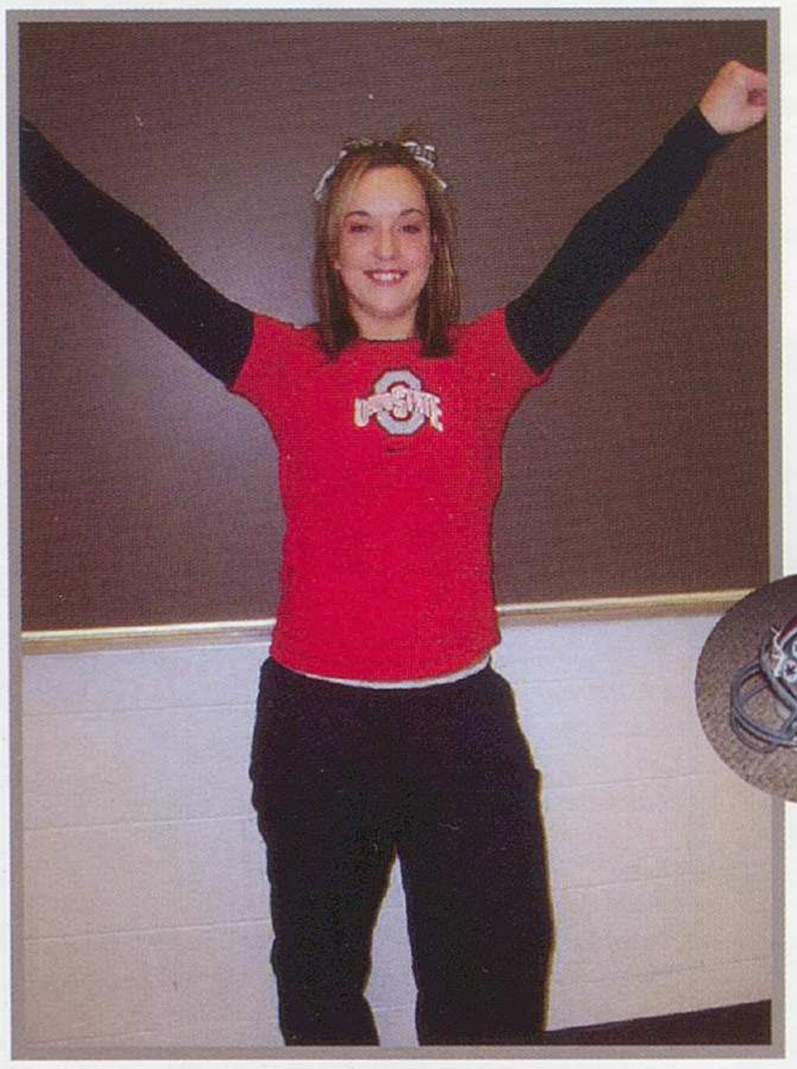
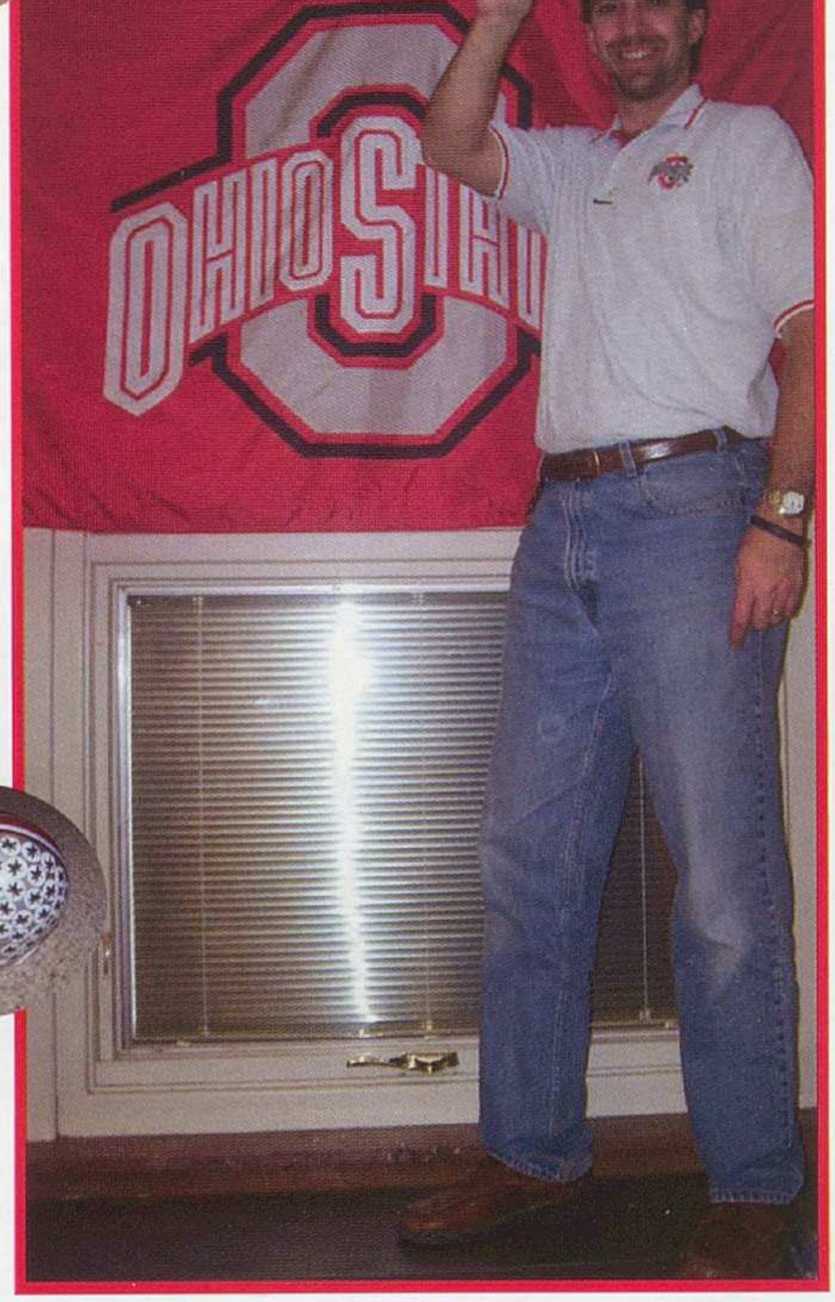
Dancing to OSU Marching Band music to get in the mood is Ohio State alum and purist, Mrs. Saunders.

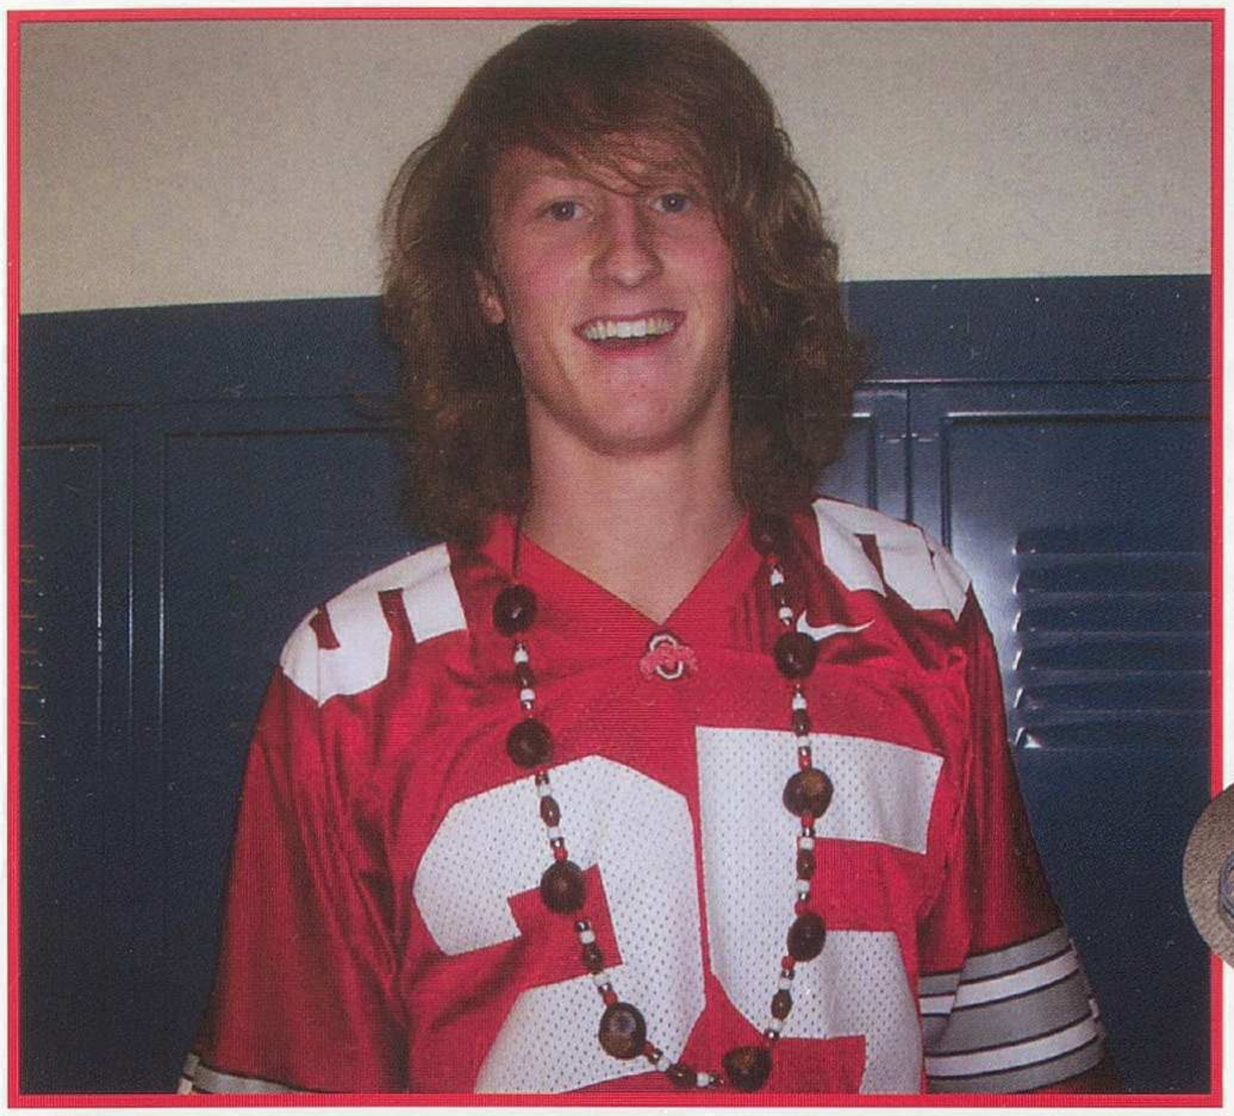


Ready to support the Buckeyes is Stacy Edington.

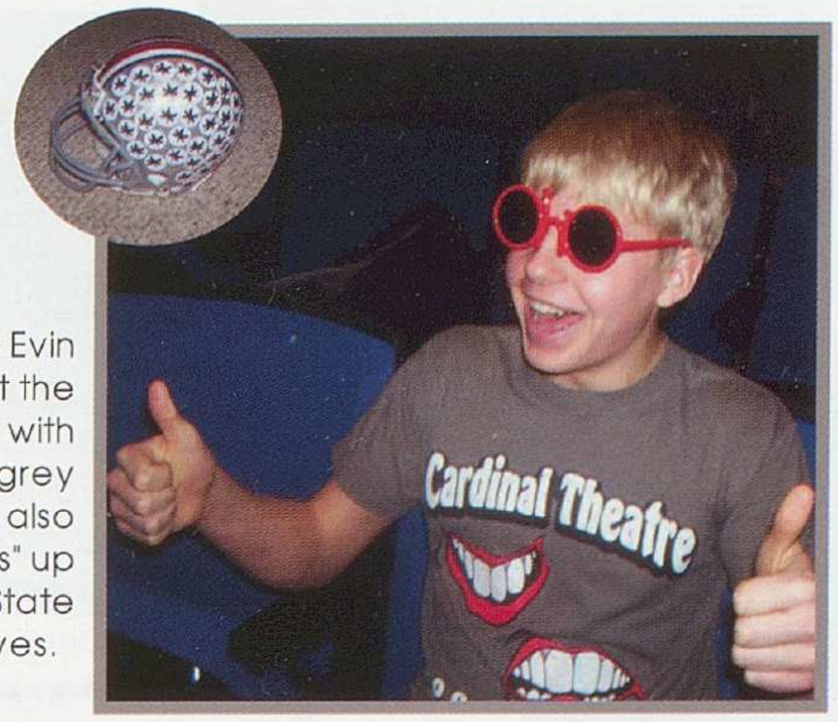


Enthusiastic fan and alum, Mr. Mackin, stands on his heating vent to pose next to his cherished OSU flag. He loves the tradition of winning.

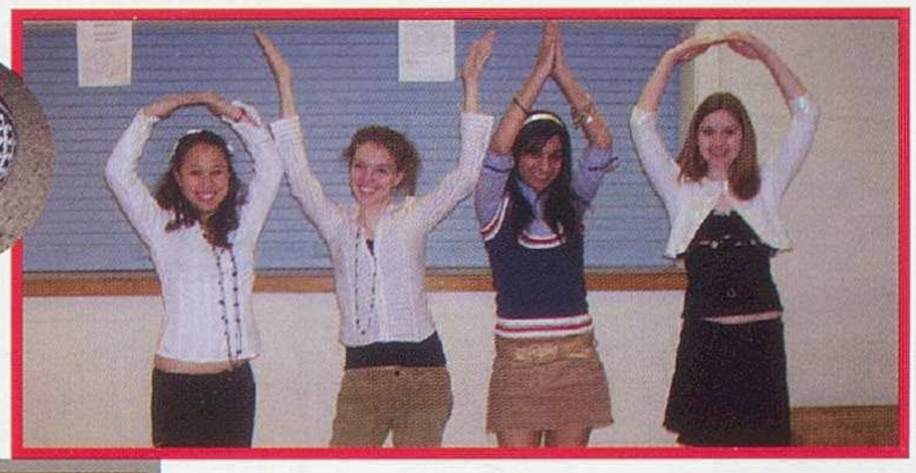
Deep in thought, Emmie Shiotani not only ponders Broadway musicals, but also thinks about the great state of Ohio. Go Bucks!



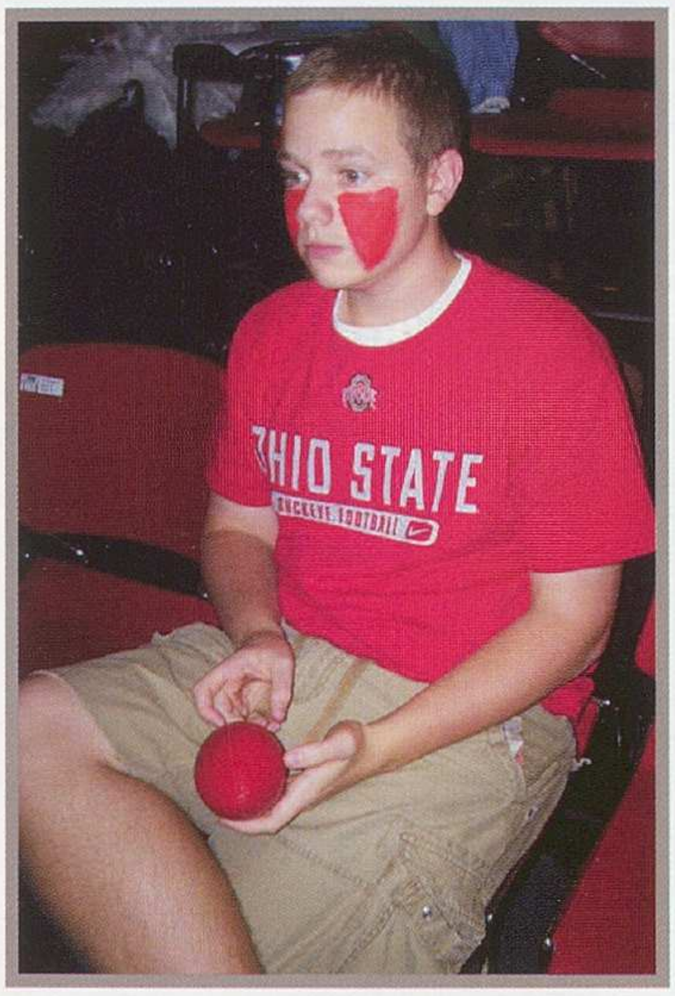
Proudly wearing his buckeyes and smiling for the camera is Luke Pinyerd.



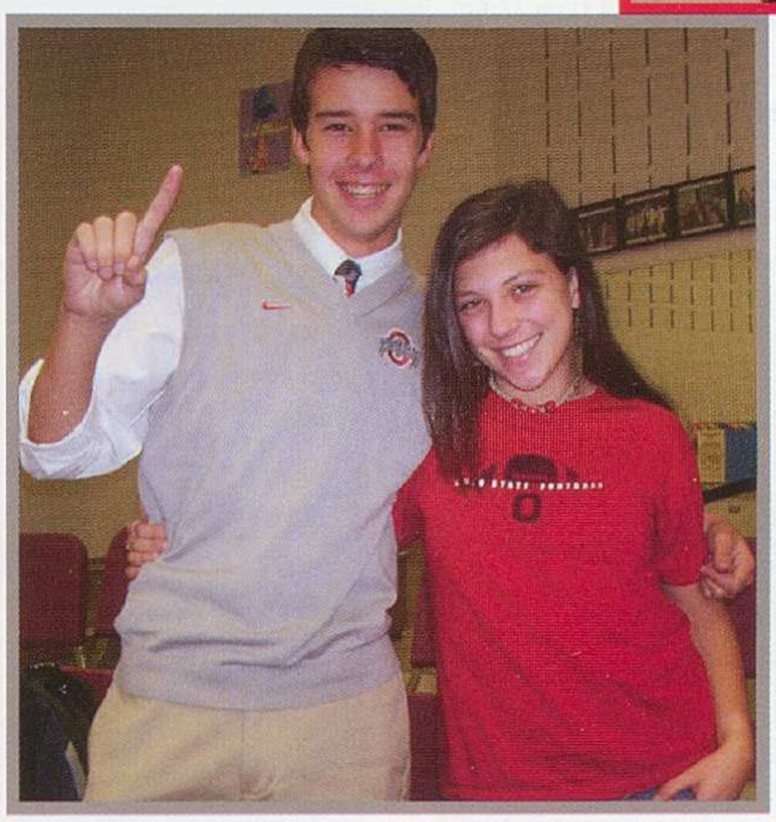
Not only does Evin Hoffman support the Cardinal Theatre with the scarlet and grey theatre shirt, he also shows "two thumbs" up for the Ohio State Buckeyes.

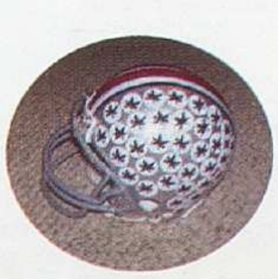


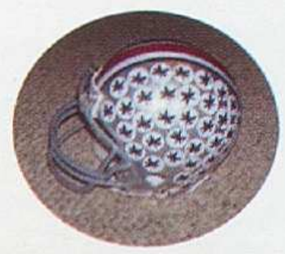
"O-H-I-O" is fashionably spelled out with happy fans, Emmie Shiotani, Jackie Richards, Sabah Siddiqui and Stephanie Gluck.



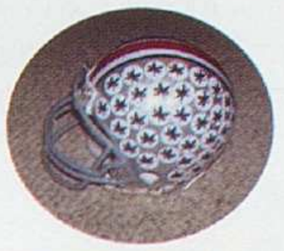
Matt Hemmelgarn would have been very sad if Ohio State hadn't beaten Texas.

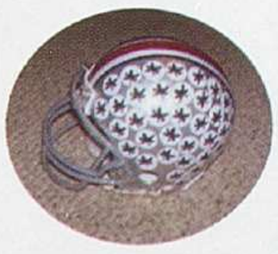






Excited for the Ohio State/Michigan game are Jim Tressel (Beau Schultz) and Ilana Bergelson.





Mr McCort, a devoted Michigan fan, was in for a surprise when he found his classroom decorated with Ohio State memorabelia after the rivalry aired this year. The final score was proudly written in the dust on his classroom's TV screen. Buckeye victory!

Waiting for the day when the Wolverines can win against the Buckeyes is Lawrence Pelt.

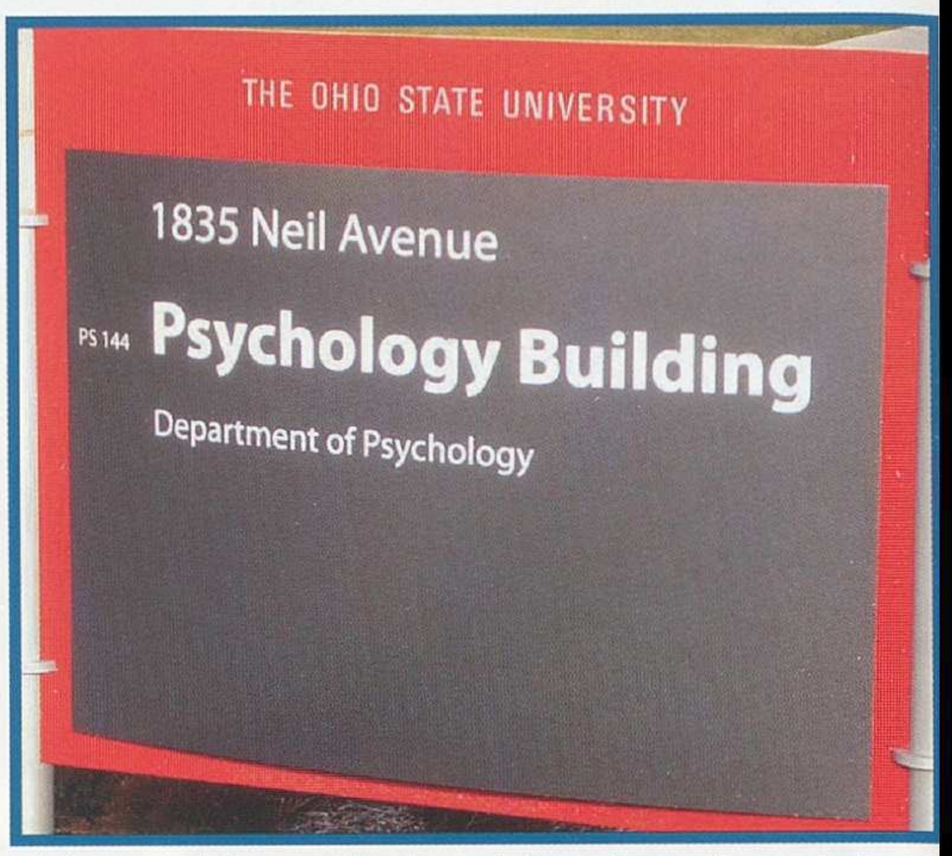
Post-Secondary

Are you a Buckeye? You could be as soon as next year!

A unique program for upperclassmen has been hiding beneath the scheduling surface until this year. Post-Secondary Education has become extremely popular, especially among the senior class. Instead of choosing from the list of classes available at TWHS, students who apply and are accepted to local colleges and universities can attend any college class and gain college and high school credit.

POST SECONDARY FACT:

Approximately 33 students participated in the Post Secondary Program this year.



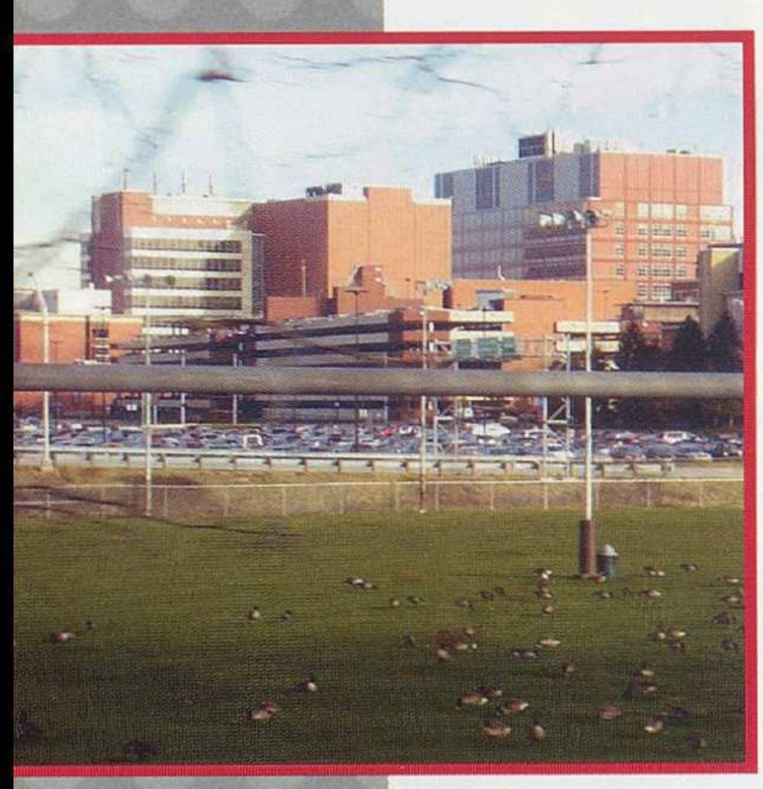
You could spend a lot of time here if you take Psychology at Ohio State. You participate in class and graduate experiments!!

Columbus States' mascot is a ferocious cougar!

Counselorly Advice

" Most of my students who take post-secondary college classes want to get a headstart on college credits."
- Ms. Scott

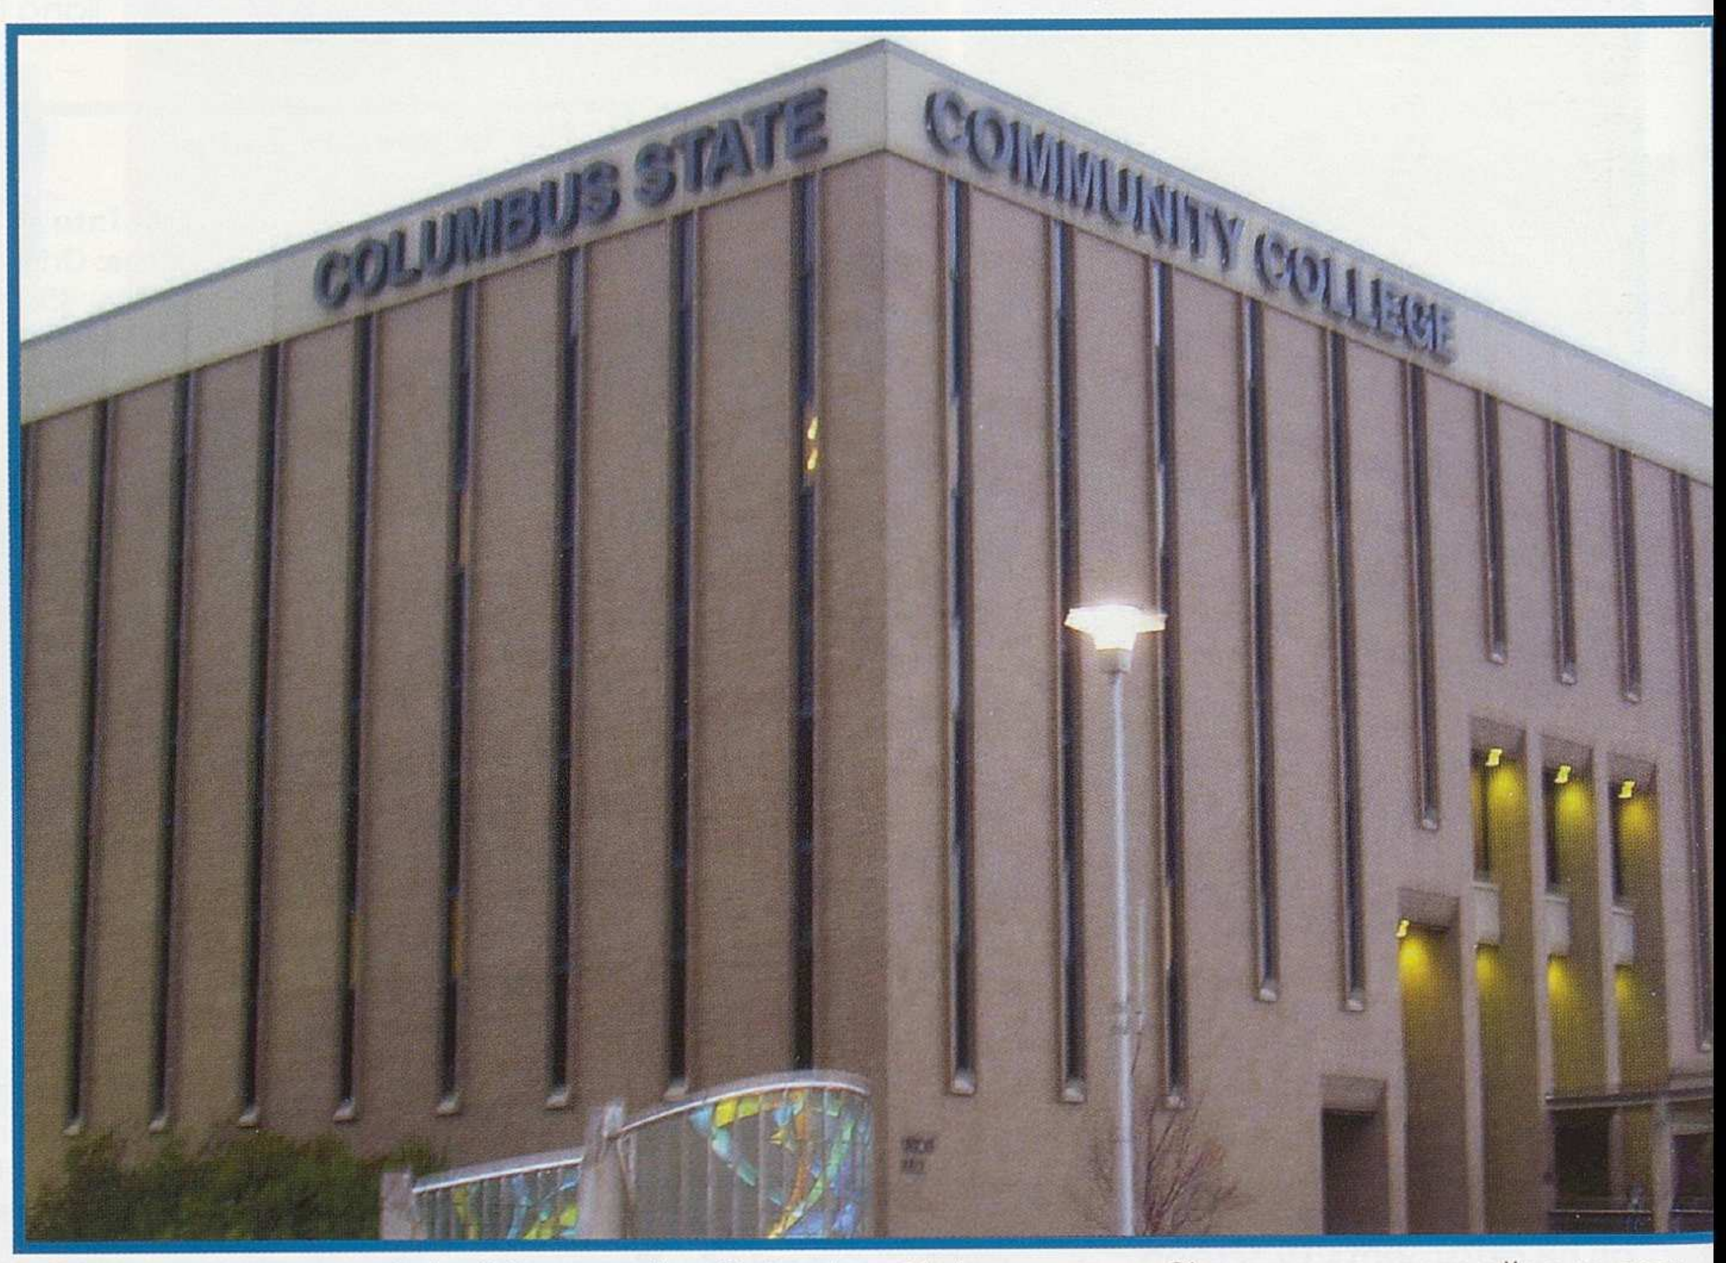
"Post- Secondary Education is a tremendous opportunity for students to take courses not offered at Thomas Worthington."
-Mrs. Davis



A quick glance at the The Ohio State University West Campus.

Most Popular Classes

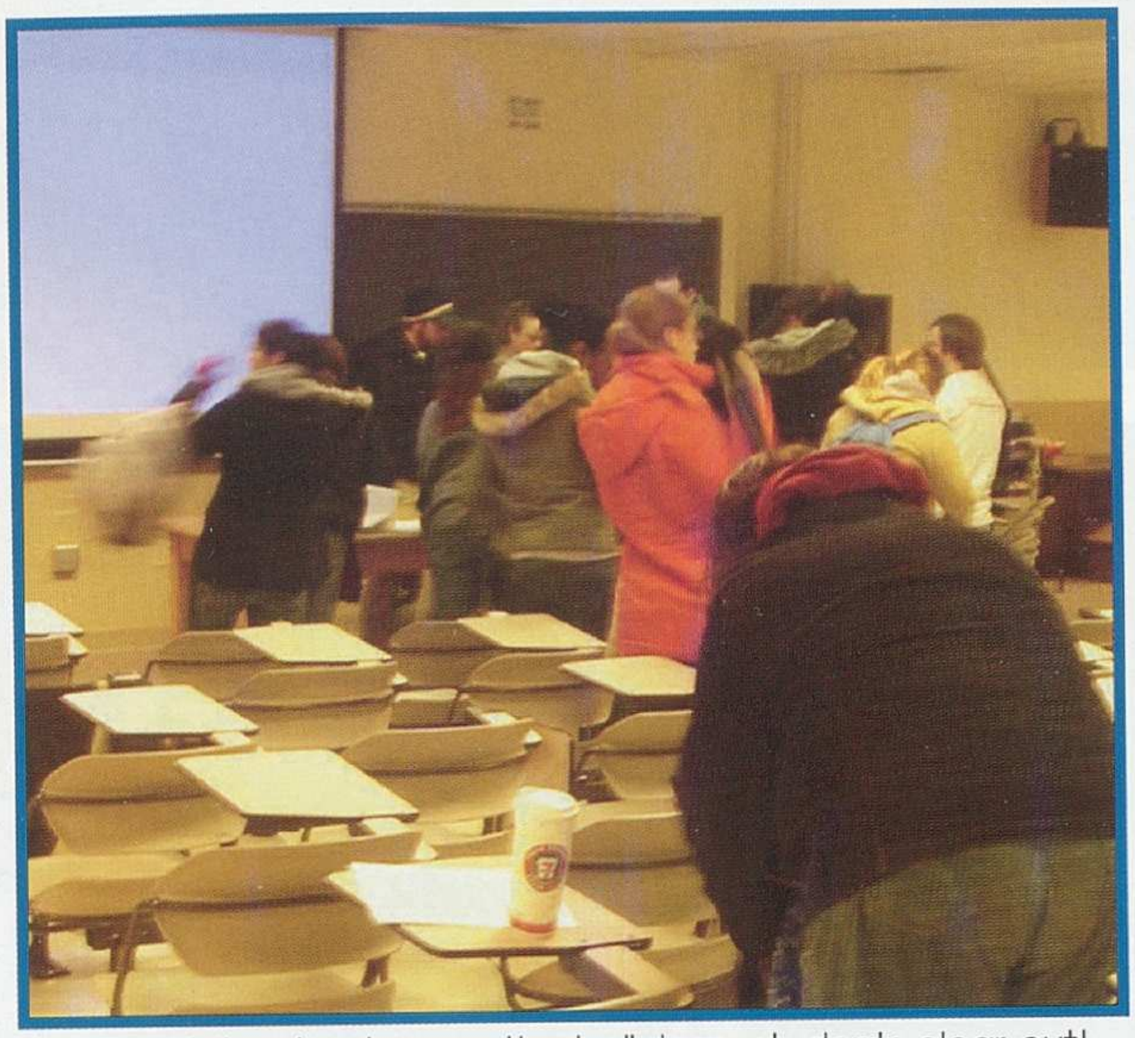
- Intro to Psychology
  - Pre-Requisite to upper level Psychology courses
- Beginning English Composition
- Microeconomics
- Foriegn Languages
  - Japanese, Arabic, Chinese
- High Level Math Courses



This is one of the main buildings on the Columbus State campus. Classrooms, recreation rooms, bookstore, and a cafeteria are all in this one building.

Studious Advice from Post- Secondary Student Kelsey Elliot

"Post-Secondary is a great opportunity to start college early and have it paid for by the school! I really liked taking calculus and psychology so far this year; it was a great experience and I am really excited for next year. I encourage any students next year to do post- secondary. It is truly worth it, whether it is at Columbus State or Ohio State."



Just like high school, once the bell rings, students clear out! Here is a typical classroom inside Lazenby Hall at Ohio State.

Do you know if the students at the top of the stairs are in high school or college? Neither does anyone else!

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

Ohio State University and Columbus State Community College. One may ask...
What is the best thing about this program?

-You can gain college experience before freshman year.
- If you attend O.S.U. for college you already have a G.P.A esablished.
- You can take a class in a subject you might be interested majoring in without wasting time or money.

- IT'S FREE!

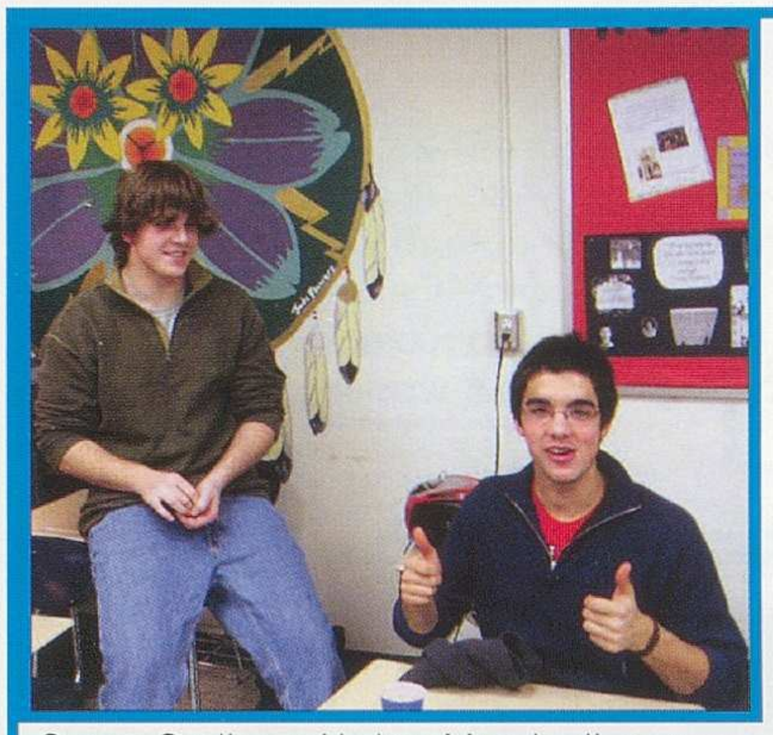
The Basement



Owen Curtis and Lukas Moe both agree that the basement deserves two thumbs up.

Students accomplish many different tasks in the basement, including presenting projects about the book Gulliver's Travels.

Mrs. Saunders' "Words of Inspiration" wall shadows Jenny Chen, Robin Taxier, Rian Hunter, and Leah Itagaki during their AP Lit class, which is held in the basement.

Hidden beneath the stretch of hallway containing the Thomas Worthington High School Hall of Fame as well as the Co-Curricular and Principal's Offices lies the basement. Separated from the remainder of the school by two sets of swinging doors, light blue and showing their age, entering the basement is almost like taking a step onto an entirely different planet.

Wait...Thomas Worthington has a basement? The answer to that question is yes, Thomas Worthington High School has always had a dark lower level, although it has not always been used strictly for learning. The basement, at one time, served as a cafeteria for juniors and seniors. Its old purpose is illustrated by the various pipes which can be seen throughout the classrooms and in the basement's only hallway.

The basement was converted from a cafeteria with the addition of the auxiliary and main gyms and has been used for education ever since. Today the basement contains a total of eight rooms, six of which serve as classrooms. TWHS's basement is home to many subjects, including strength training, Spanish, Latin, health, and math. Another sight able to be viewed on a tour through the basement is Mr. Gussler's office, which proudly displays the recent baseball trophies earned by the Thomas Worthington baseball team.

When asked if they knew the location of the basement, many of this year's incoming freshmen were right on target; however, when asked about the basement's contents, they were left in the dark. Almost all of these freshmen were unaware that any other classes besides their homerooms were held in the basement. Only a minority of these freshmen were even aware that an elevator, located in the hallway behind room 028, even existed down below the main hallway, let alone two bathrooms. The freshmen are not to blame for this shortcoming; much of the student body is unaware of the secrets hidden within the confines of the basement.

Camille Patterson works hard while taking a test for her 8th period Algebra 2 class. Students taking tests outside of their classrooms are usually the only sign of life in the basement.

Always working to combat the mold in TWHS, dehumidifiers are an all too common sight in the basement.

Mrs. Reeb's mural occupies the entire back wall of her Latin room and encompasses all of what is taught in the Latin textbooks.

Looking closely at the mural in Mrs. Reeb's room will reveal the numerous and painstaking details carefully painted by last year's AP Latin students.

Students work hard to complete Mrs. Barr's assigned math homework before the end of the period in Room 025.

Mr. Gussler, the coach of the Thomas Worthington baseball team, handles all of the baseball business in his office.

Many people are not aware of the existence of the elevator in the basement.

Sights of the Basement

Chet Hakes proudly exhibits last year's hard-earned baseball trophies, which are found in Mr. Gussler's office.

Sleepy Faces in the Wrong Places

Doctors say that teenagers need at least nine hours of sleep each night, but with their busy schedules, many students struggle to get even six hours of sleep. In order to make up for their loss, students try to take a nap during study hall, but when the desks are so small and hard, it is nearly impossible. Preschoolers get a nap time, yet they sleep for 16 hours a day. Therefore, it makes sense that high school students, whose need for sleep is far greater than that of preschoolers, should also have a designated nap time.

Principal Dr. Litell said, "I could probably teach that class." When asked about the possibility of such a course of study he was hesitant because of the minimum class time requirements set down by the district, even though Thomas Worthington is already fifty minutes over the minimum school day. A school naptime seems plausible. However, as Dr. Litell said,"If we had a school naptime, we'd have to serve crackers and juice."

Sleeping in study hall are some unsuspecting freshmen. You should probably sleep at home. Many students try to catch up on sleep during study hall, but desks make very uncomfortable pillows.

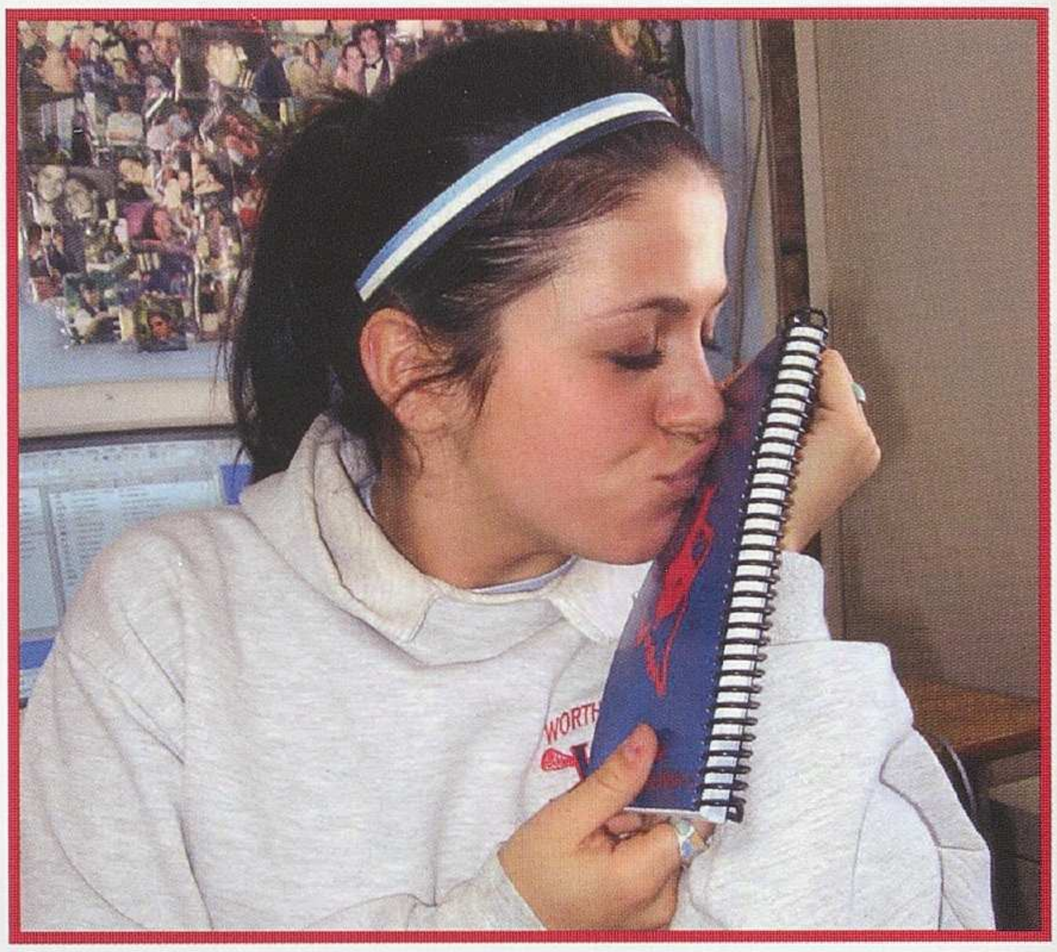
SUCKING FACES IN THE WRONG PLACES

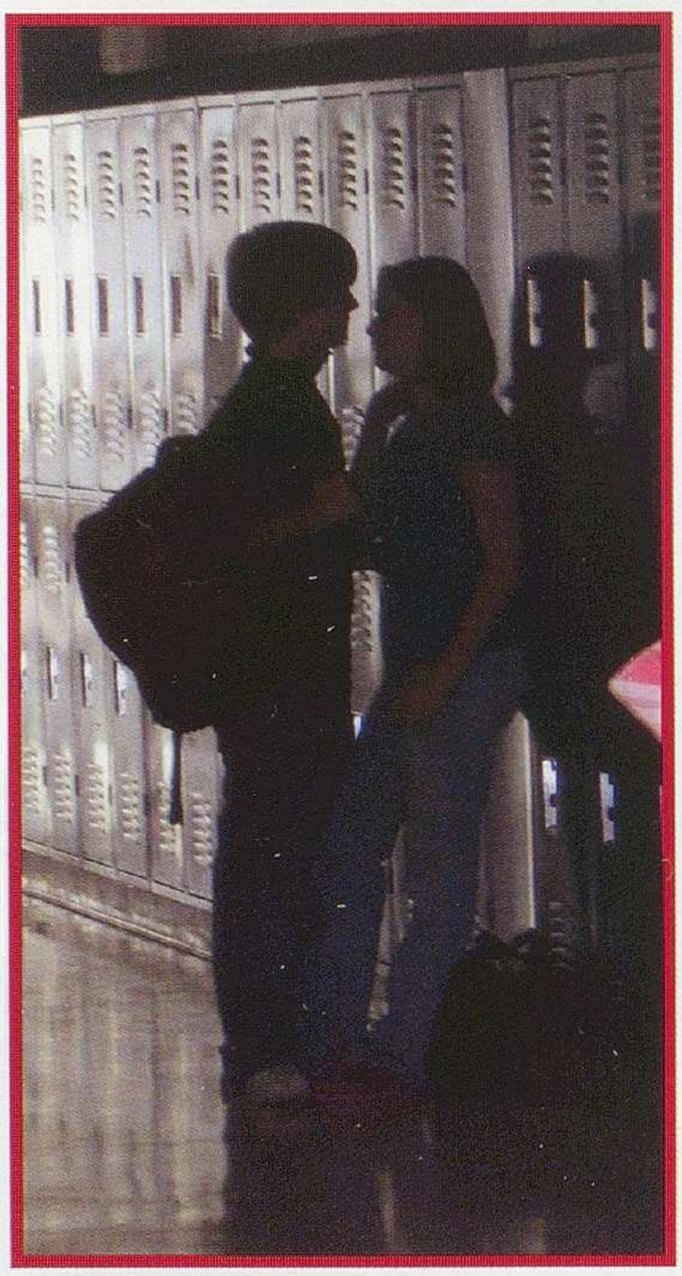
EW!

You're walking to your fourth period class, and as you turn the corner you come across a most disturbing sight- two people in the middle of an intense make-out session. Your first reaction is to:

a) shout an obscene comment to the lovers
b) roll your eyes; those freshmen will learn when they become upperclassmen
c) throw up a little in your mouth
d) pray you didn't look that disgusting when you did the same thing yesterday

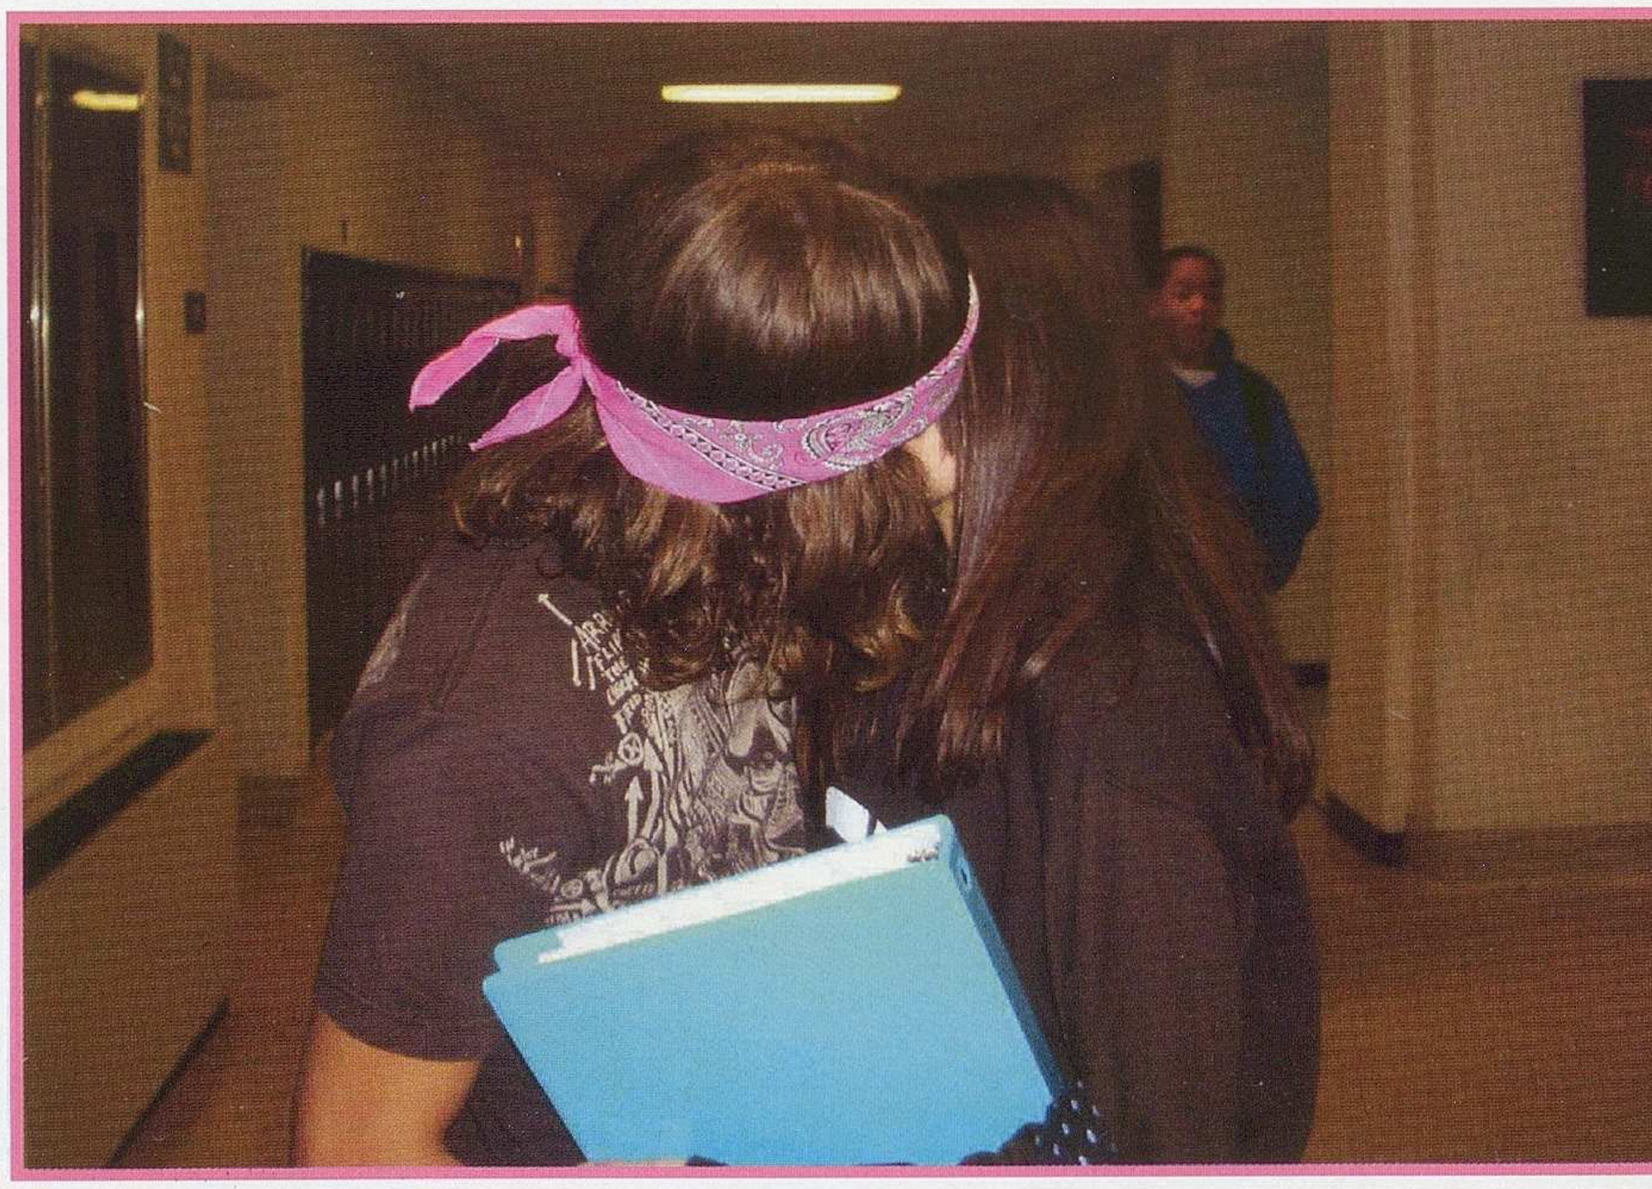
Whatever your answer, making out in the hallways is an unnecessary display of affection. Can't something so personal wait until after school in the not-so-public domain of your own basement? Those who are forced to be spectators of your show do not appreciate the never-ending love fest. Next time, keep those kisses for a more private place, you two!





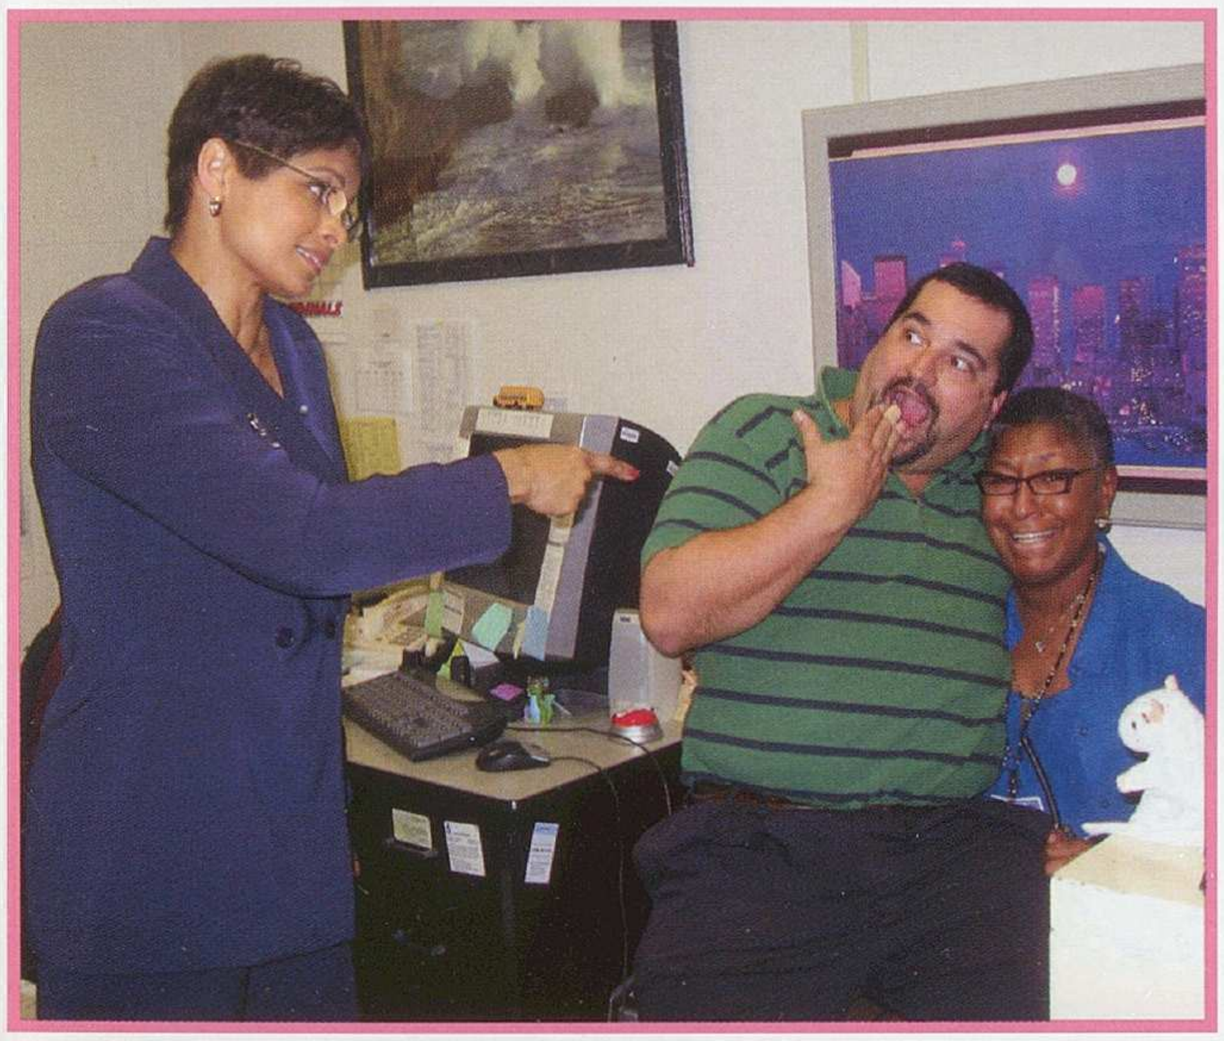
Maybe if senior Liz Palmer actually read her Cardinal Pride Handbook (instead of making out with it) she would know that public display of affection falls under disruption. "Sexual Misconduct" is a Level 3 violation, which could result in up to 10 days of out of school suspension or a recommendation for expulsion.

The five minutes between classes are not intended for a spit swap in the shadows of the hallway!

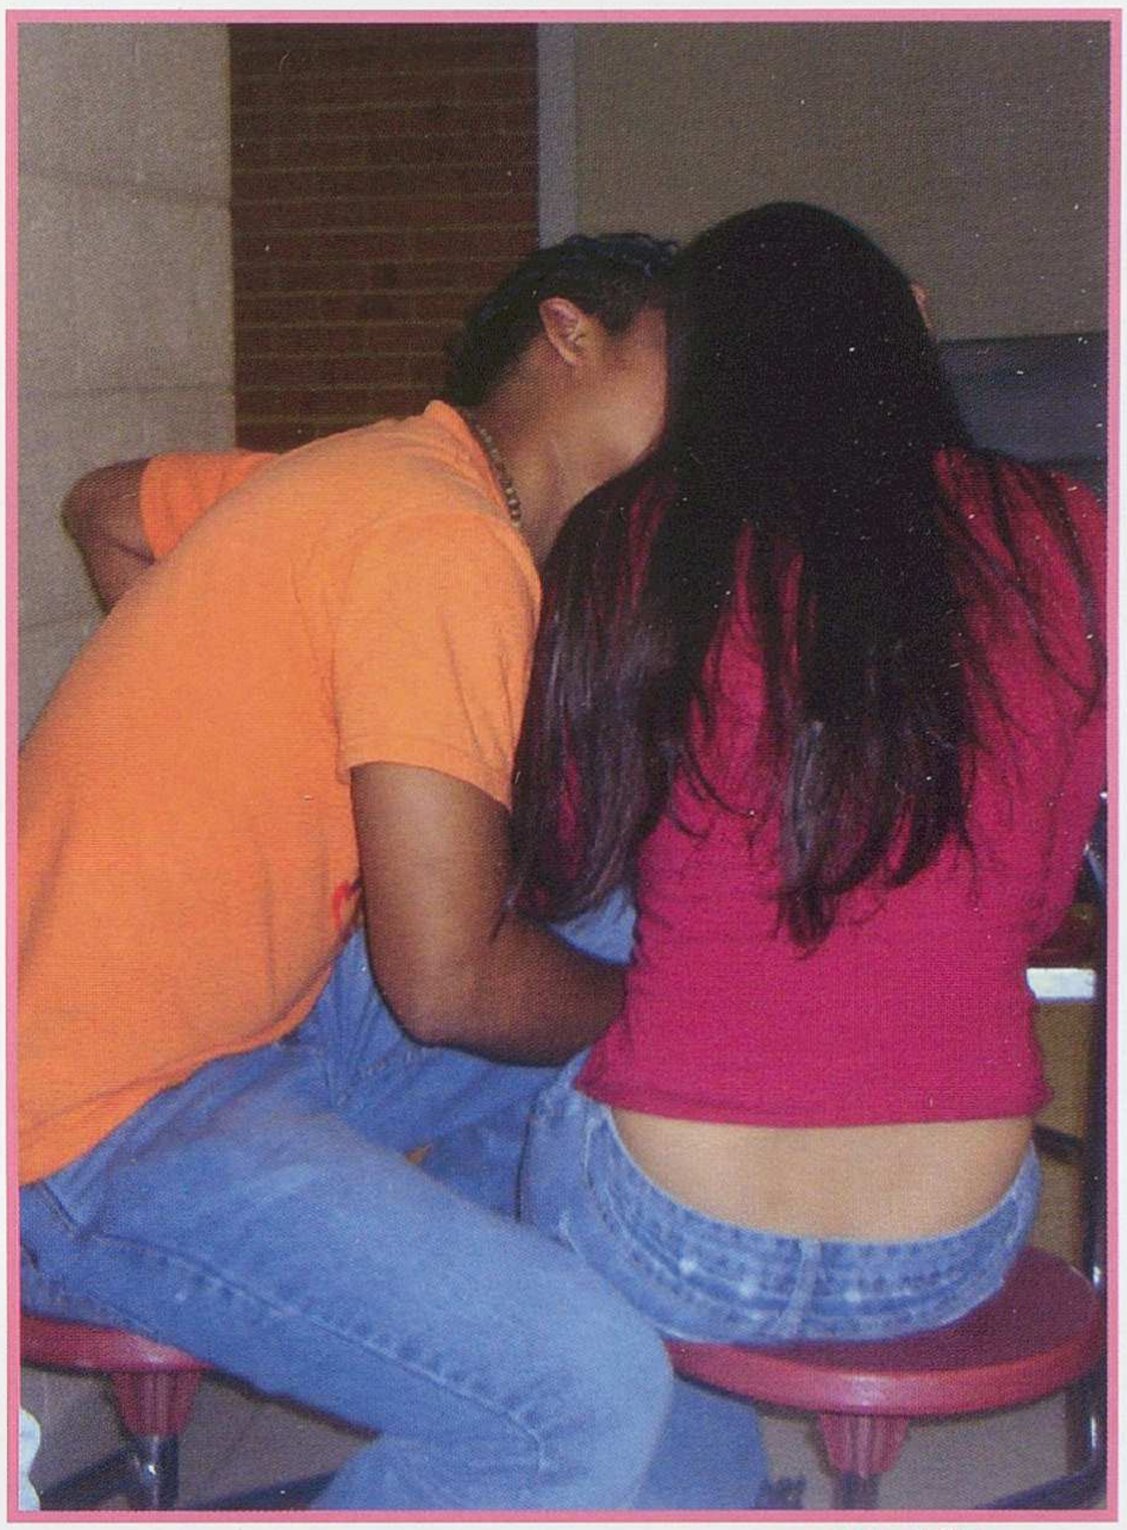


When asked which class is best known for their hallway make-out sessions, Mrs. Hamilton said, "There are not many students in the senior class who we have to break up. It's mostly the freshmen and the sophomores." It's hard to tell the grade of the two lovers above; their faces are hidden well!

Sometimes a quick peck on the cheek is a cute goodbye before class. Junior Amber Yoder seems to have become yet another victim of a not-so-cute kissing encounter.



This cafeteria couple has the courtesy to wait until they are out of the hallways to show affection. Unfortunately, the other students in the lunchroom have suddenly lost their appetite!



Breaking up busy couples is certainly not a pretty job, but the deans here at Thomas Worthington know that someone's gotta do it! Mr. Bluvol, Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Flynn seem to enjoy re-enacting an all too common scene in the hallways. Hopefully affectionate guys and girls will be more considerate of our deans before lip-locking again!

Are juniors Teresa Moore and Sam Steiner imitating some moves they saw in the hallways?

Dynasty '07

Dynasty: noun
def.
1.a powerful group or family that maintains its position for a considerable time
2.a succession of rulers of the same line of descent

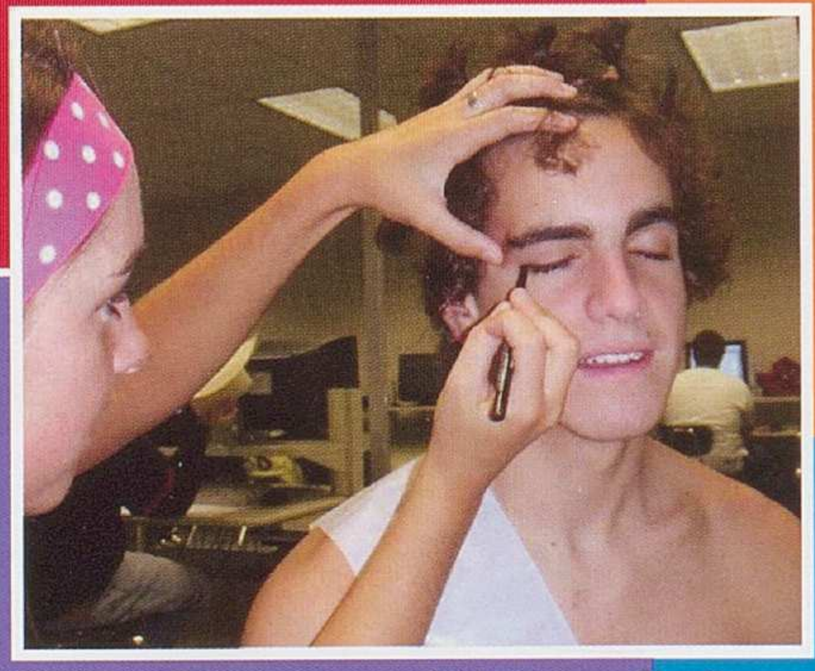
The Class of 2007 applied to definition 1:
Since the beginning of our freshman year, the class of 2007 has been making a name for itself. We have produced some of the most talented, creative, athletic, and intelligent students that have ever walked these halls. We have two-time All-American athletes, we have set the record for the number of National Merit Finalists, and we have triumphed in World Band Competitions.

The Class of 2007 applied to defintion 2:
Because we have made such a strong impact on the school for four consecutive years, we will be irreplaceable. Our senior class has set very high standards for underclassmen to try and reach. We have seen senior classes rise to the top and graduate, but none of them have left a mark like the Class of 2007.

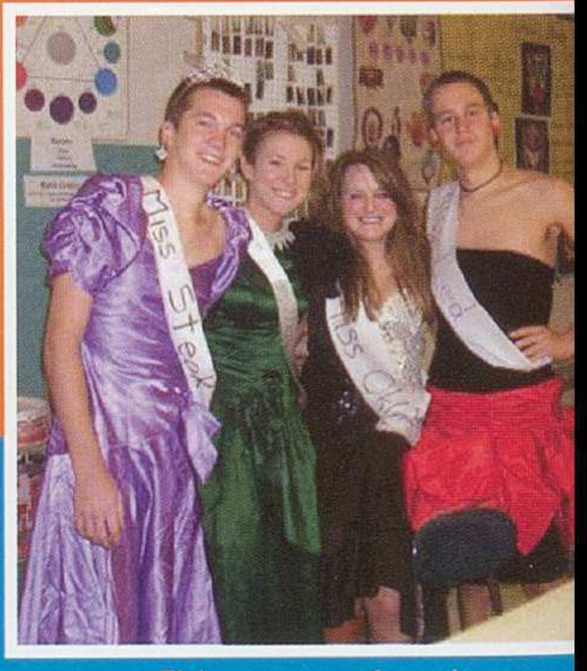
2007 is the definition of Dynasty

Miss America

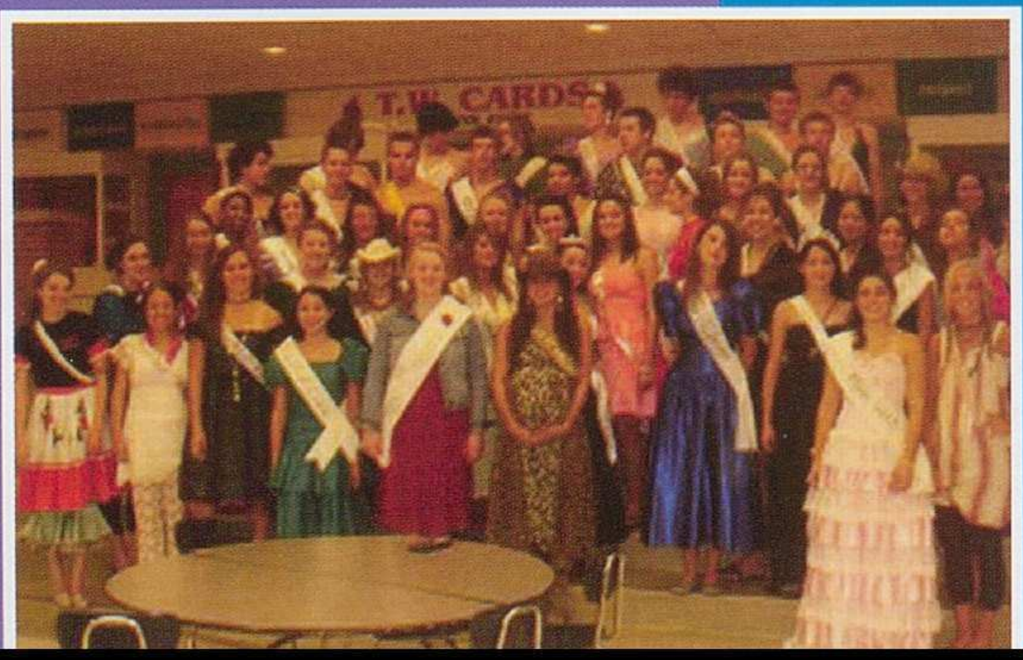
Hey Andres Ramirez, watch those hands! That is not very lady like.



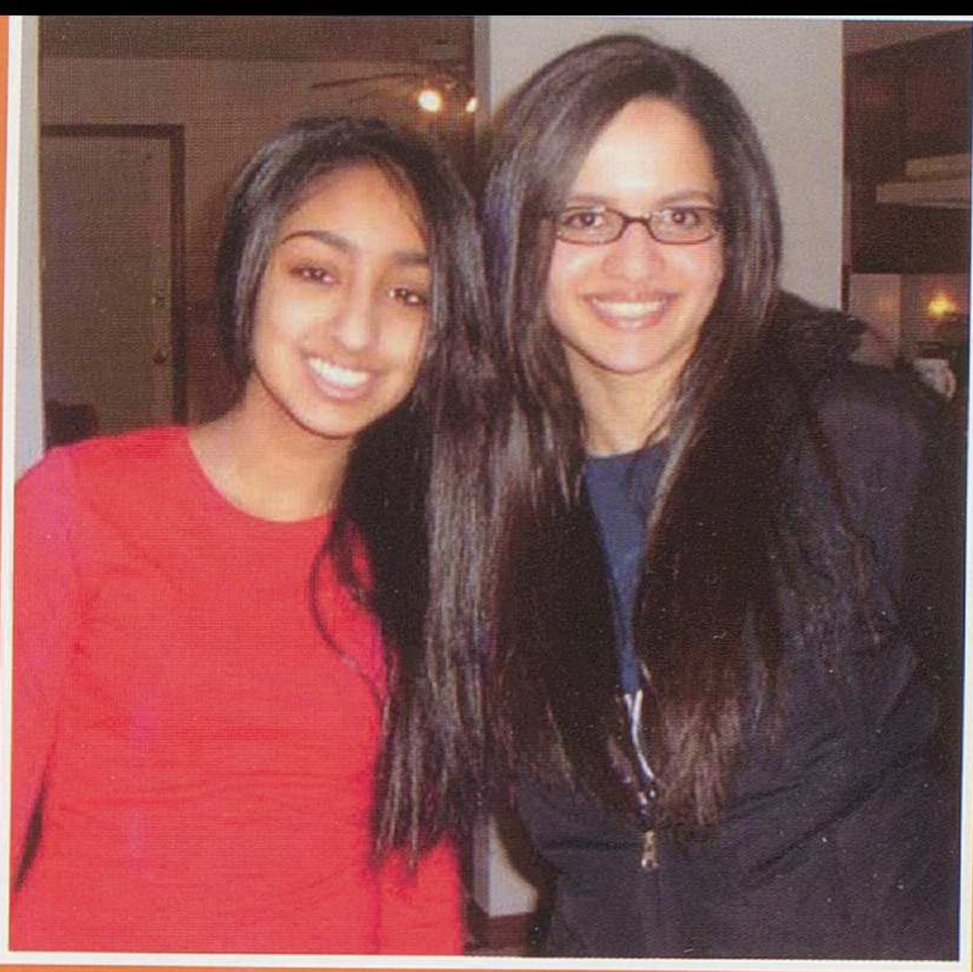
Jake Kuss is very grateful to Jenny Strathern for the extra help in the make-up department.



This group of seniors decided to pose all period intead of working on ceramics. Heaven forbid that they get those stunning dresses dirty!



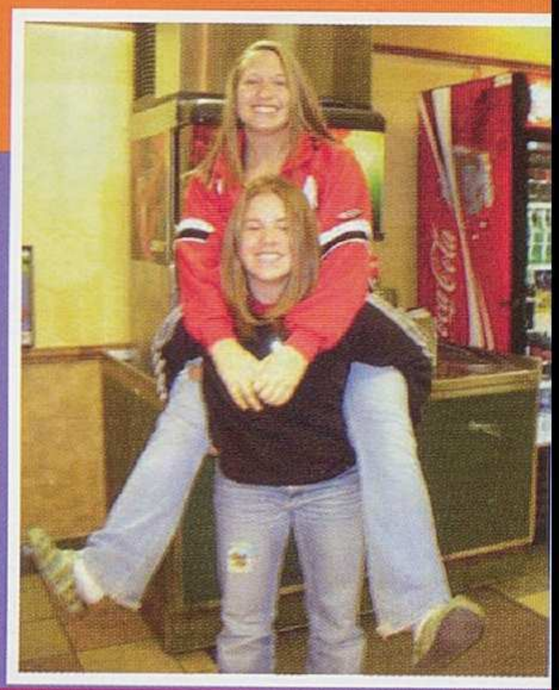
"Peace!" exclaim these beauties.



Sam and Pooja take a second out of their night to pose for the camera. Lookin Good!

Stephanie Matson and Nicole Zinni get the award for most spirited seniors!

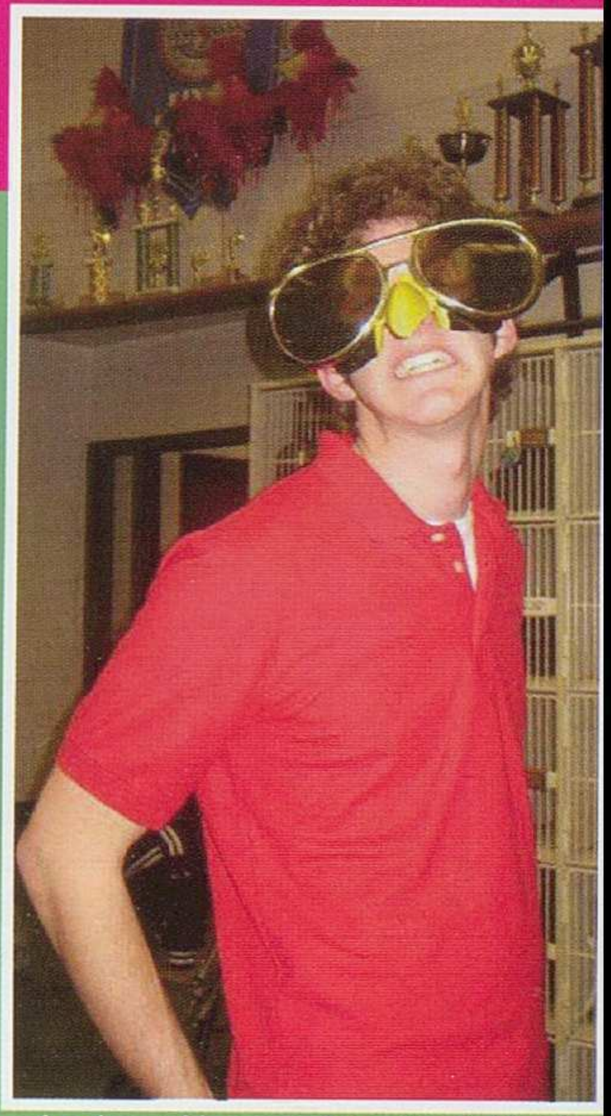
Allison Waite and Lily Hohman are very photogenic buckeye fans.



Paling around Worthington are Ali Jacobs and Kathleen Hoolihan.

Whats wrong Amanda Arnold? You are in the picture.

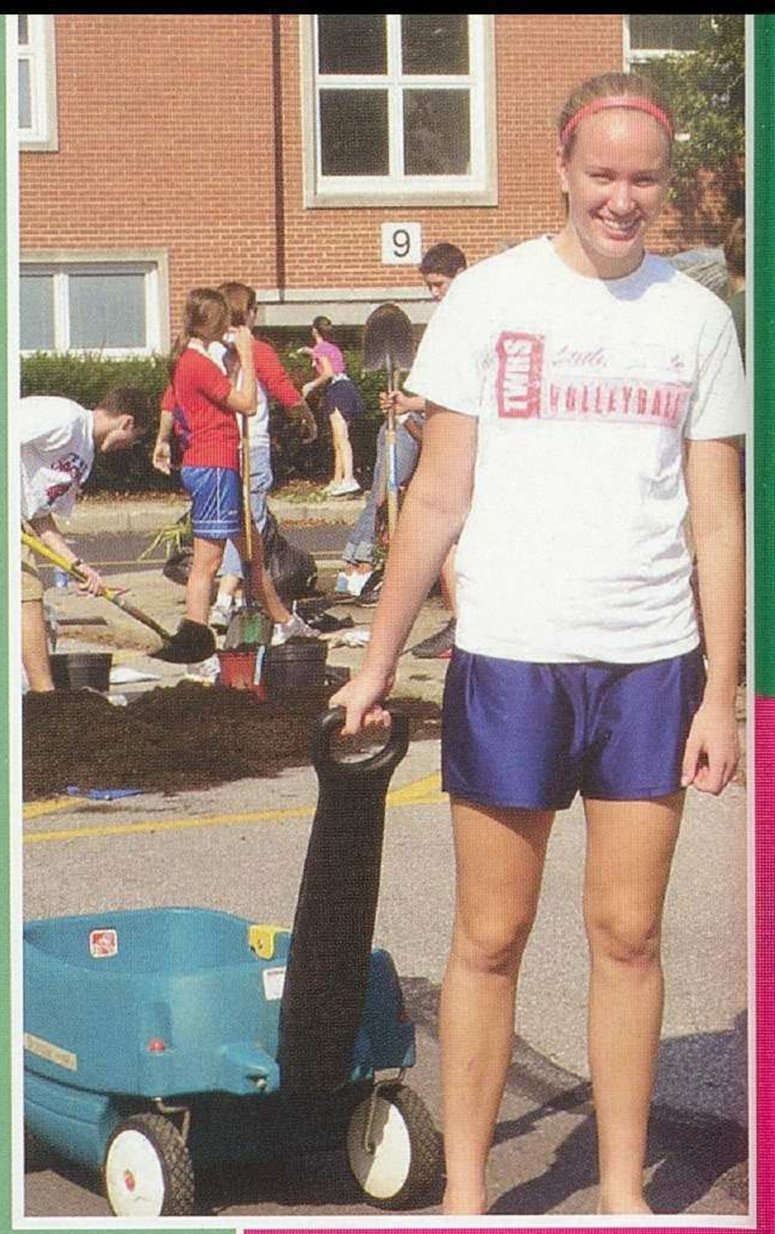
According to those smiles, maybe the good and bad witch roles should have been reversed Nicci and Julissa Faw,



Andrew Norris is America's Next Top Model.

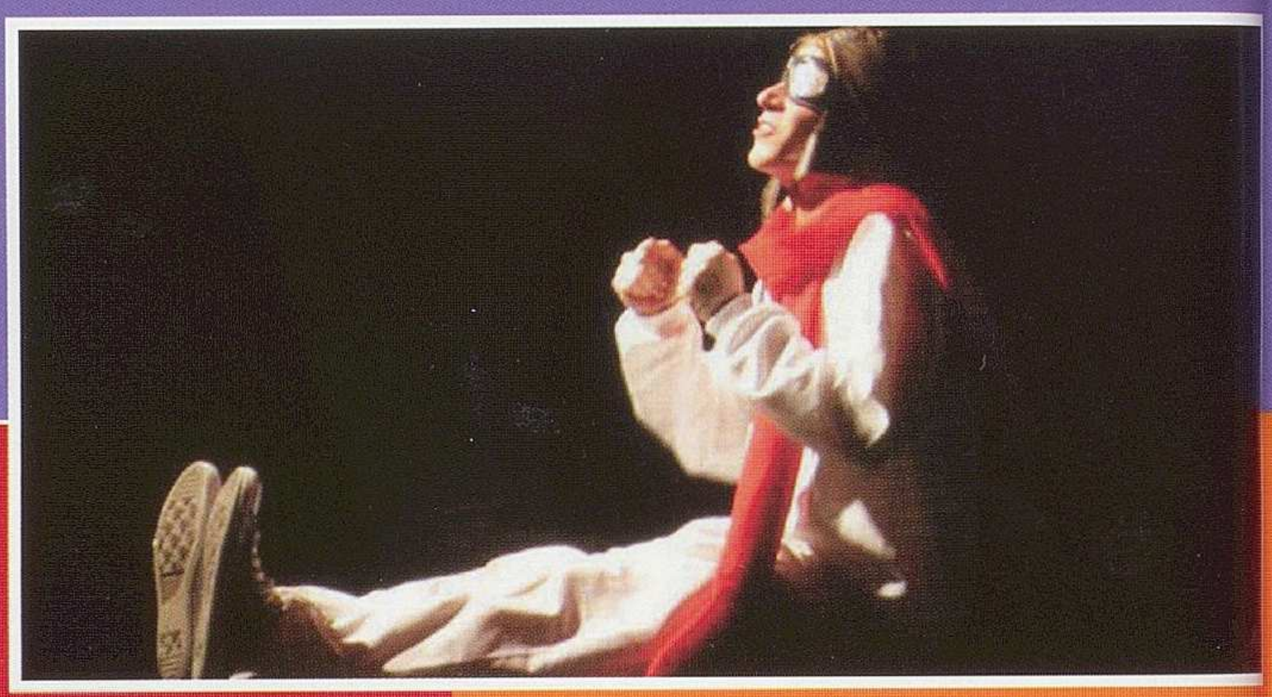
Goofing off backstage are Jimmy Sullivan, Brad Grunwell, and Danny Shell.

Although these boys look very handsome, they are tired of pictures. They are ready to dance all night long!



Erin McCarthy is enthusiastically pulling her wagon to aide the freshmen with beverages during Cardinal Pride Day.

Quick picture during a commercial break! These dedicated buckeye fans are cheering on their favorite football team.

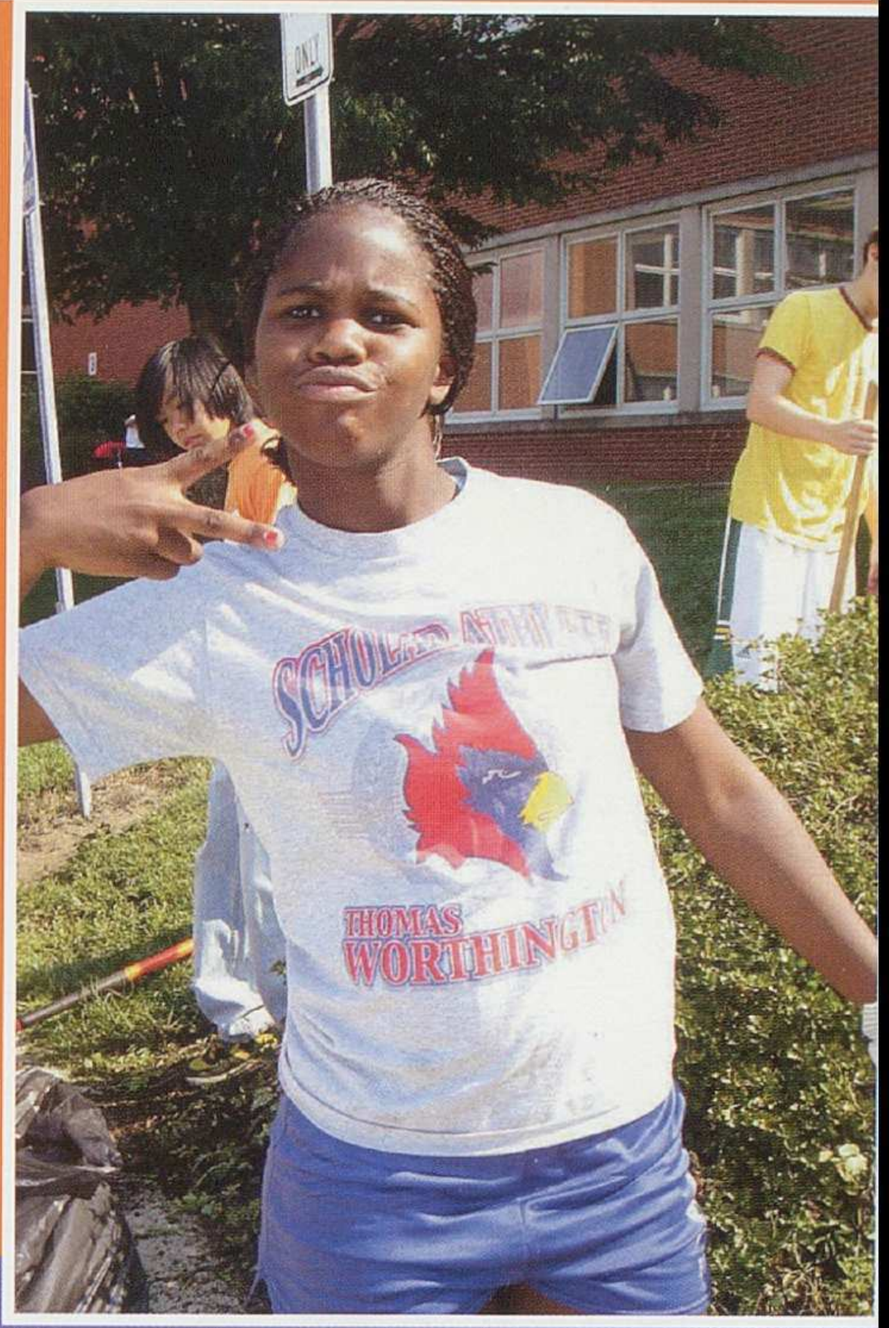


Henry Heisey makes the perfect Snoopy!

Michael Ackert and Jason Arcos-Nisthauz are keeping it real cool...

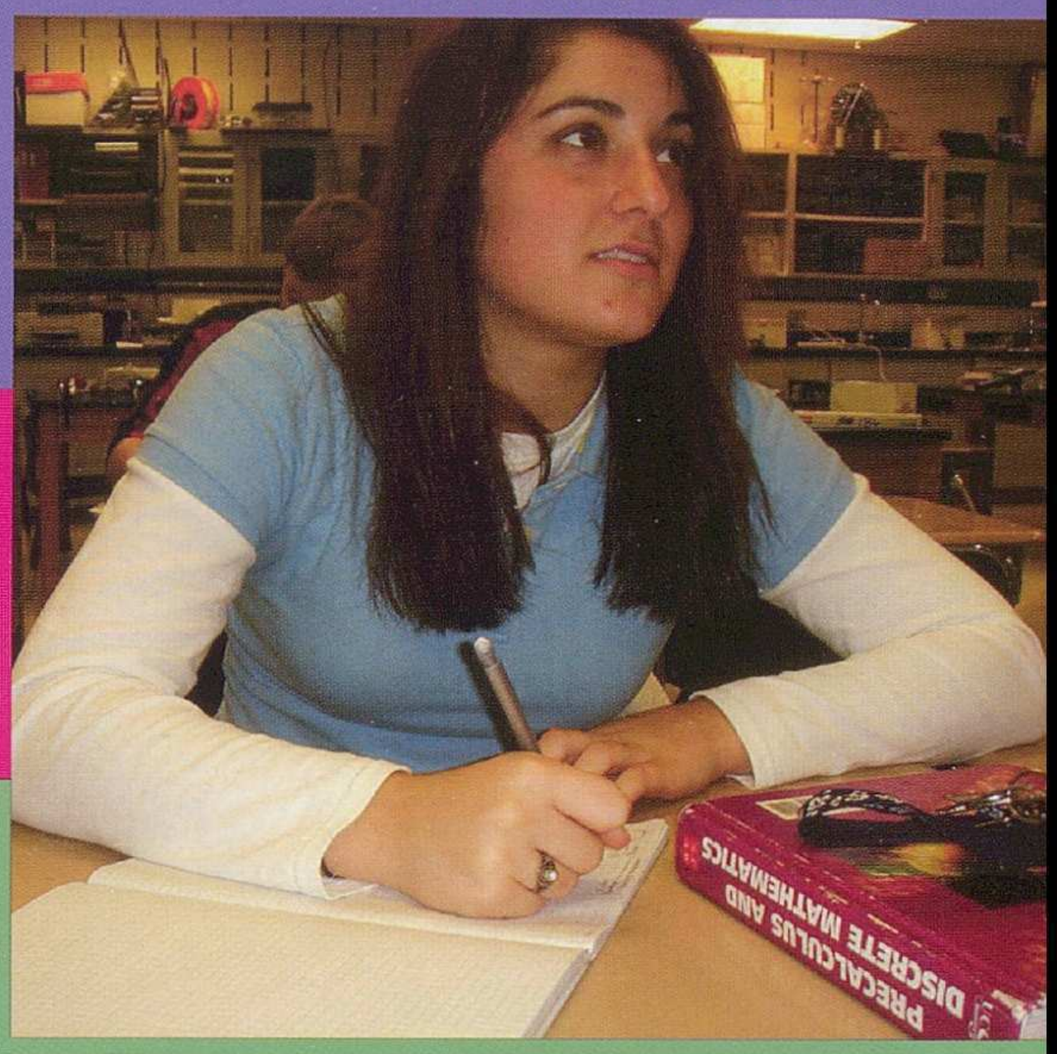
Arielle Juberg and Ariana Cohen, the camera loves you!

The senior Cardinal Crazies were definitely the most rambunctious basketball fans of all!

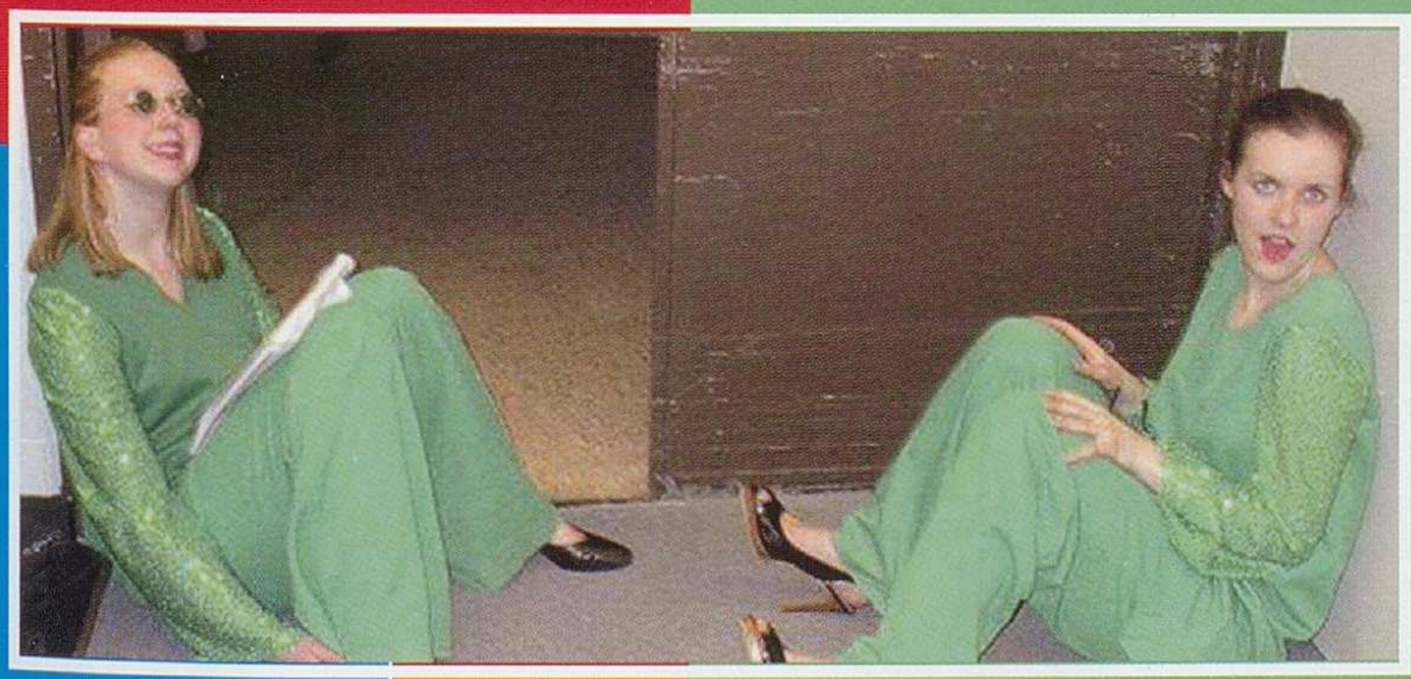


Simone Attles spreads world peace as she helps the freshmen tend to the bushes.

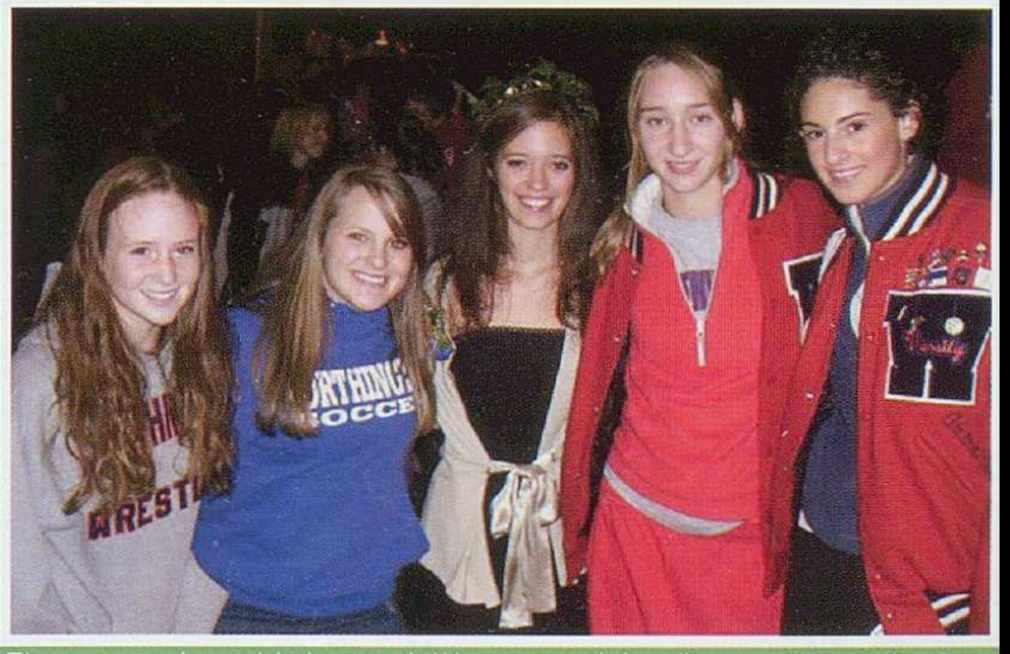
Tequan Givens and Zak Phillips are the best "supervisors" at Cardinal Day.



Taking in as much Physics as possible is Beth Gegas.



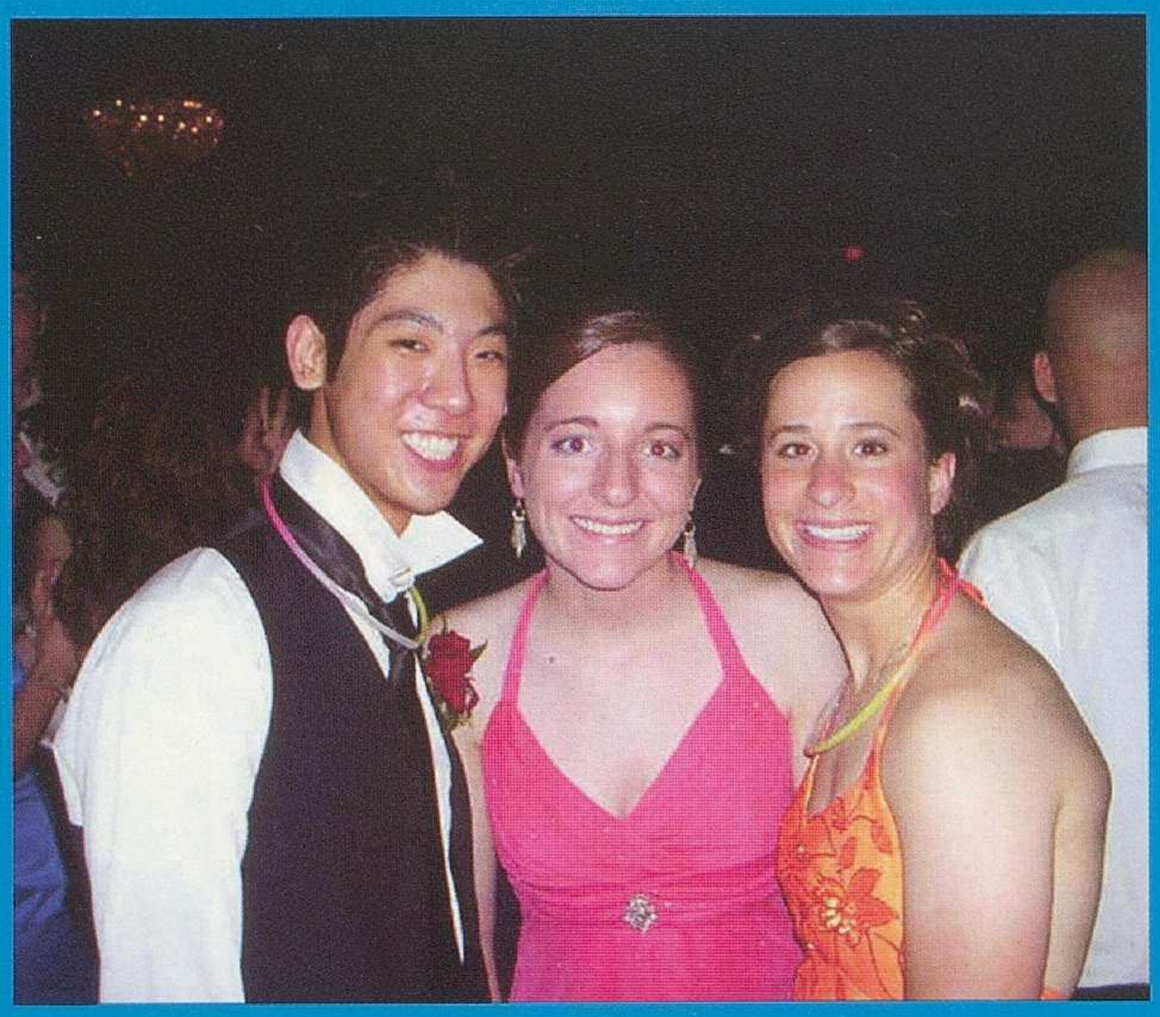
Becky Hoffman and Allison Hadley are ready to go on stage at The Wiz.



These senior girls have bittersweet feelings at their last homecoming bonfire.

SENIORITIS!

Harris Li and Julie Rechel are kind enough to pose with Brooke Wallace. Although she looks very pretty, she still isn't a senior.



While in Washington D.C. Ellen Birmingham, Jessica Londeree, Lily Patterson, and senior wanna-be Christine Barren protested when they weren't running in the National Indoor Track Meet.

What would you like to leave TWHS?

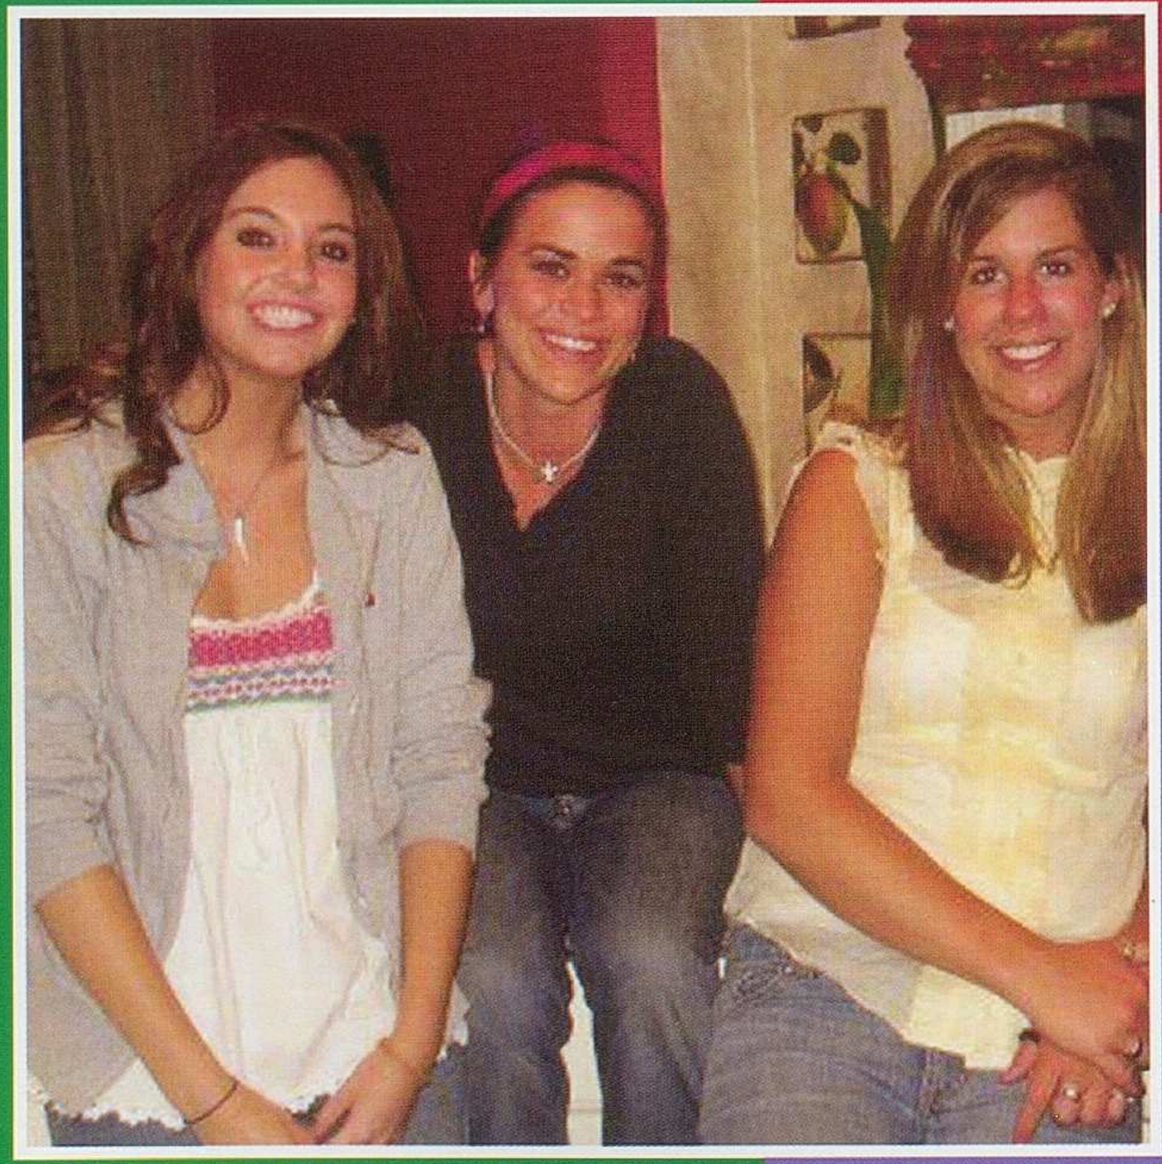
"Tom Devore with a mustache."

- Mike Mordoh

"Touchdowns for the football team..."

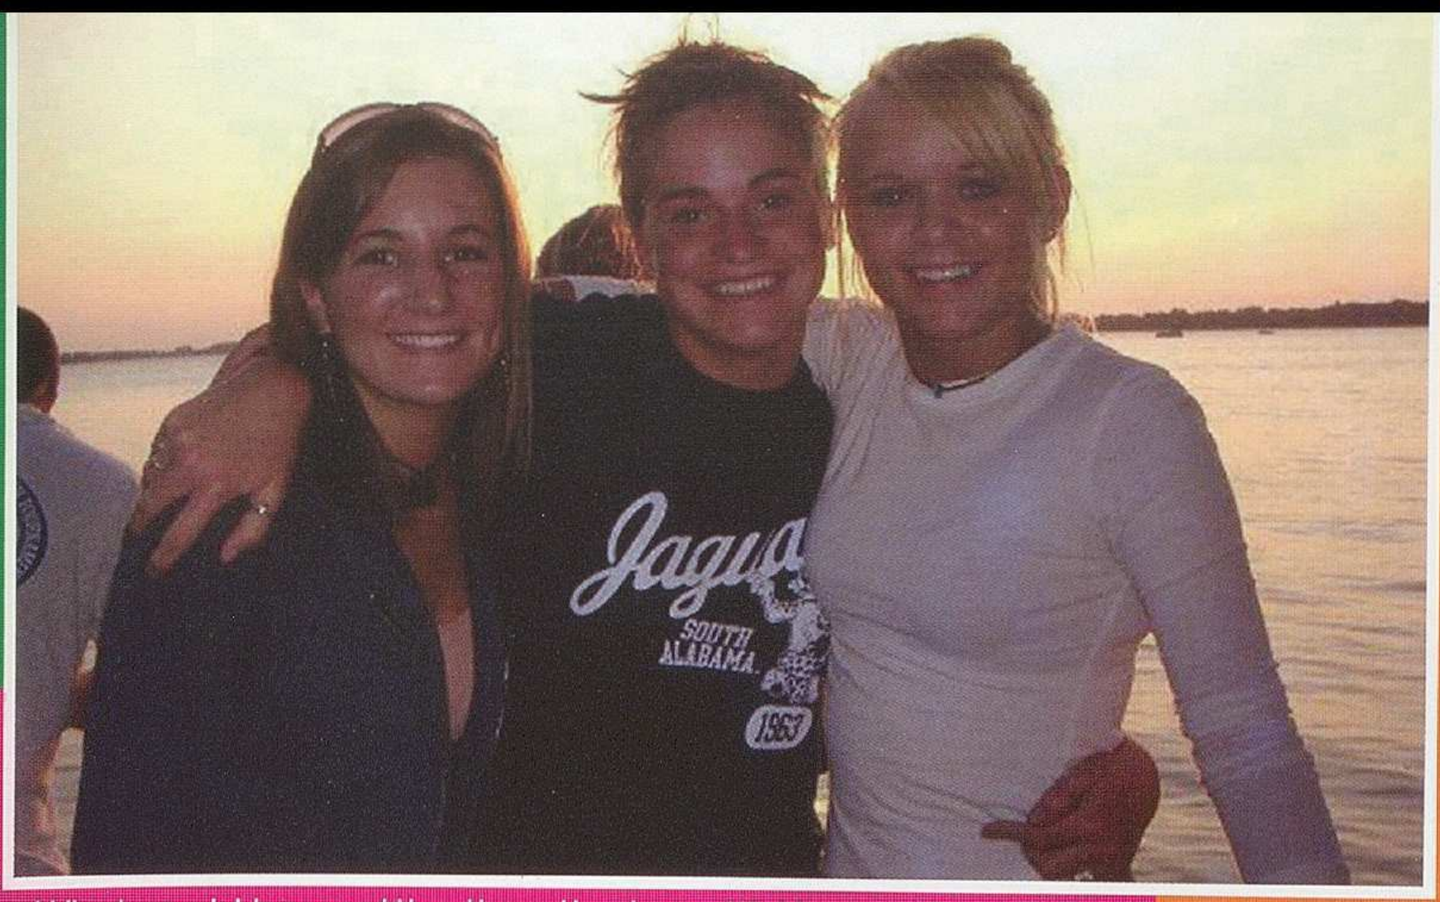
-Tonya Sherman

Demonstrating the perfect prom pose are Stephen Bosak and Mike Mordoh. Demonstrating how to raid a fridge is Greg Tilton.

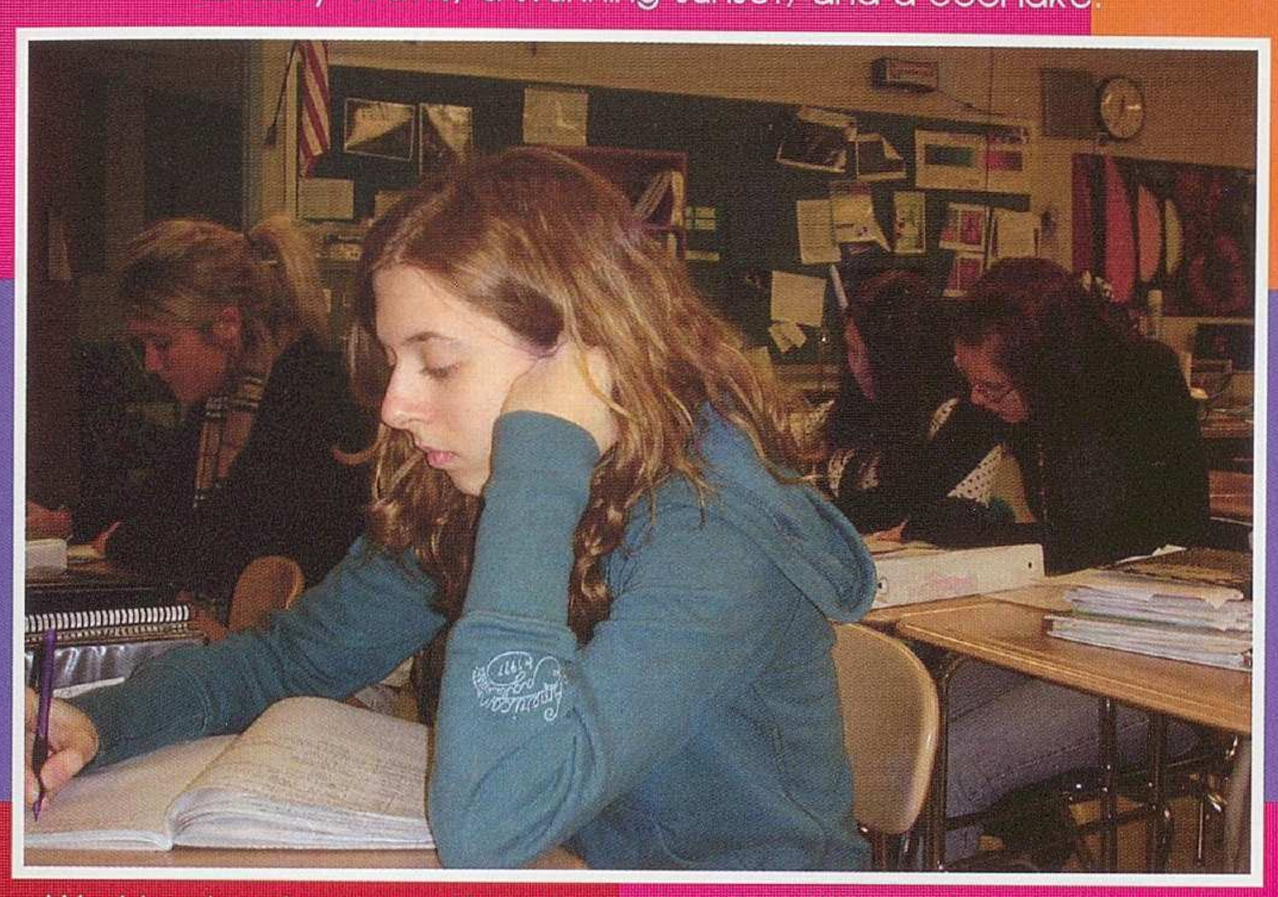


Molly Baird, Kelley Meyer, and Kate Dunn prove that they would be shoo-ins for the "Prettiest Senior Contest."

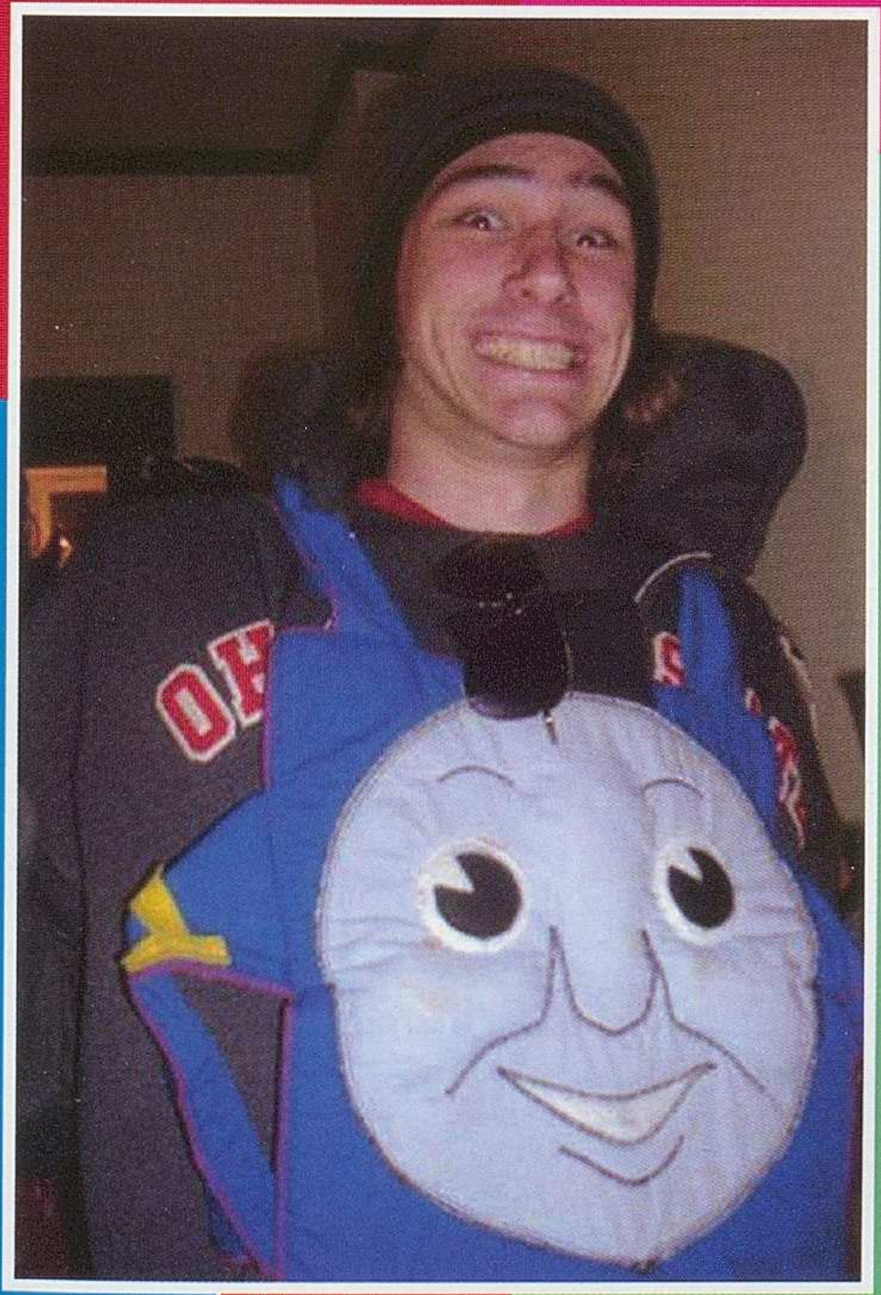
Wearing their senior pride fashionably on their heads are Katelyn Carr and Lindsey Bricker.



What could be prettier than the beautiful Lauren Batcheck, Maggie Hester, Lindsey Watts, a stunning sunset, and a cool lake.

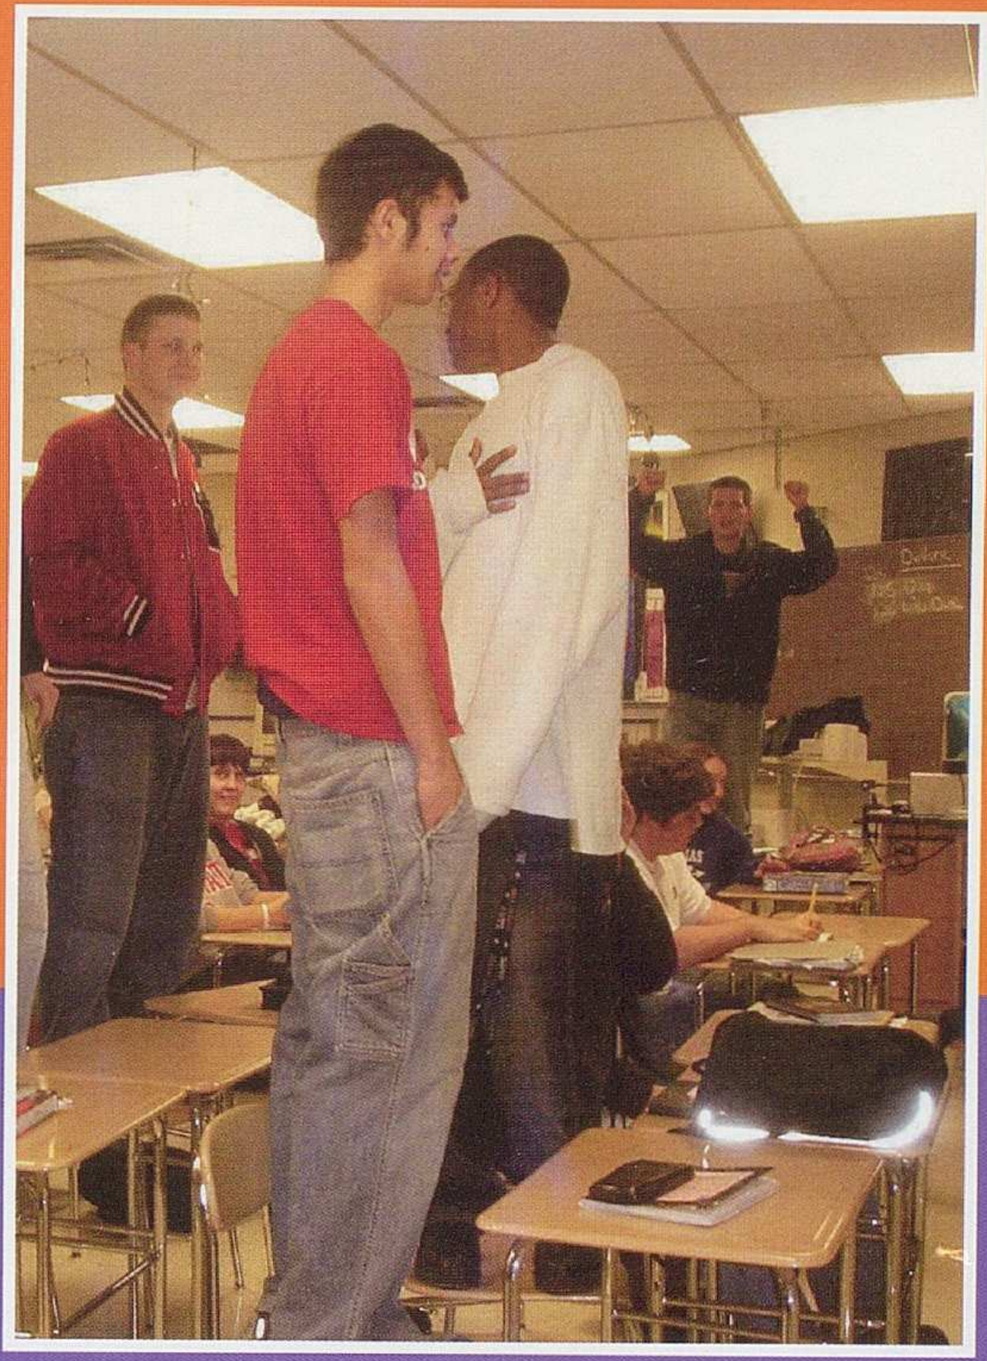


Working hard on counting down the days till graduation are Kate Baker, Ashley Payne, Liz Breedlove, and Samantha Zielinski



Toot toot! Dillon Oldenburg is pulling into the station!

These seniors are holding a protest against Physics. Looks like it'll work... not!



What would you like to leave TWHS?

"A shrine of Steve Kraus... or dirty socks."

- Mike Keister

"A pop machine"

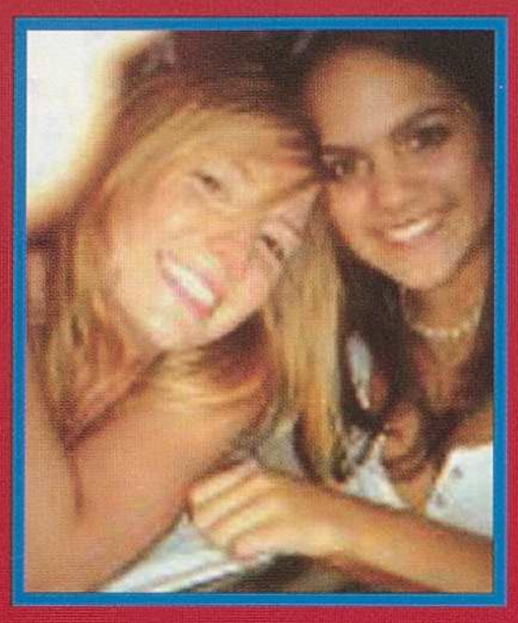
Faces of the Future



Heather and Liz look like they're having a little too much fun on the job. Get to work, ladies!

It used to be that getting a cup of coffee, renting a movie, or even taking that certain someone out on a date was no big deal. These days, with soaring prices, a Starbucks Frappucino, the newest DVD player, and a reservation at a restaurant for that big date are luxuries that only some can afford. These proud few are commonly known as determined, motivated, self-reliant, or plainly as people with jobs. Their after-school hours are grueling, weekend committments demanding, but they struggle through for that extra buck. Heather Alford and Liz Fernandez are among the working Cardinals. "Liz and I are best friends; we're practically like sisters. So it's only natural that we work together," says Heather. "We help pick decorations for clients who are hosting parties." "It's not very demanding but it's a good way to make money. Plus, we get to pick our hours! That's the best part," adds Liz. The two seem very content with their profitable jobs and encourage other high schoolers to spend some extra time in the workplace. As for the lazy, well they're just out of luck.

Shh! Amanda Griffin sure is sneaky, going out to lunch. But those keys are a dead give-away!

It's a beautiful, sunny day as I make my way down the hall toward the gym doors of Thomas Worthington High School. I remark that it is a fine day to go out to "senior" lunch to indulge myself in a warm and toasty Buckeye Sub. One problem stands in my way; I am not a senior. I don't let this minor detail bother me as I smoothly avoid an encounter with one of our roaming deans by ducking behind a corner. I cannot allow the careless mistake of being spotted keep me from my beloved sandwich. Freedom rings as I find myself in the parking lot, moments away from making my discrete exit. I don't feel guilty, not in the least bit. After all, everyone does it, and I am known to succumb to peer pressure. I certainly do not care about what those snobby seniors think of this entire business, either. They forget so easily that they did the same last year! I am only preserving the junior tradition out of respect for the juniors that came before me! I giggle to myself when I hear senior, Tonya Sherman, telling a friend her opinon of my fellow rebels and me. "There's a flock of underclassmen going out to lunch fifth period," she complains, "It's all juniors too! I am appalled!" Her words are lost in the sound of screeching tires, as my car flies through the lot.

Faces of the Future

The winding road of the parking lot stretches as far as the eye can see. What a long walk!

How much does a junior walk to and from their car every day? It seems as though the trek from the junior parking lot to the doors of TWHS is nearly a marathon. Maybe that's why many eleventh graders have earned a reputation of constantly being late to class. After all, a winter journey through snow and hundreds of incoming cars can take forever. "I have late arrival so I always park in the very back," explains Katie Wolf, "I'm constantly worried that I will be late. When it rains, though it doesn't even matter to me at all. By the time I get to class, the bottoms of my pants are drenched and my hair is a mess. It's awful!"

Most Juniors cannot wait to upgrade to a shiny, new, senior parking pass. It not only comes with a closer parking spot, but a feeling of pride. Parking in those first few rows symbolizes the difference between the seniors and any other driver in the lot. "It's what I've always wanted," says Abby Sprockel, "I'm going to be very happy next year when I won't have to walk miles and miles just to get to class!"

But for now, the junior class will have to stay content with just having a parking pass at all, and looking on with shining hopes, at the gleaming senior section.

Faces of the Future

Finding herself one step closer to college is Jessica Lohner as she flips through her Northwestern University brochure.

Choosing a college is like finding a new home. A dorm room awaits, ready to replace the fully decorated room in a familiar house. New friends fill the empty places in hearts reserved for missed, loved ones who are miles away. Mom's homemade meals are the highlight of the holiday, a welcome substitute for the everday cheeseburger. Yet, nostalgic memories of the past are soon overcome by the excitement of an unpredictable future in college. College is a place that will open doors to a new life, and juniors can't wait to catch a glimpse of where they'll be after high school. College visits provide such an opportunity. "Northwestern University has the most beautiful campus ever! I can't even imagine how happy I'd be to go there," Jessica Lohner exclaims, awoken from a daydream of her desired school. Some pick a college for other reasons. "Academics are my first priority when looking for a college," explains Katie Wolf, excited about getting an excellent education. Whatever they are looking for, students use their Junior year to visit colleges and prepare for the new experiences that are just around the corner.

Faces of the Future

Saud Ahmed knows what it's like to be unique. His personality always shines through!

As the wide-eyed Freshmen walk through the doors of TWHS for the 1st time, they begin their path to finding their true identity, The upperclassmen, on the other hand, are much more in touch with what makes them unique. Juniors spend the year ready to incorporate their identity into their preparations for senior year and a life after high school. But what does identity mean to a junior? It could mean personal style. "The clothes I wear are like the school's chocolate milk: they get more expensive every year," explains Saud Ahmed, "but it's totally worth it for me to be able to express myself." To others, identity means the family and friends they are surrounded by. Students with different backgrounds are extremely common at TWHS. Ms. Allsop's 2nd period classroom played host to a conversation between Ilana Bergelson, a Junior with a Russian background, and Katie Lang, a student wtih Scottish roots. "I see the work that my parents put in to create a good life for our family here," says Ilana, "and that instills an enormous sense of pride in me. It's definitely part of who I am." "Identity" is a word full of meaning to Juniors and it remains in the back of their minds for their remaining years of high school.

Sarah Patterson can barely concentrate on her schoolwork. Sitting next to a stud like Greg Shumaker is way too distracting.

What are you smilling about, Cameron Klempay? We don't blame you. Who wouldn't want to be at TWHS with all their fellow CARDS?

Always a class clown, Edward Kuehnle shares a laugh with Danitza Quipuscoa during a hall exchange. These two are constantly joking around.

These sophomores seem to be enjoying the 4A lunch period together! However, it is a little weird to be eating lunch at 10:30 in the morning! Some people aren't even up at that time on the weekends. So why is it that this "brunch" seems so normal at school? "I think it is because we get here so early," says sophomore Millie Sudhakar, "we eat breakfast early and by the time it gets to be 10 or 11, we're hungry again!" For this reason, 6B lunch is just as bad! Many TWHS students find that it is hard to wait so long to eat lunch. On the bright side, after sixth period lunch, you only have two more periods to go before the end of the day!

Looks like sophomores Ross Griffin and Julie Glover are prepping together for the OGTs! Good job, guys!

For freshmen, juniors and seniors, OGT testing days means a glorious week. No school until 10:00am, half hour classes and the horrified looks on sophomores faces are certainly an extra perk. It seems as though the whole tenth grade year is spent preparing for one week, one purpose only: the dreaded OGT. From September to March, teachers threaten their sophomore classes with the ever-popular phrase, "This WILL be on the OGT!" Some let the pressure get to them, however, the smarter ones just brush it off. As many juniors and seniors will tell you, the OGT is a little overrated. The test isn't that bad, more annoying than anything. And most importantly, once the week is over, you never have to do it again (hopefully)! Just think, sophomores, next year you'll be a much wiser junior who will get to watch as the class of unknowing sophomores faces the OGT. Maybe you'll be kind enough to help them out with a little bit of advice!

Sophomore Olivia Mellon looks like she is a little stressed about getting her license!

Getting your temps is perhaps the most exciting thing about sophomore year. Those who are lucky enough to have early birthdays get to experience the thrill of driving for the first time, even if it is with a parent. The next six months are spent racking up hours, going on in-cars and taking driving classes in hopes of being able to get your license the very minute you turn sixteen. All that time spent in preparation for one day! As some high-schoolers know, it is harder than it looks. The written test, along with the driving and maneuverability test can still look pretty intimidating even after some experience driving. But the benefits that come with being able to drive definitely outweigh the stress of the test. Now, you can drive yourself to school and have a space in the parking lot! Now, you can go out of weekends without having to call mom or dad to come pick you up! Now, you don't have to figure out carpools with others in order to get to practice! And of course, now, you have to take all your non-driver friends everywhere!

One of the many great things about sophomore year is just being a sophomore! No longer the babies of the school, sophomores can watch the younger freshmen Cardinals with a sense of maturity and ask the question that all sophomores ask themselves atleast once during the year... "Was I like that last year?!"
And the answer is always the same, "Yes, yes you were." A big transition occurs between freshman and sophomore year. You know your way around the school and are now familar with the different wings and can easily locate the nearest bathroom or drinking fountain. You also realize that it's unlikely you will have the same schedule as your friends, and you've discovered that it's fun meeting new ones in your classes. You've found the best foods in the cafeteria and know when it's better to pack a lunch.

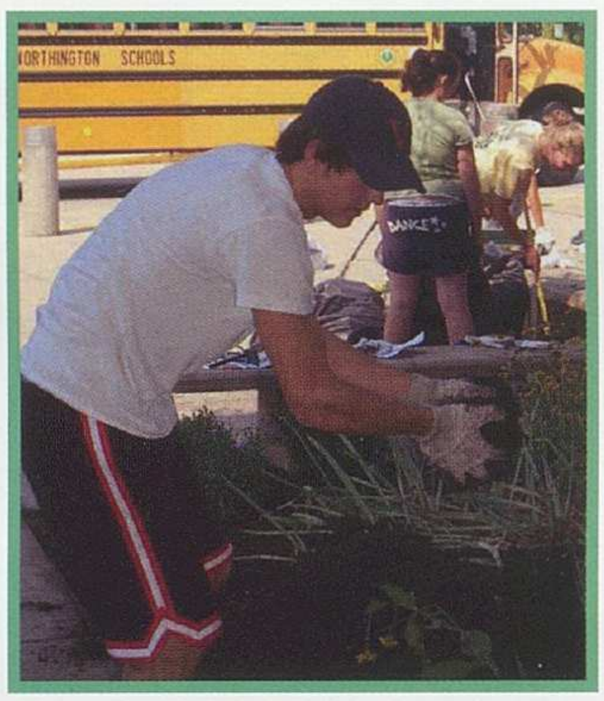
CARDINAL PRIDE DAY

Working hard...

"Stand up and cheer, we are the Cardinals and we are here!!!" The fight song filled the halls as the marching band got everyone pepped up for Cardinal Pride Day. The freshmen eagerly waited to get outside because later that afternoon a fabulous pool party was planned. The class of 2010 got fired up and excited for their day of work and fun. Then, they went outside in teams and began beautifying the school grounds. While outside, they did a variety of activities to help clean up the school, such as, pulling weeds, planting flowers, painting curbs and mulching. However, the main story of the day ended up being the waiting; waiting for the pizza to be delivered. The pizza came 15 minutes late... a very long 15 minutes. Finally the pizza was delivered and the freshmen were able to enjoy a relaxing pool party. In the end, Cardinal Pride Day was a fun experience that brought the freshmen from the two different middle schools together and helped make our school look clean and beautiful. Good work Cards!!!

Karthik Hari shows his fellow freshmen how to take care of newly planted flowers.



Helping move some mulch near the gym entrance to the school is strongman Josh Clark.

Freshman Zach Schaffer shouts to the camera "Ready to work! No time to play!" as he races past with his new friend and load of mulch.

"Heck, this is hard work," pant Marcus Chong and Thomas Edgar.

What Do You Think of "Freshman Slave Day" ?

"Cardinal Pride Day gave me a lot of pride in TWHS"

~Ben Lemberger,
Freshman

Cardinal Pride Day was overall pretty nice. We had nice weather and no major problems. The pool party went well and it was nice that the upper classmen mentors got to work with their mentees. "My only complaint was that I didn't get to drive the go-cart." Cardinal Pride Day was a good way to unite the two middle schools and is an excellent tradition.
~Mrs. Flinn,
Assistant Principle

"The work was tough, but in the end the food and fun was worth it"

~Brittany Ward,
Freshman

"I think that calling this 'Freshman Slave Day' is demeaning to all races and sets our accomplishments toward equality back 100 years. It disgusts me that we are passing these ideas down to vulnerable freshmen."
~Caitlin Mackin,
Senior

Sixth Grade Camp

Sixth Grade Camp has become a tradition for Worthington Elementary Schools. Throughout the year, each elementary sixth grade class goes to a camp for three days and two nights. While there, they bond with their classmates and do fun activities. They get to make crafts, learn about the wilderness, perform skits, have camp fires and roast marsh mellows, tell scary stories, and stay up late talking. The sixth grade camp trip is always a blast, but without the help of our high schoolers, the trip would not be possible. Students from different high schools volunteer to go on the trip as camp counselors. They spend their time talking, hanging out, helping, and building relationships with the kids. Most of the students who volunteer love working with kids and are good role models. Even though the kids are at camp for only three days, they look up to the high schoolers and form close bonds. It's such a great opportunity for high schoolers to give back to their old elementary and see their old teachers.

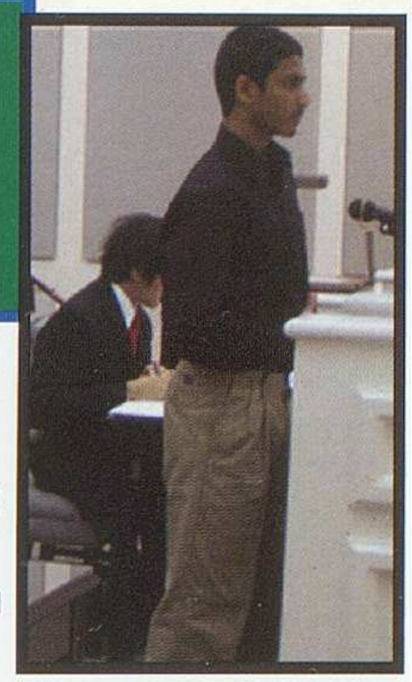
The Old Timers

Row 1: Ms. Kucharek, Kevin Hart, Paul Zhu, Parik Arulalan Row 2: Julie Zorb, Jesse Hart, Grace Wang.

Thomas Worthington's Mock Trial team consisted of 13 participants and two separate teams this year. Team One, The Rookies and team two, The Old Timers. These two teams spent the year debating their way to the top in Districts, Regional and State. Each of these students has a passion for law and fighting for justice in the court of law. Mock Trial allows students to get a feel of what it would be like working as a lawyer in a real court room.



Making his case at one of the debates is Parik Arulalan.

Kids Vote

Beginning last year, during the elections, a booth was set up at each voting precinct for children to partake in the voting process. Children are given the chance to get a feel for what it is like to cast a ballot. Even though the children's ballots are not counted toward the real election, they are eager to get their votes in. At each booth, volunteers spend their day assisting kid voters by helping them read the names on the ballot and showing them where to turn their ballot in. This year, volunteers were required to take a training course and work at their booths during the voting hours. The volunteers also had the chance to help adult voters, making sure they were properly signed in and were well aware of how to use the voting machines.

ART SHOWS

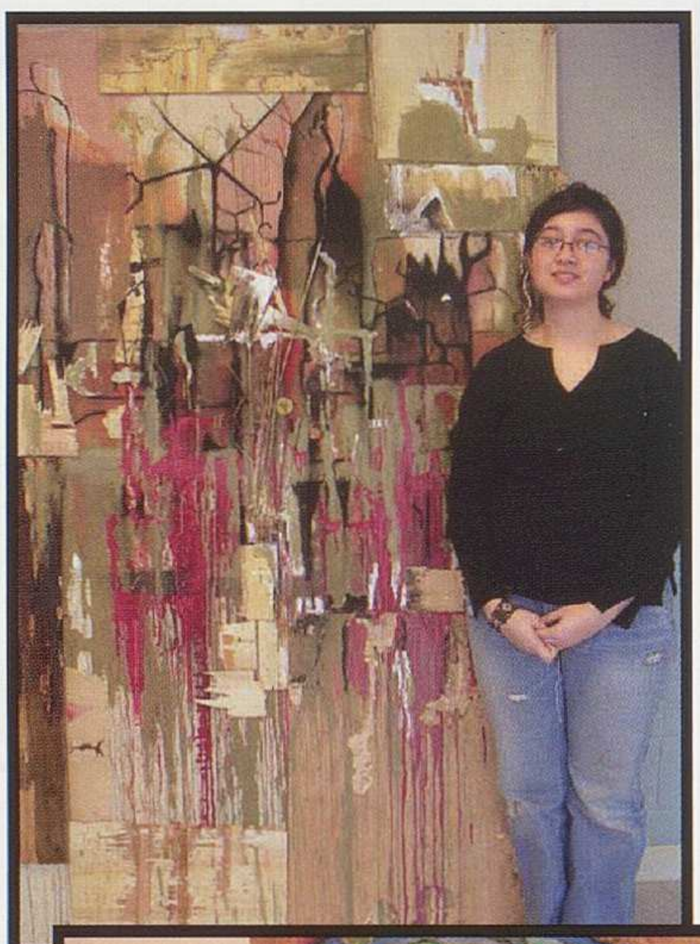
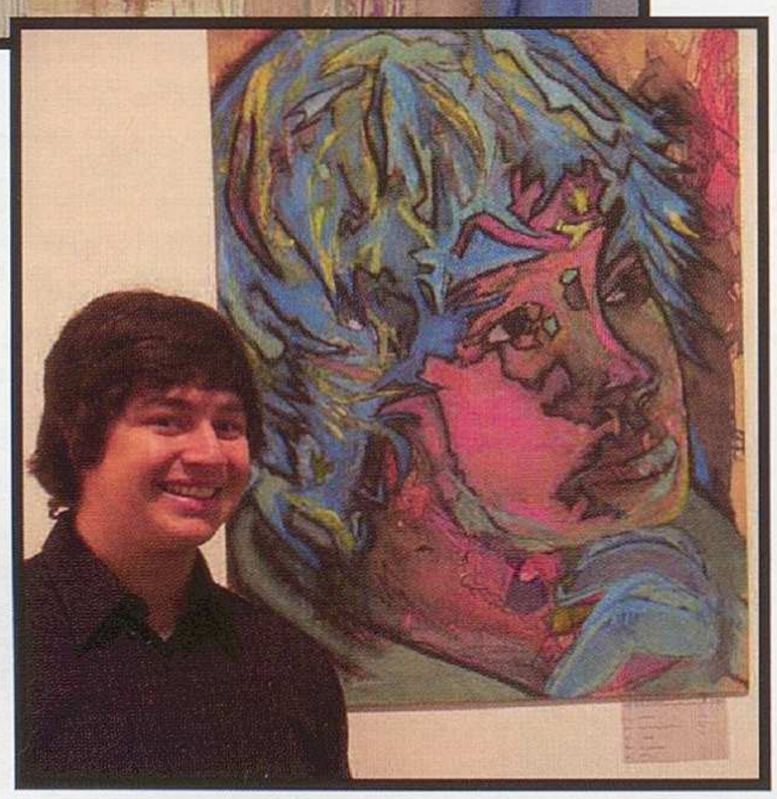
You're not seeing double, you're just seeing Brendan Burkett's self portrait that was part of his award winning portforlio.

Eleven TWHS students were selected for the Regional Ohio Governors Juried Art Exhibition. Eleven TWHS students were selected for the Regional Scholastics Art Competition; seven for their individual work and four for their portfolios. And Kaveri Raina's large mixed media painting "To Perceive is to Suffer" was selected as a top 25 governor's selection among state wide juried artworks. There are many talented students here at TWHS, who have a true passion for art. These students spend hours upon hours perfecting their artwork and turning them into masterpieces. Students who are portfolio winners or Gold Key winners have their artwork sent to New York, where it is judged at a National level and has a chance to be honored and exhibited in Washington D.C. Art students who advance in these competitions are able to show off their talent to the community and are also given a chance a receive scholarships. All of the different art shows create wonderful opportunies for students and the awards given to the students are well deserved.

Showing her true emotions through her art work is Caitlin Mackin.



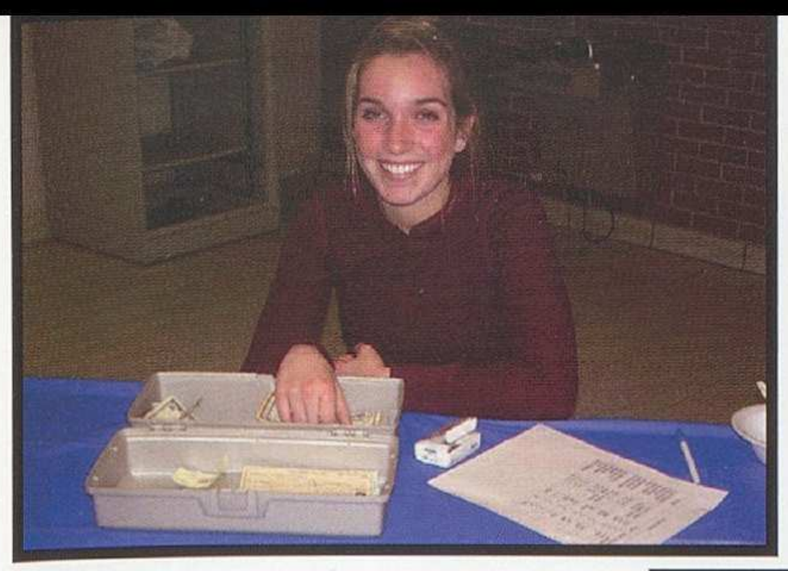
This painting was no easy task. It earned Kaveri Raina a spot in the governor's selection.



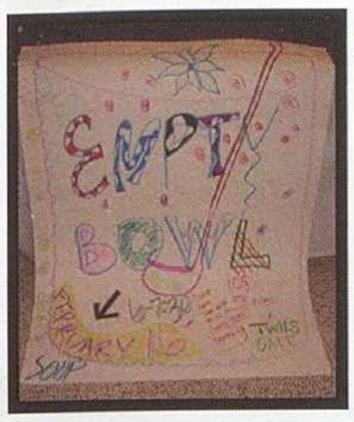
Vibrant colors look pretty good on David Allison. They bring out his natural beauty.

Samantha DeDios, Kaveri Raina, Brendan Burkett, Paul Zhu, Caitlin Mackin, and Taylor Grogg were all selected into the Regional Scholastics Art Competition. Now that is something to smile about!

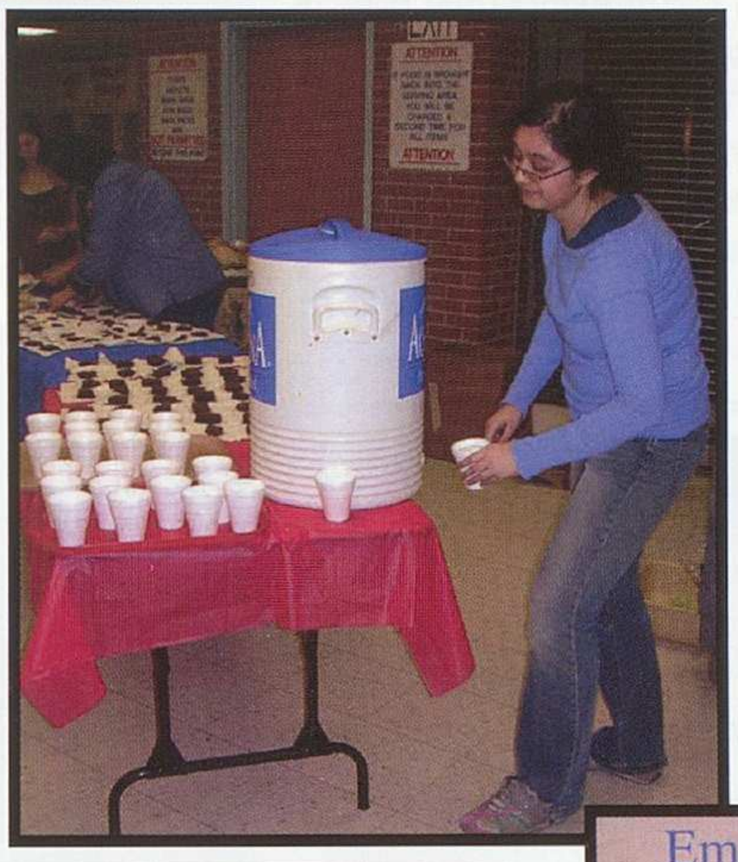
Empty Bowl



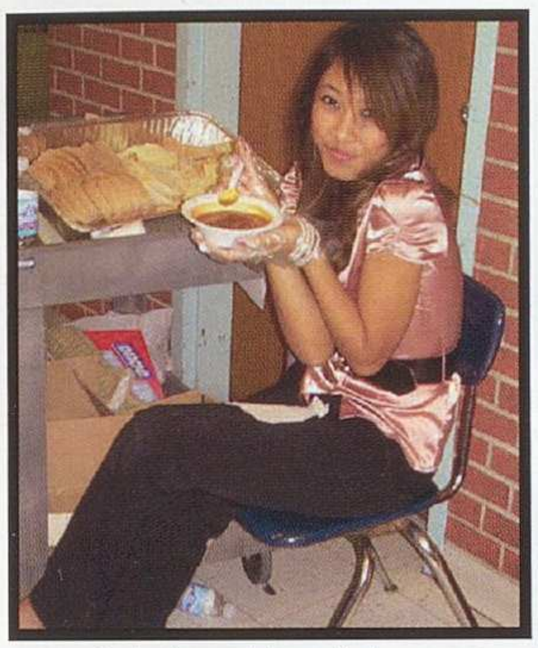
Keeping track of the money is an imporatant job. Leave it up to Lillie Ranney to get the job done well.



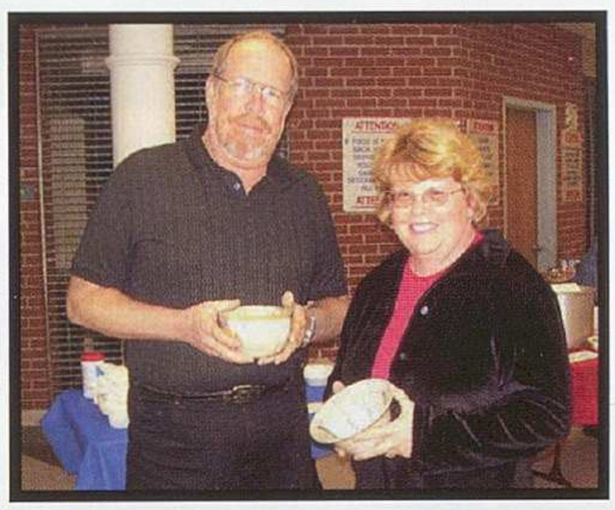
No one will ever go thirsty with Kaveri Raina working the water station.



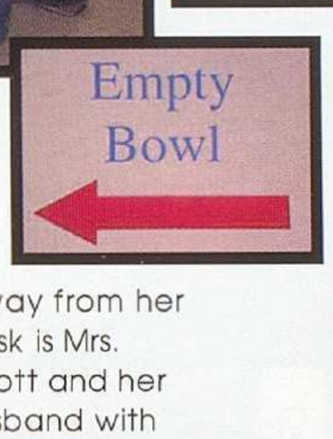
Thomas Worthington High School has always been a very giving school. The students are more than willing to donate their time to help those in need. One of the yearly projects that Thomas Worthington participates in is the Empty Bowl Project. Ceramic students spin bowls and glaze the finished products. Once the bowls are completely done, faculty, students, and community members can purchase them for five dollars a bowl. With their bowls they can go to a soup dinner held by the community service club. The soup dinner cost five dollars and all the proceeds go to the Children's Hunger Alliance Foundation. The soup dinner is always held before one of the school theater's productions and this year it was scheduled before The Wiz show. The total earnings this year was a wopping $1805.00.



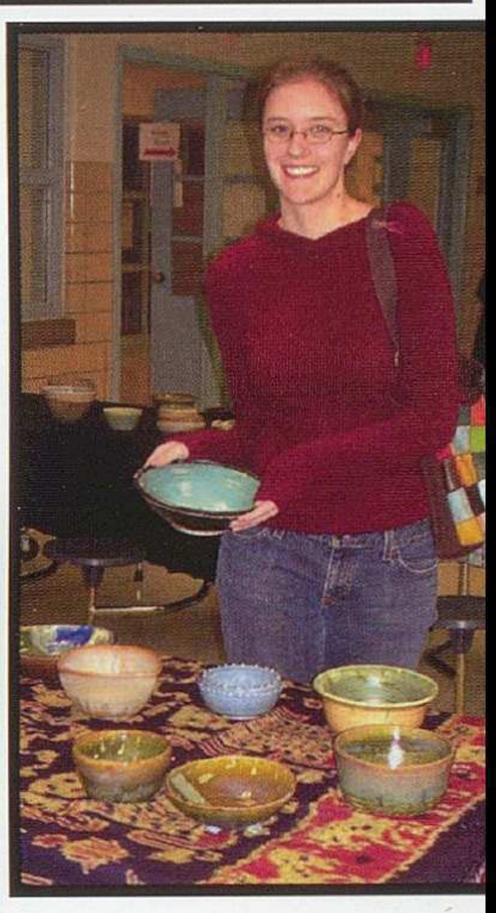
Sok-sinay Mam takes a moment to sample the homemade soup.



Away from her desk is Mrs. Scott and her husband with their newly purchased bowls.

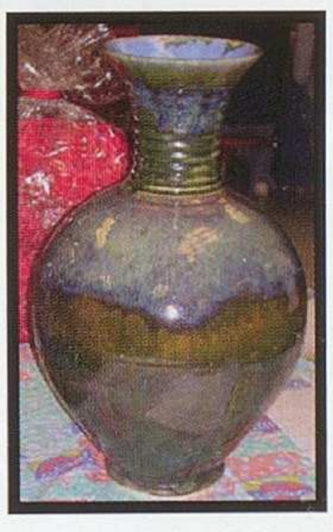


Community members love supporting our school.



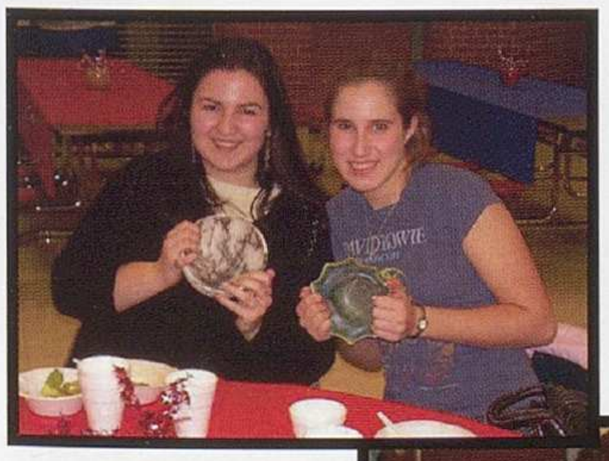
Look how pretty Julie Zorb's bowl is!

Giving up their Friday night to serve food are Sam Rojas, Danitza Quipuscoa, Sarai Itagaki, Leah Itagaki, Sok-sinary Mam, Samantha del Portal, Elka del Porta, and Leah Gitter.



This pot was up for bid during the silent auction. Who wouldn't want this master piece?

Serving up soup and passing out bread is Mrs. Sturiano.



Returning for a good cause are Laura Jewett and Lauren Heironimus.

An old time thespian, Tyler Stratton returns to man the bake sale booth.

Two of the art students, Erica Keller and Sam Miller, fill up on soup while they watch their bowls get sold.

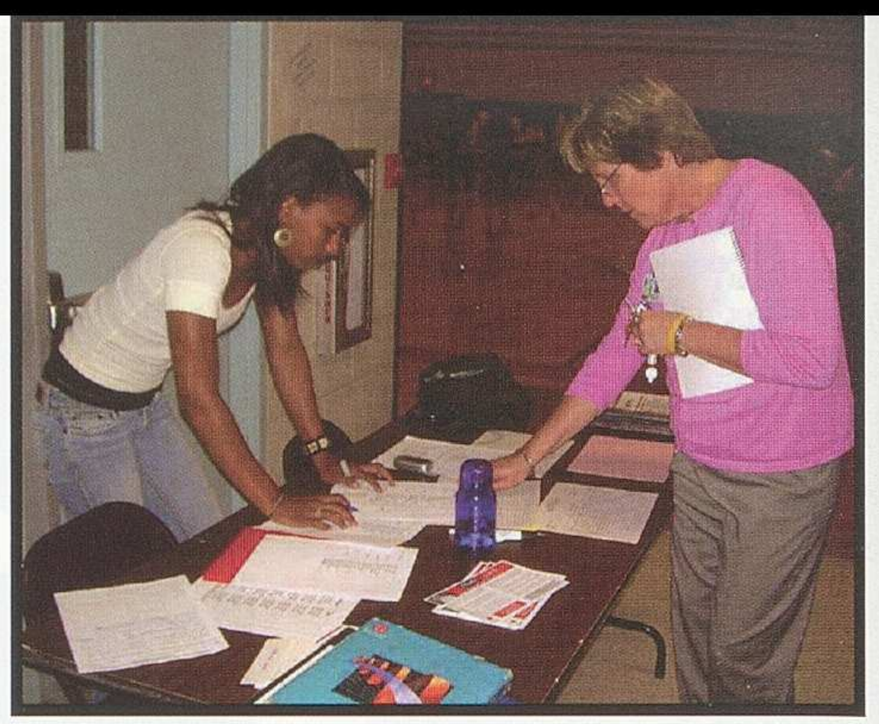
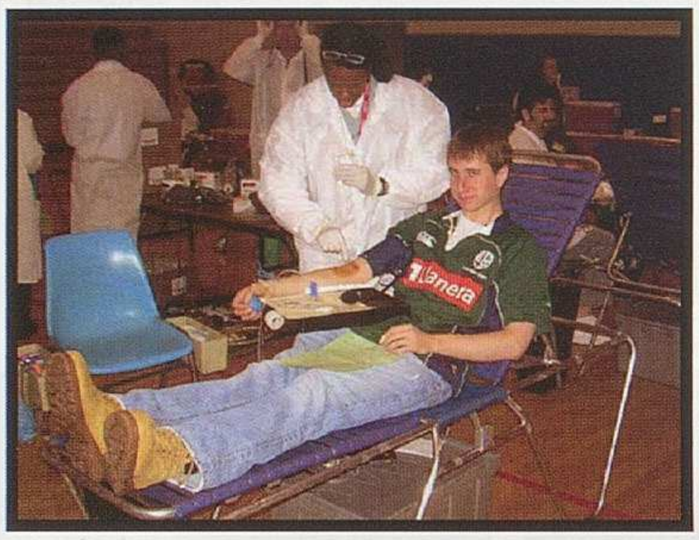
Blood Drive

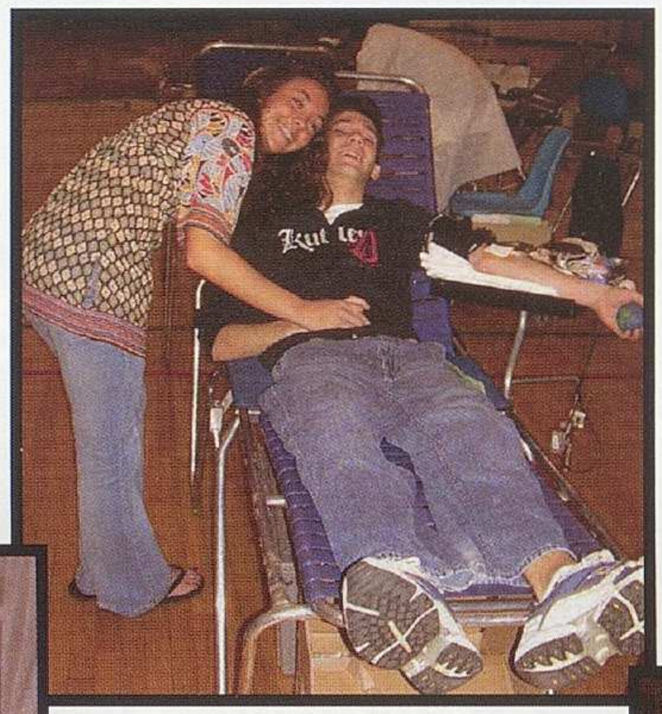
The blood drive is an annual event that allows Thomas Worthington students to give back to their community. Each year, numerous students give up their lunch or free time to donate blood. This year, we were able to donate 94 units of blood to the American Red Cross Association. It was a great turn out, considering that one unit of blood is equal to saving about three lives. This means we saved around 282 people. It was an all day event, starting at 7:30 in the morning and ending at 2:30 in the afternoon. In order for students to donate blood, they must be healthy, at least 17 years of age, weigh 110 pounds, and not have donated blood within the last eight weeks. After donating blood, each student receives juice and cookies as a snack. Giving back to the community is something that Thomas Worthington does best.



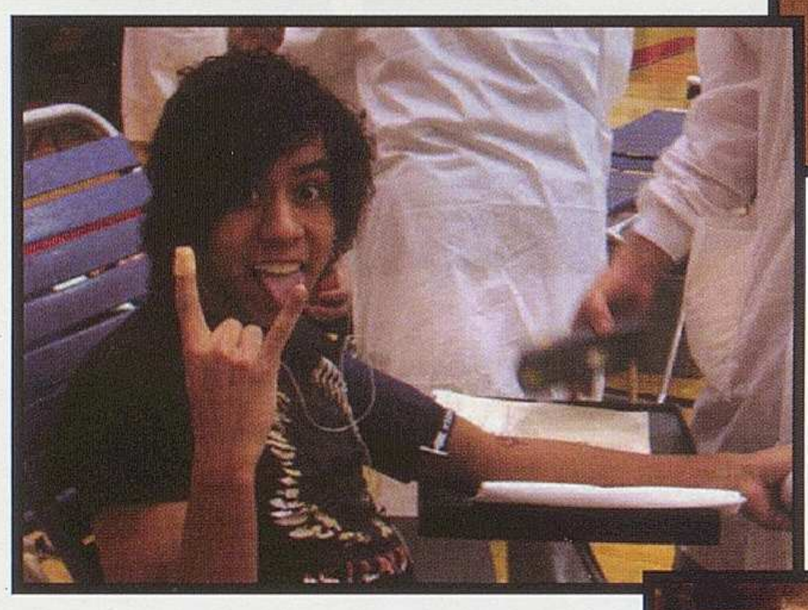
Along with the help of Mrs. Hancock, Lauren Graham double checks her list to make sure everyone has properly signed in.



Nothing can make Stu Lopez flinch, not even getting pricked by a needle.

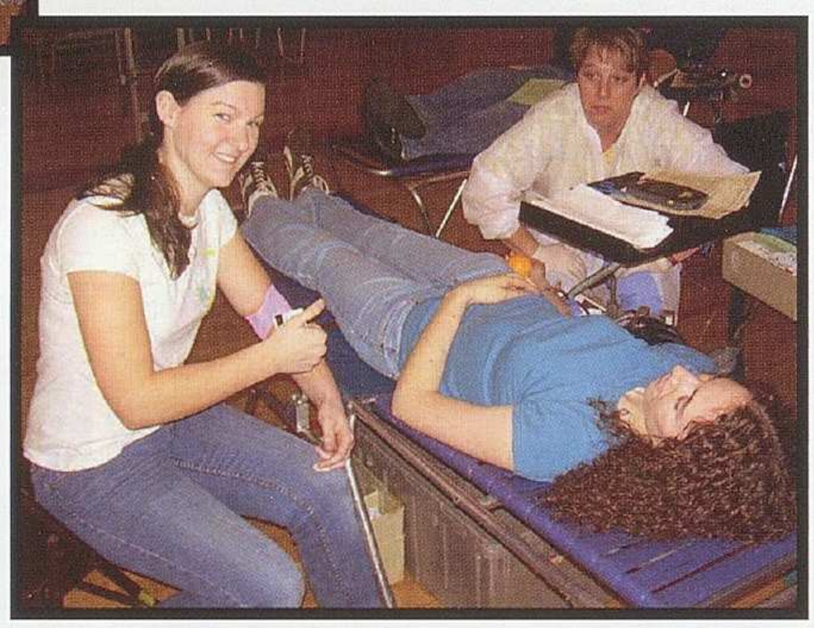


Mr. Hamilton counts down the time until his blood will start flowing towards the IV.

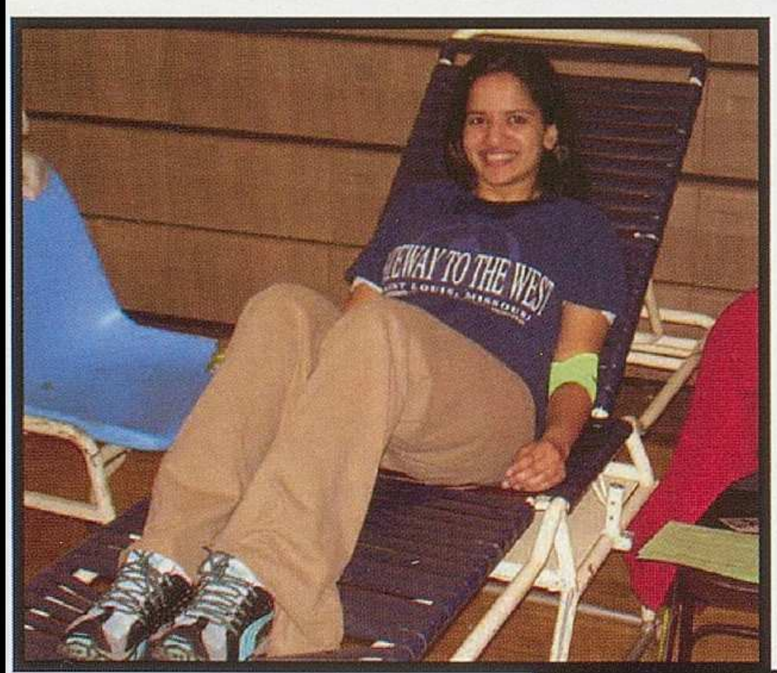


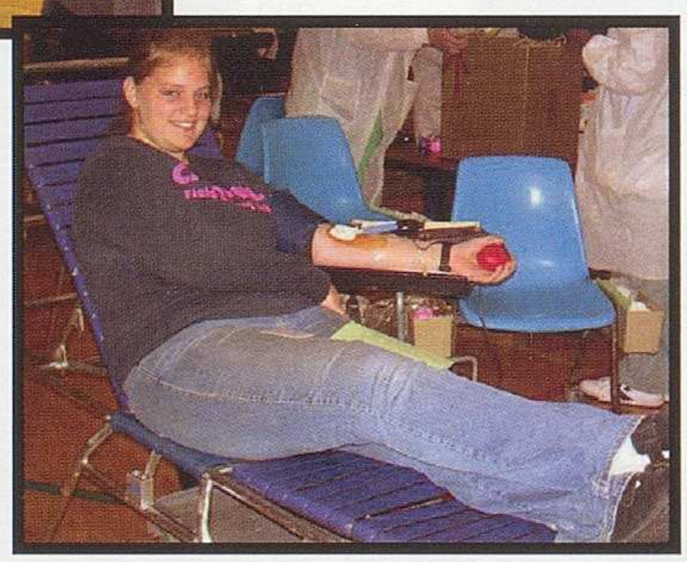
Jordan Mitchel looks pretty excited to be giving blood. What a good sport!

Victoria Bolingor shows her love for her boyfriend, Andrew Heironimus, as he donates his blood. He better be nice to her after recovery.

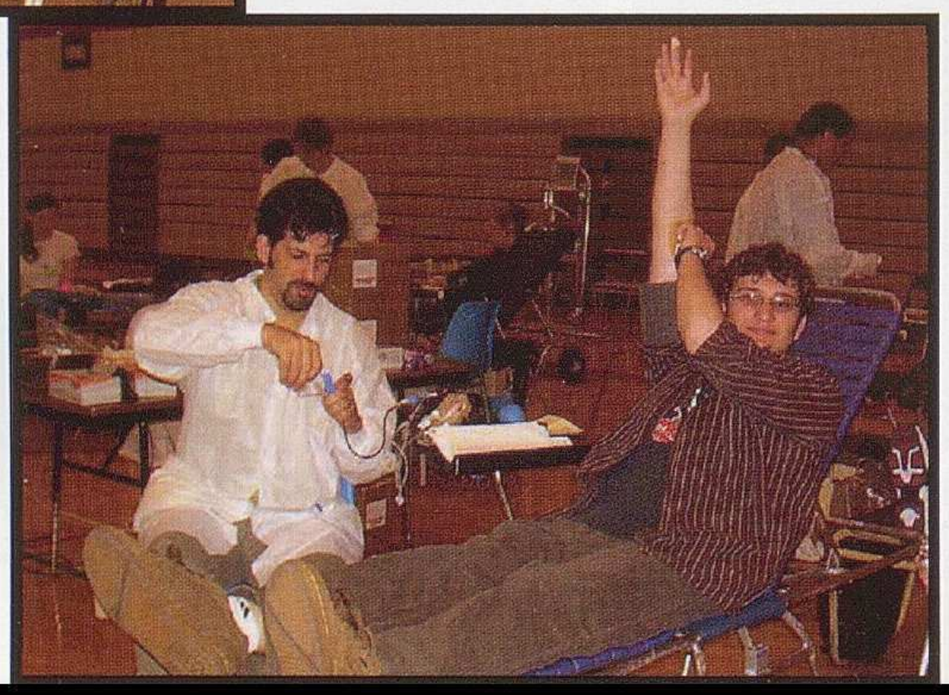


Lana Mattingly comforts Sarah Minot as she takes her turn to donate blood.





Misty Gibbs squeezes the ball to get her blood pumping.



After passing out, Pooja Shah had to spend some time in the recovery area.

"Keep that arm up!" orders Aaron, one of the volunteer doctors. Eric Boso did as he was told.

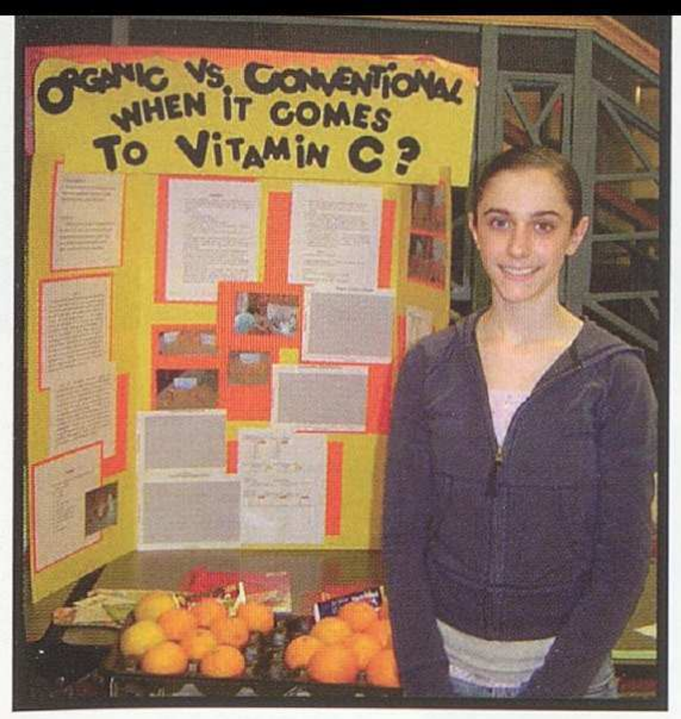
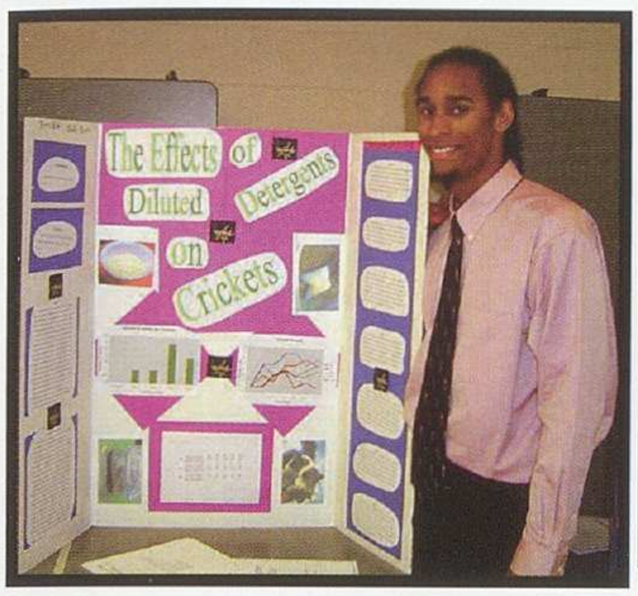
Science Fair

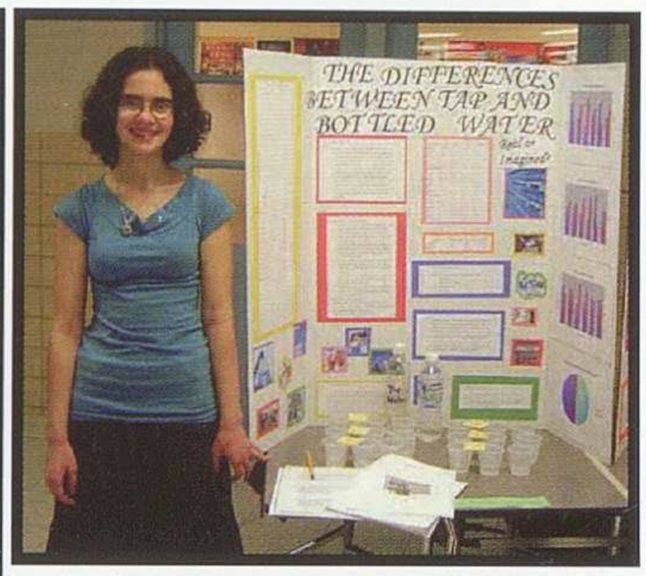


Molly Bachmann gets a sweet taste of second place with her Organic vs. Conventional When it Comes to Vitamin C? Project.

At the beginning of every school year, the science department puts together a science fair. This gives students the opportunity to perform experiments and showcase them to judges and their peers. Even though the science fair starts out as a school project, students can advance to states and regional's where they can compete against other students from other schools. Many of the students who participate in the science fair have a love for science. The students put a lot of time and effort on their projects. They are given, roughly, six months to research, design, experiment, and work on their projects. Each student is allowed to pick their topic and choose to work alone or with a group. The science fair is a great way for students to experience a hands on experiment and to learn about the world around them.



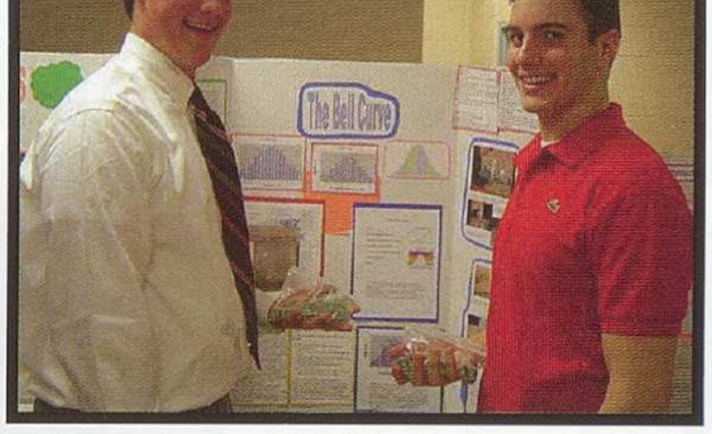
Andre Austin spent a lot of time and effort on his project, and it shows.



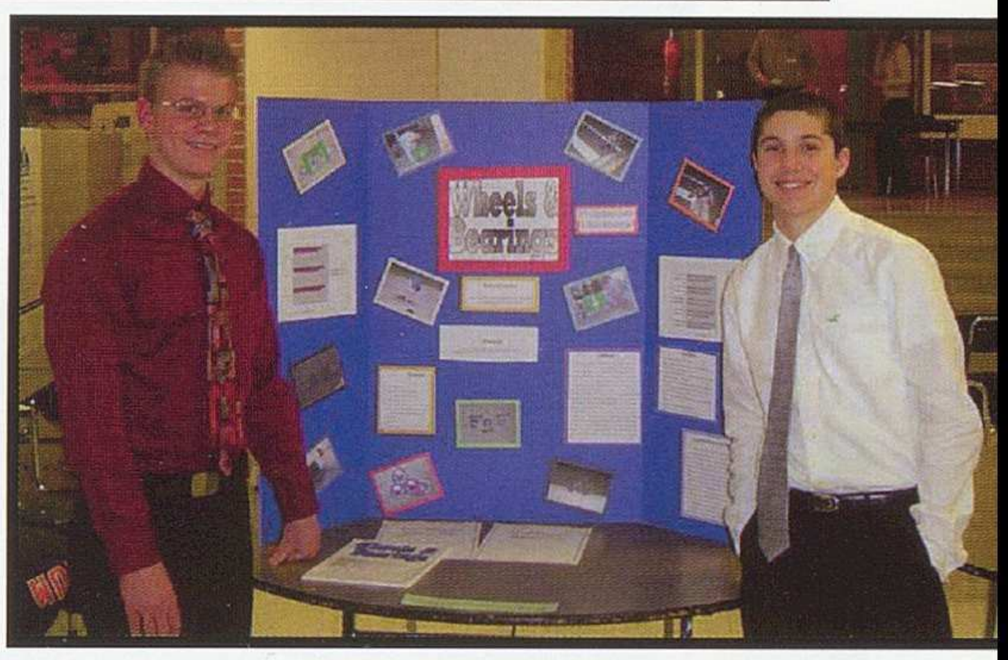
Patiently waiting for the judges to come to her booth is Eleftheria Matsa.

Emily Bacon, Mira Bacon, and Alysha DeWeeds look as pretty as their poster.

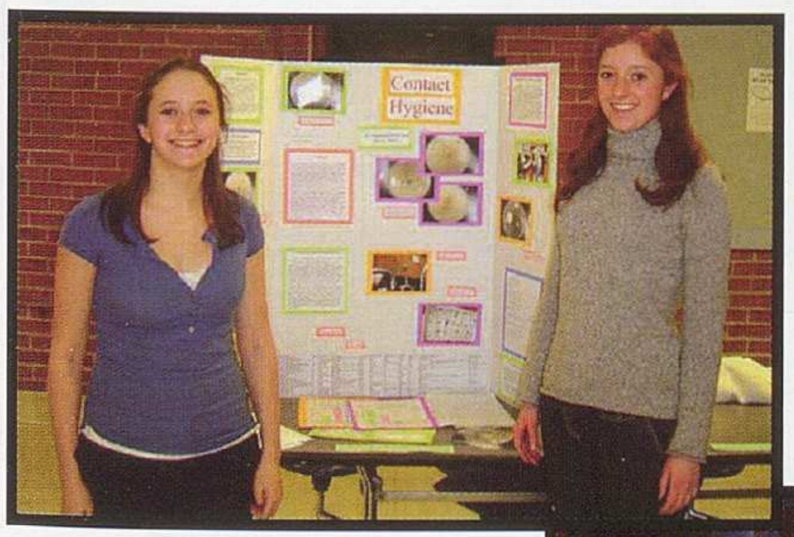
Ready to present their project to the judges are Sarah Worrall and Annie Rings



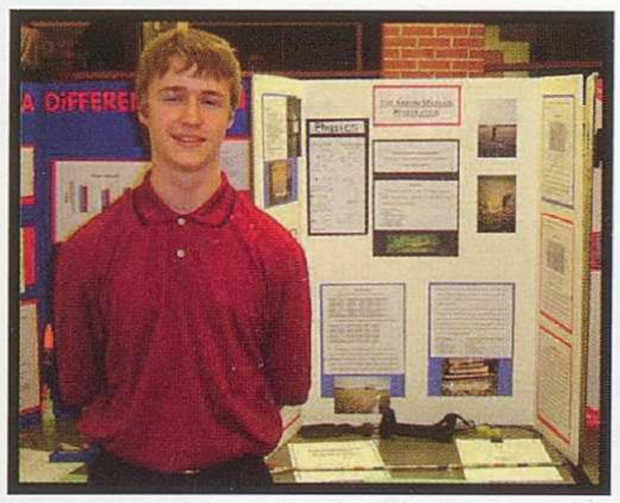
Looks like Zachary Shary and Kyle Carrey had fun making slime for their project.



Harrison Haley and his partner Nate Marburger worked really hard on their project.



Showing off their prize winning science project is Olivia Noble and Elizabeth Miller.



With a smile like that, Tim O'Brian should definitely win first place.

Kayla Mrannerlin explains in great detail about her project to two of the judges.

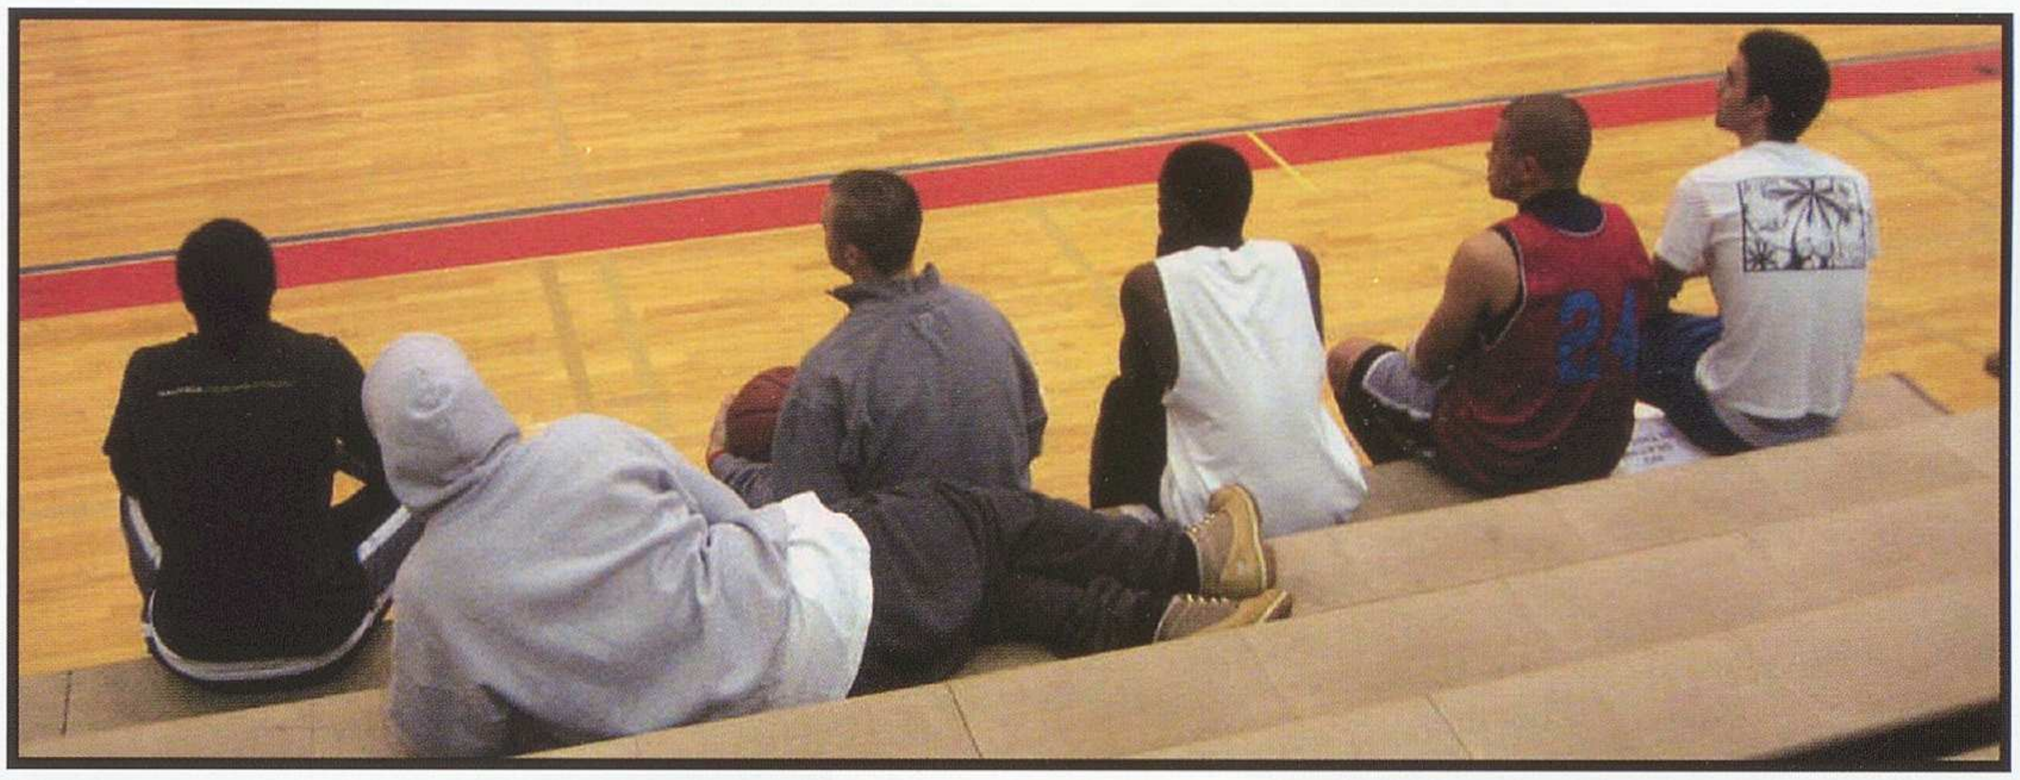
Stephen Bosak calls for a pass from Tony Wright after a stolen pass is converted into a breakaway

During the winter months at Thomas Worthington there is not much to do if you do not participate in a winter sport. One of the options available is Intermural Basketball, which is organized by Mr. Quart. Intermural Basketball is open to everyone as long as they can get together a group of friends to make a team. Usually meeting two nights a week, Intermurals is great fun for all of the teams involved.



Players watch anxiously from the bench as their respective teams battle for control of the game.

Ryan Danley finds himself wide open and surprises the opposing team with his range as he prepares to launch a three-point shot.

Mr. Sparks, the referee for the game, turns the other cheek as Joey Gray lets everyone else know what is going down.

Jameson Parker makes it rain on the Ragin' Cajuns as he drains his fifth three-pointer of the night

CARDINAL DAY

Free pizza, frisbees, cotton candy and ice cream, plus live music and games? What else could it be besides the annual Cardinal Day that occurs every May. This special event is anxiously awaited by many students, Cardinal Day is an extravagent fair-like celebration that is put together by student council to entertain all, and they sure exceeded expectations this year. With all the free food you could eat, exciting but funny bike races, obstacle courses and friends, you had to have fun.

Mr. Geniusz and Mr. Kaczmarck were the cotton candy masters at Cardinal Day, serving several students fresh cotton candy! It was a favorite of Mr. Buckley's son.

These juniors are the model students on how to have fun at Cardinal Day!

It's a bird, it's a plane...it's the blow-up obstacle course that challenges Cards every year!

What could be better than watching a bunch of high schoolers on little bikes race? This is what the best Cardinal Days are made of.

Splat! Who is that behind those goggles and all that pie?

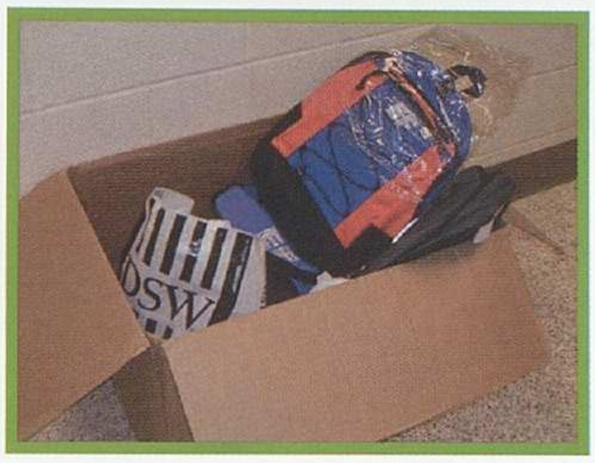
Community Service Club

The Helping Hands project was a successful Community Service Club project. Each 3rd period class donated $20, and for each dollar, wrote their name on a paper hand to be put in the hallway.



Backpacks are expensive, so Community Service Club held a backpack drive to get new or gently used backpacks to give to the less fortunate.

Preparing the goodies for the Community Service Club fund raiser is senior, Leah Itagki. The delicious smell of freshly baked cookies wafts through the halls of TWHS attracting many customers and raising quite a profit.

This year Student Advocates for International Peace members focused on the awareness of human trafficking in third world countries and continued with the fight to help stop the genocide taking place in Darfur. They held fundraisers to earn money to sponsor a young girl from Cambodia and participated in the World Tour of Invisible Children. One of the biggest fundraiser held was the Powderpuff football game, in the fall. A total of $902.00 was raised from the game and all the proceeds went to Project International Help.

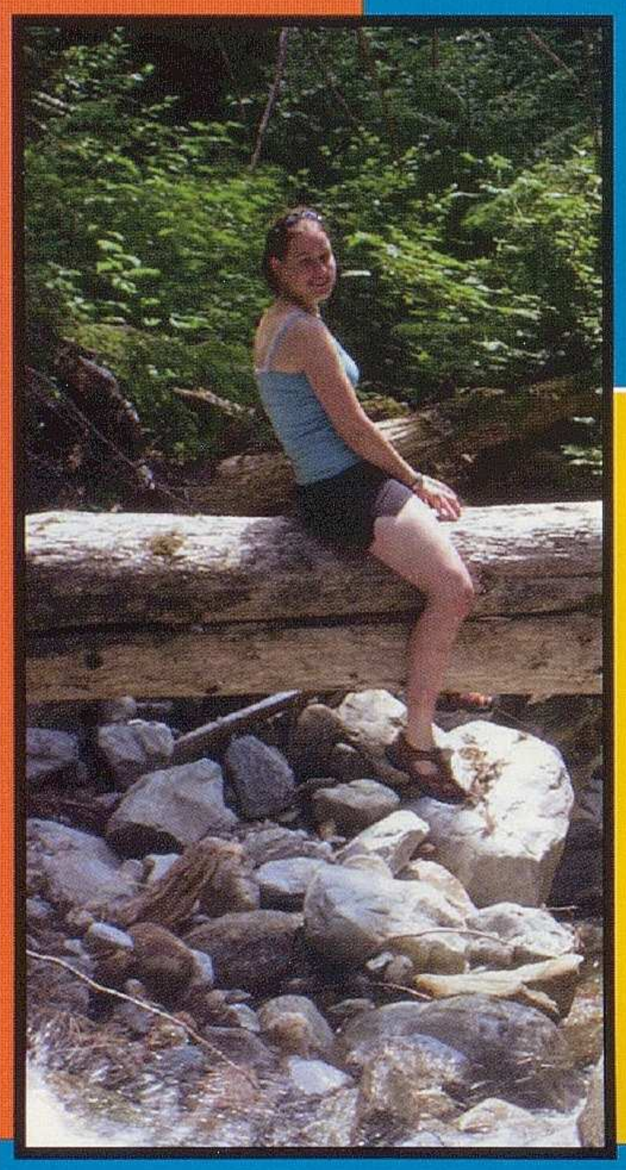
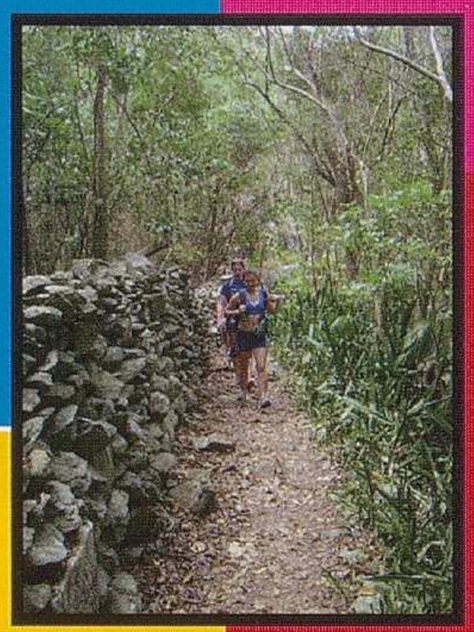
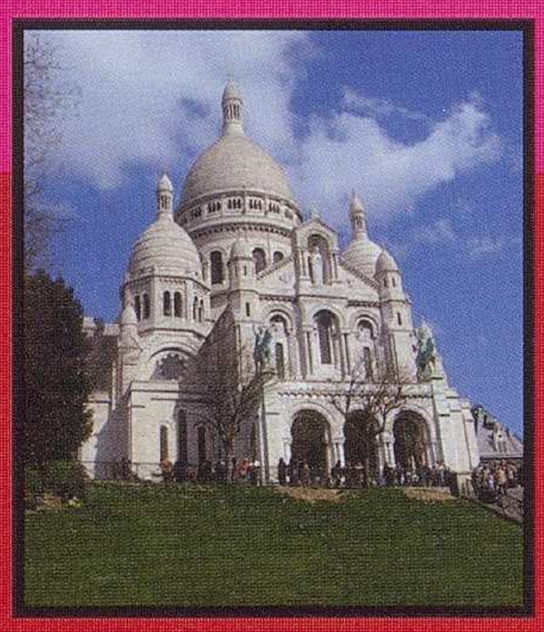
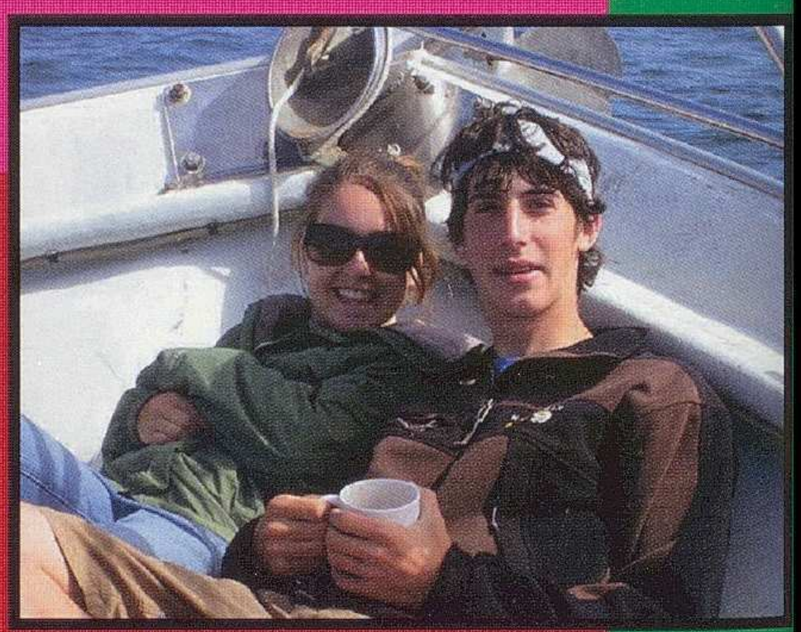
Trips









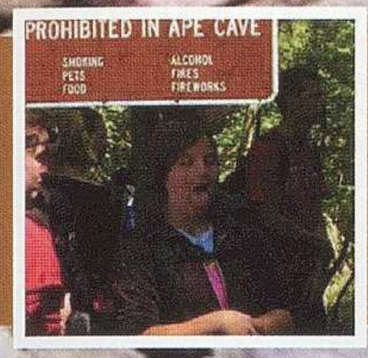
West Trip

Imagine spending 30 days with your fellow classmates in the Western half of the United States. You spend a majority of your time hiking, camping, and seeing the world from the edge of cliffs and mountain sides. Well that's exactly what a group of 36 students and adults did over the summer break before the 2006-2007 school year. The students went to different National Parks, learned about wildlife, and kept journals of what they saw each day. Each of these students earned science credit and did daily projects, but I'm sure none of thes students felt like they were in a classroom. The West trip is a great experience that provides students with many life lessons and new friendships.

Some good finger licking chicken refuels John Sharvin.

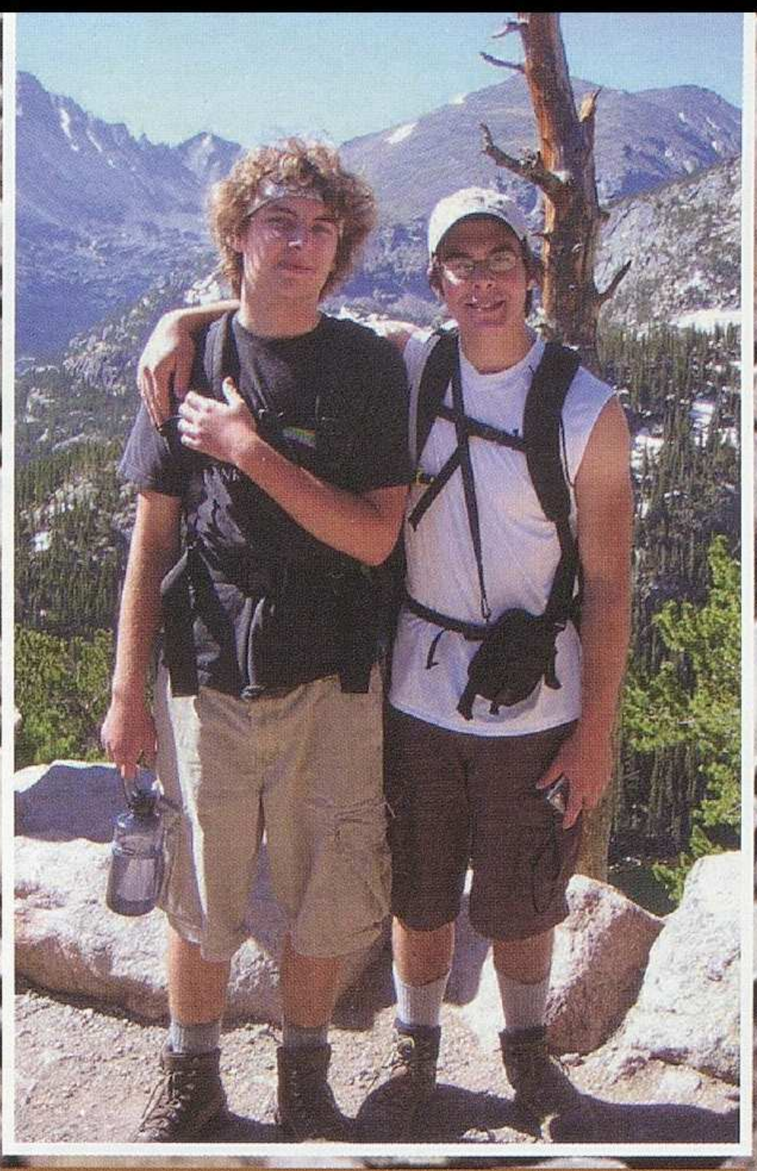
You better watch out or else Blake Geissbuhler will get you wet.

Now this is a Kodak moment. Mr. Quart and Ms. White hiking up in the mountains.



That list of prohibited items has really gotten Jevonna Morris upset.

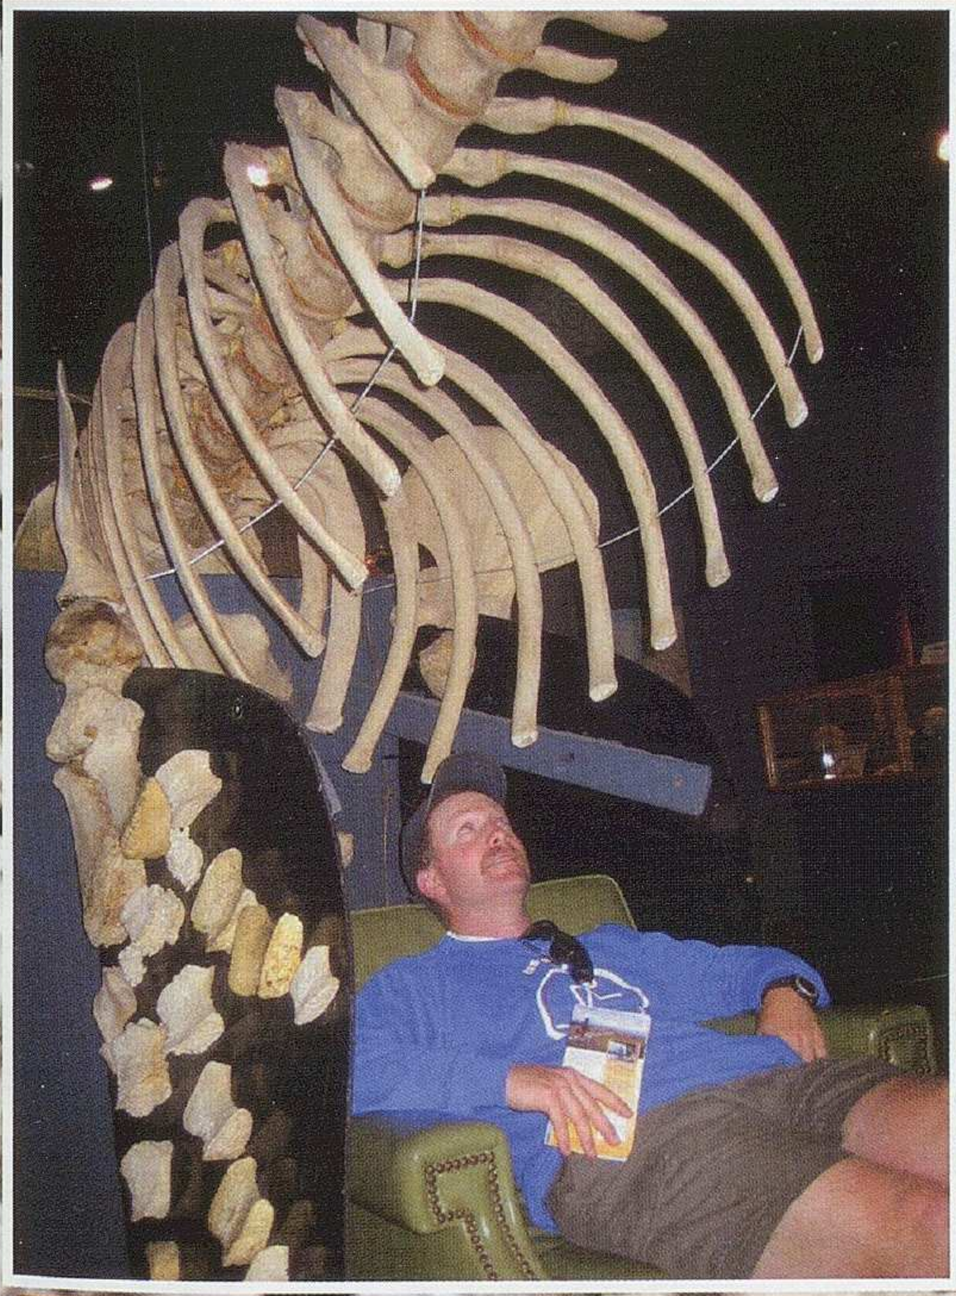
Even through the miles and miles of hiking, there was no lack of fun out west.



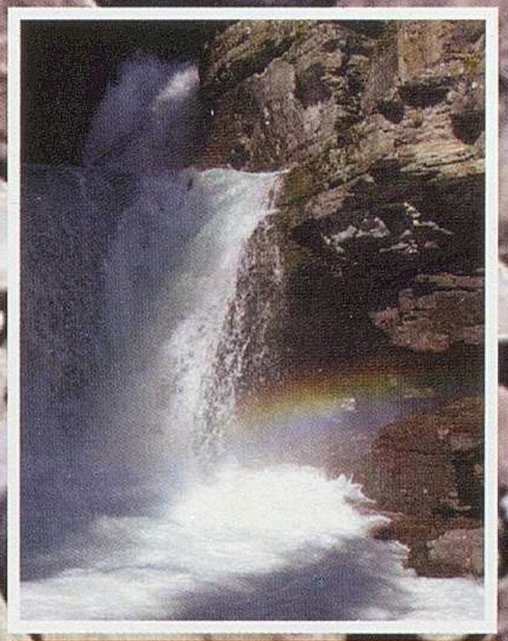
Best friends, Jake Beever and Alex Mellon, will remember this trip for years to come.

Hopefullly these boys don't fall because it's a long way down.

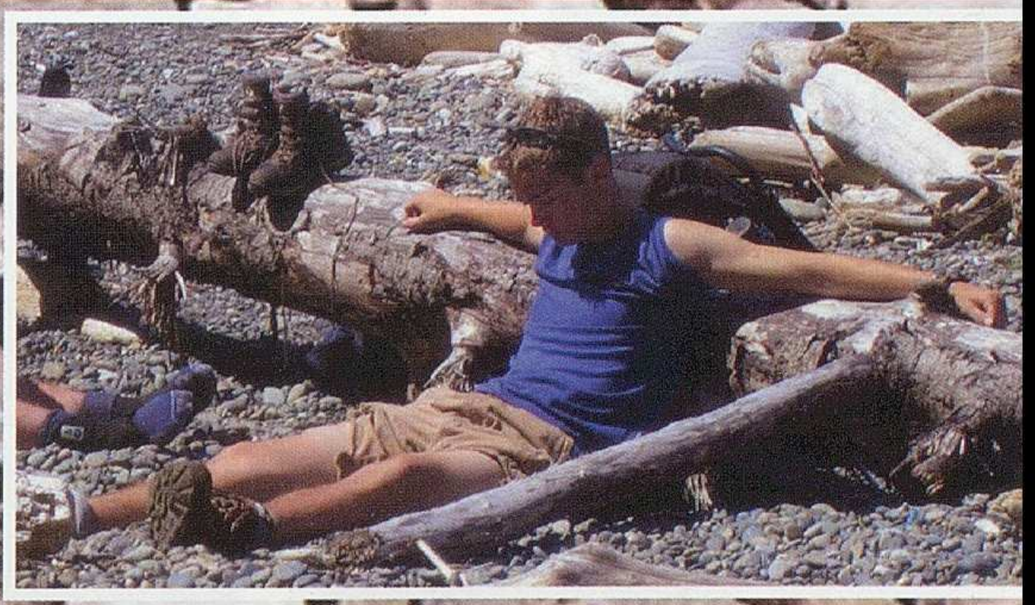
All bundled up and ready to begin their long adventure.



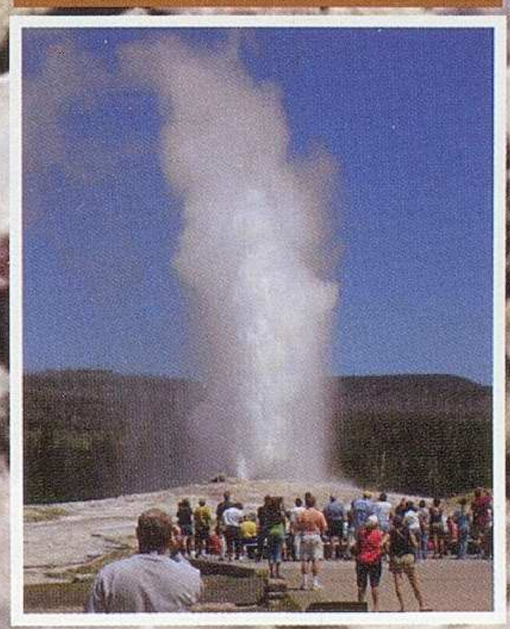
That chair must be very comfortable, considering Mr. Luthy is sitting underneath the ribcage of a dinosaur.



There was no lack of scenery during this trip.

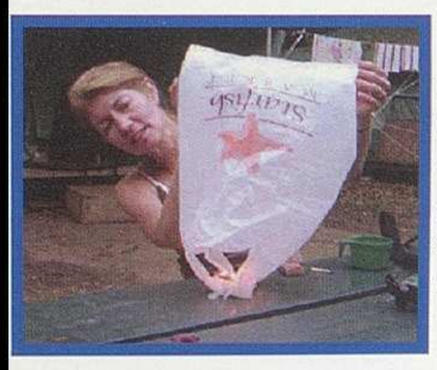


Either Brett miller is trying to get a tan, or he is just dead tired from a long hike.



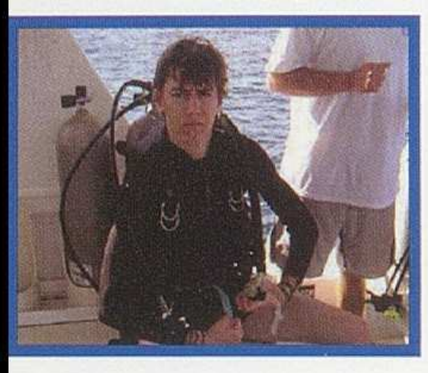
Welcome to a Peter Pan flashback. Remember the mermaids on the rocks?

Virgin Islands



I hope Mrs. Hummel knows what she's doing! Fire and plastic bags don't seem like a good combination.

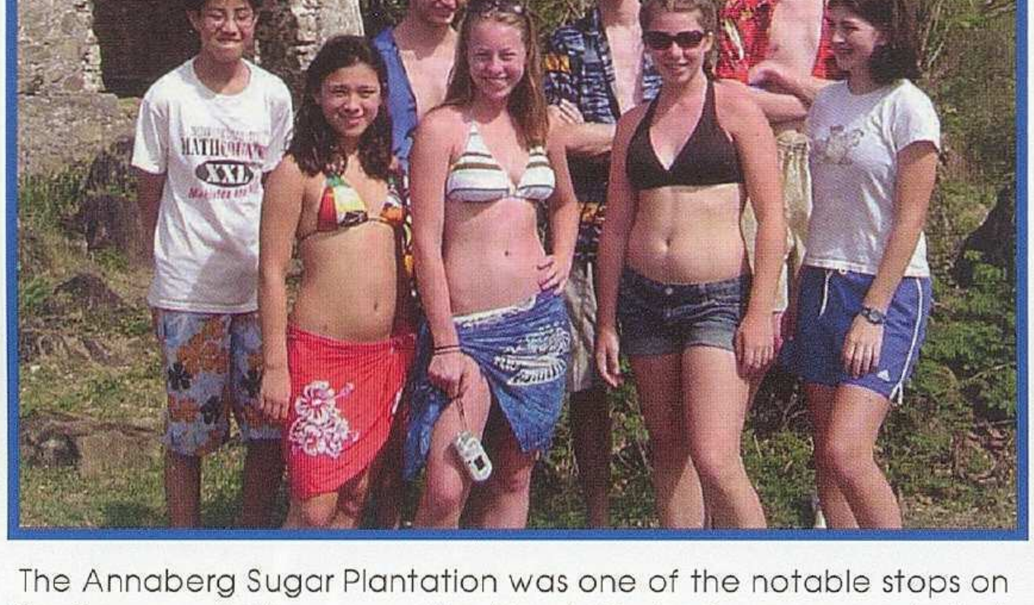
Mr. Mackin got to know the traditional artwork of the Virgin Islands, maybe a little too well.



Completing the final check of all of his gear, Tyler Eaton shows his confidence before scuba diving in the Pacific Ocean.

Mr. Mackin and Mrs. Hummel find it hard to escape from the teaching profession while relaxing on the beach and grading papers.

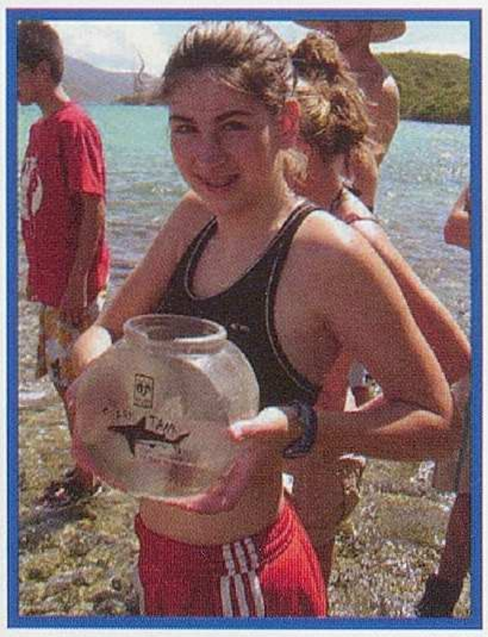
Cooking out at the campsite is a common site during the Virgin Islands trip and resulted in many delicious meals for the campers.



The Annaberg Sugar Plantation was one of the notable stops on the the group's hike across the island. Posing for a group photo in front of the historical site are (from left to right) First Row: Satchi Otchi, Kate Furbic, Lizzie Foster, Jennifer Wallace Second Row: Dorian Xia, Matt Kessler, Tyler Eaton, Matt Jasiewicz.

Each year during Spring Break, a group of students and teachers from TWHS embark on a journey to the U.S. Virgin Islands. This trip allows the students a chance to earn science credit and to have a great time. The teachers accompanying the students on this year's trip were Mr. Mackin, Mr Genuisz and Mrs. Hummel. The group endured a long flight to the island and upon arrival the camper's spent the day completing investigative assignments and swimming in the ocean. The second day of the trip was a grueling hike from one side of the island to the other. The hike lasted the entire day and concluded with relaxing evening at camp. The campers also had the opportunity to participate in scuba diving as well as snorkeling. Every one of the camper's immensely enjoyed the trip and would do it again in an instant.

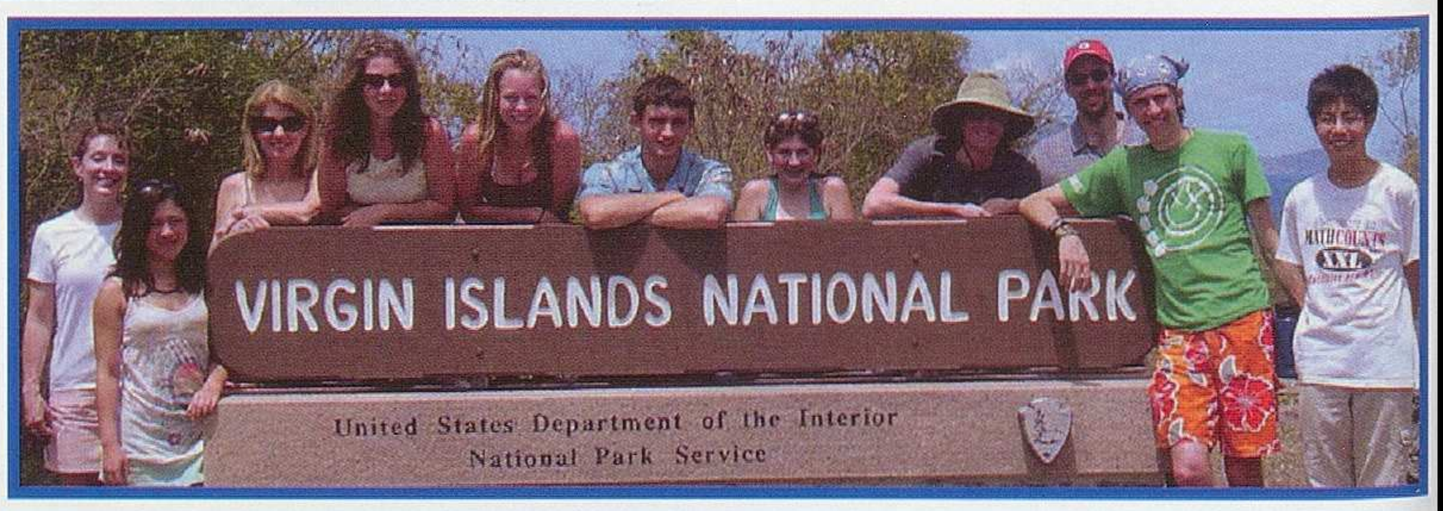
Scuba diving took place on day 3 of the trip. The campers completed two 40-minute dives to depths of 40 feet. During their first dive, the campers were even lucky enough to swim with a wild sea turtle.



Jennifer Wallace is very brave, considering there is a shark in that tank.

The campers greatly enjoyed the all day 10 mile hike across St. John's Island. On this day, the average camper consumed 5 liters of water.

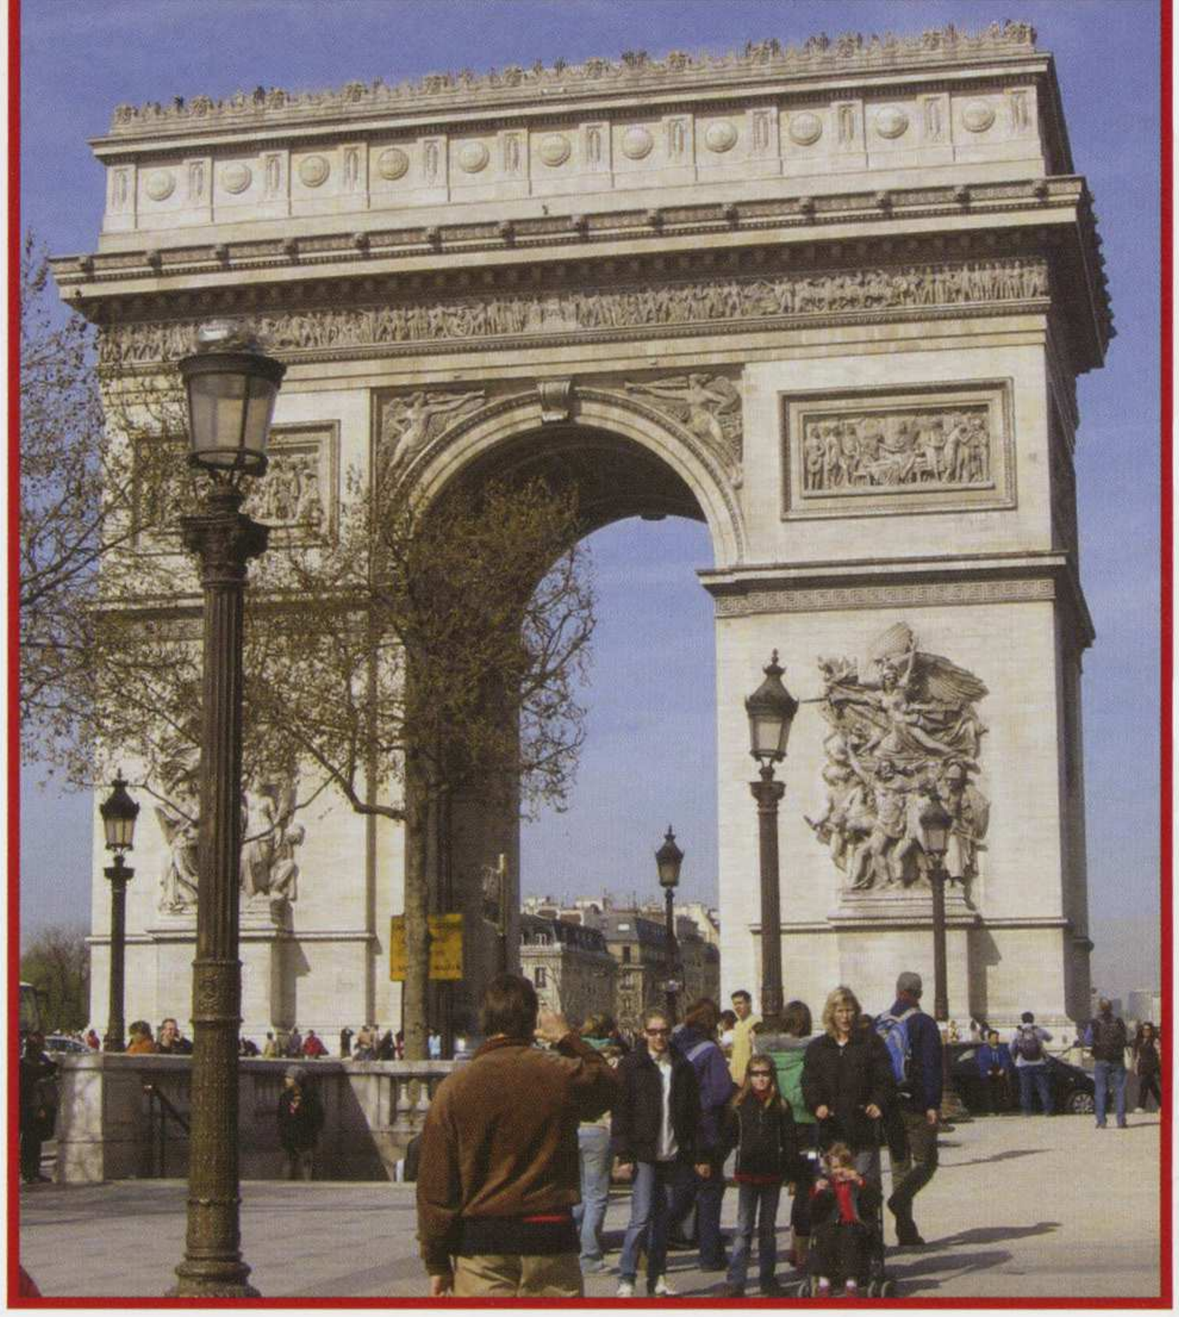
It can't get any prettier than that!



The Virgin Islands are a National Park and protected by the United States Department of the Interior. The only thing that the campers took away from this sign was the opportunity for a quick group snapshot.

France

Spring Break is an exciting time for the TWHS French students who elected to travel to France with the French Exchange Program. Students from TWHS, as well as students from other high schools travel to France with their teachers in order to immerse themselves in the culture that they have been studying throughout the year. The French trip provides the chance for students to strengthen their French linguistic skills by speaking nothing but French for two weeks. During the trip, the students live with a family and learn how French life is similar and different from American life. The students even have the chance to attend a French school and also to go sight-seeing with their host families. The students develop deep, long-lasting friendships with their host families and usually remain in touch. After the first week of the trip, the students board a tour bus and travel around France, viewing major French landmarks and learning about French history. French student's return from this trip with new experiences and a better feel for French culture and the language.



You cannot go to France and not stop to admire the L'Arc de Triomphe.

The Louvre is known for the Mona Lisa it displays inside and for its unique architectural design.

The Sacre Couer Cathedral in Paris is one of the many cathedrals dotting the Parisian skyline.

These lovely ladies dress for the occasion as they experience fine dining in France.

The French students never hesitated when the opportunity for a group photo arose.

Sam Collier, Ashley Wilson, and Deirdre Huang seem to be pretty satisfied with their gelato. Who wants seconds?

It was a beautiful day to go out and about visiting the Chateau de Nitray.

Looks like the group found the kitchen in the Chenonceaux Chateau.

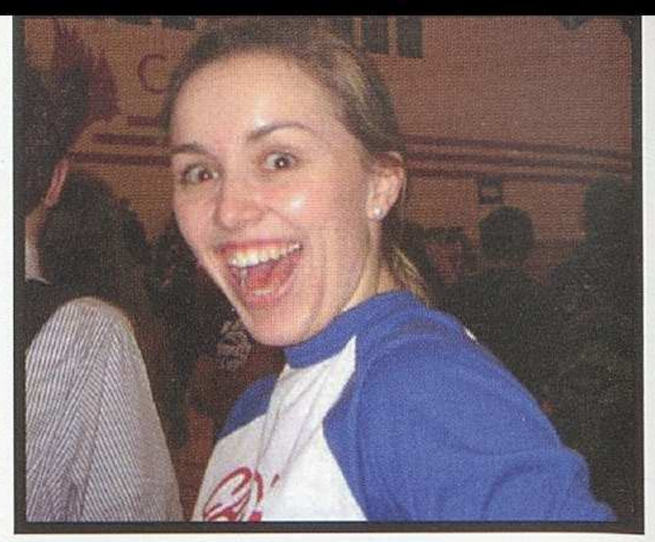
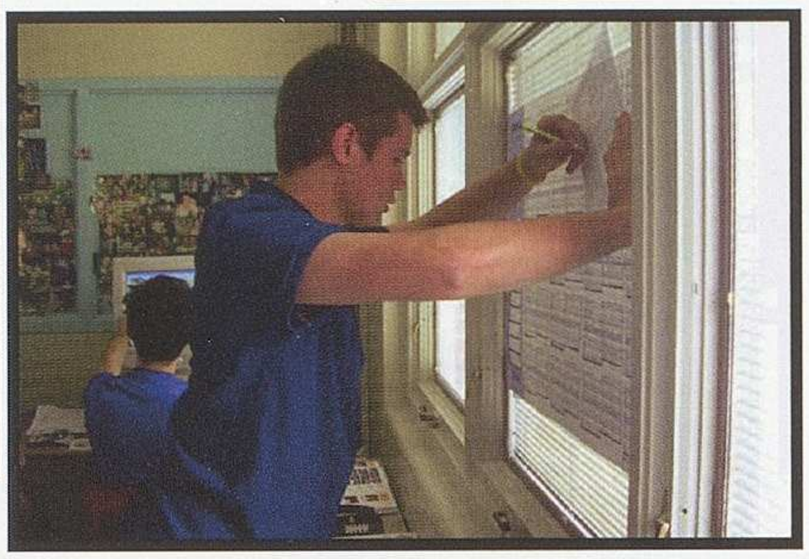
Yearbook

With only 16 people on this year's yearbook staff, it took a lot of hard work and organizing to make sure we finished the yearbook on time. It was our job to put together a yearbook consisting of more than 300 pages and thousands of pictures. Yearbook is only an eighth period class, but numerous hours are spent outside of the classroom. Being on the yearbook staff is more than just taking pictures and designing pages. It's about creating a book filled with memories from some of the best years of the TWHS family.

Starting in the beginning of the year, we picked our theme, Facebook, and assigned sections to each staff member. From there, we each took the responsibility to collect and take pictures, write captions, design pages, and create a book worth looking at for years to come.

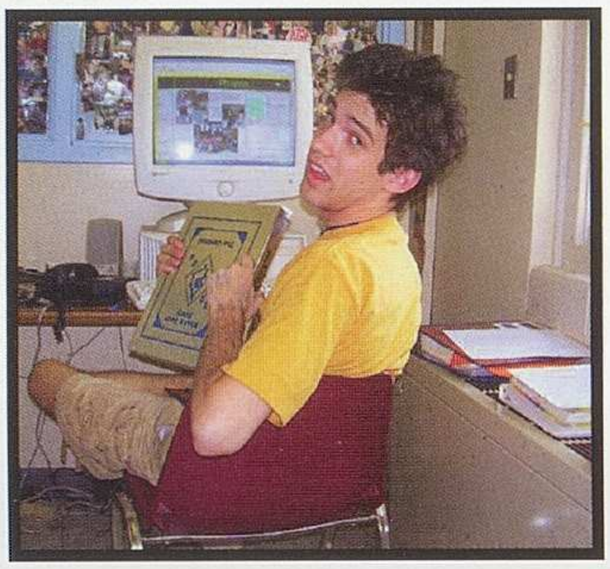


There are no words to describe how excited Claire Edgar is to take her first set of pictures at the fall pep rally.



Double checking to see what pages need to be finished is Scott Taylor.

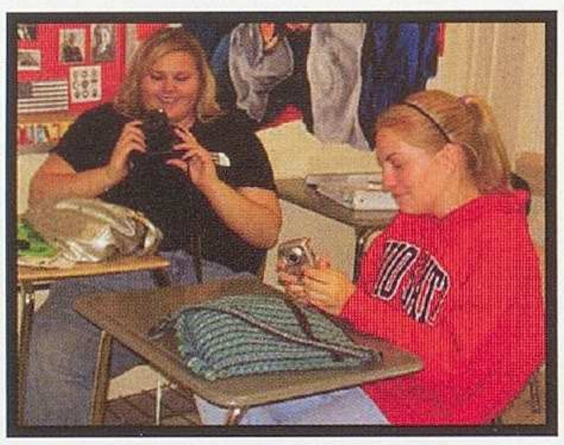
The class gets their first lesson on using the computers by Joel Kuhlman from the Talyor Publishing company.



What, Andrew Heironimus working on his pages? What is this world coming to?!?

Andrew Heironimus, Victoria Bollingor, Bethany Rudibaugh, Brittany Shipman. Sarah Malone, Liz Plamer, Yana Mereminsky, Tonya Sherman, Claire Edgar, and Divya Satyapriya face it together.

Jackie Richards worked hard on the clubs section as well as the theater pages.



Fidgeting with their cameras are Brittany Shipman and Bethany Rudibaugh.

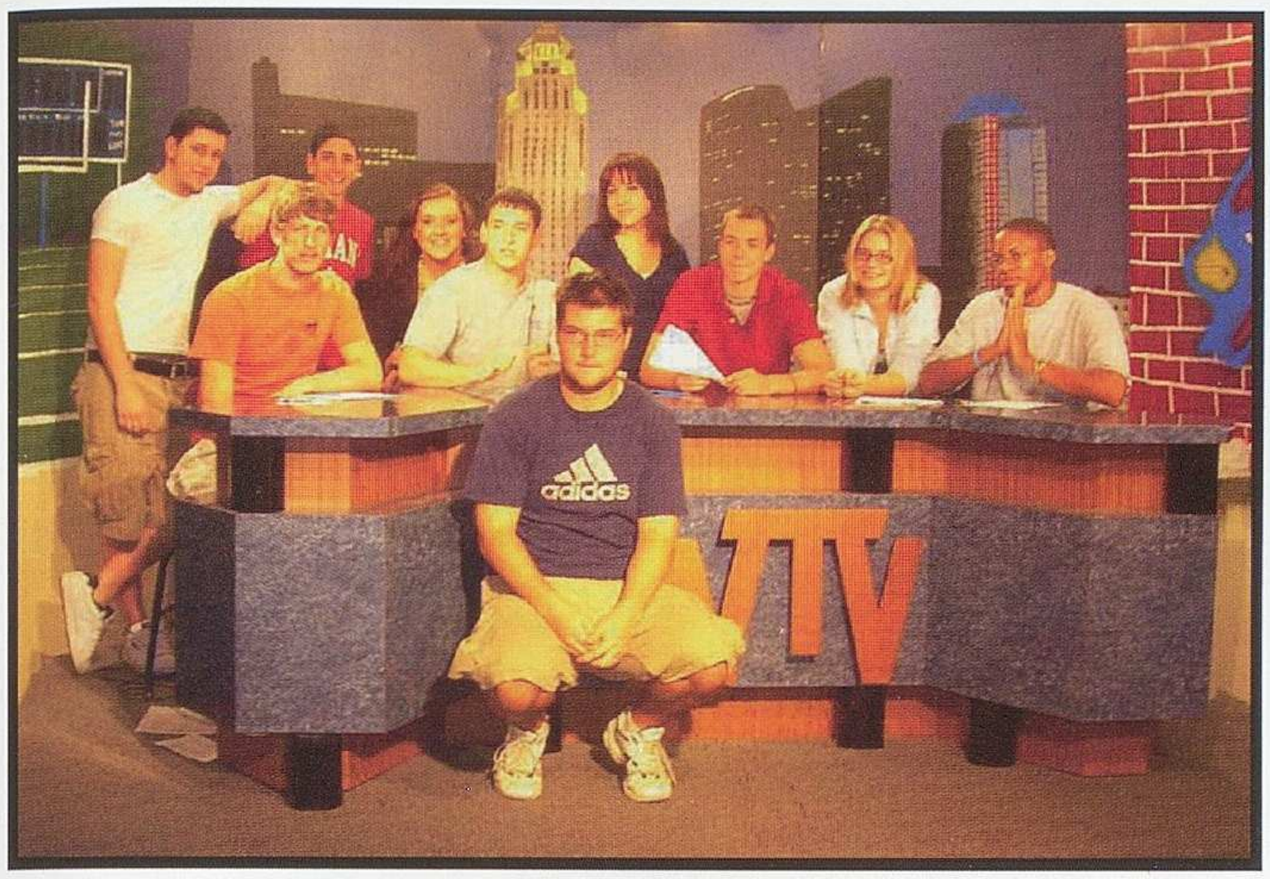
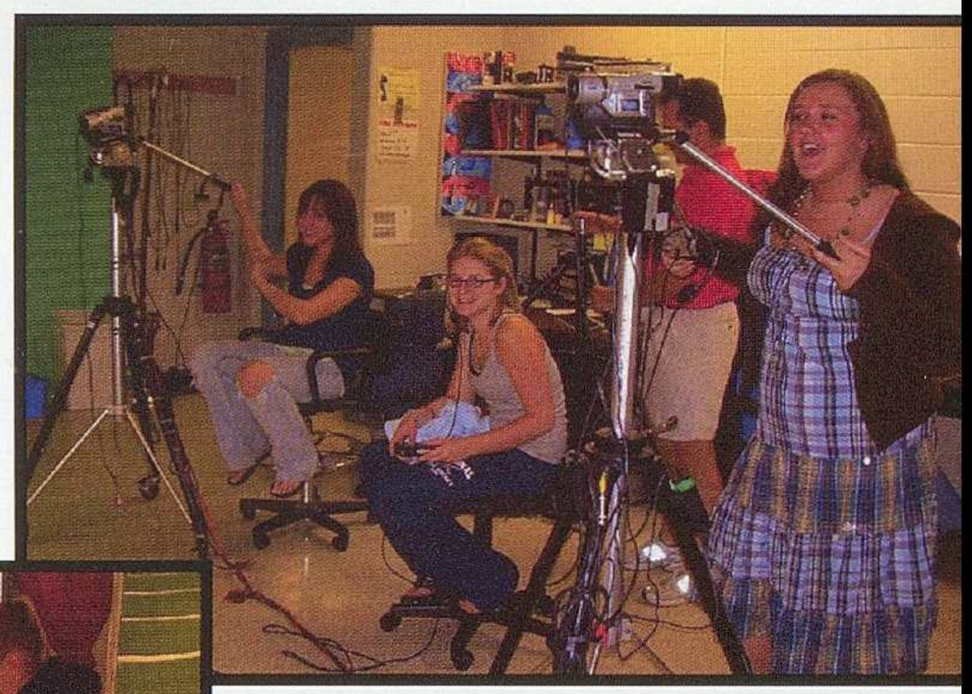
TWTV News: Back to The Desk!

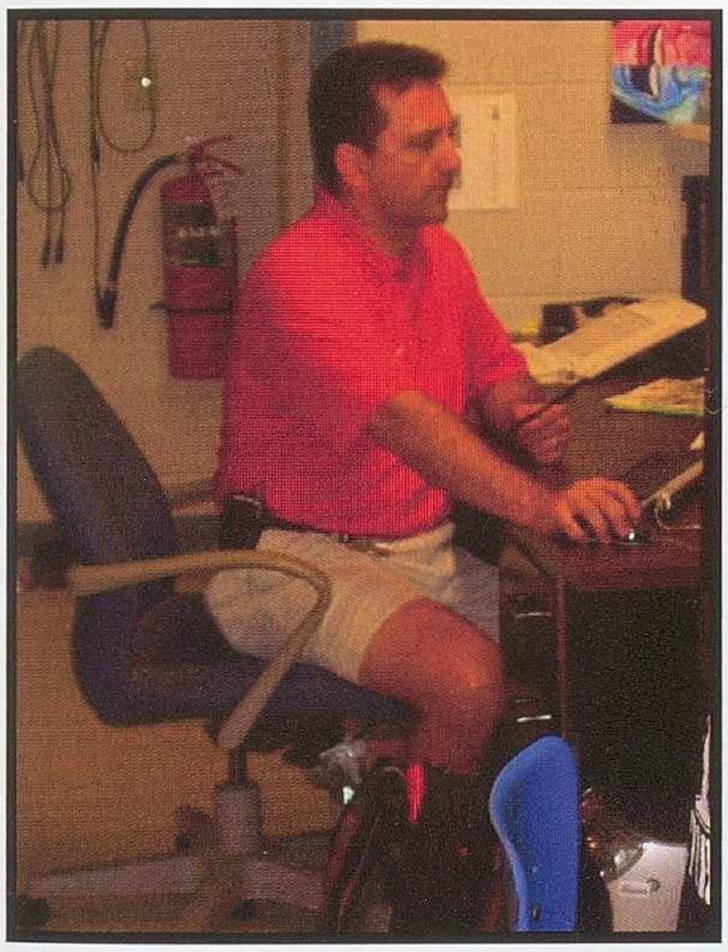


The season finale of TWTV consists of Garett Miller, Dominic Porretta, Kim Kerr, Maralee Bradley, Nate Tarr, Scottie Owens, Byron Hurton, Katie Cahill, Chris Phillips, and Matt Ashworth.

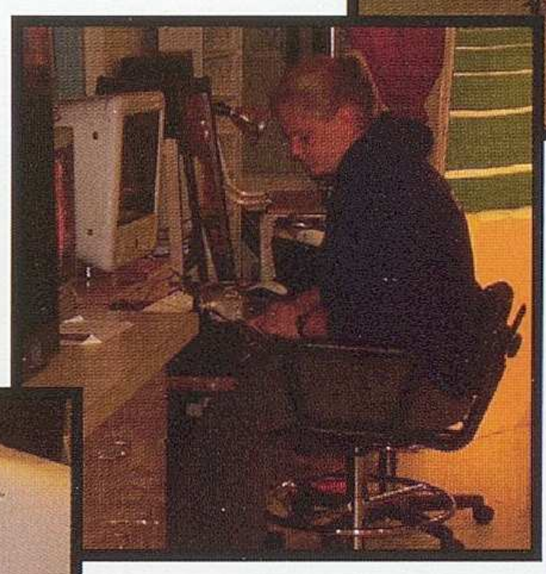
The Thomas Worthington Television News has been a great tradition at TWHS and the students always seems to have fun and learn a lot. The class is taught by Mr. Charlton and Mrs. Beattie, both of whom have many years of experience in this industry. The students run an entire news program all by themselves complete with a director, camera people, anchors, floor director, sound people, editors and more! Kids seem to enjoy it because it really gives them a chance to express themselves and show their creativity through film and television.



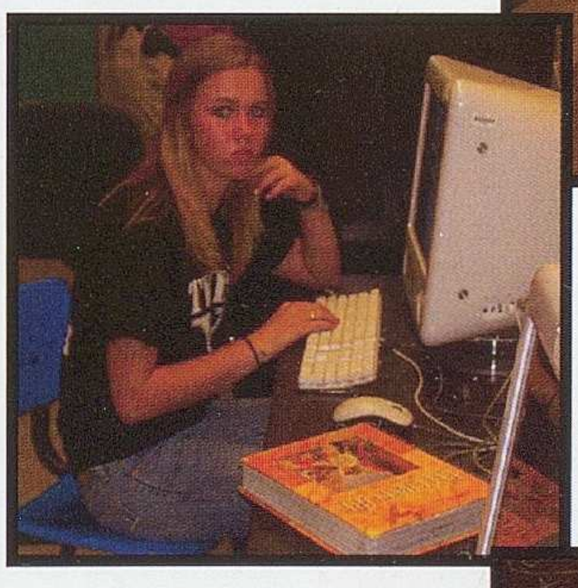
There's no biz, like show biz! Maralee Bradley, Katie Cahill, and Liz Kerr make great camera women.



The leader of the pack, Mr. Charlton, works on the computer.



Focused and ready to go is Misty Gibbs.



Freshman Megan Shillington thinks about what she should do with her video clip.

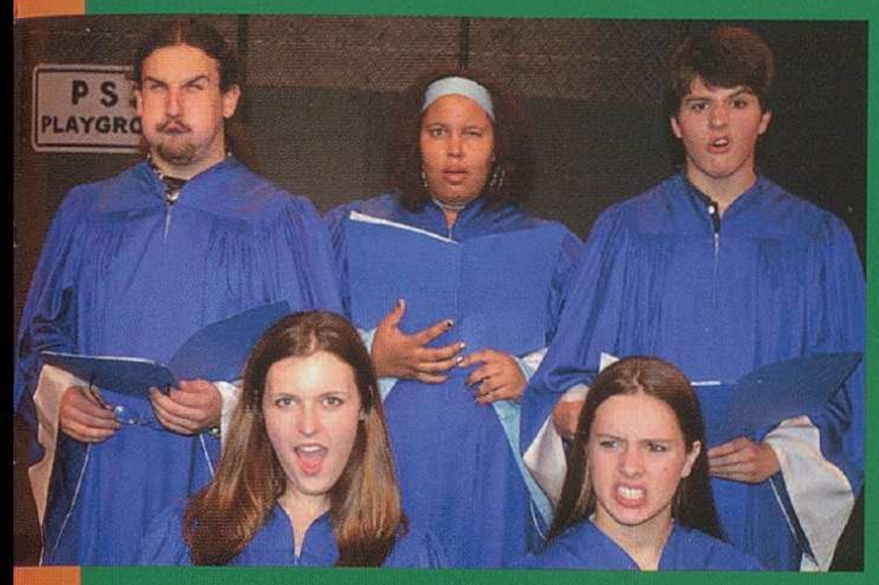
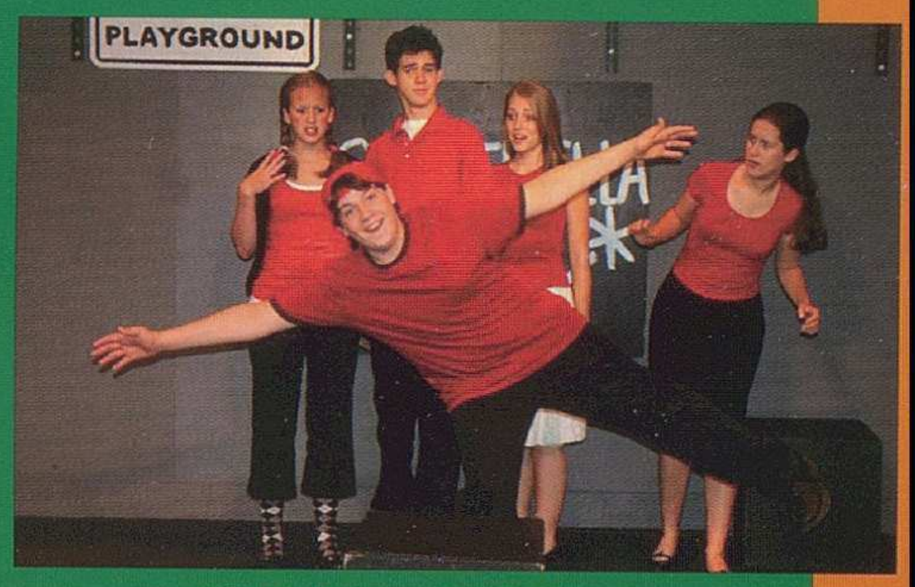
All I Really Need To Know I Learned In Kindergarten
By: Robert Fulghum

The cast gathers on the playground for fun and games.



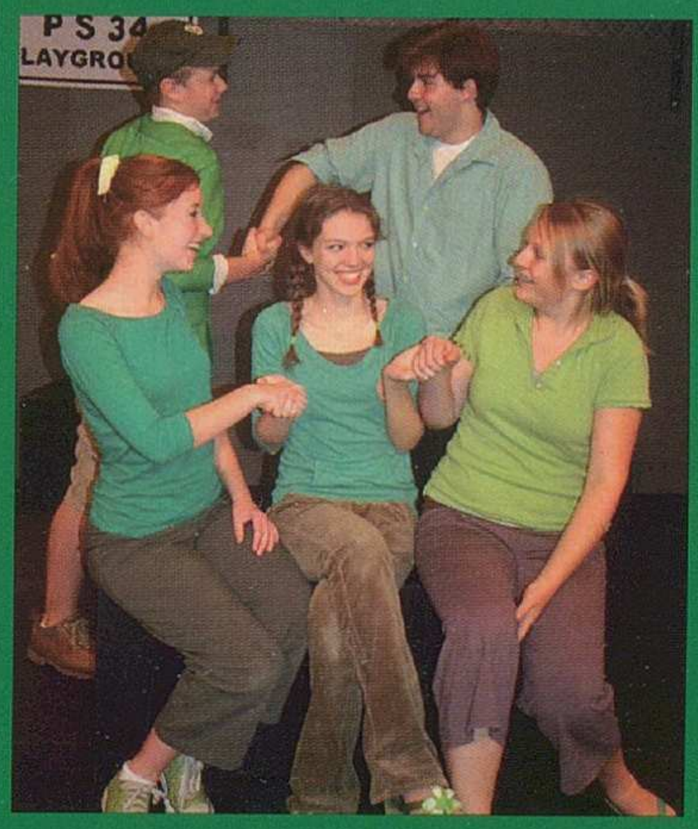
"Uh-Oh isn't in the dictionary," sings the Blue Group (Josh House, Julissa Faw, Chad Putka, Ali Hadley and Bryn Sowash), while making faces that express nonsense words like it.

Fraser Reach contemplates the meaning of life.

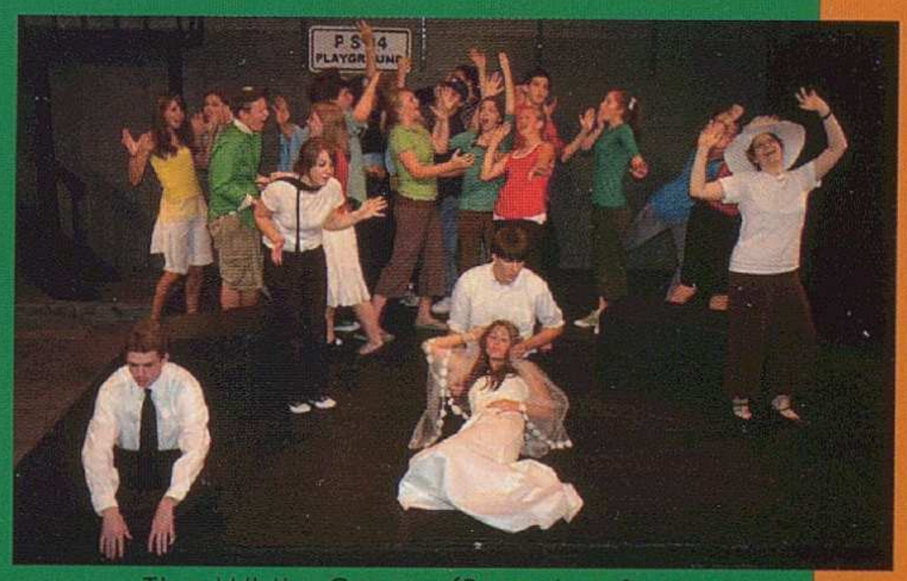


The Red Group (Sarah Chadwell, Andrew Heironimus, Jenna Kutney, Arielle Juberg, and Brad Grunwell) tells a special version of Cinderella.

The Yellow Group explains the Larry Walter files (Daniel Shell, Margo Conner, Katie Doyle, Ashley Fournier, and Jimmy Sullivan).



The Green Group (Lizzy Miller, Jackie Richards, Emily Syring, Matt Hemmelgarn, and James Rankin) gladly introduce themselves to each other after singing about what they like to do.



The White Group (Brendan Serpa, Kim Palmisano, Fraser Reach, Molly Baird, and Ani Cohen) reenacts a wedding that didn't exactly go according to plan.

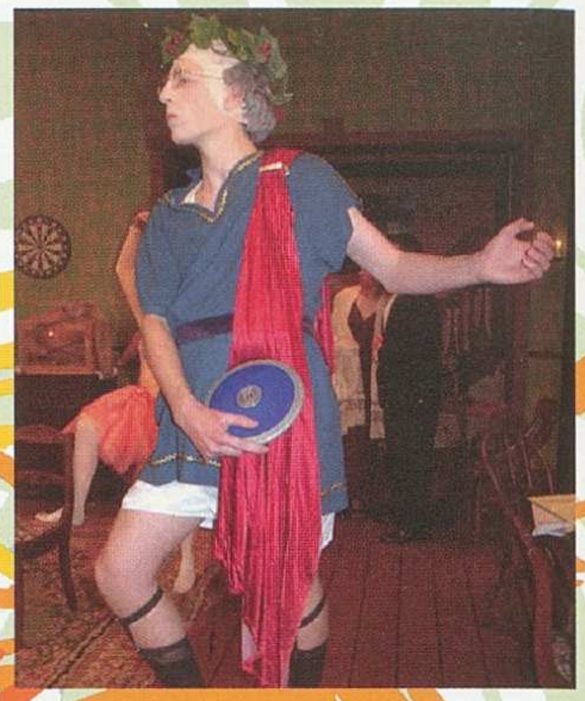
You Can't Take it With You

By Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman

Essie (Stefanie Clark) shows off her ballet skills after eight years of lessons.

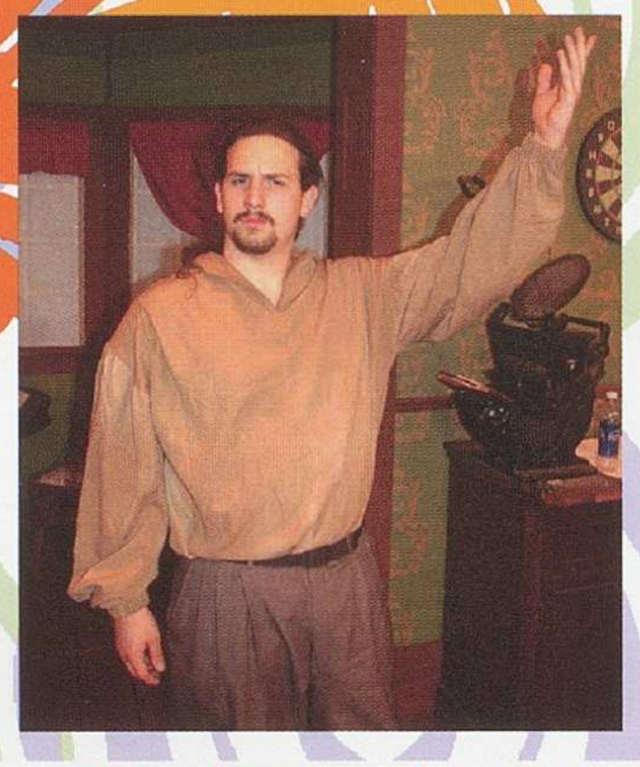
Penny (Annie Wiechel) recalls a brilliant idea to add to her thrilling play.

Mr. DePinna (Scott Forman) solemnly poses as a Greek statue for Penny to paint.



Mr. and Mrs. Kirby, Tony's parents (James Rankin and Arielle Juberg) are very stiff compared to the Sycamore family.

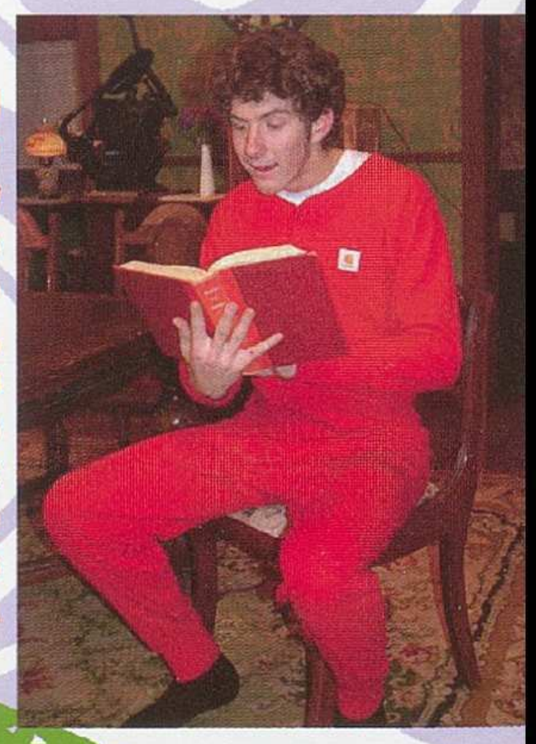
Grandpa Wilbur (Andrew Heironimus) and Wilbur C. Henderson, IRS Agent (Jordan Sommerlad) discuss Grandpa's refusal to pay his taxes.



Essie's ballet teacher, Boris Kolenkhov (Josh House) loves his beastly Russian presence.

Reba (Nicci Faw), who is the Sycamore's maid, tries to discretely leave the house to buy food for a dinner engagement that takes place one night earlier than expected.

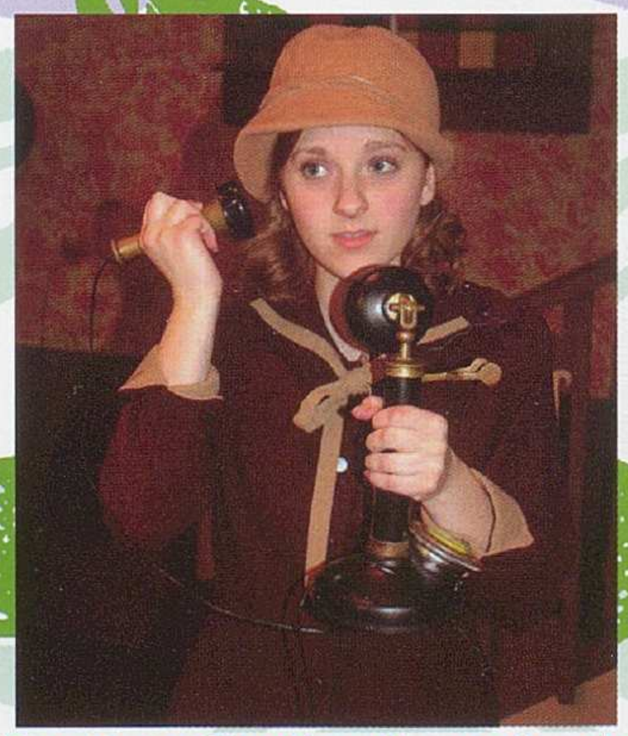
Tony (Mark Allenby) tries to comfort Alice (Stephanie Gluck) who is nervous about the complete and total difference between her family and his.



Paul Sycamore (Andrew Norris) loves to make fireworks, play with tinker-toys and walk around the house in his long johns.

The ex-Grand Duchess (Ani Cohen) Olga Katrina looks very proper.

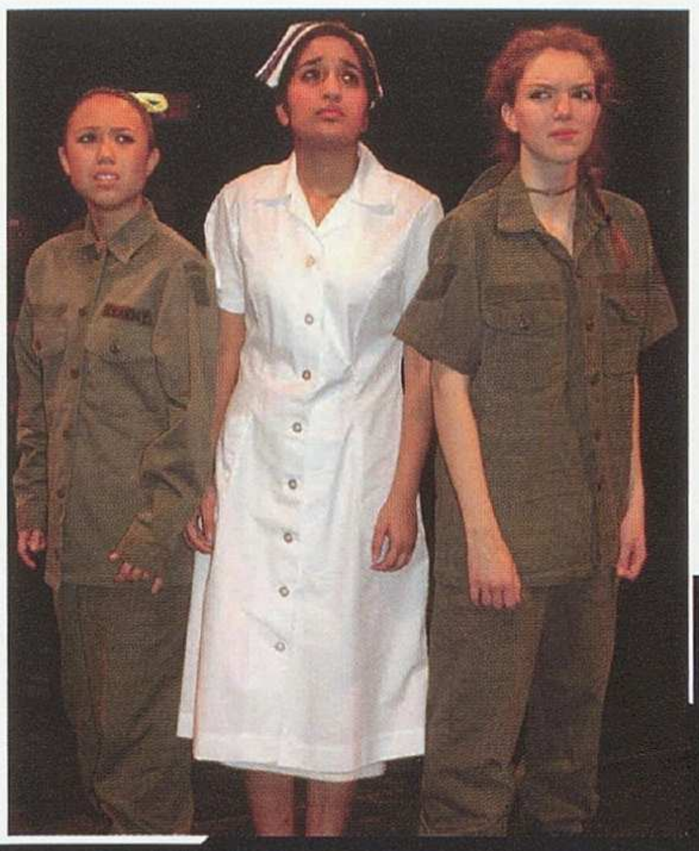
Ed (Matt Hemmelgarn) plays the xylophone with great joy.



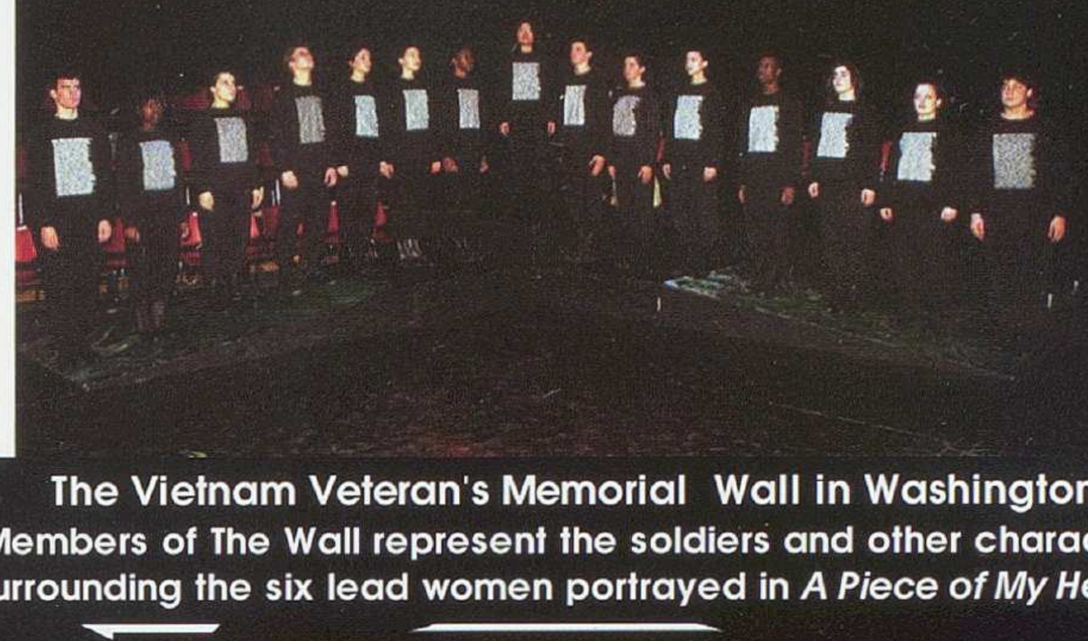
Alice (Stephanie Gluck) calls a cab - she can't stand her crazy family any longer.

A Piece Of My Heart

By Shirley Lauro



The three nurses (Emmie Shiotani, Sabah Siddiqui, and Jackie Richards) stand before the terrifying horrors of a hospital ward in Vietnam.

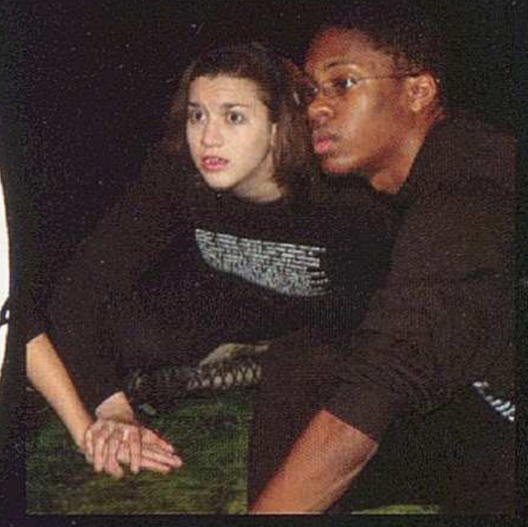


The Vietnam Veteran's Memorial Wall in Washington
Members of The Wall represent the soldiers and other characters surrounding the six lead women portrayed in A Piece of My Heart.

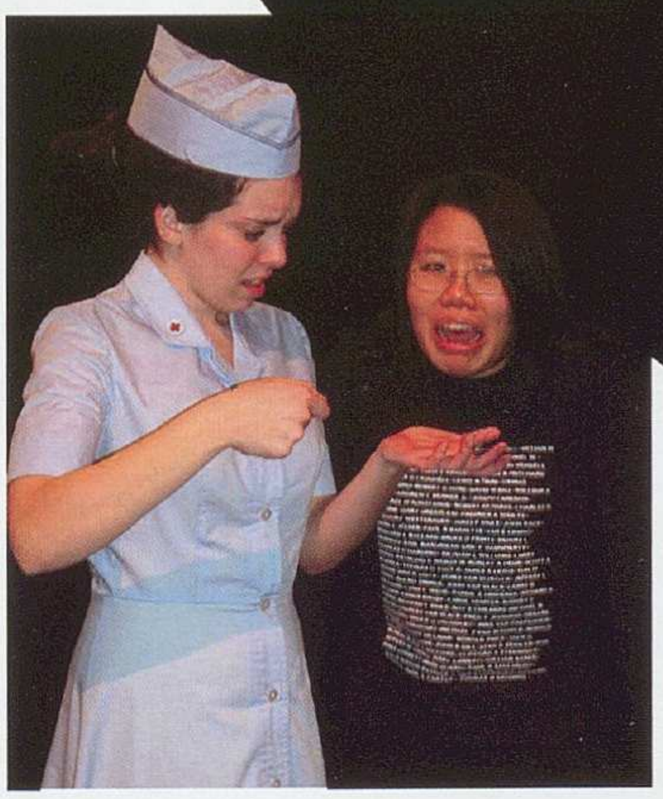
Steele (Brittney Haywood) retired CW3 after thirty years.

Mary Jo (Devin Chambers) and her two back-up girls (Sarah Carter and Molly Baird) sing A Piece of My Heart to the rowdy troops.

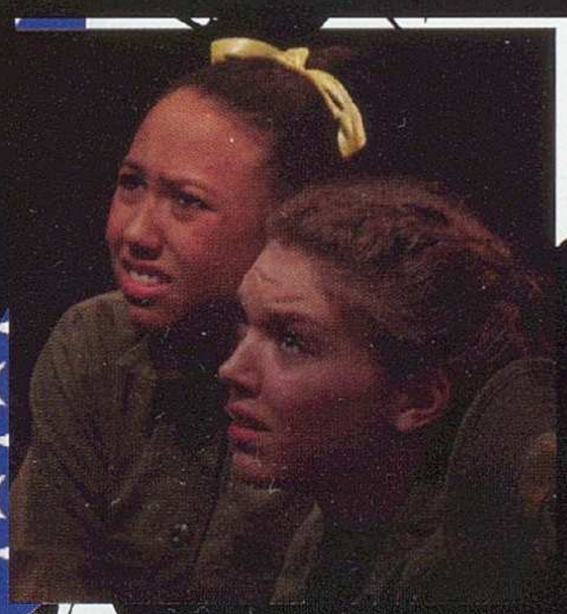
The six women, (Brittney Haywood, Jackie Richards, Emmie Shiotani, Caitlin Mackin, Sabah Siddiqui, and Devin Chambers) admire the memorial created in honor of the men and women who served in Vietnam.



American soldiers (Katie Doyle and Chris Phillips) struggle through the terror of the Tet Offensive.



Whitney (Caitlin Mackin) offers her Vietnamese housekeeper, Bien (Grace Wang) a taste of sauerbraten. Bien responds with disgust, "Oh Miss Whitney- you eat this? Oh no Miss Whitney! Oh no!"



After arriving in Vietnam, LeeAnn and Sissy (Emmie Shiotani and Jackie Richards) approach a Head Nurse. They are very nervous on unfamiliar grounds.

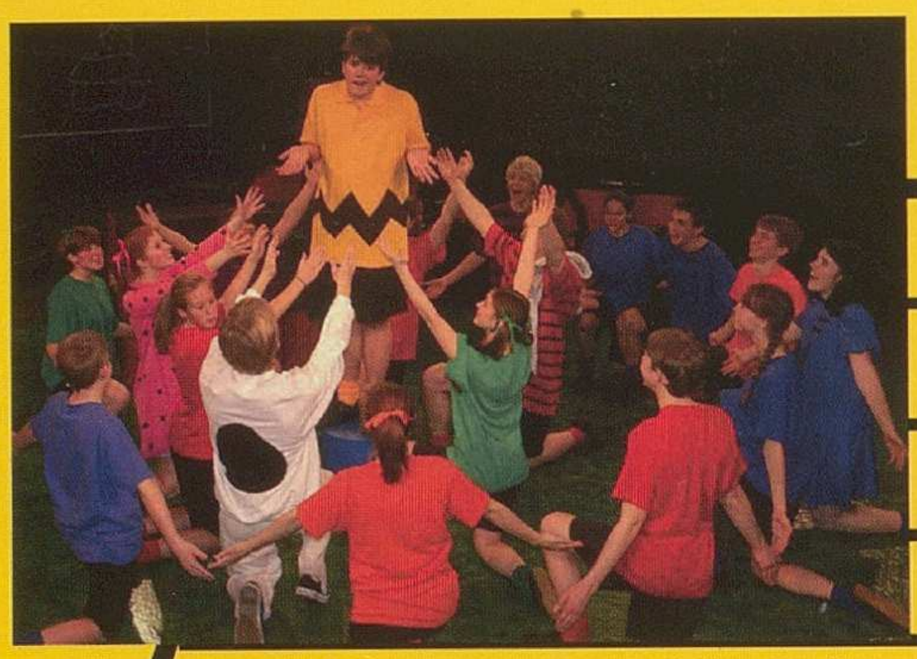
The six seniors could not have been happier to be a part of such an emotional, moving production.

After returning home, the women find themselves having trouble adjusting to everyday life. Flashbacks and nightmares haunt them, and they find comfort in group therapy sessions, a place where they can vent their pent up emotions.

You're a Good Man Charlie Brown

By: Charles M. Schultz

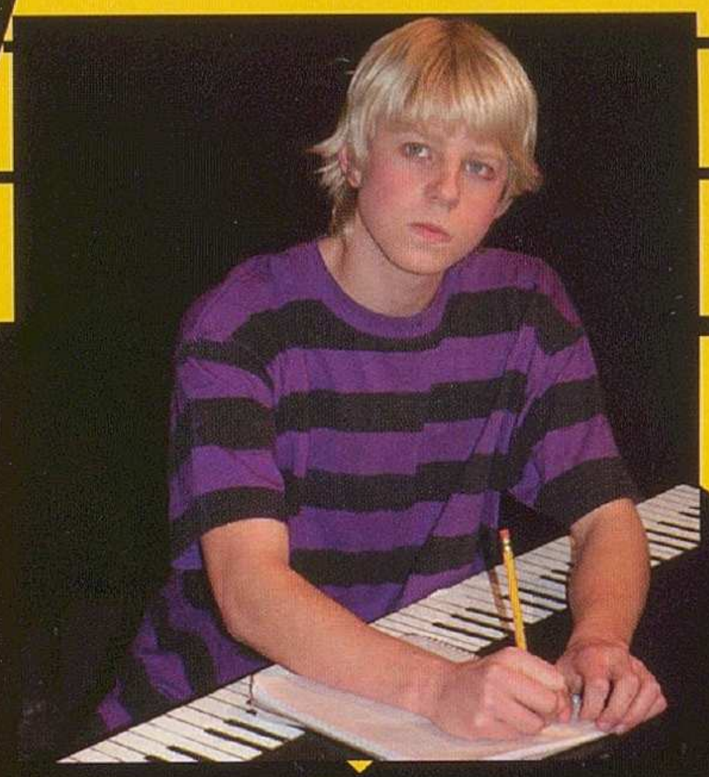
Snoopy (Henry Heisey) play-acts as a WWII flying ace while wildly pursuing The Red Baron atop his dog house.



The cast ultimately concludes that "You're a good man, Charlie Brown!"

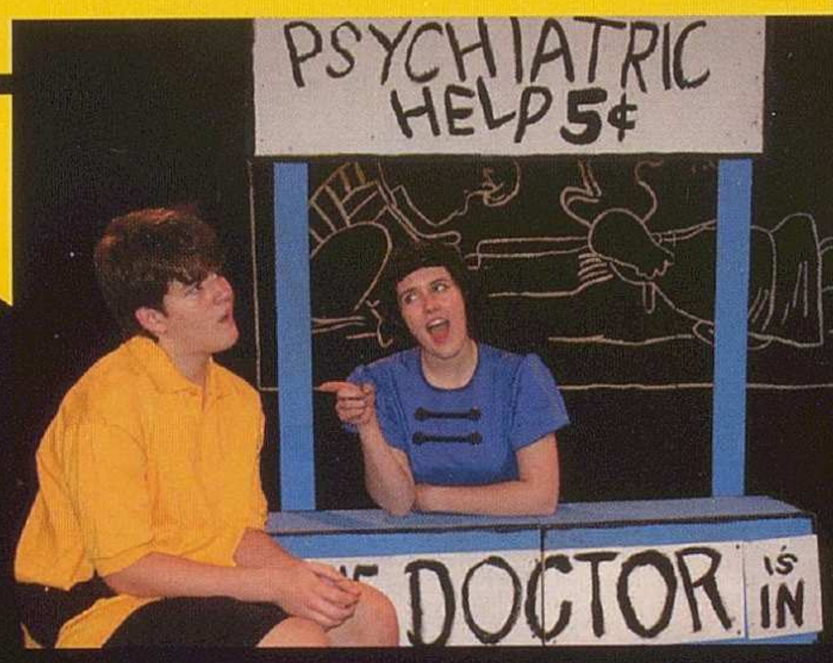
Snoopy and Sally (Henry Heisey and Lizzy Miller) chase rabbits in the backyard.

Charlie Brown (Chad Putka) tries his best to get his treasured kite to fly.



Schroeder (Evin Hoffman) ponders what masterpiece melody he will compose next.

Linus (James Rankin) holds his blanket for comfort.



Lucy (Allison Hadley) offers Charlie Brown (Chad Putka) some advice - for a fee, of course.

The Chorus of Charlie Brown shows a little of their tough side.

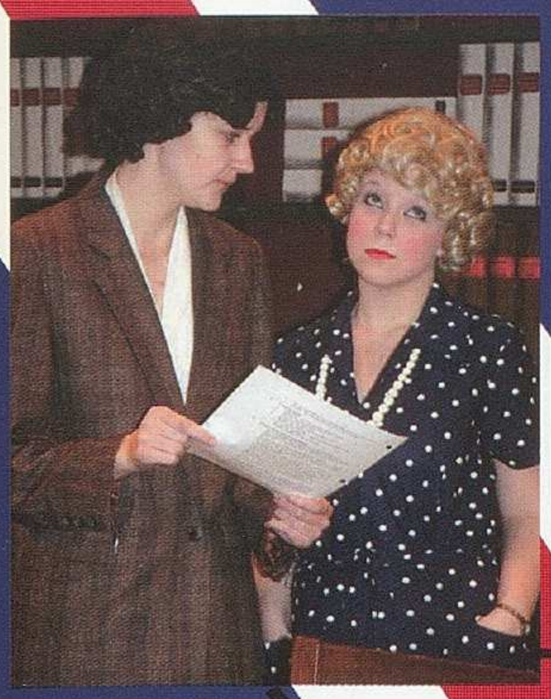
Sally Brown (Lizzy Miller) tends to react dramatically to trivial inconveniences.

The neighborhood sings a tribute to Ludwig van Beethoven on Schroeder's beloved Beethoven Day.

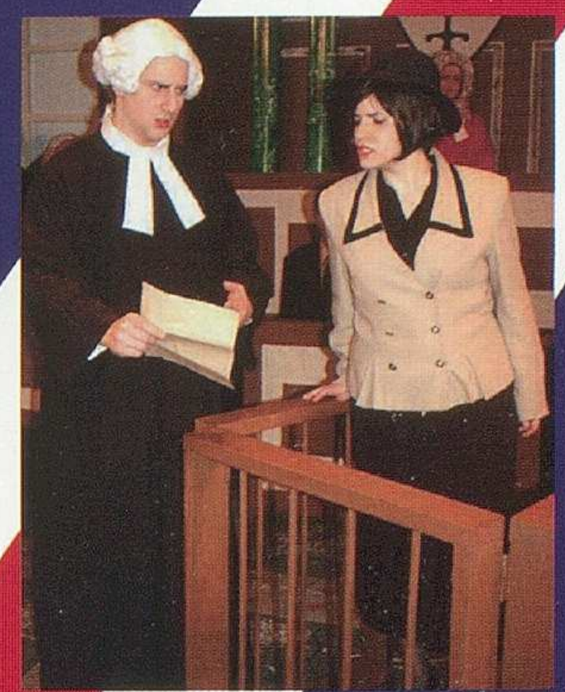
Witness for the Prosecution

By: Agatha Christie



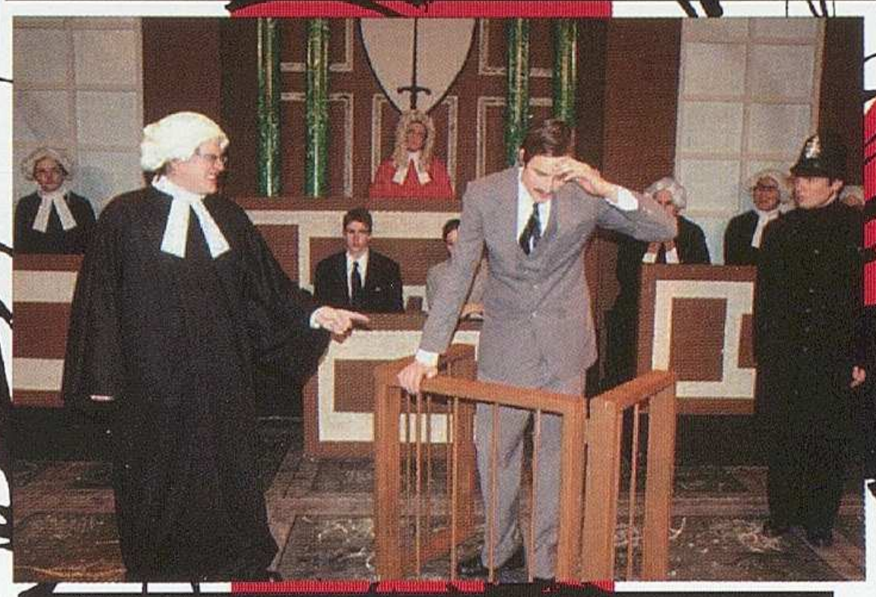
Sir Wilfrid's secretary, Carter (Julie Zorb) scolds Greta (Tiffany Shirk). The young maid would rather be painting her nails than worrying about work ethic.

The English courtroom is crowded with anxious prosecutors and onlookers waiting to see what Leonard Vole and the witnesses have to say.



Sir Wilfrid (Josh House) questions Vole's wife, Romaine (Ani Cohen) on whether or not she wrote letters to a secret lover saying that she framed Leonard Vole.

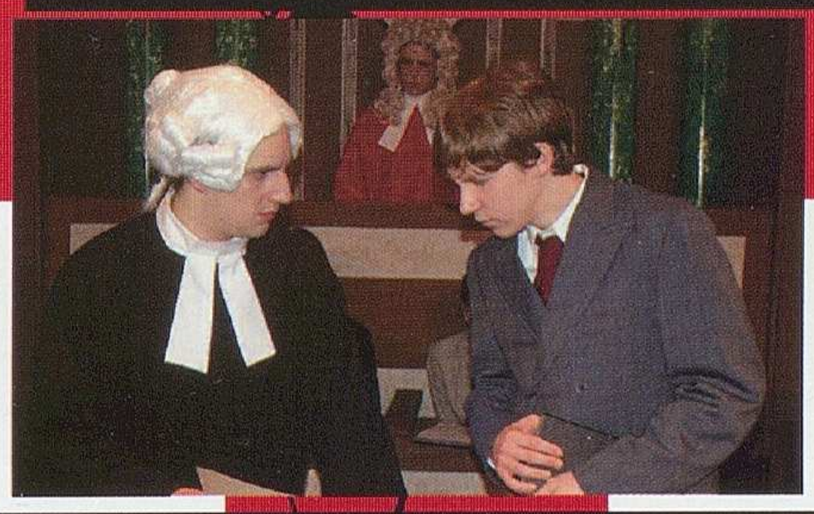
Inspector Hearne (Matt Hemmelgarn) comes to arrest Leonard Vole (Tyler Spears).



Leonard Vole (Tyler Spears) stresses over his prosecution as he is bombarded with questions from Mr. Myers (Jimmy Sullivan).

A mysterious woman offers some assistance to Sir Wilfrid (Josh House) and Mr. Mayhew (Charles Lasky).

Janet MacKenzie (Becky Hoffman) testifies that Vole is guilty.



Dr. Clegg (Sam Burgess) is a lab assistant that examined Vole's blood-stained cuffs. He is very enthusiastic about the fact that the blood-type is "O".

Dr. Wyatt (Daniel Shell) speaks of the physical location of the wound.

Romaine (Ani Cohen) has the English courtroom in the palm of her hand.

Sir Wilfrid (Josh House) and Mr. Mayhew (Charles Lasky) inquire about how Leonard Vole treats her, his wife. Romaine (Ani Cohen) answers with unexpected bitterness towards the subject.

The spectators look on with baited breath. Will Vole be convicted?

The jurors patiently observe the trial. They have a tricky case in their hands.

HAVING OUR SAY, THE DELANEY SISTERS FIRST ONE HUNDRED YEARS

By: Emily Mann Adapted By: Sarah and Elizabeth Delany

The Delany sisters prepare the table to celebrate their Papa's birthday.

The Delany Sisters (Julissa and Nicci Faw) lived to be over 100 years old.

The sisters share joy in remembering the past.

Sadie Delany (Julissa Faw)

The sisters page through an old photo album and tell of their parents and grandparents .

Bessie Delany (Nicci Faw)

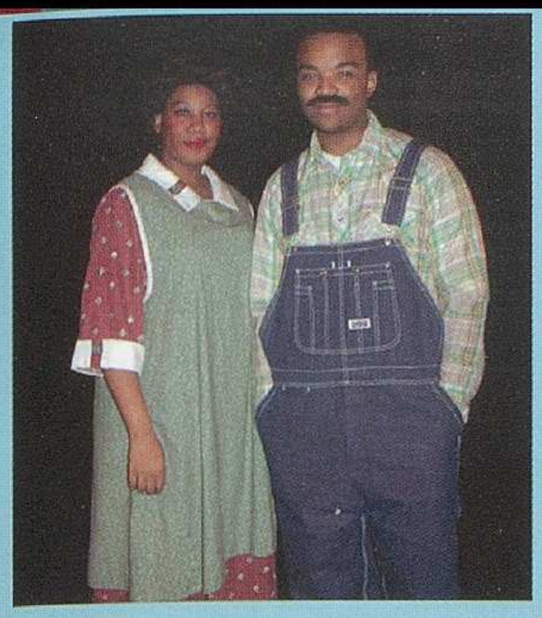
Bessie and Sadie reminisce while preparing dinner.

The Delany sisters are proud of their family history and the strong lives they have led.

Bessie scolds her sister as Sadie starts to tell a story Bessie does not wish to relive.

The Wiz

By: Frank Baum Musical By: William Brown



Aunt Em (Britteny Haywood) and Uncle Henry (Damon Johnson) care very much for their neice, Dorothy.

"Can't you feel a brand new day?!" The Winkies are overjoyed to be free.

The Munchkins and Addaperle (Nicci Faw) point Dorothy (Emmie Shiotani) towards The Wiz.

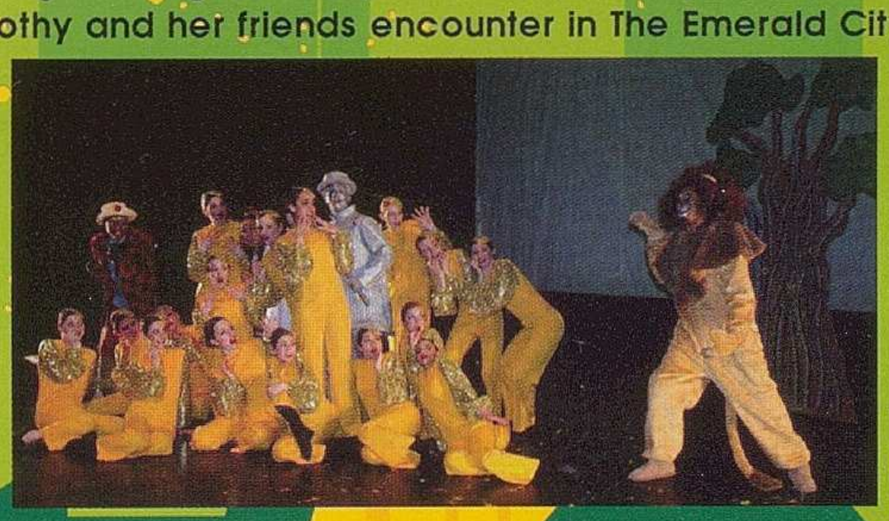
The four friends, The Tinman (Chad Putka), The Scarecrow (Torrey Cason), Dorothy (Emmie Shiotani) and The Lion (Chris Phillips) ease on down the road.

Dorothy (Emmie Shiotani) meets The Scarecrow (Torrey Cason).

Dorothy (Emmie Shiotani) tries to free herself from The Tornado's stormy clutches.

The signature green-sequined attire is only part of what Dorothy and her friends encounter in The Emerald City.

Dorothy (Emmie Shiotani) and The Scarecrow (Torrey Cason) help The Tinman (Chad Putka) be able to move again.

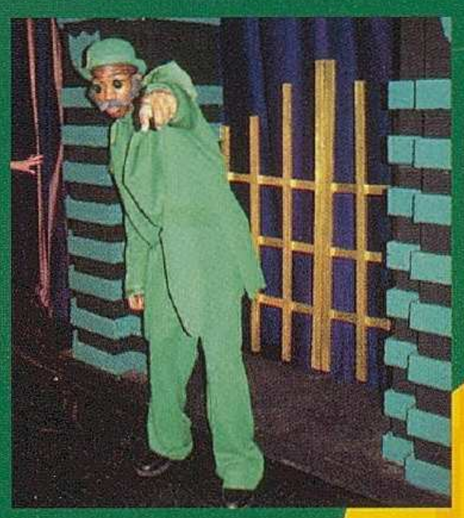


The Lion (Chris Phillips) gets separated from the others when crossing the dangerous field of The Poppies.

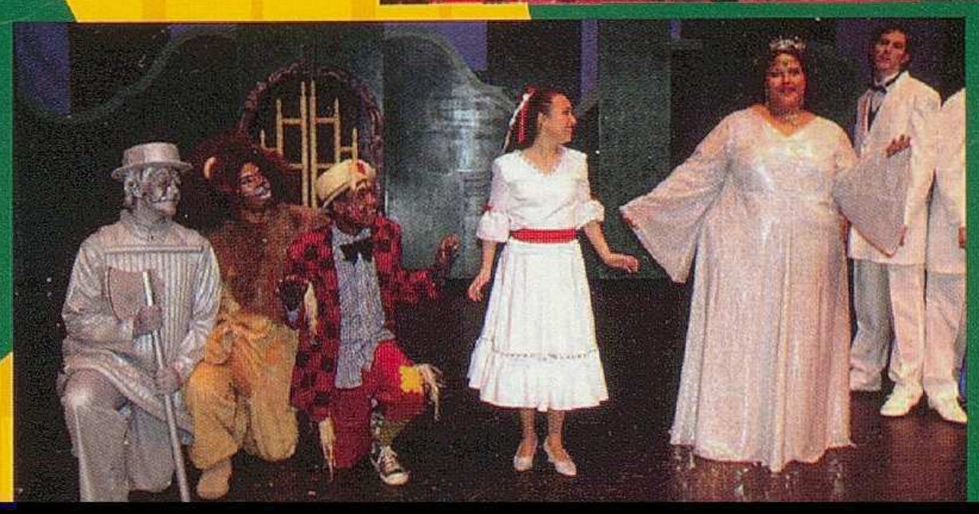
The Cowardly Lion (Chris Phillips) frightens Dorothy, The Scarecrow, The Tinman, and members of the Yellow Brick Road with a ROAR as he sees them passing through his forest.

At first, the powerful Wiz is not at all happy to see the four friends.

The mean old wicked witch, Evillene (Jullissa Faw) gives her head monkey (James Rankin) strict orders: bring Dorothy and her friends to me.



The Gatekeeper (Frank Mells) makes sure The Wiz is not bothered by mere riff-raff.



Glinda (Julissa Faw) sings, "Believe in Yourself" and gives Dorothy the courage to find her way back home.

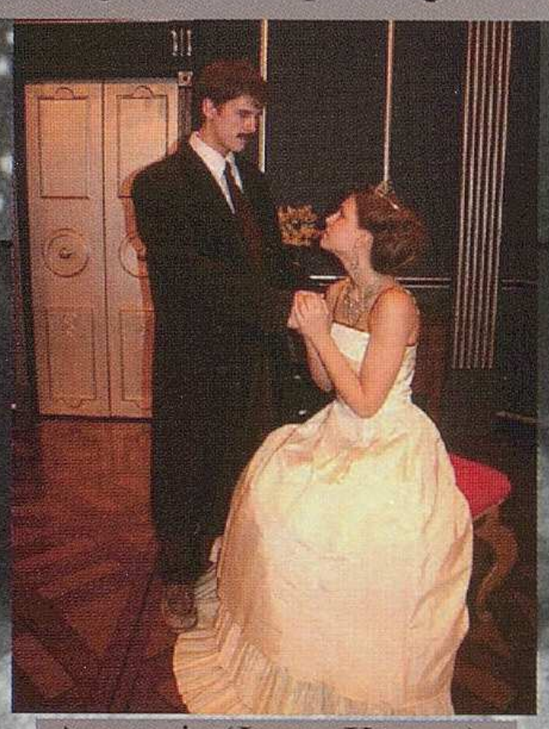
Price Paul (Brendan Serpa) and Anna (Jenna Kutney) were childhood sweethearts.

Chernov, Prince Bounine and Petrovin (Charles Lasky, James Rankin, Peter McDevitt) examine Anna's (Jenna Kutney) hands in search of bullet markings from the past.

The men study the unbelievable similarity between the peasant girl and the painting of the princess.

Prince Paul (Brendan Serpa) greets the Dowager Empress Maria Feodorovna (Arielle Juberg).

The three schemers (Charles Lasky James Rankin, Peter McDevitt) get a chuckle out of the newspapers that are bashing their case.



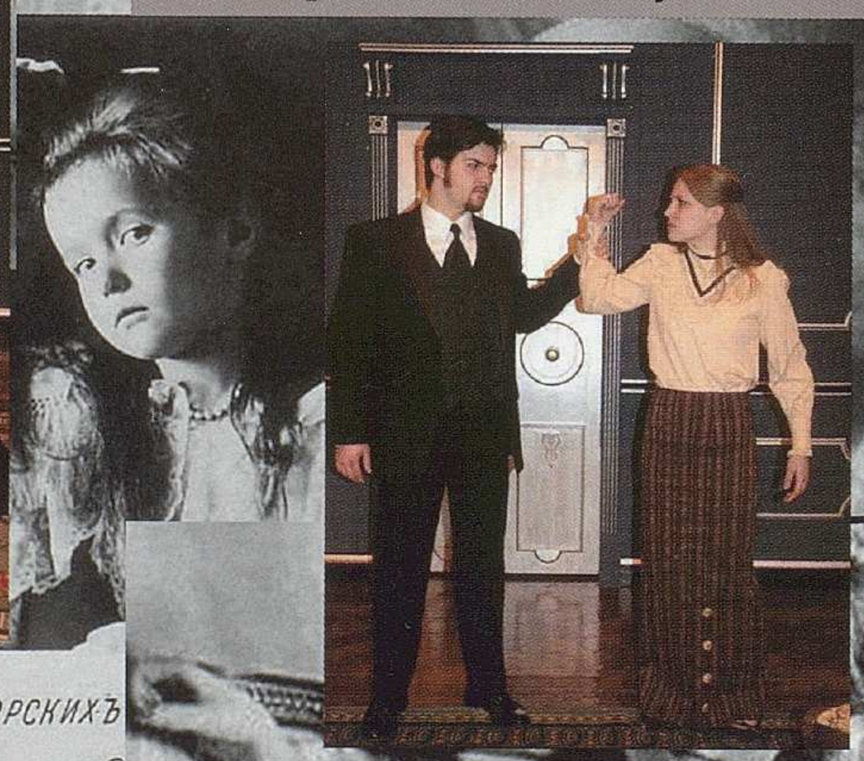
Anastasia (Jenna Kutney) and Doctor Serensky (Daniel Shell) share a special relationship.

Anastasia (Jenna Kutney) begs the Empress (Arielle Juberg) to understand that her grandaughter is kneeling before her.

The Empress is tough to convince because of all she has been through. She does not want to be decieved.

Arielle Juberg

Bounine coachingly shows Anna pictures of her family.



Dowager Empress Maria Feodorovna (Arielle Juberg) and Baroness Elena von Livenbaum (Aubrey Litchfield) enter while Prince Bounine, Chernov, and Petrovin (James Rankin,Charles Lasky, Peter McDevitt) stand to greet them.

Finally, the Empress (Arielle Juberg) does believe and embraces her grandaughter Anastasia, happy to have her back.

Bounine (James Rankin) and Anastasia (Jenna Kutney) have a disagreement over who is in charge.

The Nerd

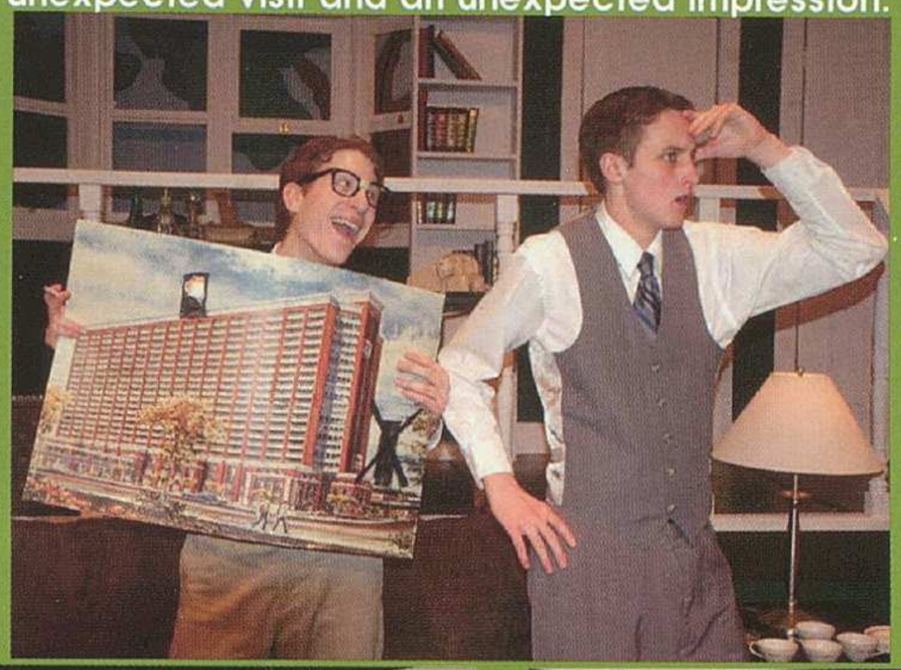
By: Larry Shue

Tansy (Michaela Maynard) surprises Willum (Tyler Spears) when he comes home from work. She has planned a little party in honor of his birthday.

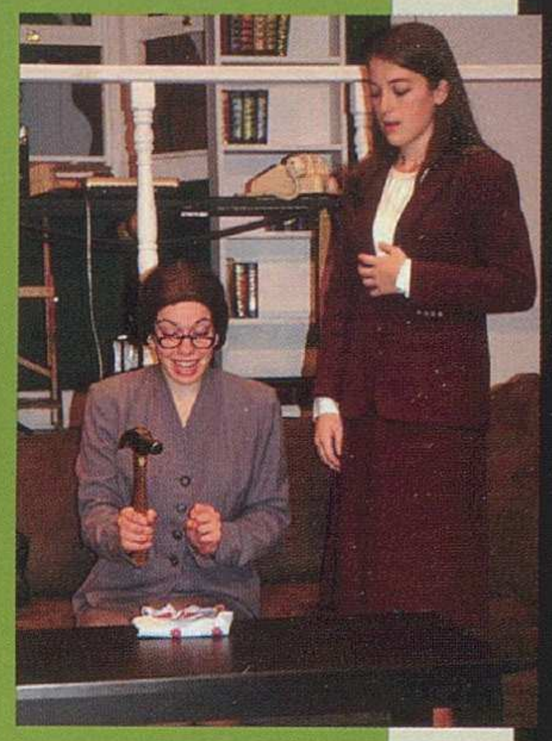
Rick Steadman (Scott Forman) - the man who saved Willum's life in Vietnam - makes an unexpected visit and an unexpected impression.

One of Rick' Steadman's absurd ideas leads to a crazy round of the game, "Shoes and Socks."

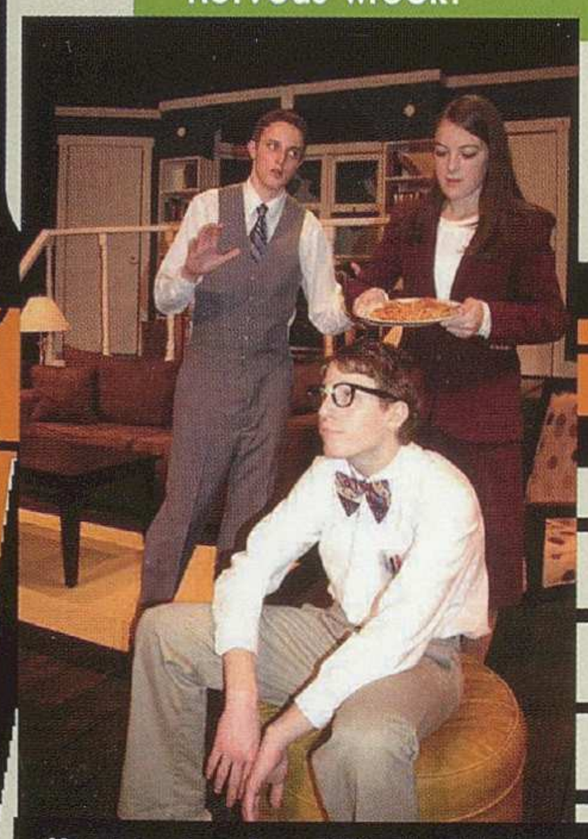
Willum's boss's son, Thor (Michael Nasdeo) is a bit of a problem child. His mother Clelia (Caitlin Mackin) is a bit of a nervous wreck.



Thinking that it will improve the layout, Rick (Scott Forman) decides to add a chimney to Willum's (Tyler Spears) final business print.



To ease her nerves, Clelia (Caitlin Mackin) enjoys breaking little saucers with a hammer she keeps in her purse.



Unable to stand Rick's blatant rudeness any longer, Tansy considers breaking a plate of spaghetti over his head.

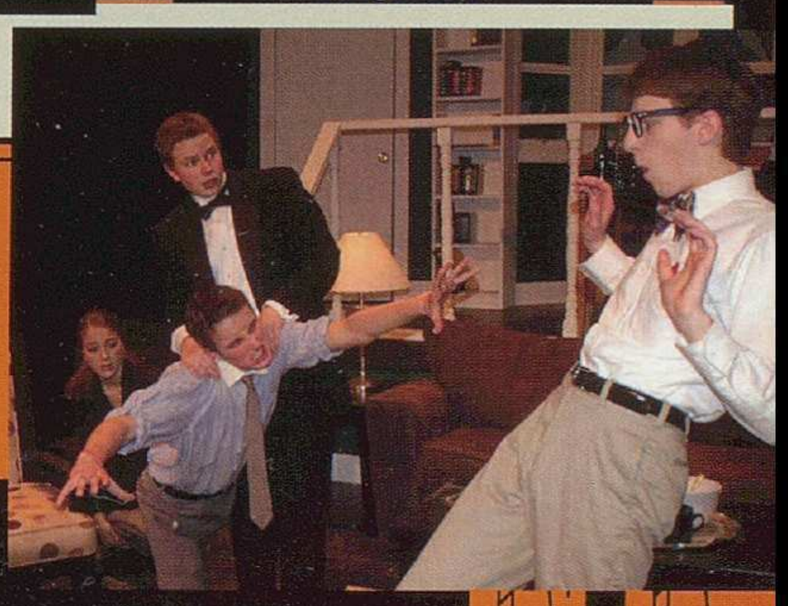
Tansy (Michaela Maynard) cleverly gives Willum multiple kid-birthday cards that add up to 34.

Waldgrave (Jimmy Sullivan) is not amused when he is unexpectedly pelted with a mixture of warm water and cottage cheese.

Thor is terrified of the gorilla - Rick Steadman in disguise.

Rick's habit of saying, "Huh" in Willum's face is only one of Rick's many bizarre traits Willum must tolerate during Rick's stay.

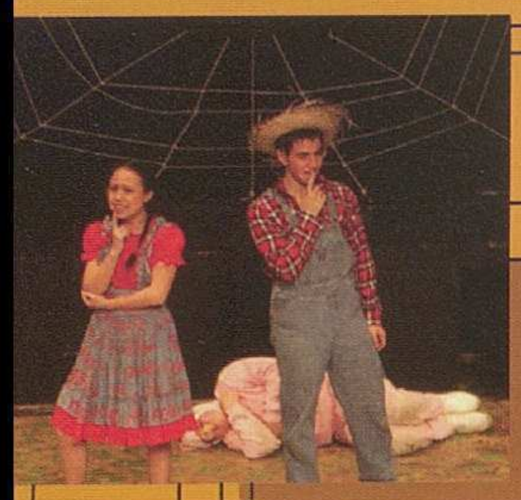
Willum, Axel, and Tansy (Tyler Spears, Michaela Maynard, and Matt Hemmelgarn) act as though watching an apple core turn brown is a common ritual that precedes eating a good ole dinner in Terre Haute, Indiana. Rick is baffled.



In an attempt to scare Rick away, Willum acts as though he is morphing into a mutant pig.

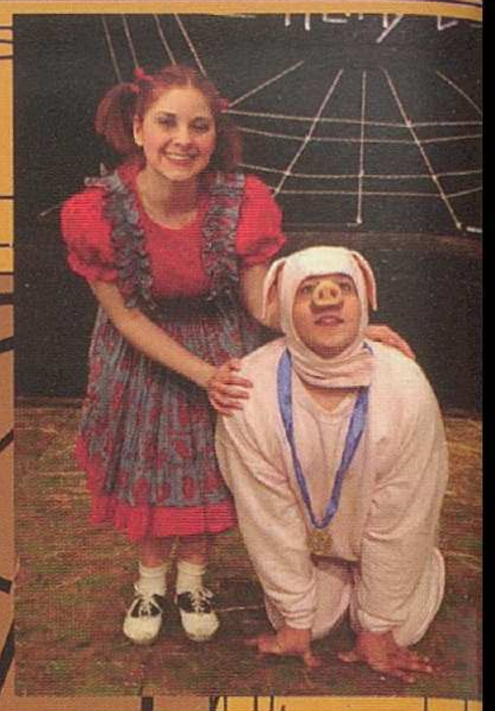
Charlotte's Web

By: E.B. White Book By: Joseph Robinette

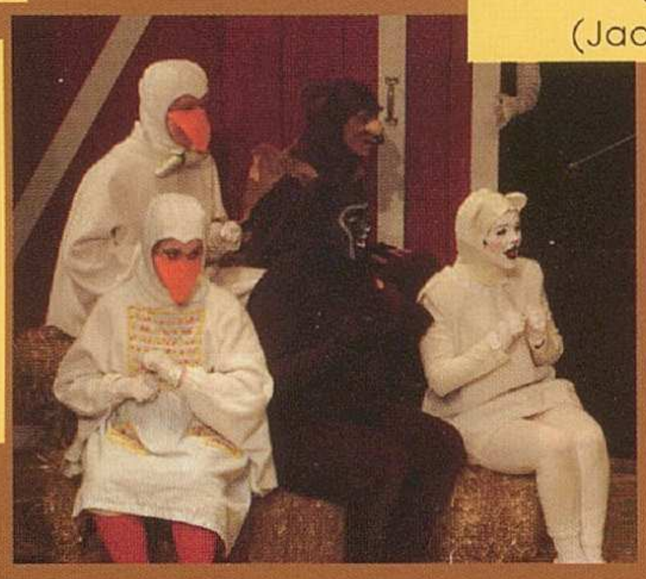


Fern and Avery (Emmie Shiotani and Charlie Adelson) sing about what people "don't" do. They realize that, at the fair, they can do all sorts of things they are not supposed to do.

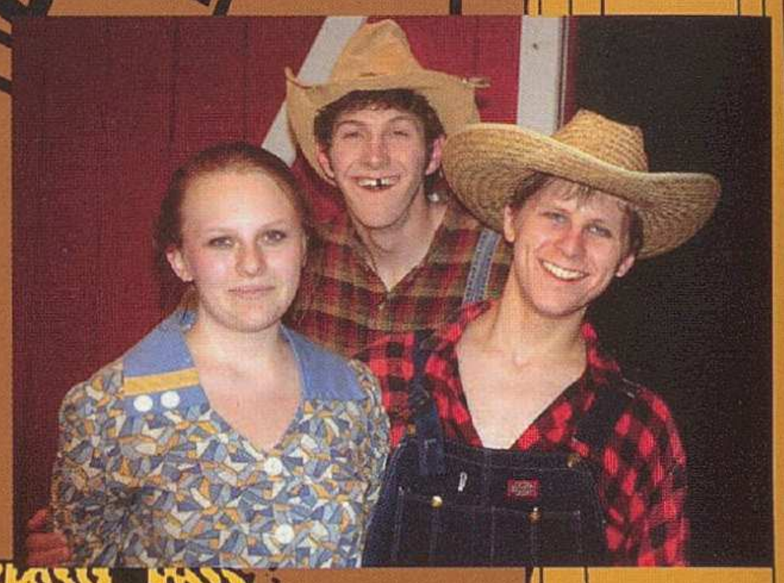
Charlotte (Jackie Richards)

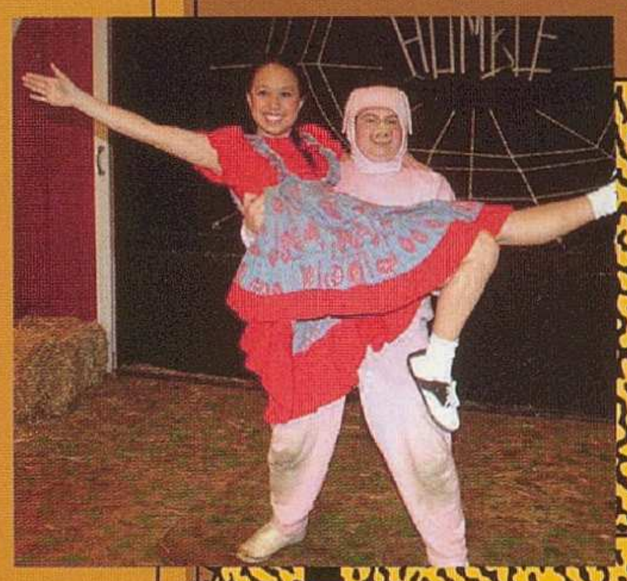


Fern (Stephanie Gluck) loves to baby Wilbur (Brad Grunwell).



The barn animals, Goose (Ashley Subler), Gander (Evin Hoffman), Sheep (Nina Zadnik), Lamb (Colleen Ricketts), and Templeton the Rat (Kevin Nowland) watch the townspeople coming to admire Wilbur.



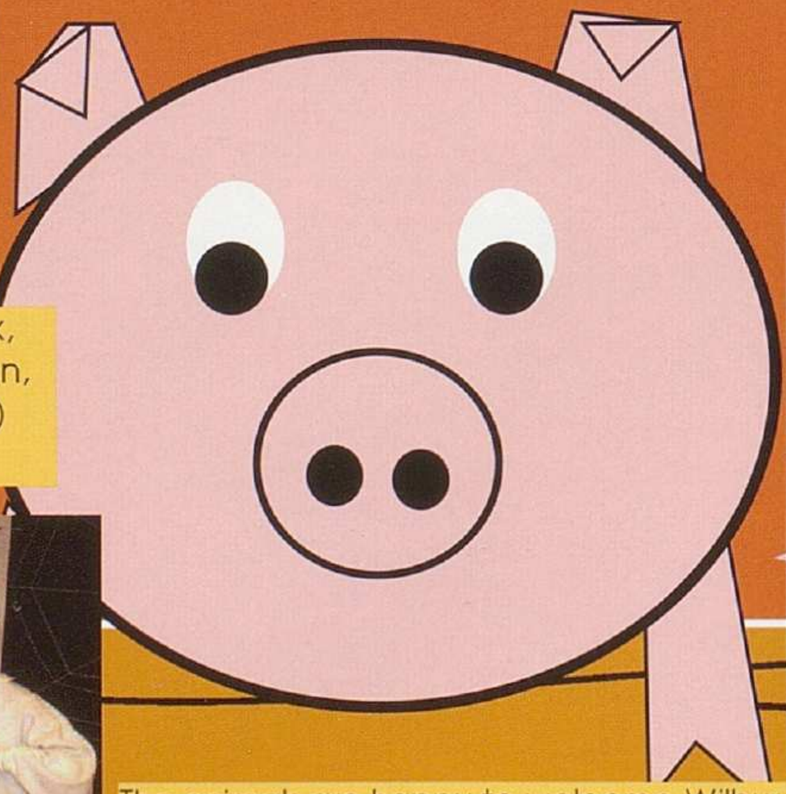


Fern (Emmie Shiotani) and Wilbur (Alex Samuels)

Charlotte (Jackie Richards) feels a special responsibility toward Wilbur (Alex Samuels). She assures him that even though he is a pig and she is a spider, "who says we can't be friends?"

Homer and Edith Zuckerman and Lurvy (Daniel Shell, Emily Syring and Andrew Norris)

The whole farm-loving family (Stephanie Gluck, Jordan Sommerlad, Chad Putka, Becky Hoffman, Nick Eastmon, Grace Shell, and James Rankin) rejoices in Wilbur's success.



Charlotte (Allison Hadley)

The animals are happy to welcome Wilbur (Brad Grunwell) into their home. Goose (Katie Doyle), Templeton the Rat (Andrew Heironimus), Owl (Lizzy Miller), Bat (Danella Daiz-Packard), Gander (Sam Burgess), Lamb (Abbie Schultz), and Sheep (Sam Collier).

Who doesn't love a terrific, humble pig?

The Miracle Worker

By: William Gibson

The nerves Helen's parents (Josh House and Jenna Kutney) feel after childbirth are relieved by the doctor's (Jimmy Sullivan) conclusion that their baby girl will live. But the doctor did not tell them of Helen's unique condition.

Dinner time in the Keller household (Josh House, Jenna Kutney, Andrew Heironimus, Nina Zadnik and Bryn Sowash) routinely accepts Helen's spoiled animal-like behavior. Annie (Ani Cohen) is not amused.

Captain and Mrs. Keller (Josh House and Jenna Kutney)

Helen Keller (Bryn Sowash) meets Annie Sullivan (Ani Cohen).

Annie Sullivan has to go through much ware and tear to get Helen's manners under control.

Helen gets joy out of imitating Annie's facial expressions.

Helen finally makes the connection between the objects that she comes in contact with and the language Annie spells out in her palm. Helen tries to say, "Water" because she realizes what it is.

Annie wants desperately for Helen to understand that things have names.

Annie Sullivan teaches Helen how to communicate in sign language.

Helen (Bryn Sowash) takes buttons off of her Aunt Ev(Nina Zadnik) dress to make eyes for her doll.

Helen (Bryn Sowash) and the Keller's servant, Viney (Brittney Haywood)

Helen (Bryn Sowash) plays with Martha, (Deja Davis) another girl her age.

Mrs. Keller is overjoyed to know that her Helen folded her napkin.

Burgess Playwriting Workshop piece

LITTLE WOMEN

From the novel by Louisa May Alcott
Screenplay by Robin Swicord
Adopted and Directed by Jackie Richards

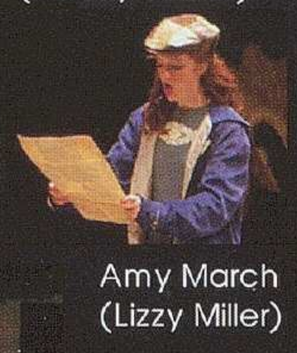
Jo (Jackie Richards) reluctantly reads aloud dull, never-ending essays to a grumpy Aunt March (Sophie Lewis) - who has conveniently nodded off.

Meg March
(Sarah Carter)

Beth March
(Ashley Subler)

"Here we come a wassailing among the leaves so green!" The March sisters (Grace Shell, Lizzy Miller, Ashley Subler, Sarah Carter, Jackie Richards) and Hannah happily pave the way to give their Christmas breakfast to the Hummel's who need it more than they.

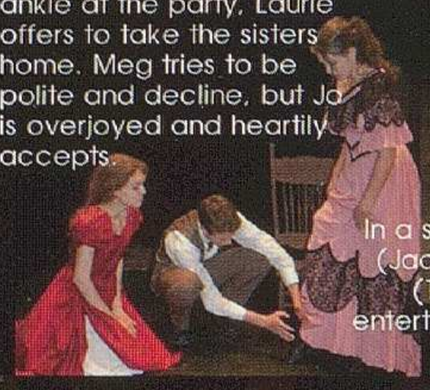
Jo March
(Jackie Richards)



Amy March
(Lizzy Miller)

Jo (Jackie Richards) teases Amy (Lizzy Miller) about her mispronunciation of "dignified words".

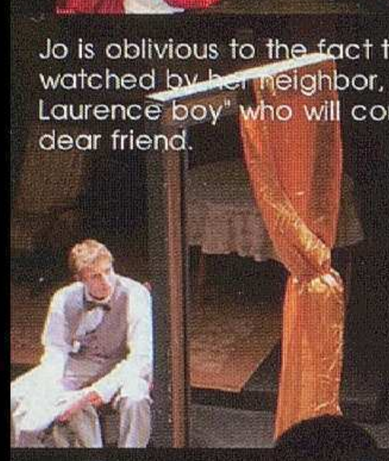
When Meg sprains her ankle at the party, Laurie offers to take the sisters home. Meg tries to be polite and decline, but Jo is overjoyed and heartily accepts.



Marmee March
(Emily Syring)

In a side room at the party, Jo (Jackie Richards) and Laurie (Tyler Spears) make an entertaining scene as they try to dance.

Jo is oblivious to the fact that she is being watched by her neighbor, "the mysterious Laurence boy" who will come to be a dear friend.



Jo attempts to curl Meg's hair for the New Year's Eve party. The result is not in Meg's favor - Jo eventually burns a part of her sister's bangs so badly that a chunk of hair comes off.

Meg (Sarah Carter) takes a liking to Laurie's tutor, John Brooke (Evin Hoffman).

Laurie reveals himself to the sisters after hiding in a trunk in the attic. Jo is in on this scheme and wishes Laurie to be admitted into their theatrical society. The girls are understandably frightened and surprised, but Laurie presents himself well and offers a post office in token of his gratitude. The sisters accept and knight him as Sir Roderigo.

The March girls gather around Marmee to hear a letter from their father.

The four March sisters love to act out dramatic scenes in the attic, their sanctuary.

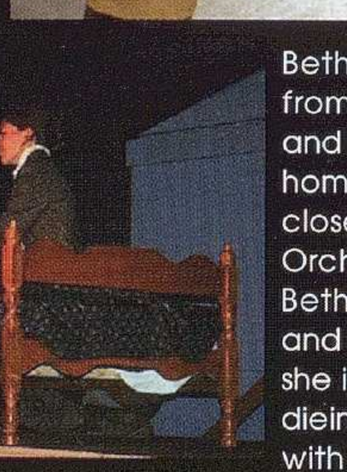
Jo (Jackie Richards) shares some of her written masterpieces to Beth (Ashley Subler)who loves to sit up and listen to them.

The family gathers around Mr. March (Daniel Shell) upon his unexpected return home.

Jo shares her writing with Professor Bhaer and he agrees that it is well-written. But he feels that there is more in the women he knows than the thriller stories she is writing - if she has the courage to write it.

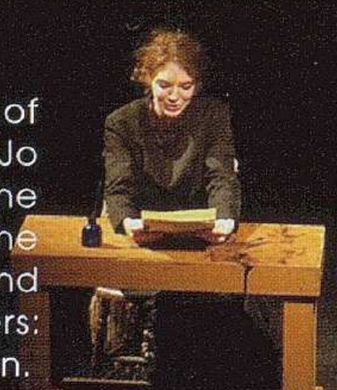
After four years of being away at college, Laurie comes back and proposes to Jo. Jo is stunned and declines. She realizes that she has hurt Laurie deeply and tries to comfort and convince him that she can't just go be a wife.

While in New York, Jo (Jackie Richards) meets Professor Bhaer (Jordan Sommerlad), a kind, quiet tutor from Germany.



Beth's weakness from scarlet fever and love of being home keeps her close to the walls of Orchard House. Beth comforts Jo and assures her that she is not afraid of dieing. Jo is stricken with grief.

In France, a bitter Laurie (Tyler Spears) comes across Amy (Lizzy Miller) who is there with Aunt March studying painting. She sees that he has changed and suggests that he clean up his act.



After the death of her sister, Beth, Jo realizes what she needs to write. The story of her life and the life of her sisters: Little Women.

Jo sees that someone is publishing her book as her manuscript is wrapped in a package from New York.

Jo thanks Freidrich for her book and he says that reading it was like opening a window into her heart.

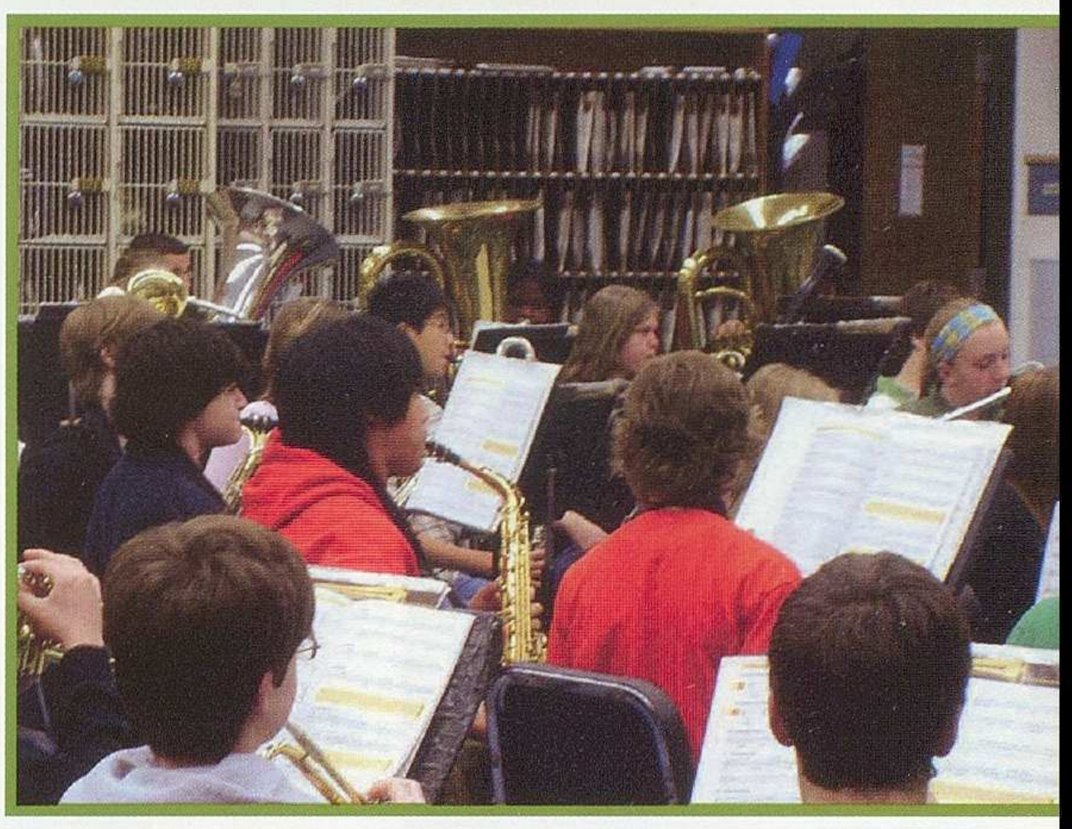
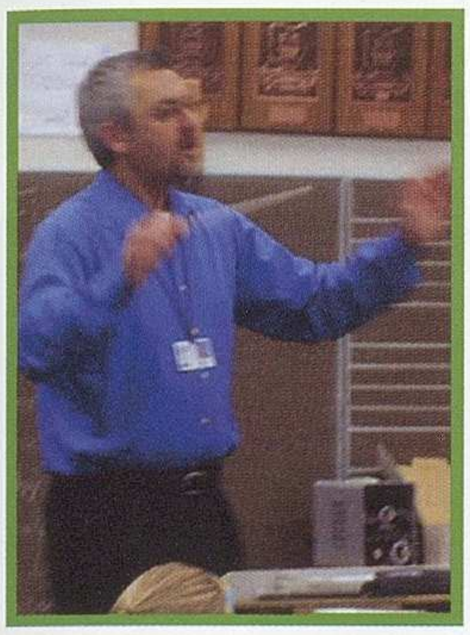
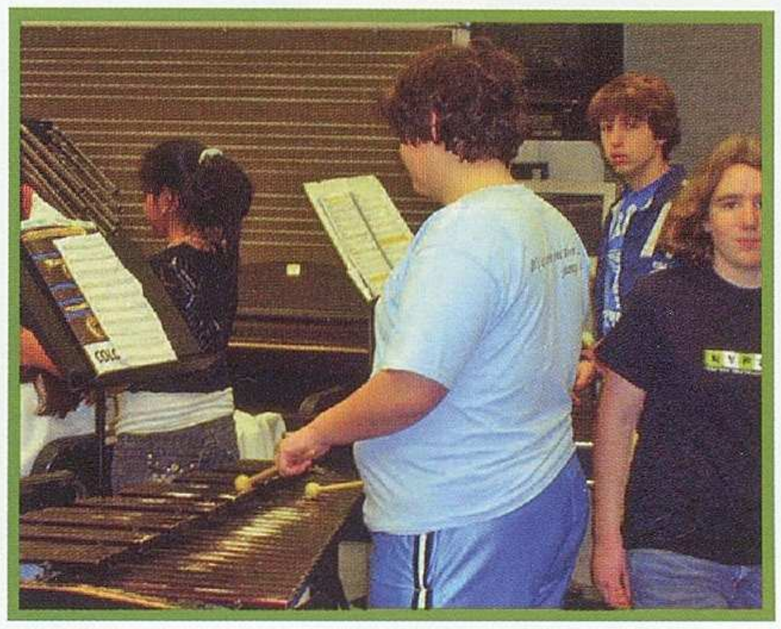
Cardinal Band

An important part of any band is the brass section, especially the trumpet section that adds a rich tone to any song.

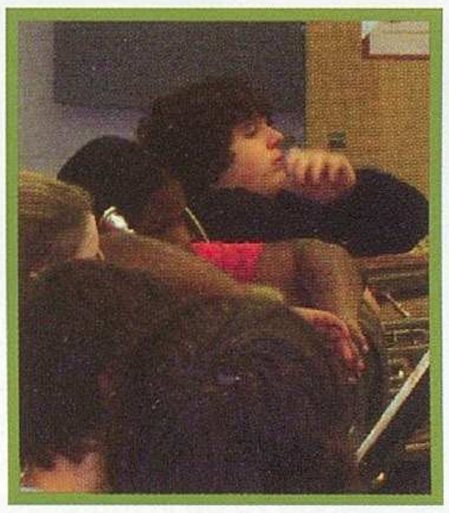




Enthusiastically leading the band through one of their songs is Cardinal Band director, Mr. Maynard.



Junior Robert Carson teaches his magic touch to the freshmen learning how to play the xylophone.

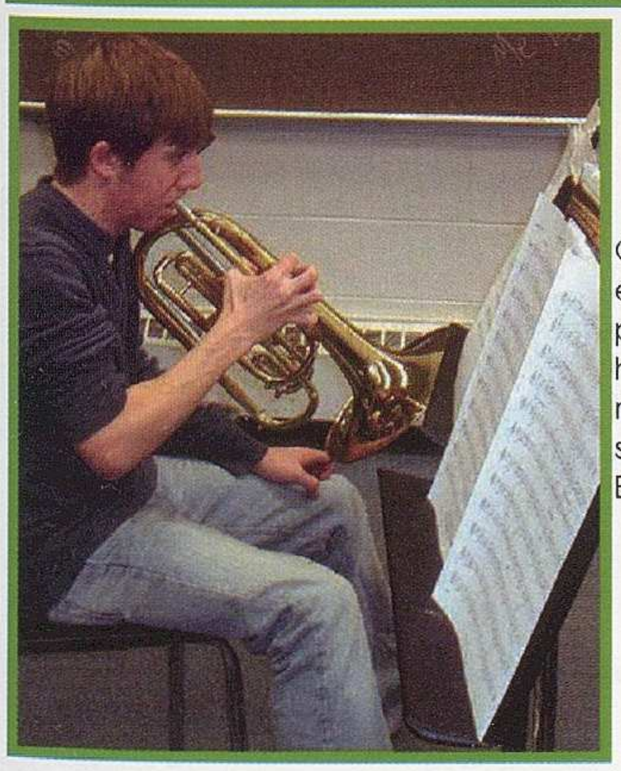


Cardinal Band is a first period class for freshmen interested in continuing with their musical interests from middle school. The band competes at OMEA competitions throughout the year.

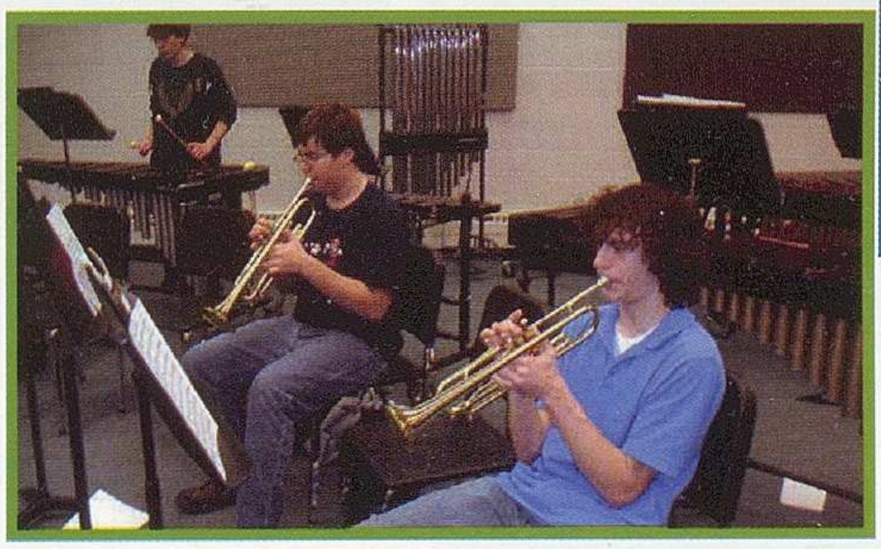
Band members agree: instruments make great pillows when the band takes a break from their song. First period is too early for anyone to play more than ten minutes in a row.

Concert Band

The Concert Band takes a break from pre-performance practice to pose for a picture. The band delights audience members several times throughout the year at concert during which they play a large variety of songs.



Getting some extra practice on his mellophone is sophomore Brad Taylor.



Getting ready for class these boys warm up their trumpets.

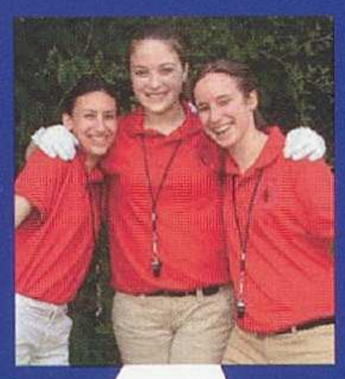
Seniors Erica Evans, Andrew Shaw, and Sarah Minot help to teach the underclassmen the ropes.

Bringing up the rear is the percussion section as the band heads to the bleachers after their pre-game show.

Section leaders meet for a group photo shoot in front of the High School sign. The section leaders are in charge of making sure their section stays in order during practices.

The middle school and high school join forces to perform at the annual eighth grade night. Each year eighth graders who hope to be in marching band in high school get the opportunity to march with the high schoolers



Seniors Dani Castelli, Michaela Maynard, and Mia Keller are this year's Drum Majors and they are totally excited about it.

Sophomore Mike Jones at a car wash fundraiser for marching band.

The scaffolding is decorated for Senior night in the spirit of the 2007 theme: "007 Bond and Beyond." Senior night is a time to party with fellow Marching Band friends and recognize seniors who have put in so much time and effort over the past four years.

The saxophone section gathers around a pool at one of their many section dinners at members' houses. Don't fall in and ruin those suave looking uniforms!

As much as senior Roxanne Venis loves marching and playing her clarinet, she does not like having her picture taken unexpectedly.

The marching bands shows their spirit supporting the Cardinals after a win while the football team rings the victory bell in jubilation.

The incredibly talented marching band spells out "TW" on the football field during a pre-game show.

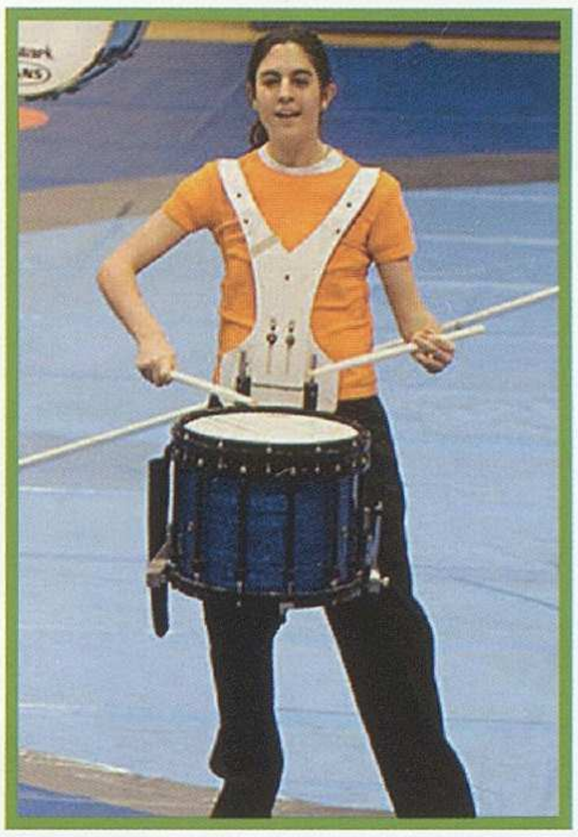
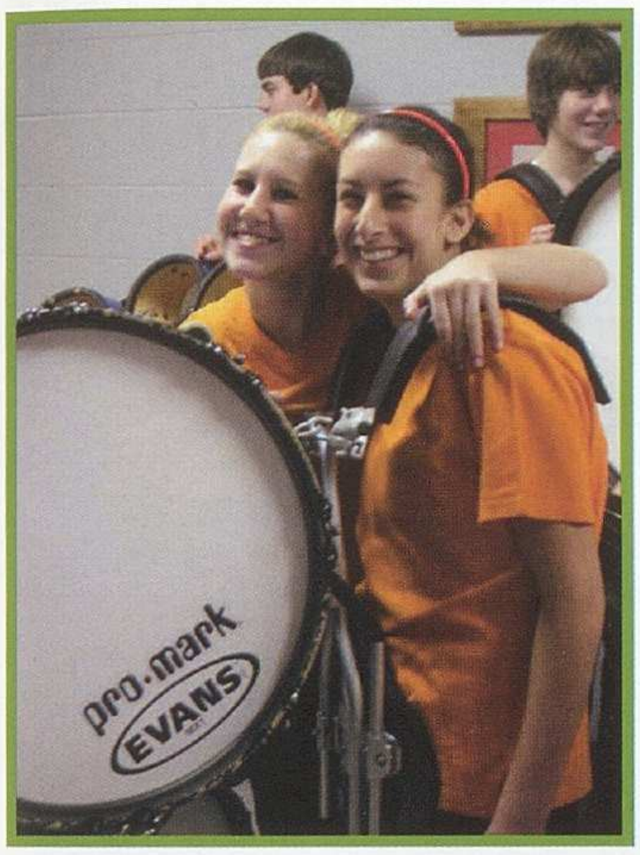
Winter Percussion

The Winter Percussion team celebrates a spectacular performance at their competition. With costumes like that how could they do anything but shine?



Playing her drums loud and proud is junior Adrienne Lemberger. Let us hear that drum roll Adrienne!

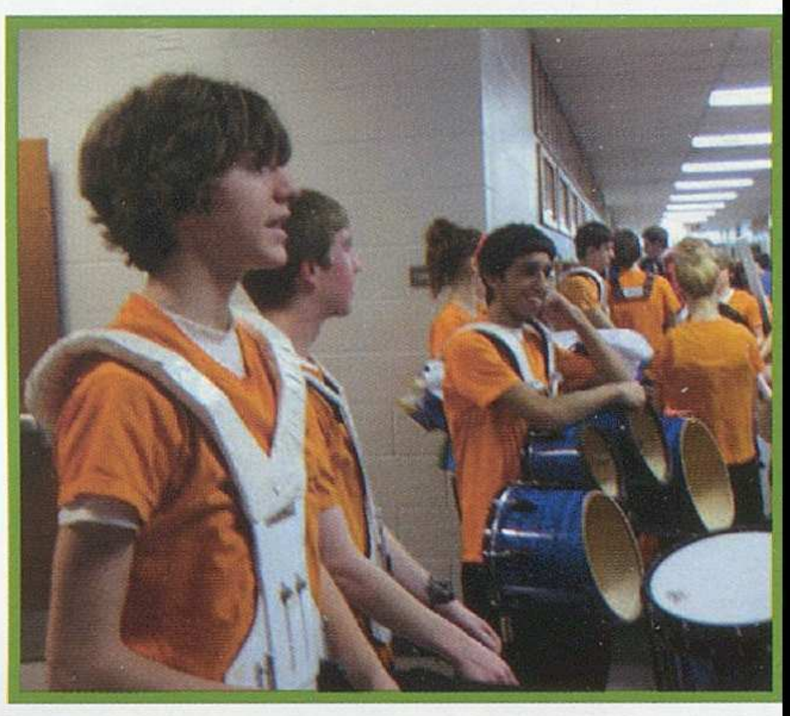
Winter Percussion members crowd around to watch as sophomore Digby Fraze shaves junior Chirstopher Brodkin's head as he proudly displays their trophy.



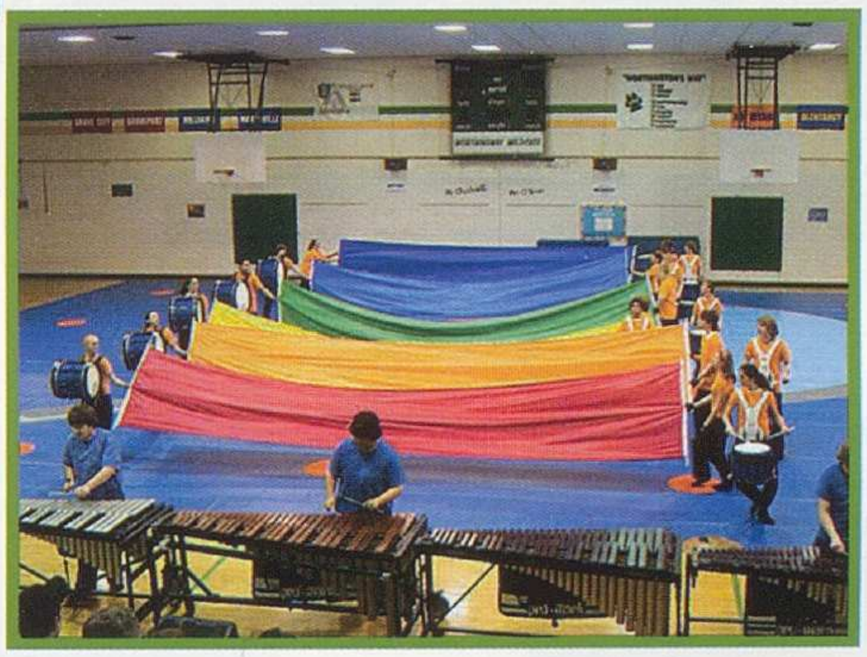
Proving that girls really can play the drums are seniors Catherine Michael and Dani Castelli.

Sophomore Ryan Bixel, Senior Eric Boso and Junior Scott Jones are overjoyed to earn another trophy for the trophy case.

Dressed to match in orange T-shirts and black pants, the band anxiously waits in the hallway for their turn to perform.



Finding out why it is called winter percussion, the band loads their instruments into the trailer in the midst of a snow storm.



Creating an array of colors on the stage, the band shows its skill at marching while simultaneously carrying the banners.

The drumline stands at attention as it waits for the conductor to start the song.

Favorite Memory of Track: During track season about twelve of the distance girls and I decided to go on the "trail of tears run." We saw that it was flooded and iced over, but we still decided to go through. Maria Frank decided to see how deep the water was with a stick, and it showed that the water was only ankle deep. Courtney Kinsel and I convinced ourselves to run through the water while Helene Smith decided to try and climb a tree to get across. Courtney and I charged through the water, realized that it came up to our thighs, and fell face first into the icy cold water. Everyone else laughed, and some girls took a safer route while others followed Courtney and I. The ironic part is that during the morning run the guys' team fell into the water and we all made so much fun of them. You think we would have learned from their mistake, but luckily none of the guys found out, and the water didn't dominate the girls!

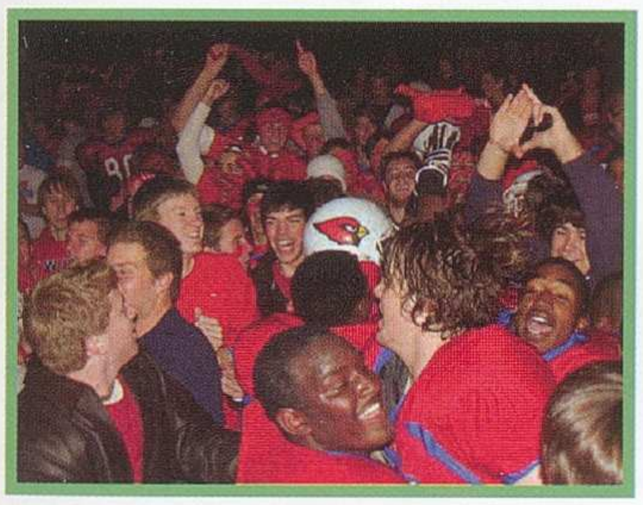
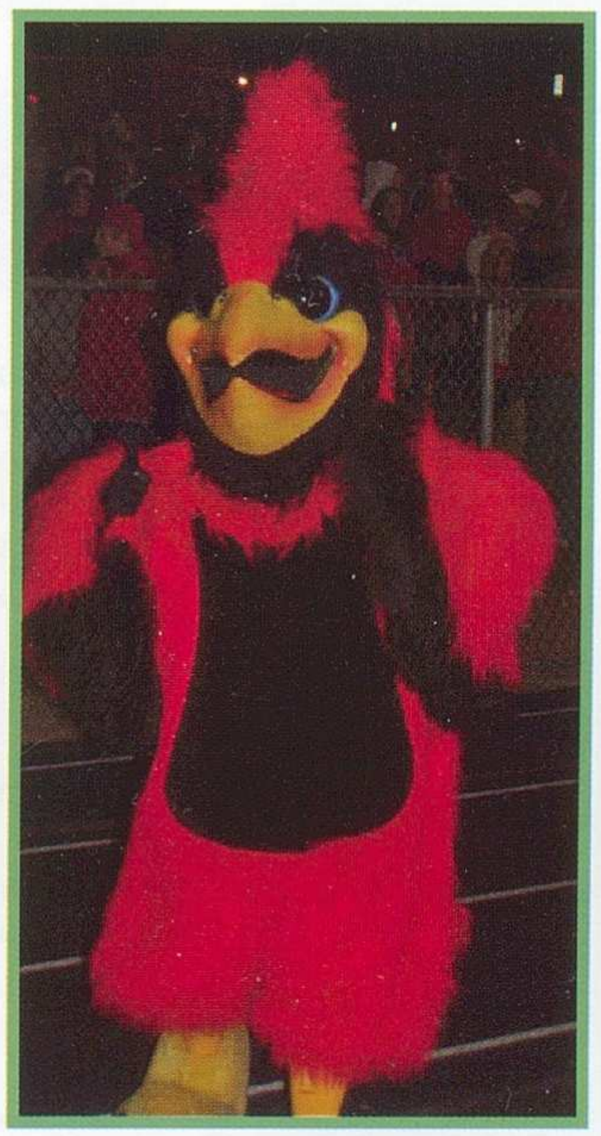
As the Homecoming Court members were announced, the crowd eagerly anticipated the arrival of one certain person. Finally the speaker loudly echoed, "And as Homecoming Queen... Rachel Barezinsky" The stands rumbled with the claps and cheers of applause as they all stood to see her. Everyone was excited and enthralled to see her happy and well, anxious to see her accept the crown she so rightfully deserved. The crown stated to the world that she was the 2006 Thomas Worthington High School Homecoming Queen.



Fans and players crowd around to congratulate each other on a Homecoming victory.



Shake that tail feather Cardinal! Show everyone what spirit is all about.

"We've got spirit, yes we do. We got spirit, how 'bout you?" These students show support for their favorite teams and TWHS by wearing their jerseys on Jersey Day.

WHO HAS SPIRIT???

"It was my first year going to the bonfire. Last year I didn't hear much about it, but this year a bunch of my friends convinced me to go. Homecoming is one of the best dances I have been too and I had a lot of fun."
~Ellena Elder, Sophomore

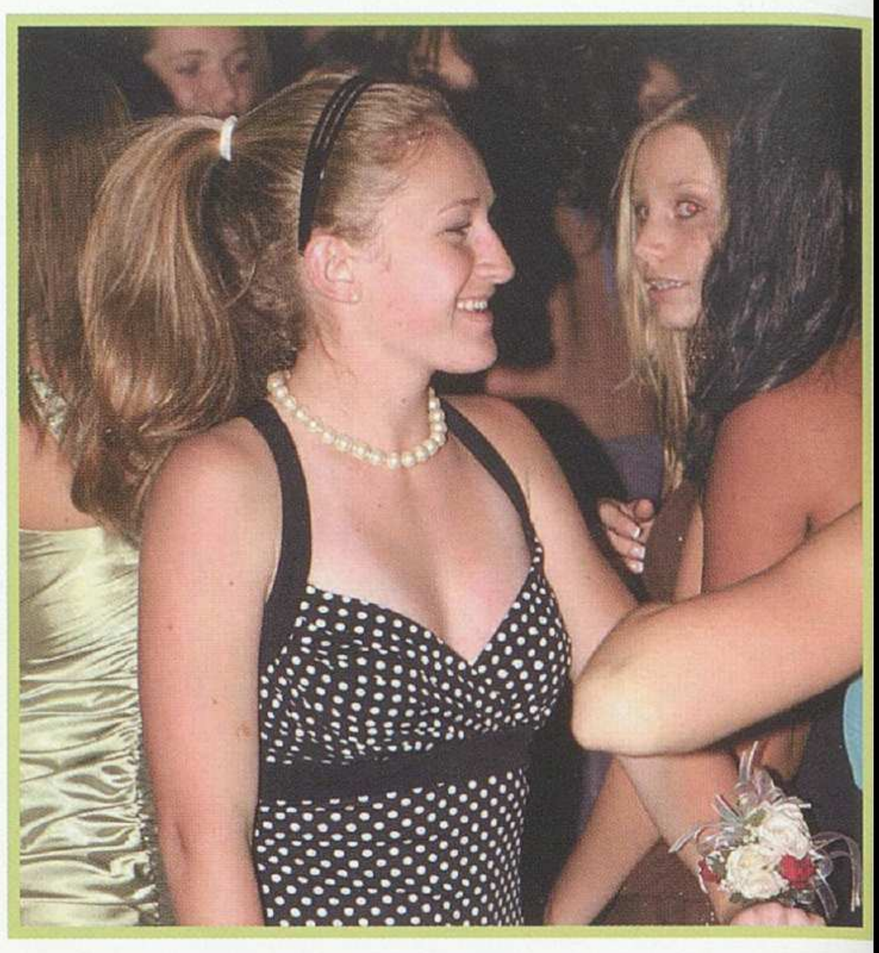
"I felt honored to escort Diedre Wong down the band tunnel. It was interesting because everyone that was playing looked over. It was fun to surrounded by friends."
~Greg Benson, Junior

"It was cool getting a close-up view of all the attendants and their dates. Although it gets tiring playing the trumpet the whole time."
~Jessica St-Pierre, Junior

"The bonfire was really hot, and it really symbolized the Cardinal pride I had lingering in my soul."
~Nicci Faw, Senior

Homecoming Dance

When you hear the word Homecoming, you probably think of a fun-filled night on the dance floor with a nice dinner to top it off. What most people don't realize is the amount of time and planning it takes to really make this night special. Student Council began this year with a running start. Planning the theme, buying the perfect decorations, and arranging the games are just a few things that this group of hard-workers did. Don't forget to thank the Projects Committee for all of their hardwork to make wonderful events such as the Homecoming Dance, the Winter Dance and Cardinal Day possible.



Katie Cahill's outfit looks very stylish with her polka-dot dress, white pearl necklace and black headband.

Lauren Romano and Justin Randles are meant to be. They are the perfect couple at this night in Athens.

This cute group of girls are having a great time with each other on the Homecoming dance floor.

Homecoming Horror Stories

The night started out with all the girls in my group getting ready together. I was curling my hair, and we were having fun until a girl bumped into me and caused me to burn my forehead right before pictures. Soon after that, it started pouring rain. We arrived to this little Italian restaurant for dinner, and the whole time a few members of our group were whining and crying. After dinner we all went to our cars and my rides' lights were left on so the battery died. Everyone left him there and went to the dance except me, because I didn't want to leave him alone in the rain. The worst part is that we couldn't jump his car. Once we found a ride to the dance, I realized I had my date's ticket so they almost didn't let us in. When I finally got in the dance, I couldn't find my date and found out he left. Even though I got burnt, felt sick, stood in the rain and lost my date, I would do it all over again.

-Jacquie Towler, Junior

As soon as I went to walk out the door to go to dinner, it started raining. We got in the car and I realized I left my ticket inside. My boyfriend had to run out in the rain and go back in to get it.

~Lauren Terrell, Junior

I was ready to go to the dance. I had the dress, the hair and nails, but at the last minute as I was about to get into the car, my dad said I couldn't go! I couldn't enjoy a night out with my friends because my grades were down. I tried to explain but it was no use. I had to stay at home, while my friends danced the night away.

~Ellen Schroder, Freshman

When I attended Homecoming this year, I managed to lose my cell phone, one of my shoes, spill coke all over my dress and to top that, my dress straps broke. I found my cell phone and my shoe, and fixed my dress, and had a great time anyway!

~Catherine Snow, Junior

When I went to give my date the boutonniere, I didn't realize that I had almost killed him. I didn't know that he was allergic to roses. His eyes started to twitch and were closed for all of the pictures. Then on our way to the restaurant, we got lost in the middle of nowhere. It started storming and when we finally got to the restaurant we had to run in through the pouring rain.

~Jen Horton, Sophomore

HALLOWEEN

Teenage Trick-or-Treating?

When you hear the word "Halloween," what is the first thing you think of? Many teenagers think of spooktacular theme parties. But some teens dress up and beg for candy, continuing a childhood tradition through the teenage years. While both of these occasions involve dressing up in fun, cute, or scary costumes. One is more acceptable than the other for adolescents. So we dare to ask, Teenage Trick-o-Treating, friendly or unacceptable?

What is your favorite Halloween candy?

A) Butterfingers	22%	B) Reeces	50%
C) Snickers	21%	D) MilkyWay	7%

"Sadly, this year was the first time I didn't trick-o-treat for candy... John Sharvin and I went as matching cowboy and cowgirl for canned goods. It was fun to go for a good cause, plus people usually gave us some snacks too."
~Lauren Batchek,
Senior

"Well that was an awkward day! Especially senior lunch when it was raining and the bottom of my dress got wet, and my sash got ruined. At Wendy's there was a lot of staring going on, maybe they were just trying to check me out."

"Money in da' Bank" or Jingle Bell Rock?

"I got money in da' bank..." Wait, that's not right. There was no money in the TWHS snowbank this year. At the last minute the winter dance theme was changed from "Money in da' Snowbank," (from the popular hip-hop song "Money in da' Bank") to Jingle Bell Rock. Regardless of the theme, Cardinals proved that the main reason they go to school dances is to have fun and to hang out with friends. The yearly winter dance theme change was a highly contended decision. While student council voted for "Money in da' Snowbank," with an overwhelming majority, the administration had the final say. After reviewing the lyrics to the song that inspired the theme, and meeting with student body officers, the theme changed. Even with the theme change and the new dress code, groups of friends were able to come up with some very creative and cute outfits. Hope you had fun Cards!!!

What is Love?

A Night At The Roxbury

This year's Valentine's Dance was "What is Love? A Night at the Roxbury!" The sophomore class sponsored the wonderful event on Saturday, February 17th, 2007, in the Aux Gym. Couples were invited to dance the night away to the tunes of DJ Vibe. Even if you didn't have a date, friends "ruled the floor."

Our king was not to be seen because nobody knew who to crown. All week long, the Thomas Worthington castle was covered in snow and no coins rang in the American Heart Association coffers. One week later the Honorable Josh House was crowned our King of Hearts. King Josh's court was filled by Senior Zak Phillips, Junior Alan Juckett, Sophomore Jordan Sommerlad, and Freshman Alex Samuels.

A Night to Treasure

Prom

" A Night to Treasure " was a perfect name for the the 2007 TWHS Prom. The night started off entering the elegant Bridgewater lobby and continuing to the sophisticated great room, where the dance was held. In one corner stood the two treasure chests full of goodies and beloved prizes. In the corner to left of the treasure chests were the ever popular chocolate fondue fountains. Prom goers enjoyed all sorts of treats such as pound cake and rice crispy treats which they dipped into one of two decadent chocolates, milk or white. Across the room from the chocolate fountains was the beverage table, complete with a beautiful punch fountain. The dance floor had a projection screen that showed music videos and footage of the Prom Cam. The night was truly treasured by all, TWHS students and their guests.

AFTER HOURS

After a wonderful night of dancing at prom, Afterhours was the spot to go for some late night fun. It was put together by the PTSO and Team DJ was hired to add to the casino atmosphere. It was held at the YMCA in Olentangy. This year the theme was a Casino Night. Cardinals who went enjoyed a large selection of tasty food and yummy smoothies provided by the Mean Bean. There were a large selection of raffles that inculded Chipotle gift cards, Vera Bradley purses, gas cards, and even a membership to AAA. After you put your tickets in the raffle of your choice, you could play some of the awesome games. Some of the games that you could play included blackjack, poker, slot machines, and basketball. As the night went on, the raffles began. The gift cards, purses, jewelry, and many other prizes were given away. The main prizes that were won were a pair of John Mayer tickets by Megan Remaklus and Carly Quinn. In the end, Afterhours was a great time and it made the night a true treasure.

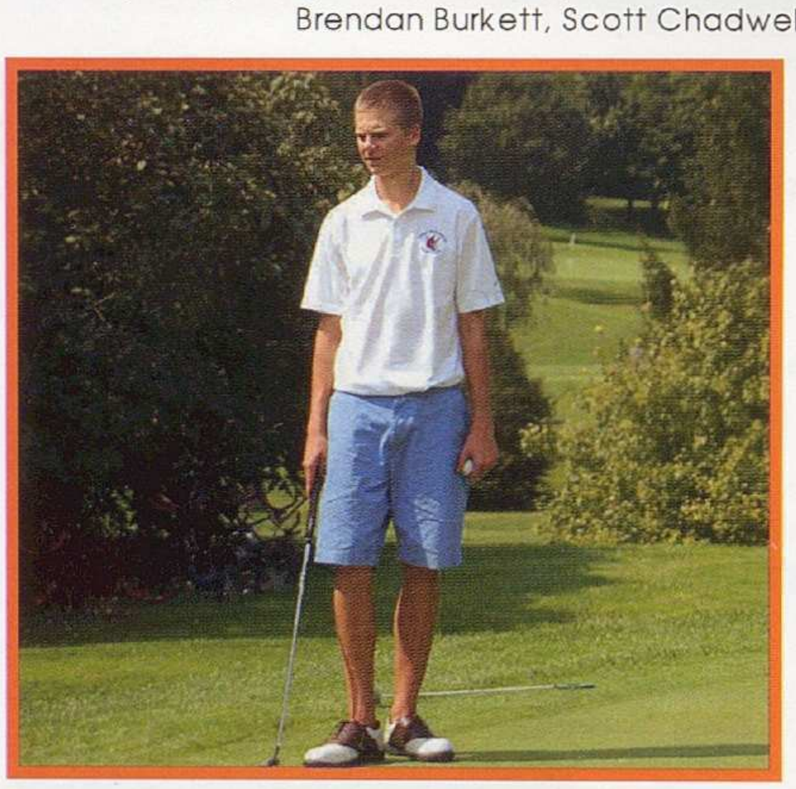
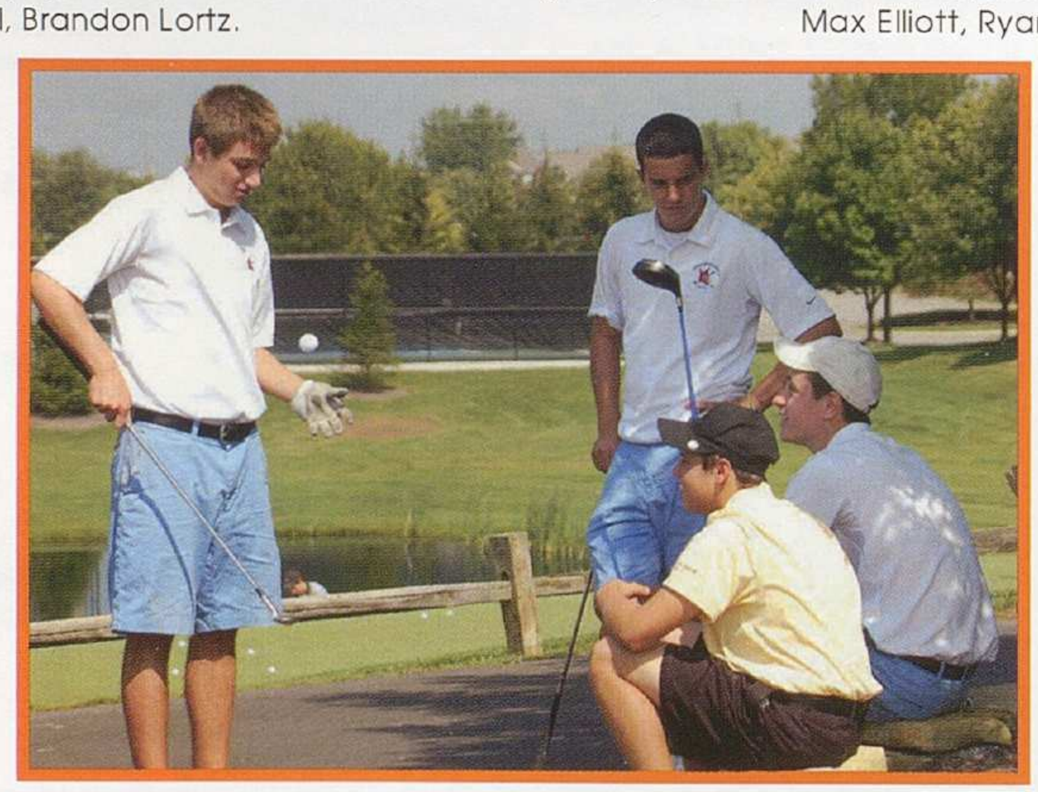
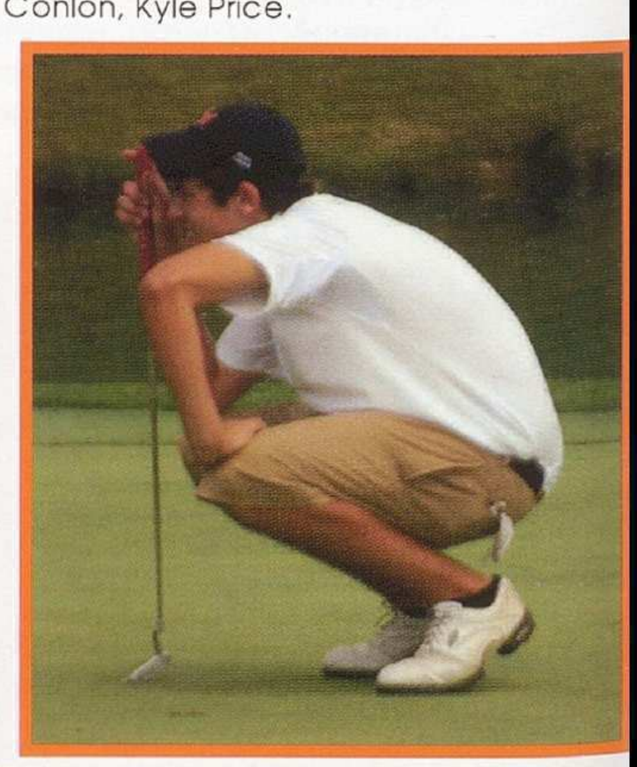
(Row 1) Coach Kevin Nurse, Matt Zofchak, Travis Trippel, Zach Shary, Max Elliott, Ryan Conlon, Kyle Price.



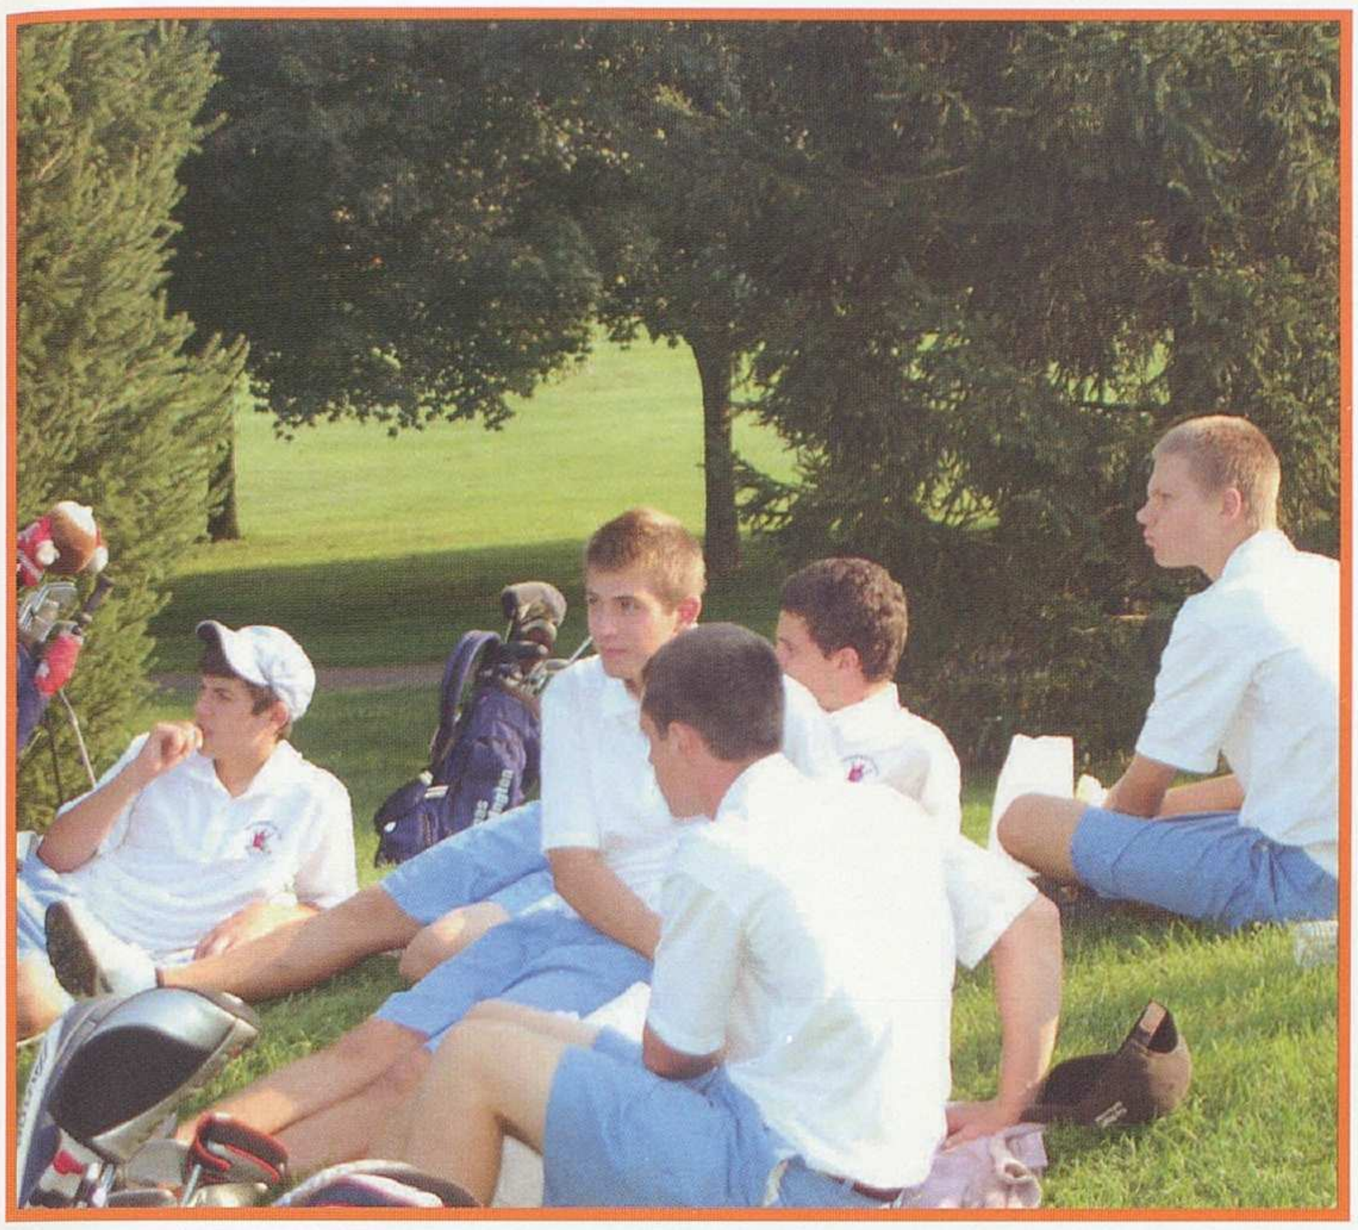
Used to being the best, senior Gordy Sjostrom is smirking at his great shot.



Fooling around as usual and showing off his great ball skills to his easily impressed teammates is junior Jack Straub.



"Please go in, please go in." Sophomore Brad Lucas hopes and prays that his ball makes it in. Not to worry Brad, it always does!



After a long and nerve wracking day on the course, the boys are found relaxing on the green.

Checking if the ball actually went into the hole, is sophomore Brad Lucas.

Aren't those golf bags heavy? Not for the TWHS Boy's Golf team. They can handle anything!

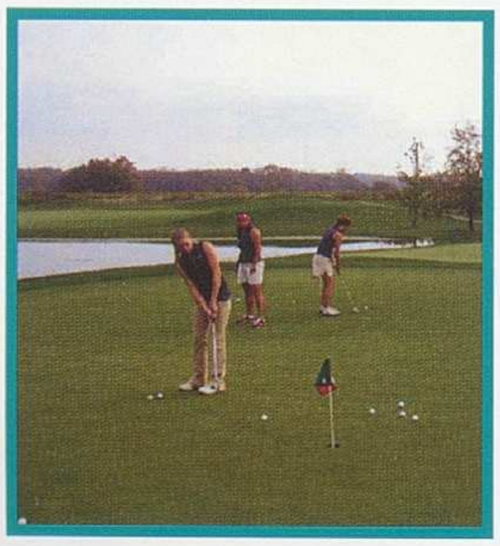
Girls Golf

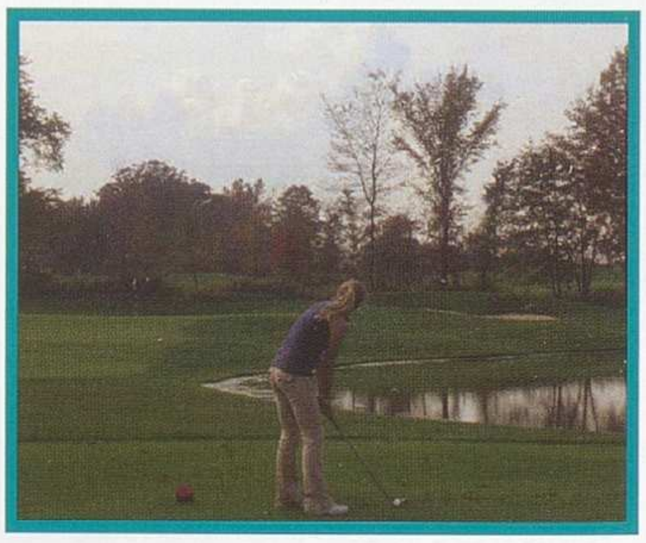
Just as they aim for the flag, these girls reached for the stars to be the first girl's golf team from TWHS to make it to districts. Way to go Cards!

(Row 1) Coach Jill Zingery, Ashley Erskine, Meryl Sudhakar, Lindsay Bate, Stephaine Price, Coach David Quart.(Row 2) Natalie Fang, Alyssa Bernard, Grace Hawkins, Christian Forbess.

This Cardinal really knows how to work her hips into her putt.



These dedicated players are practicing their putting before the match starts.



Getting ready for another 400 yard drive is Alyssa Bernard.

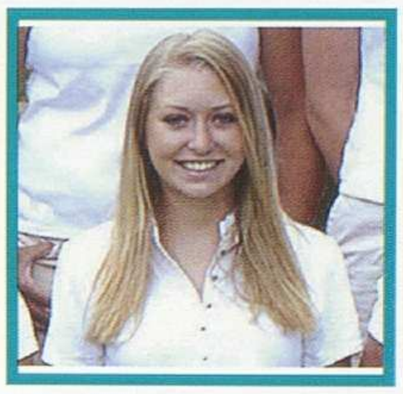
Watch out Grace Hawkins, you don't want to fall in the lake!

Sporting her eccentric pink headband, Meryl Sudakar creates her own dress code. Hopefully it's not a swing and a miss for this junior.

Captains

Over the years of playing together these girls have become very close, supporting each other through the good rounds as well as the bad.

"No girls' golf team has ever made it to districts in the ten years Thomas has had the program. It was really amazing to have been the first team to do so. I'm really going to miss playing golf next year with those girls."
-Alyssa Bernard
Senior



"We were a really close team this year which made for a great season. I want to wish good luck to all of the girls next year and I hope their season goes just as well as this one."

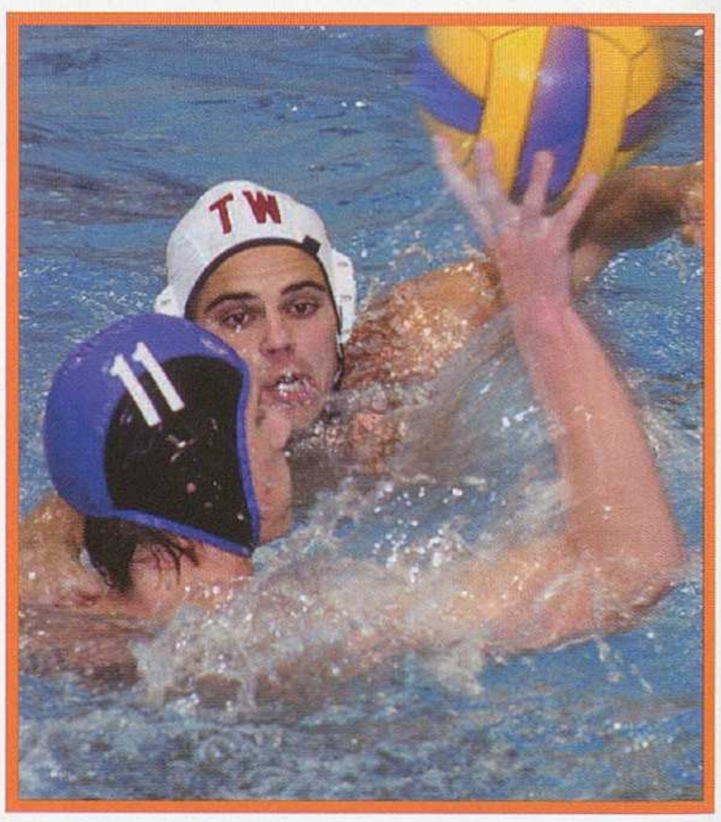
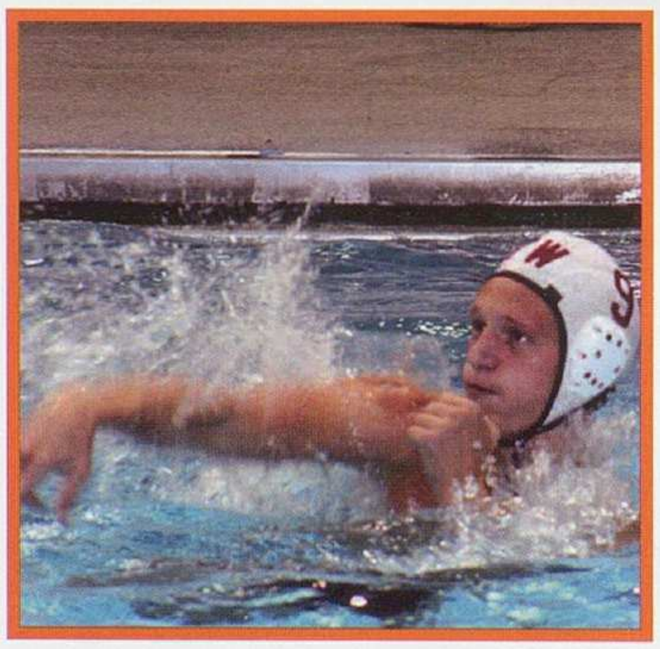
Junior Zach Rabold catches a pass.

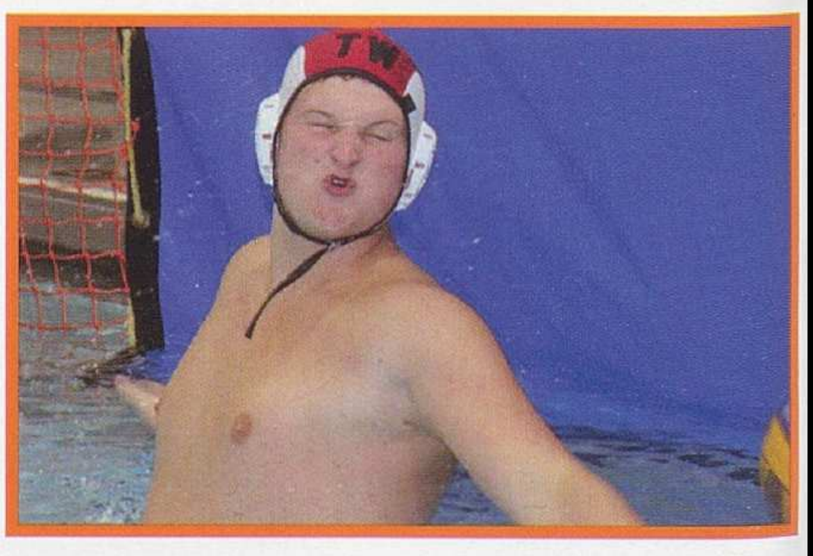


Fighting for the ball is senior Logan Swingle.



Captain Tyler Johnson watches the ball fly through the air hoping his pass will be complete.

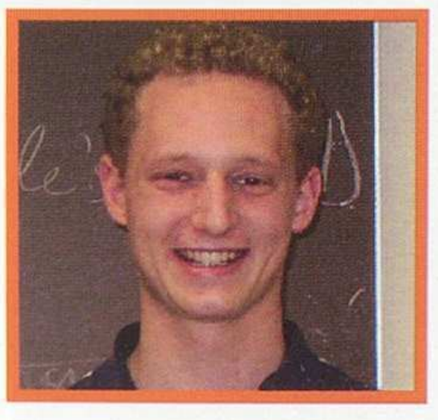
Defending the ball as he passes it across the pool to another player is Jake Kuss



Angry that he let the opposing team get a goal is the boy's water polo goalie, Joe Mayer.

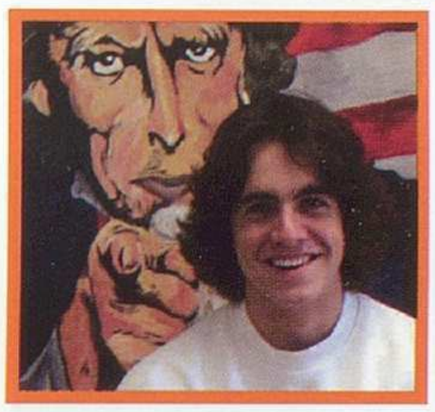
Captains

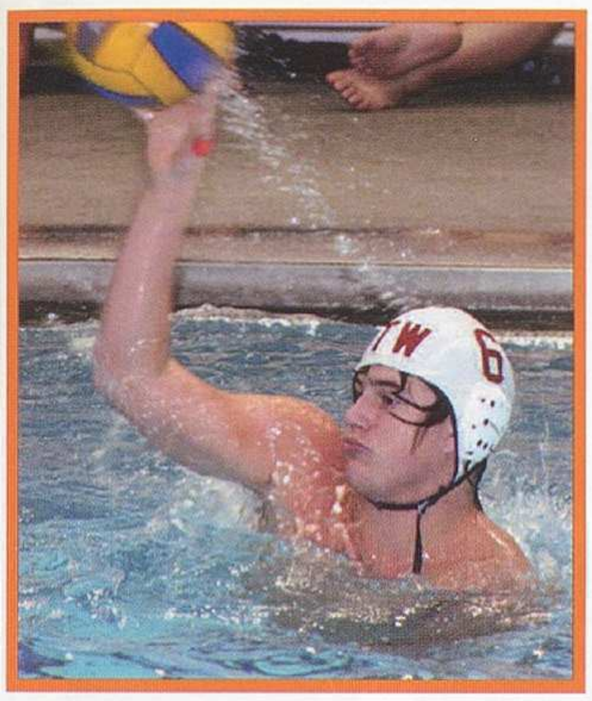
"The water polo team had a great season finishing state runners up. We had incredible team unity which attributed greatly to our success. I couldn't have asked for better teammates and friends.
-Tyler Johnson
Senior



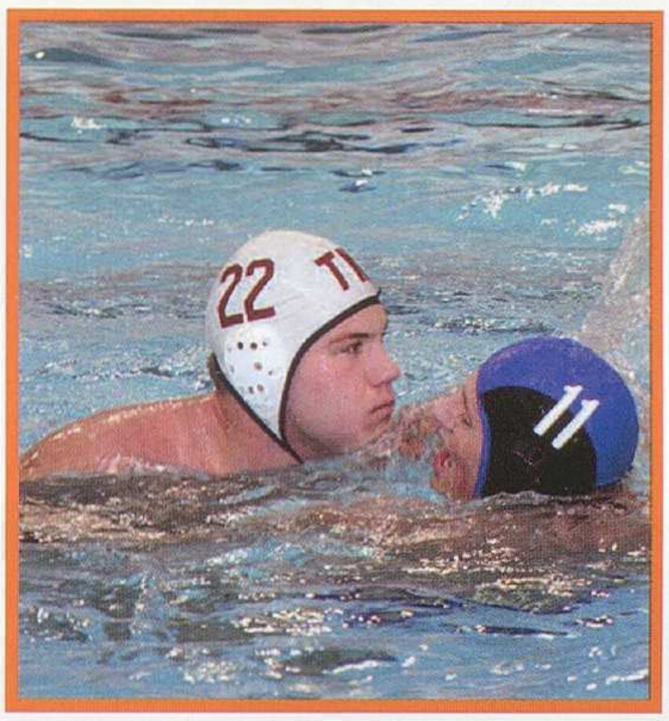
The team huddles up during a game in the State Tournament to come up with a game plan. The boys all wore the number three on their arms to honor team mate Derek Wigginton who was unable to attend the game .

"I really enjoyed playing polo this year. We did really well and it was a great way to end my senior year"
-Jake Kuss
Senior

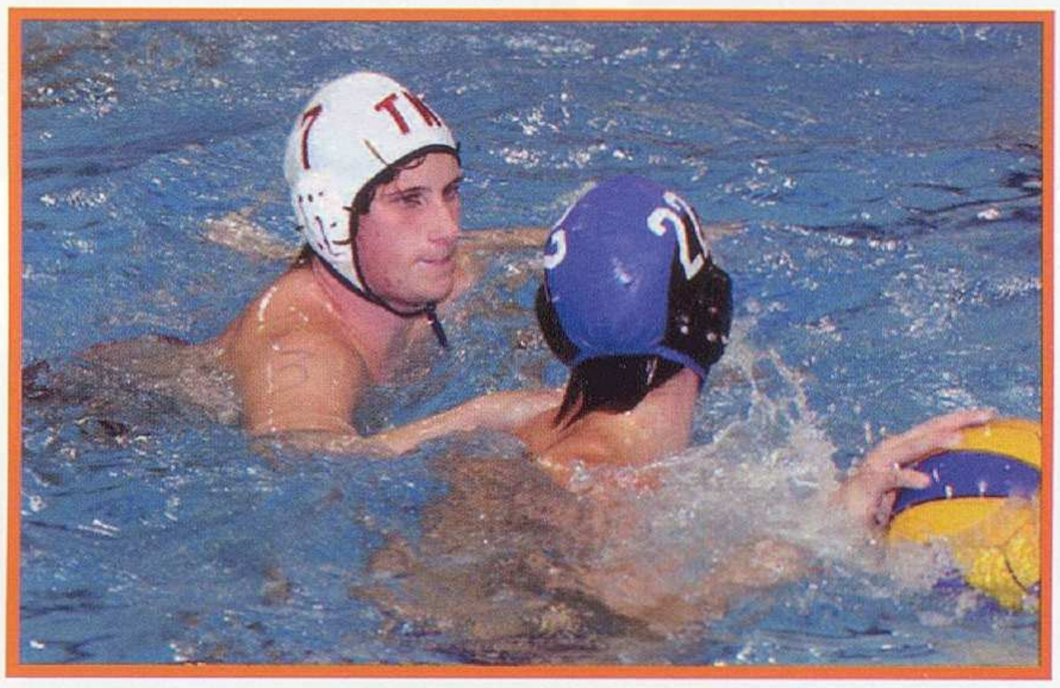




Concentrating on catching the ball and making a goal is David Alison.



Ryan Guegold blocks an opposing player from getting the ball



2007 Honorable Mention awardee, Aaron Thomas is a great swimmer and always keeps up with his opponents.

The team gets a pep talk before a big game in the State finals.

First Team All-Ohio: Tyler Johnson, Jake Kuss, John Guegold.
Honorable Mention All-Ohio: Aaron Thomas.
Most Valuable Player: Jake Kuss, Tyler Johnson.

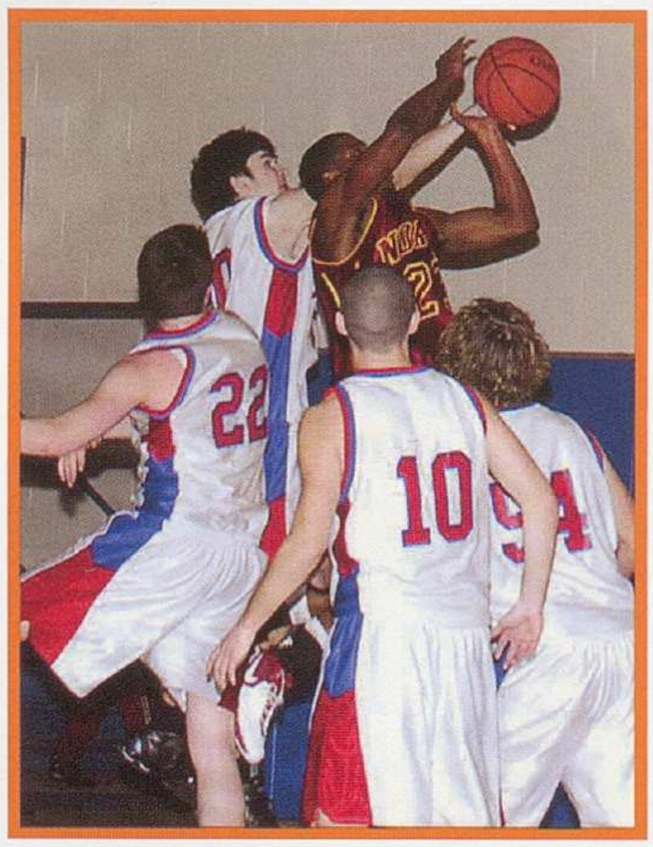
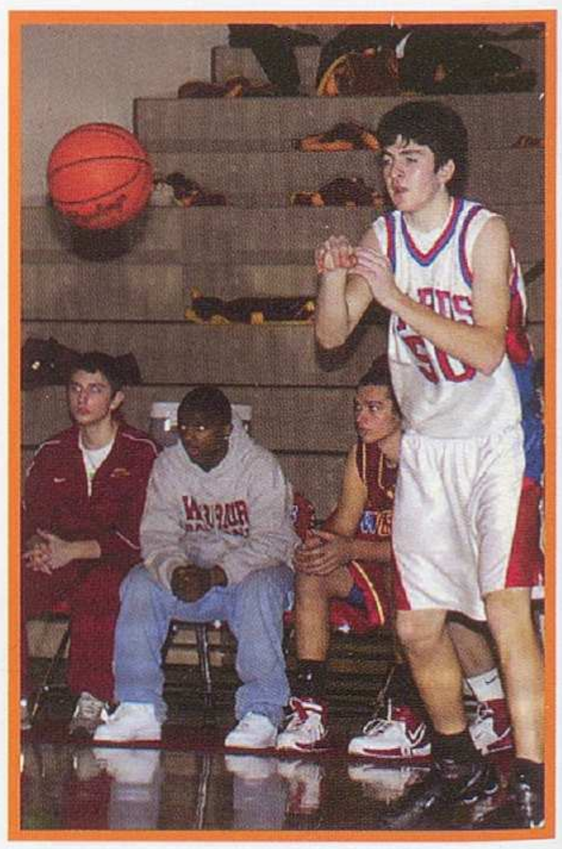
Senior Nate Edick, OCC First Team, passes the ball to his teammate then runs back door for the open shot.

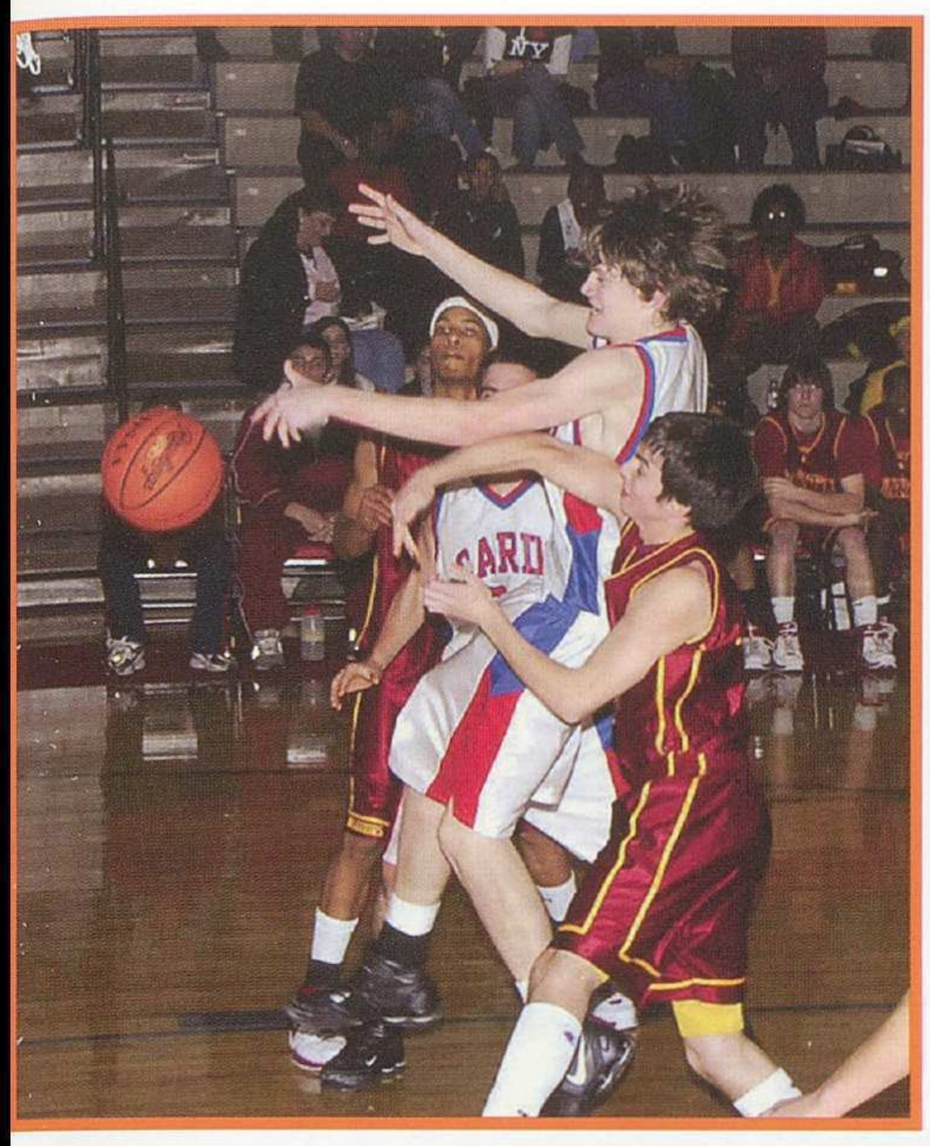


This Westerville North player has no chance against our mighty Cardinal defense.

Casey Jewett gets his hands ready to catch a perfect chest pass from a teammate.



Captains



Blocking the opposing team's shot is the very tall junior, Justin Hallowell.

Jump stop. Head up. See the floor. Jarrett Cowgill has a lot going through his mind.

"Good luck to next year's team and do what we did."
-Nate Edick

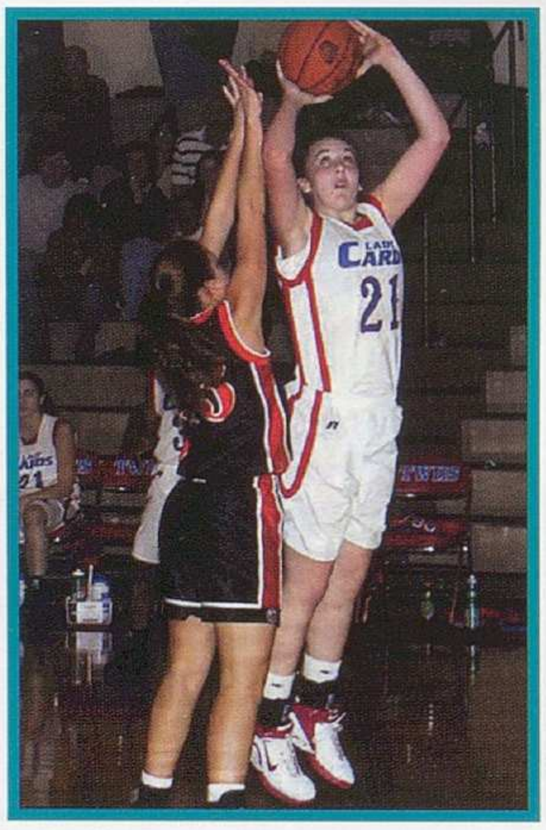
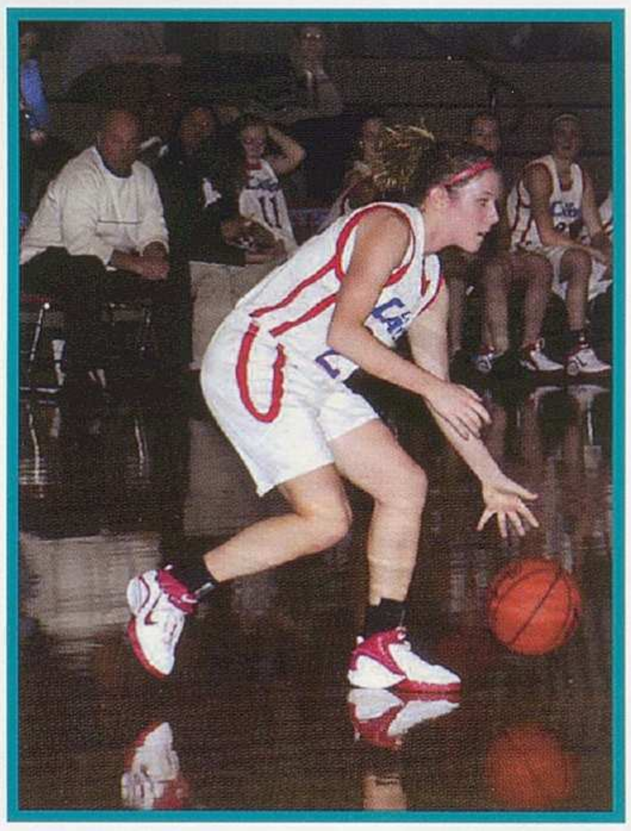
OCC Honorable Mention Sarah Granger won't let anyone stop her from taking a shot in the key.





As planned, senior Lindsay acts as Bate to draw the defense towards her. What the opposing team didn't see coming was an easy bounce pass and an easy lay-up. Nice work Lindsay!

Taking a break and getting defense tips from their coach are a few underclassmen of the varsity team.

Captains

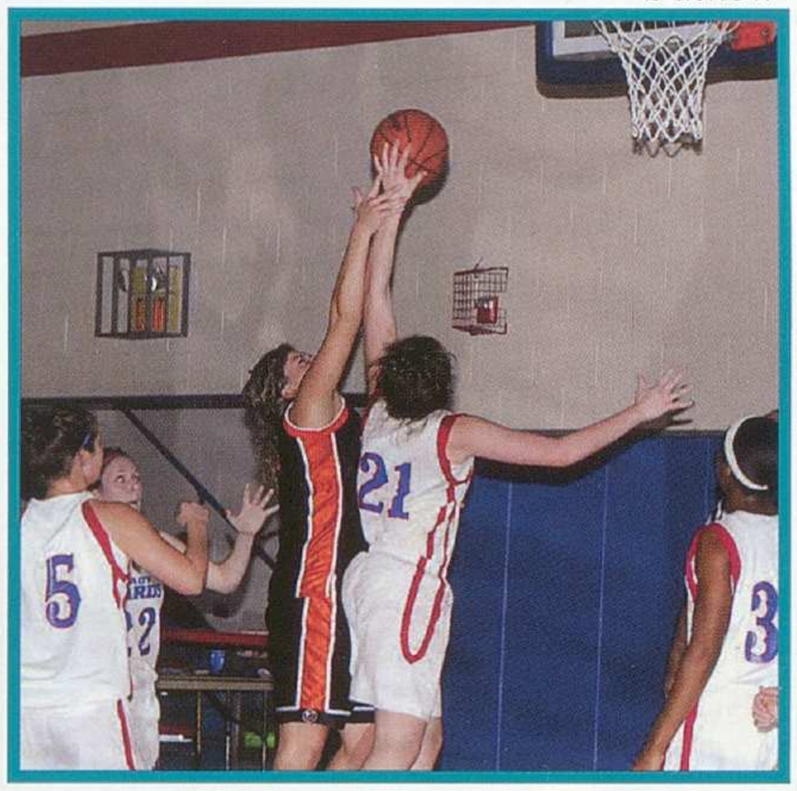
Coach Ed Marsman calls a timeout to show his team a new play that will get them to the basket.

Junior Erika Andrade shows off her outstanding follow through before sinking the basket.

Even though I would have liked to end my four years with a better record, that is not always the most important thing. I have learned so much and have really grown because of all of these experiences.
-Lindsay Bate
Senior

I am glad that out of all the schools, that I chose to attend Thomas Worthington. These past two years have been difficult in regards to winning but I never could have imagined the positive impact the would have on me.
-Christian Forbess
Senior

Point Guard Paige Stewart keeps her cool waiting for her soon to be open teammate.



Working together under the basket, the Lady Cards fight to gain possession of the ball.

Too quick for her defender is junior Aricka Rhodes already set to take the three point shot.

Lauren Graham prepares herself before her tumble pass that will end with a back tuck.

Maria Fishwick, Lauren Graham, Kenzie Bruck, Tonya Sherman, Riain Carter.

(Row 1) Carolyn Michael, Ashley Gabel, Morgan Clarke.
(Row 2) Molly McFall, Aimee Clark.

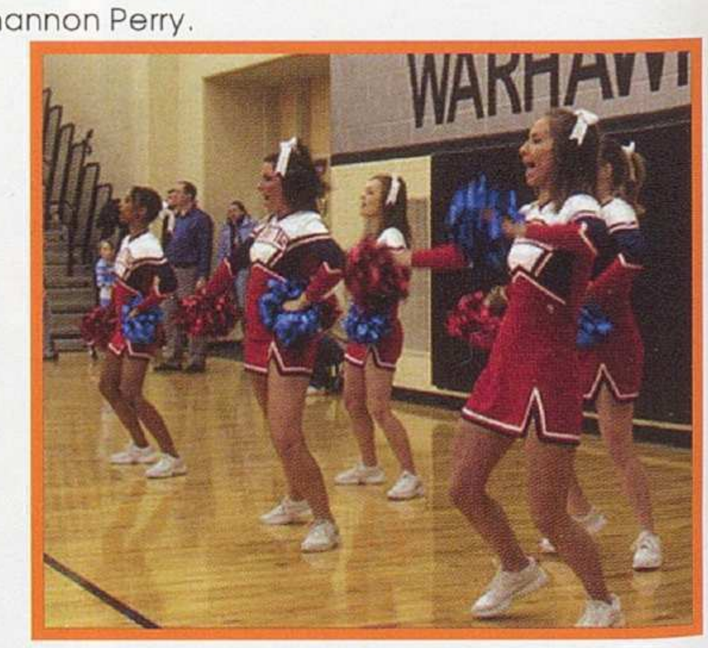
While anxiously waiting for the game to begin, the girls pose for a team picture.

First year cheering at TWHS, senior Stacy Edington brought more than just perfect motions to the squad, she is an outstanding tumbler.

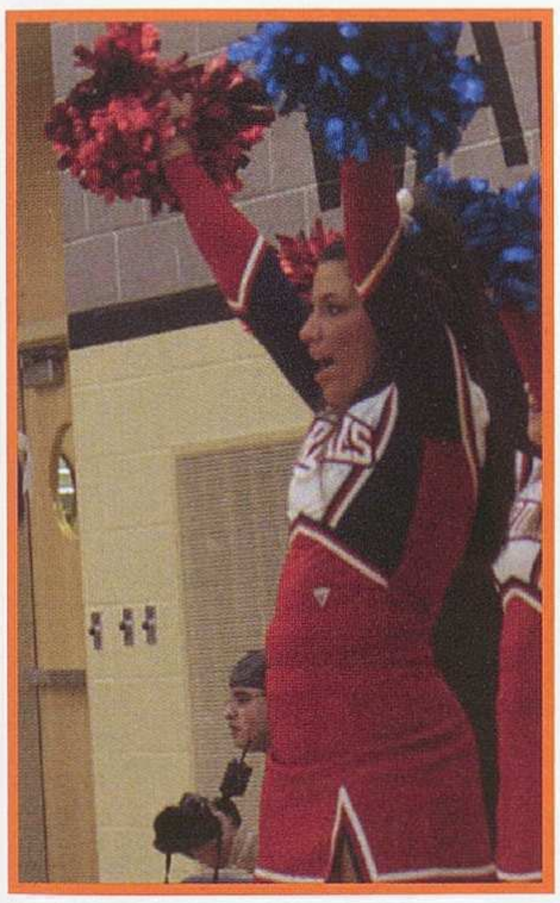


Beginning the game with their favorite chants, "Go! Go Cards GO!" is the 2007 varsity squad.

Captains

After another victory these girls are more than happy to stop for a quick photo shoot. Senior Rachel Barezinsky made it to every game, reminding her teammates to cheer louder and keep smiling!

"Were really going to miss cheering next year, we have been so close since freshman year. Every experience from these past seasons will be treasured, especially how Rachel was with us at every game helping us cheer and cheering us on. Get it girls!"

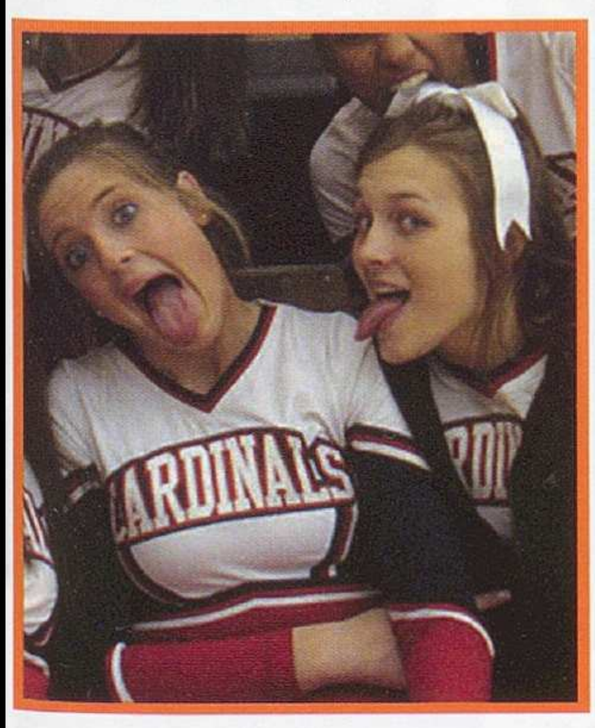


Kenzie Bruck always gets the team pumped up and leads the crowd in every cheer.

During a timeout the girls show off a cheer to their fans.

"OF-FENSE," exclaims senior Tonya Sherman, trying to pump up the boy's basketball team.

The cheerleaders hold up their poms to support our guys attempt at a foul shot, hoping the shot will go in.



Junior Riain Carter and Sophomore Maria Fishwick have no problem being silly around their older teammates.

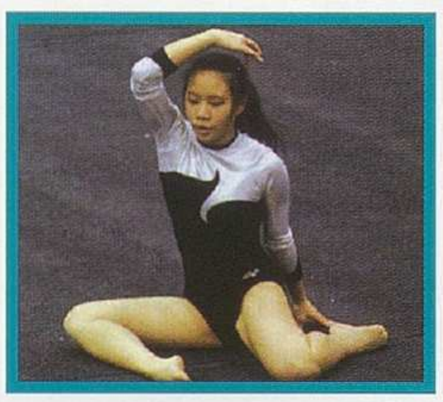
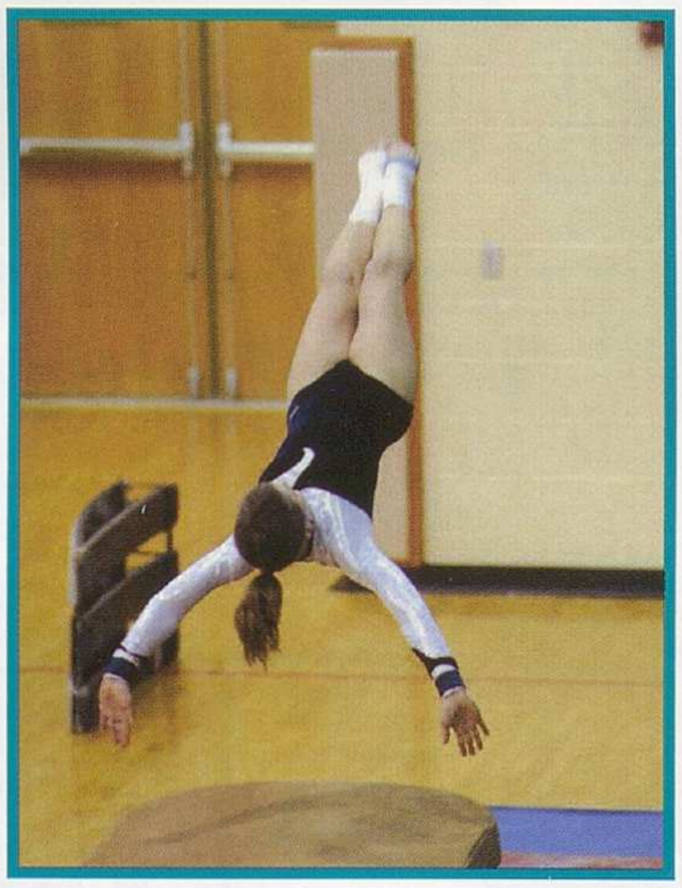
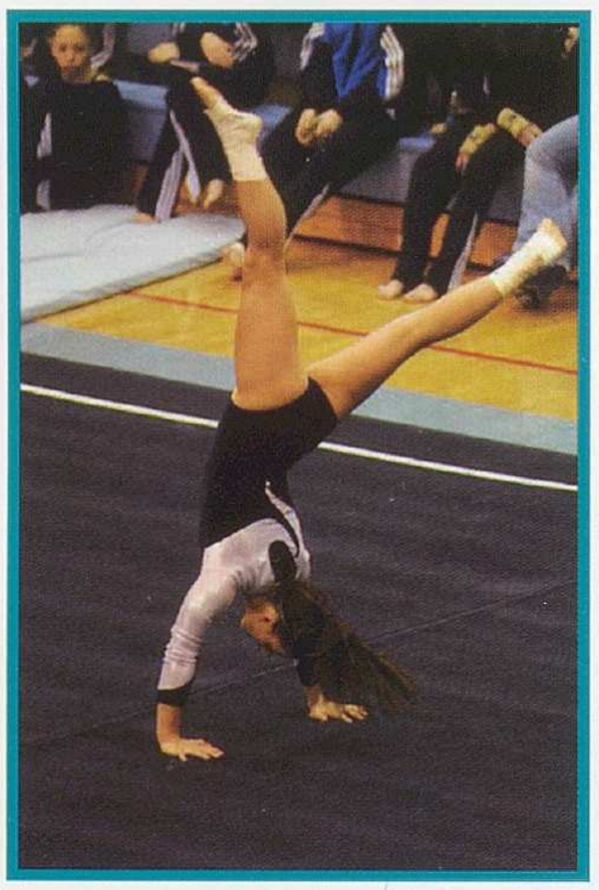
Allie Wood sure knows how to make flying five feet in the air upside down look simple. How long did that take to perfect Allie?

"Yes, I'm done and I killed it." Both Stephanie Wong and Lauren Roggenkamp are ecstatic with their floor routines and are glad that they are finished.

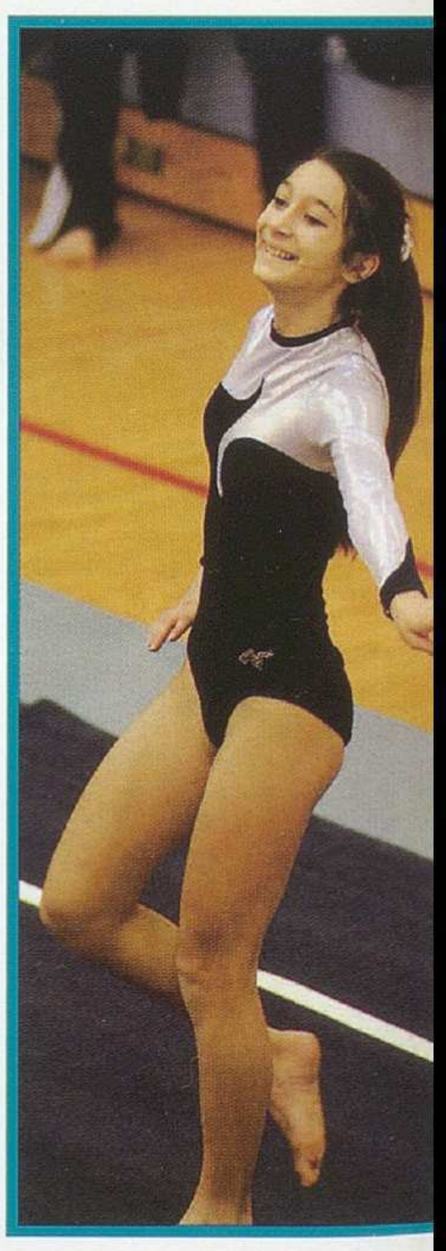




Looking extremely graceful is Nadine Broch as she begins her backwards flip.



Kylee Cunningham is showing off her strength yet keeping her grace as she works her magic on her floor routine.



Happy with her performance and anxious to see how she scored is Calli Cautela.

Captains

What are you doing Lisa Appel? Acting crazy as usual the TWHS gymnasts are huddling on the floor and getting pumped to take on the next team.

"I was very pleased with our season and hope it goes just as well if not better next year."
-Teresa Moore

Softball

Stepping into her curve ball is senior Mira McPeek.

(Row 2) Rachel May, Kayla McPeek, Paige Stewart, Erica Blackburn, Bailie Forte, Miriam Said, Alex Reid, Alicia Fusco.

"I got it, I got it!" yells Erica Evans to her teammate Emily Adams, who stands close by cautiously watching.

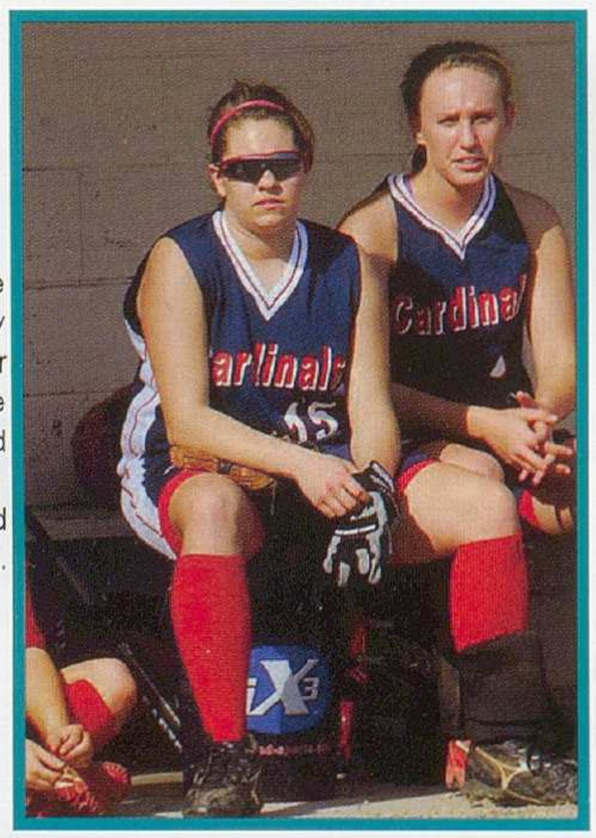
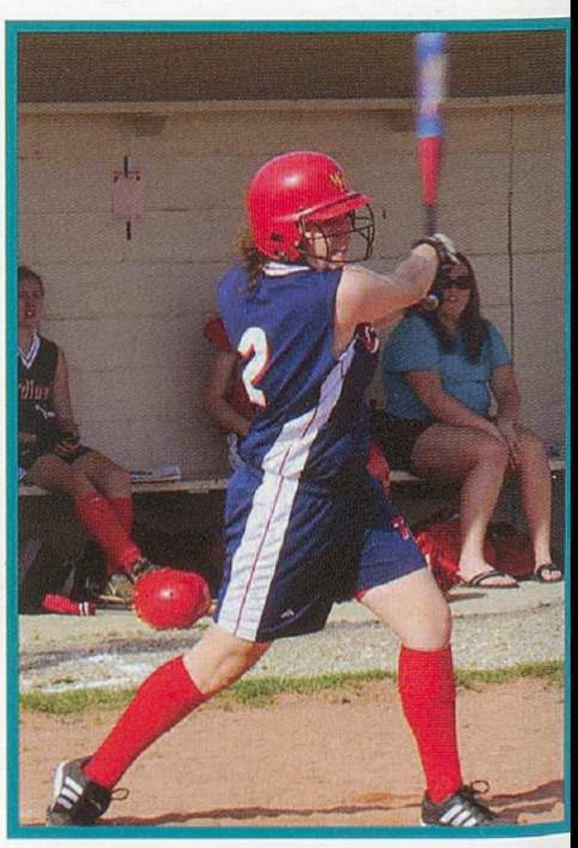
Scorched from the sun but intently observing their team kick some butt on the field are Jen Horton and Gillian McCarthy.



Telling the ball to go straight into the catchers mit with her eyes, is Emily Bogenschutz.

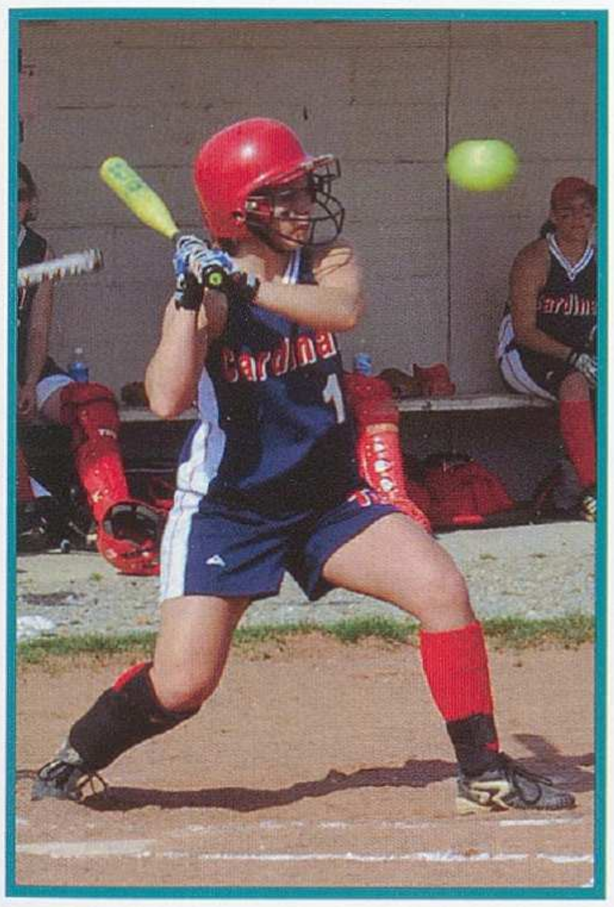
In a victory pose after hitting the ball out of the park is Rachel May.



The girls huddle around their coach to get some new and sneaky plays to win the game.

"Wait for it...wait for it.." Paige Stewart teases the ground with her foot waiting to throw the ball to her teammate.

Alex Reid kneels like an expert and makes catching balls look as easy as apple pie.



Mira McPeek waits for the right moment to whack the ball as hard as she can.

Gracefully sliding into first before her opponent gets her out is Gillian McCarthy.

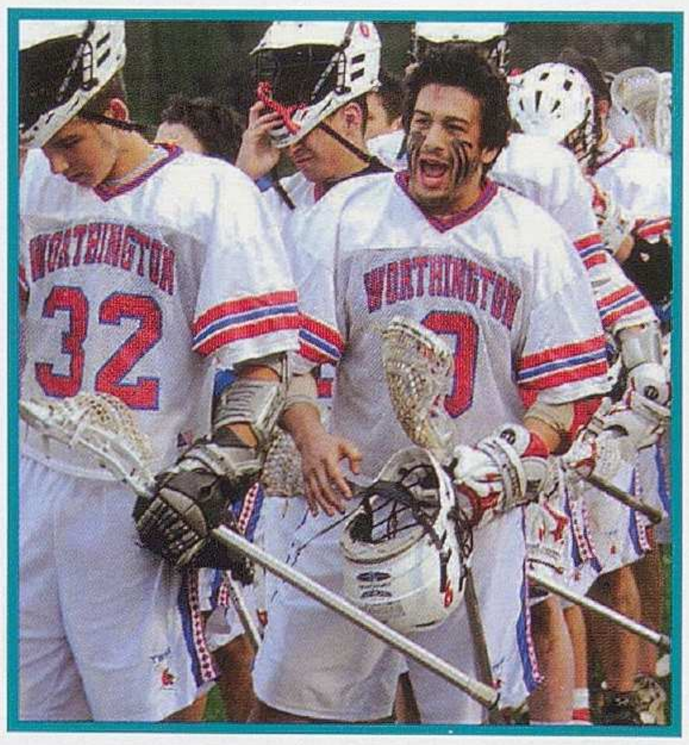
Sillanpaa, P. Steiner, K. Hann, H. Smith, N. Dillard, C. Lisi, M. Glanz, J. Hagerman, N. McCarville, N. Ashworth, D. Stasel.

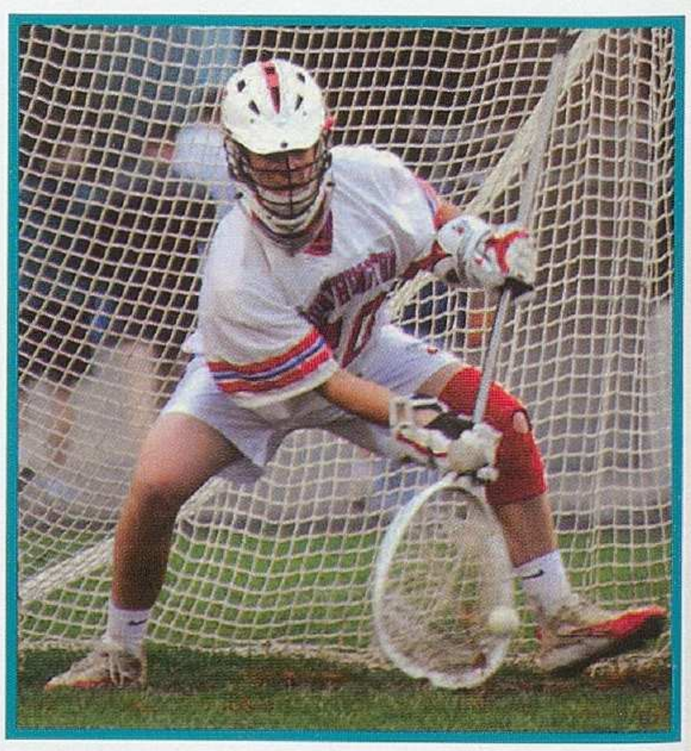
On a mission to get to the goal is junior Ben Gifford. You got it Ben!

The Davidson boys don't know what to do when John Haldeman is around. He is really intimidating on the lacrosse field.



"Yeahhhh," senior Mike Mordoh screams as his the team is introduced.

Showing off some skin as he races to the ball is junior Brett "Cougar" Hoffman.

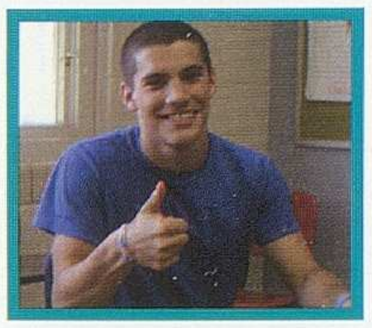


Stephen Ford walks it out as he makes a great save as goalie.

Captains

In a grueling face off is sophomore Kyle Carey.

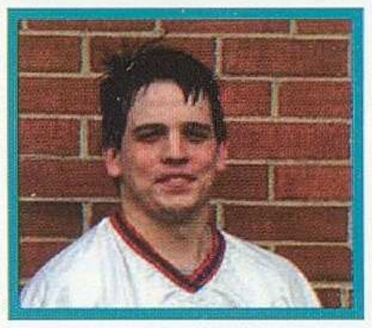
" This season has had its ups and downs, but has been a great experience over all. Two things that stick out in my mind are Kraus's wisecracks and Fresh McGua."
-Jared Gonzales
Senior



"Show up and blow up."
-Nate Tarr
Senior

"I'll miss the seniors next year, but I'm really looking forward to next season."
-Ben Gifford
Junior

" Even though I won't be here next year, I will always remember high school lacrosse."
-John Haldeman
Senior



Hilliard Davidson boys really don't pay attention to details. It's a good thing that Tommy Hilliard noticed that the ball was on the ground and not in the air.

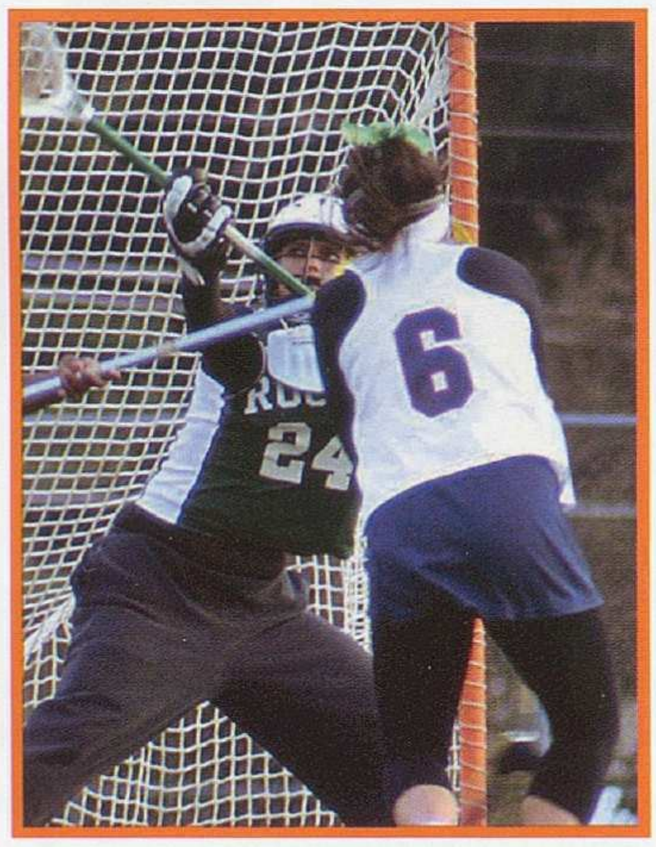
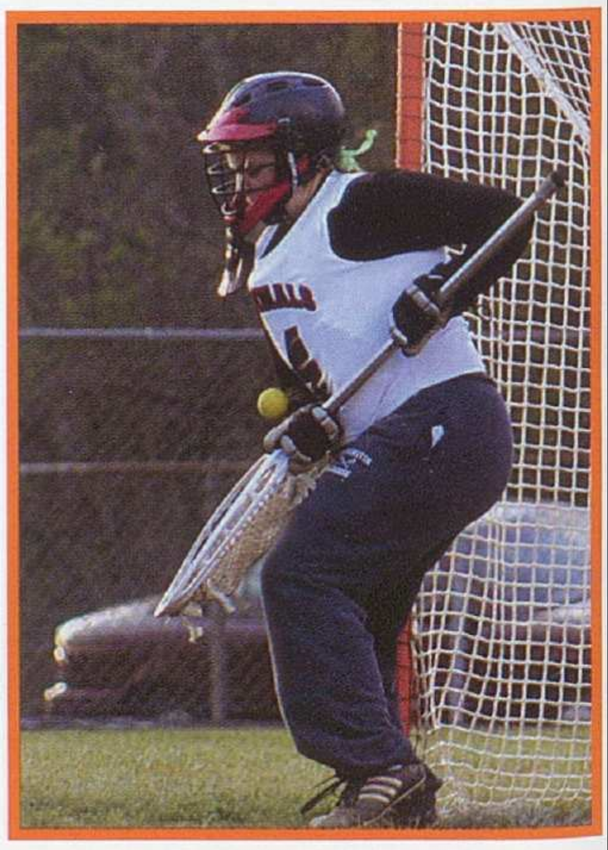
Tara Benninger will do whatever it takes to keep the ball away from the opponent.

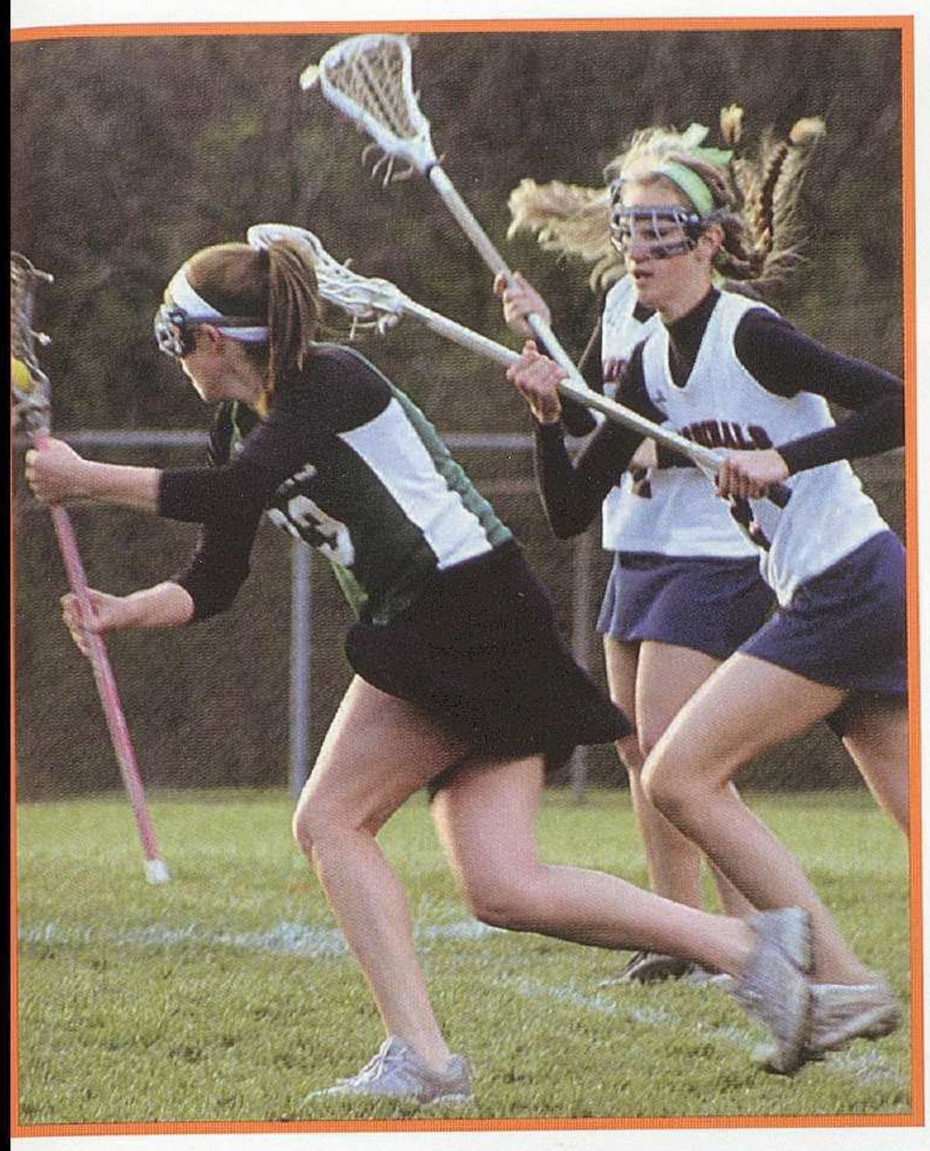


Senior Liz Palmer does a sneak attack as she makes the first goal of the night. Way to go Liz!

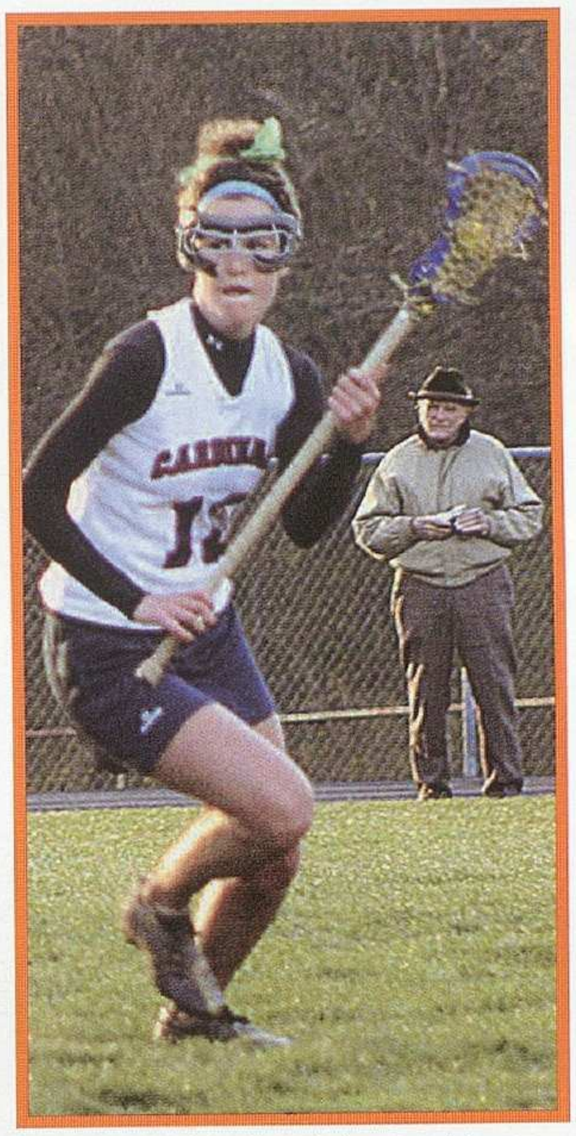
Goalie, Misty Gibbs stands in the perfect stance while she prevents the ball from going into the goal.



Captains



"Get back here..." yells Megan Strasser as she hunts down the Shamrocks.



Karen Skelton fakes out her opponent by running the opposite way.

"This season was pretty sweet. We improved a lot this year, and it was really fun."
-Kelsey Brinkman
Junior

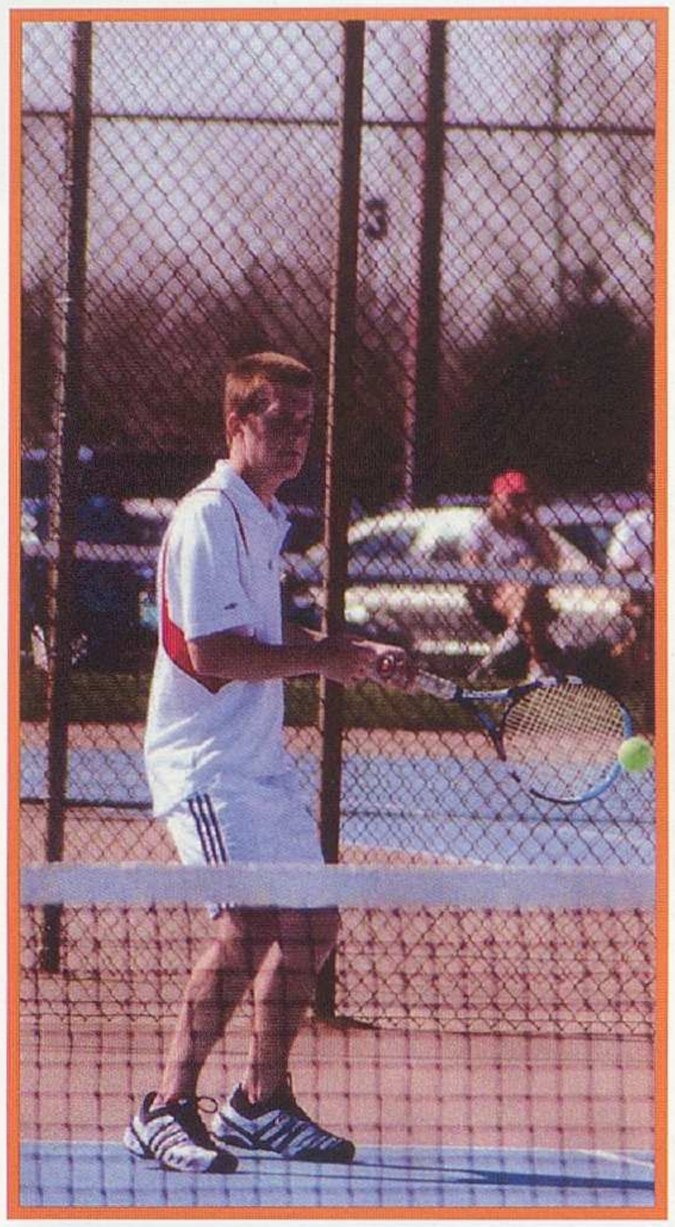
Boys Tennis



Confidently hitting the tennis ball is senior Michael Rottenbiller.

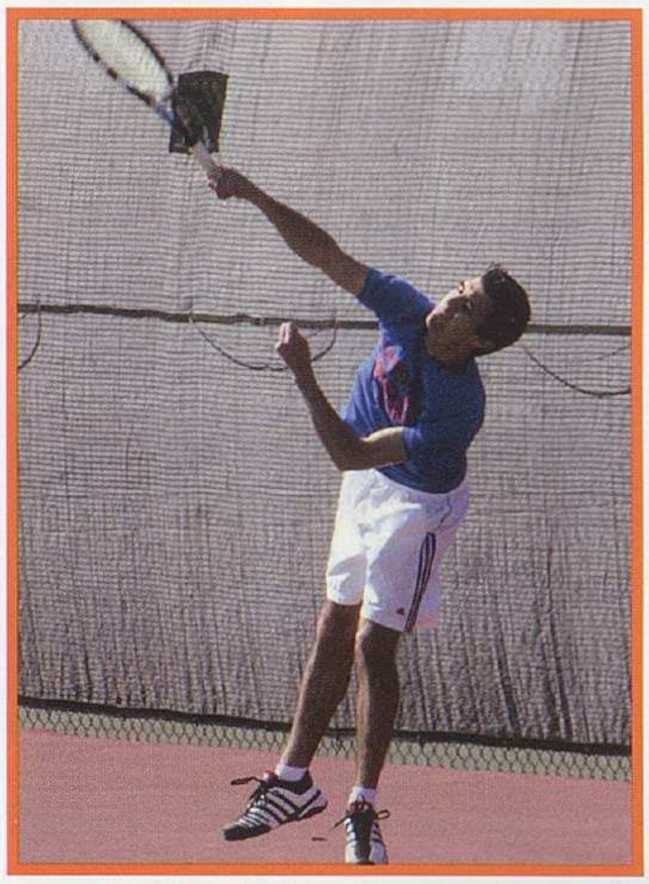
(Row 2) Erich Rottenbiller, Michael Rottenbiller, Matt Hemmelgarn, Nick Wortman, Michael Meyer.



Michael Meyer, this is tennis not gymnastics!

(Row 2) Seung-Wan Paik, Goro Soma, Karthik Hari, Maxwell Bruch, Christopher Brodkin, Chris Shumaker.

Scared that he might miss the ball, Tyler Cempre, holds his breath. Tyler had a great season this year at first singles.

"We love being seniors!" The seniors on the tennis team smile with joy to finally be done after a very successful year.

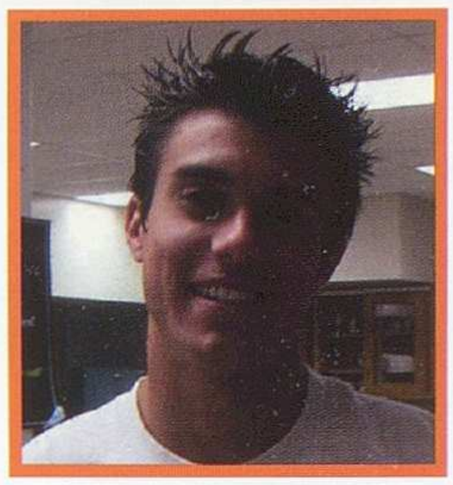
Giving his opponent the look of death is Matt Hammelgarn. He wants to make sure that everyone knows he just won his point fair and square.

Captains

While playing tennis, Matt Hemmelgarn likes to do a little dance.

Visualizing the ball as his enemies face is Nick Wortman.

"This was one of the best seasons for tennis. We made it really far in tournaments and we played really well."
-Michael Meyer
Senior

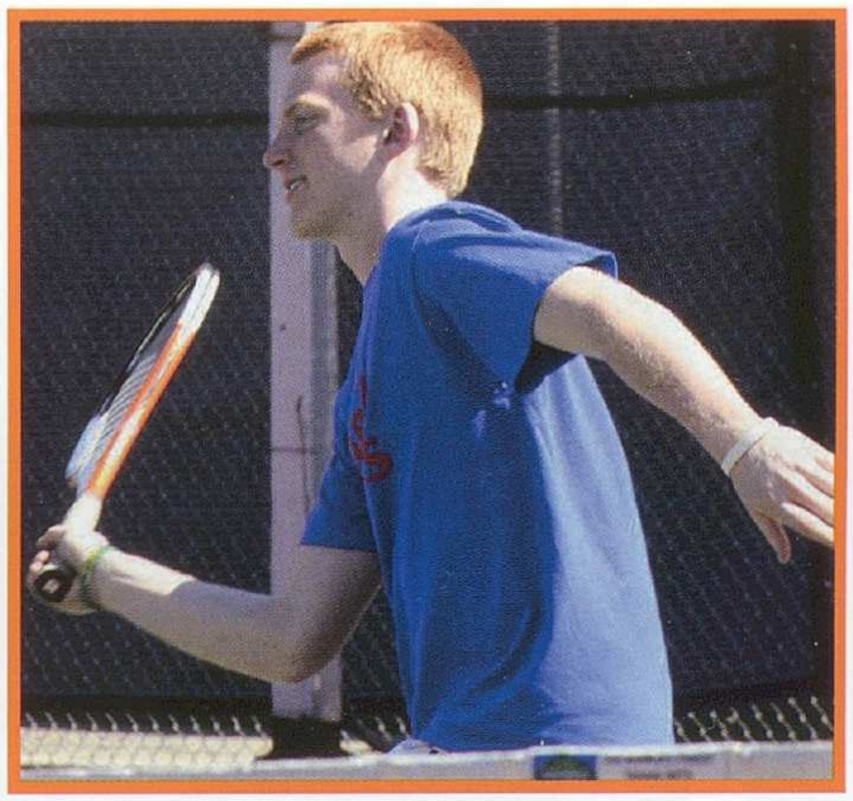


Overall Record: 10 wins 7 losses

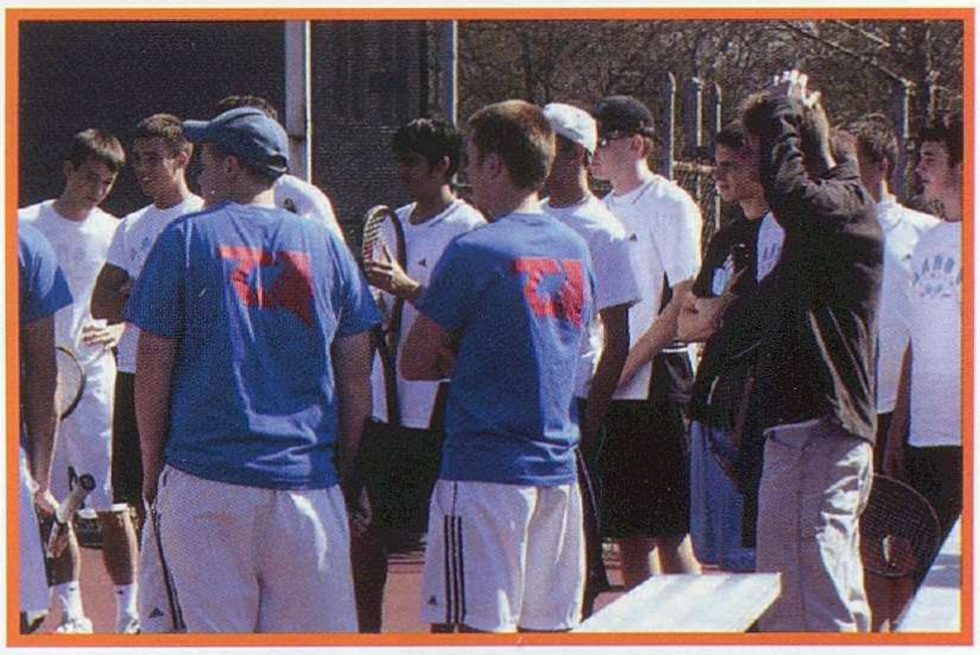
OCC Record: 4 wins 1 loss

Second Place OCC tournament

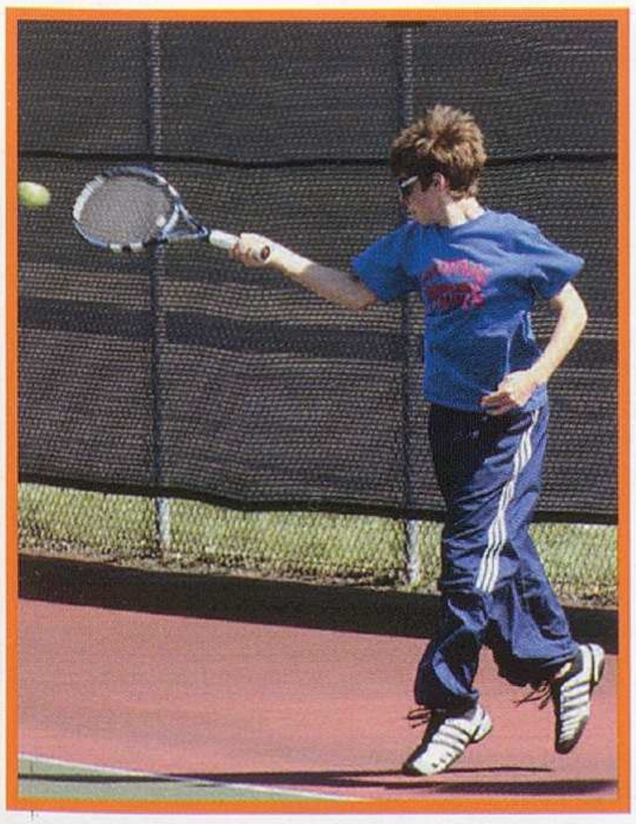
"Please STOP, " thinks Tyler Spears as he swings his racket to hit the ball.



Smiling because it's matchpoint is Erich Rottenbiller.



The boys tennis team stands in their lineup and waits for their names to be called so the matches can begin.



Baywatch Models watch out, here comes Russel Severence running through.

"Smack that.. ball on the court, smack that.. and win some points," says Akon to Luke Maxwell.

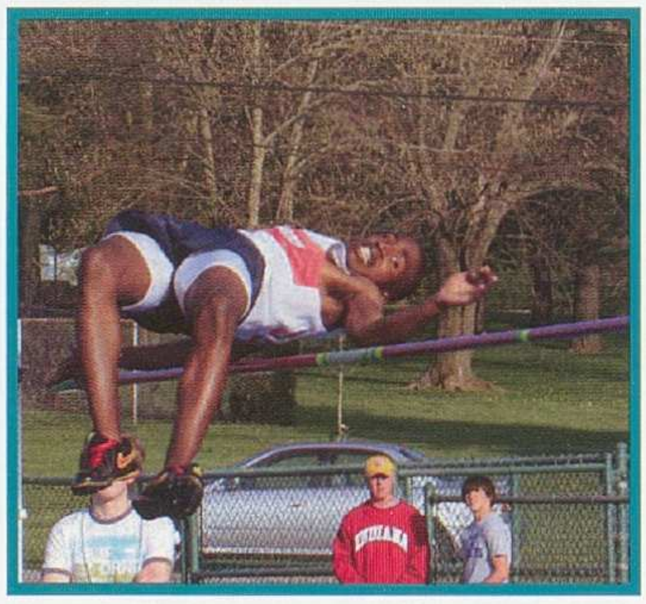
The Hermes of Track and Field is Cameron Coleman. He is so light on his feet it appears he is flying.

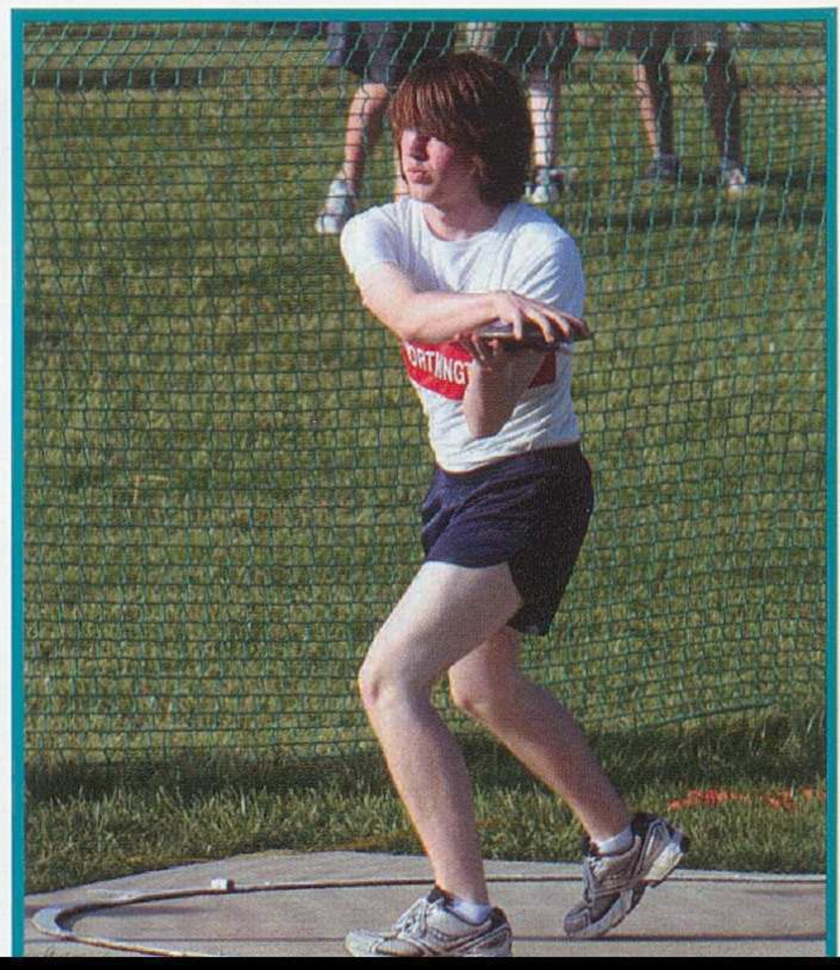
Henry Heisey gives the thumbs up to his fans as he runs by.



"I can see you little camera man.." says Frank Mells cheesing for the camera.

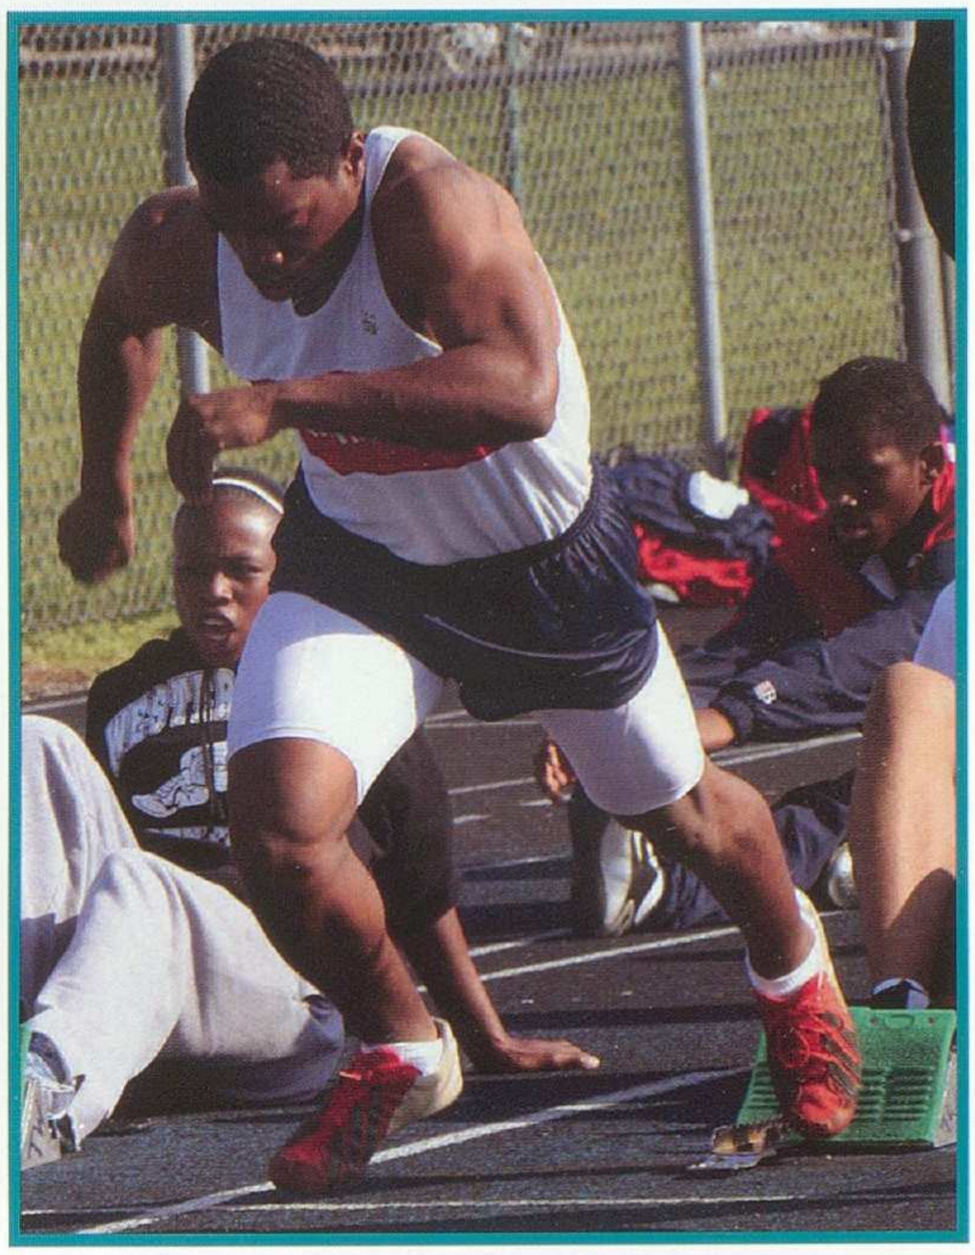
Madison Murphy is running as hard as he can. He is trying to get away from the smell emanating from Tim Dignan and Josh Palmer.

Silly Eric! This is track not baseball. Eric Allen had a slight lapse of memory before his competition began.



"Ahhh...I'm coming" screams Justin Grubb to his teammate Ben Weisenberger while they are competing in hurdles.

Defying gravity is Mike Richards. He always makes pole vaulting look simple and fun.



Peter Walker pushes it to the limit to win his race. Rick Ross is waiting for him at the finish line.

Senior Andrew Norris charges into the battle known as Cardinal Track and Field. Good luck Andrew.

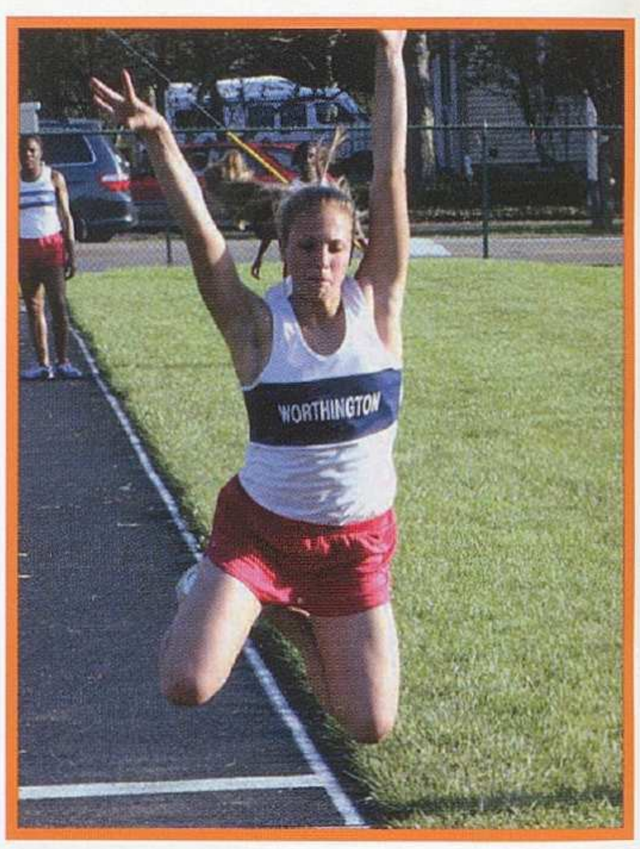
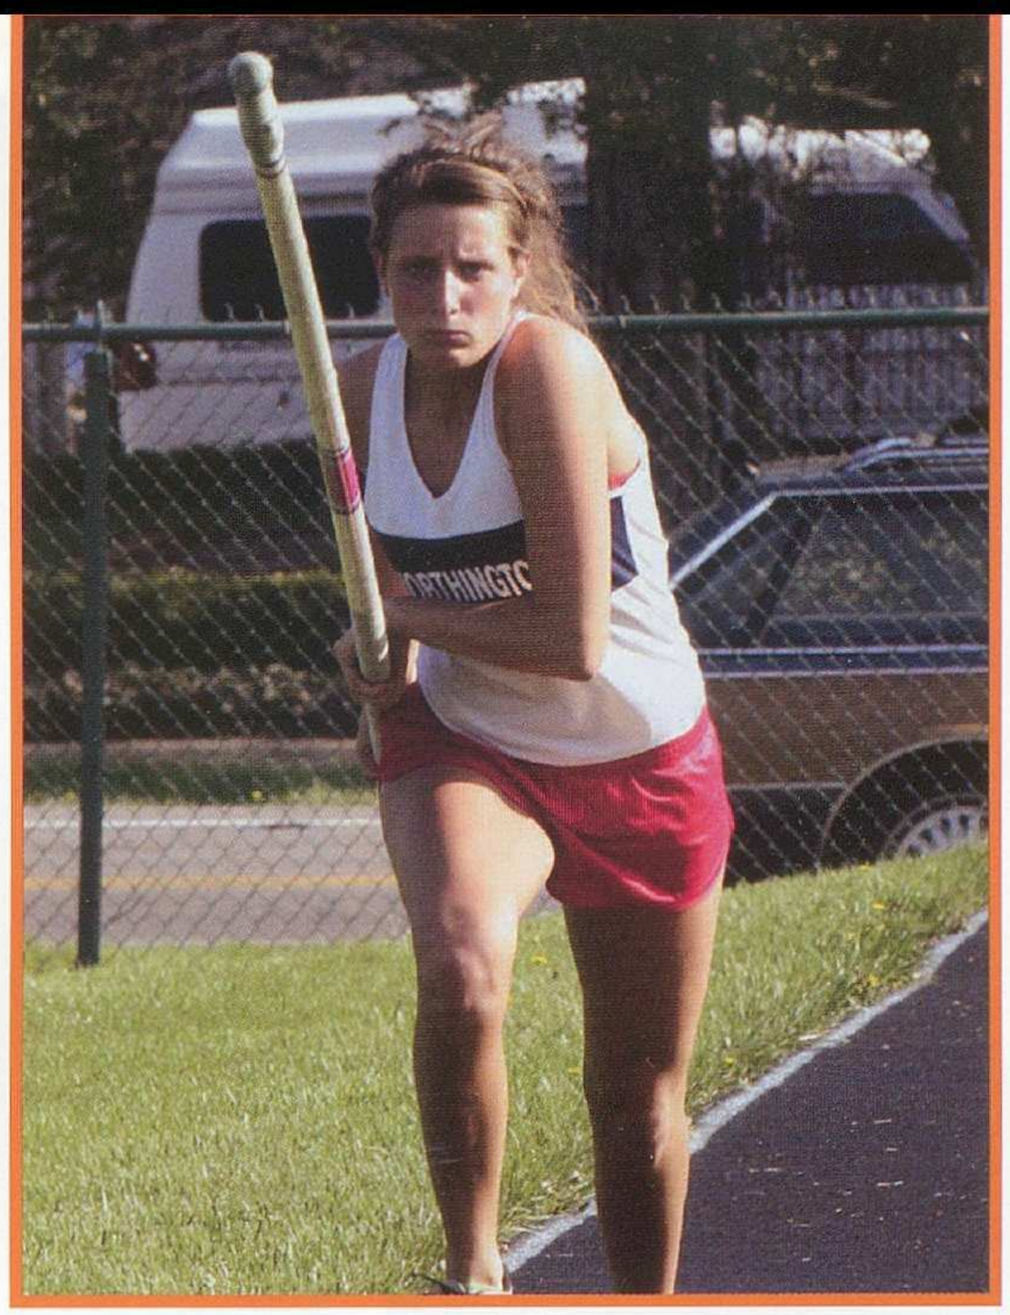
"We're Ballin," think the TWHS girls Greta Mwiruki and Allie Wood as they compete in the long jump.



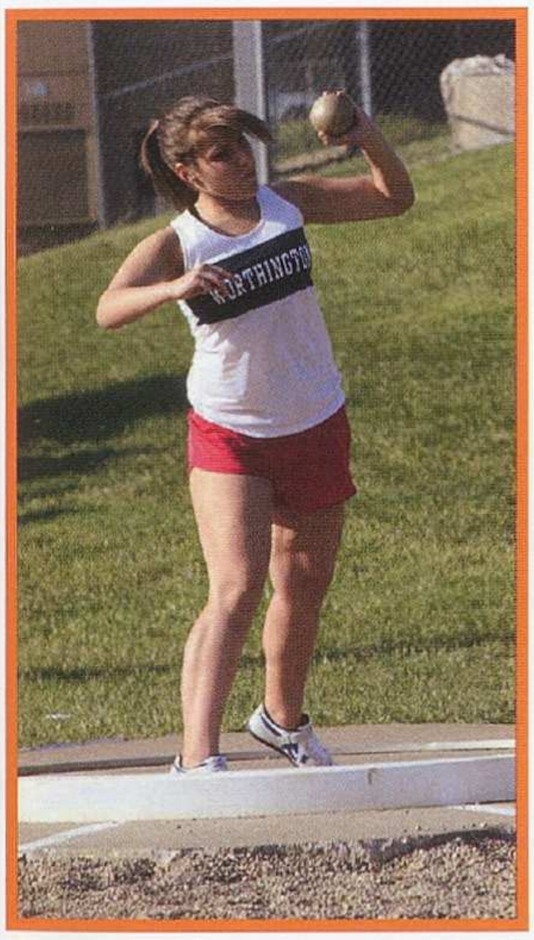
Waving her hands in the air because she just doesn't care is Kelsey McAlpine.

So comfortable with the track that she can take a little cat nap while running is senior Nicole Zinni.

The girls play follow the leader on the track. Line leader today is Tiffany Sias followed by Brittney Hartlaub, Megan Nafziger, Courtney Kinsel.



Ready to charge into battle is warrior woman Amanda Arnold.



Emily Sisco warms up before the shotput competition by throwing the ball around.

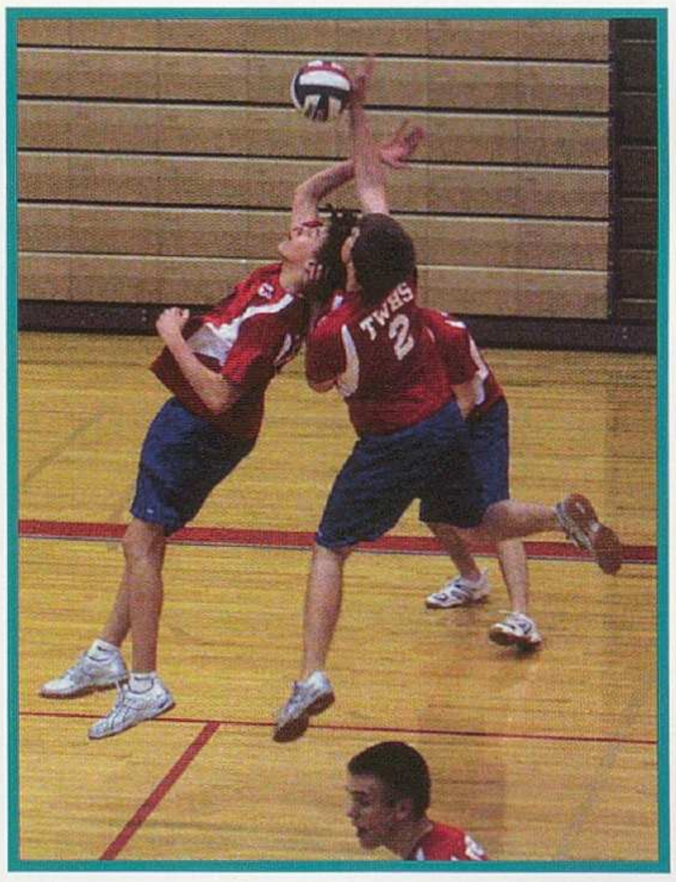
Boys Volleyball

Yavor Kiryako keeps his eyes on the ball so he can serve an Ace.

(Row 1) Drew Daugherty, Nick Murden, Coach Chris Manganello, Derek Weinrich, Braden Alsnauer.
(Row 2) Yavor Kiryakov, Tyler Savage, Steve Tatz, Ahmed Saheen.



The boys forgot to call "mine" during a very important time in the game.

(Row 1) Coach Matt Canterbury, Chase Rodwell, Leo Bennett, Nick Murden.

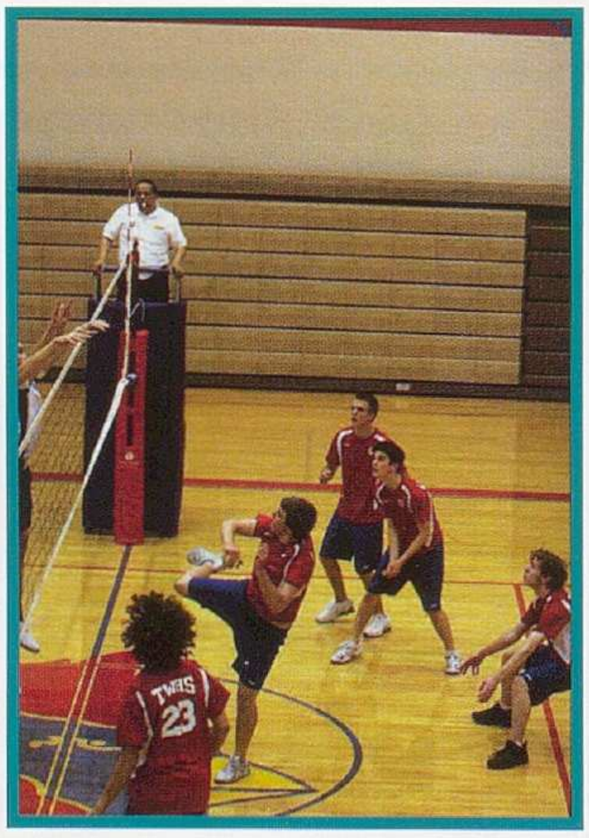
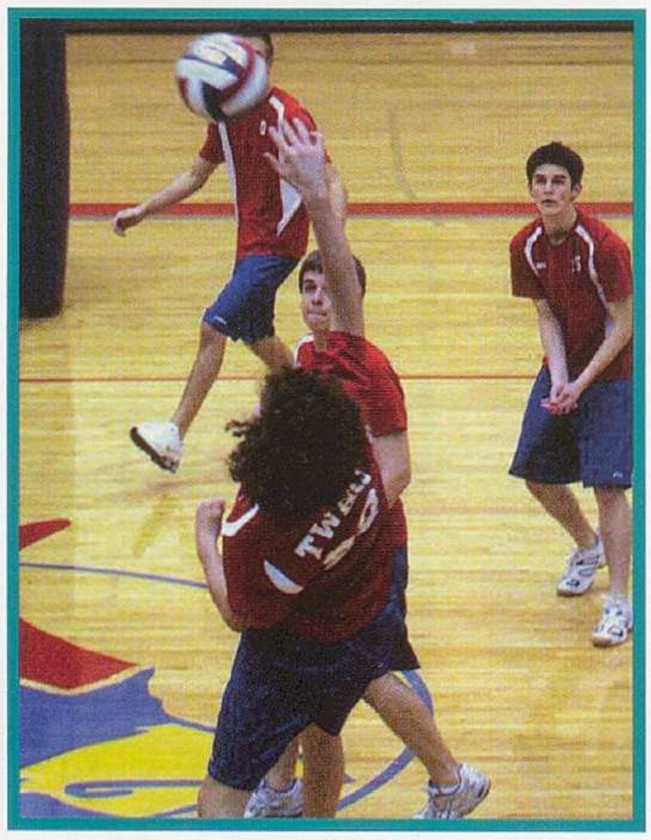
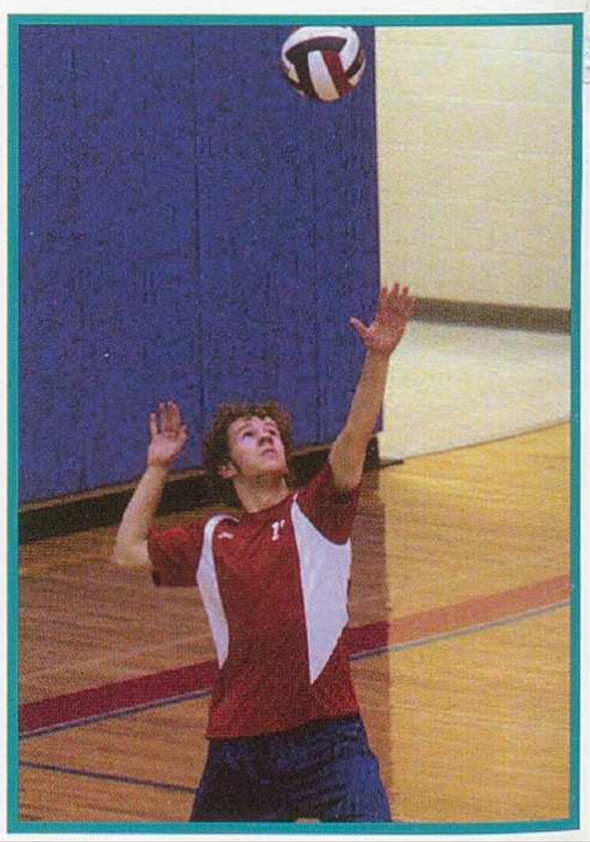
Utilizing the new rule that allows you to kick in volleyball is Drew Daugherty.



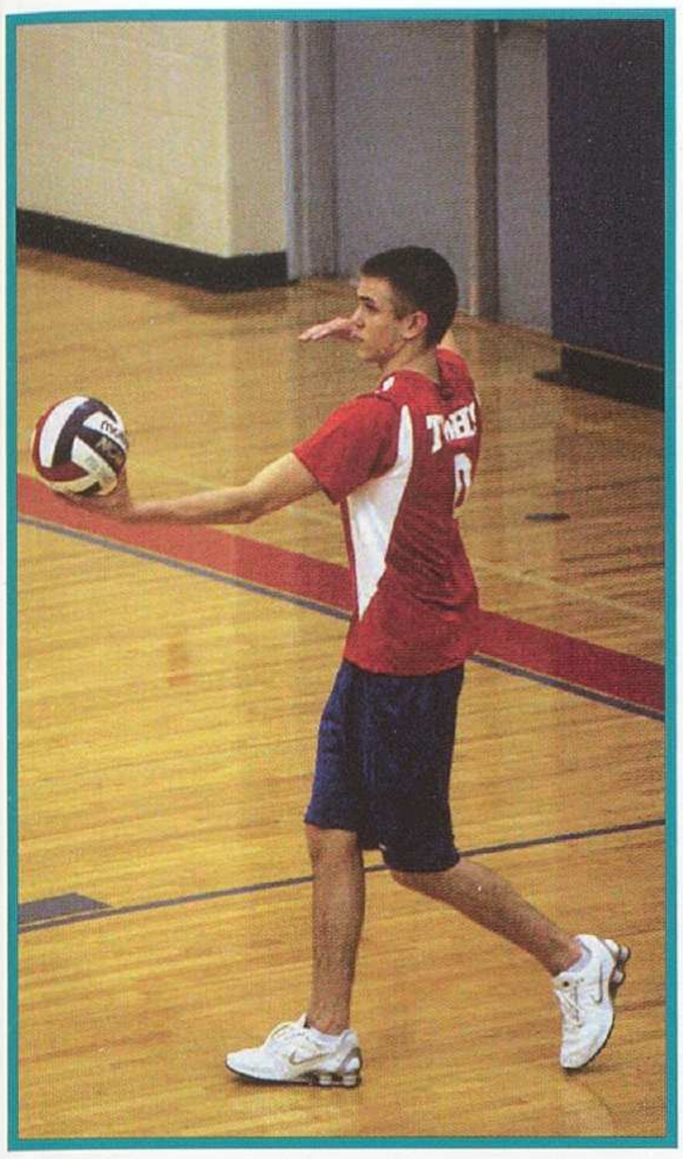


The team intently watches Nick Murden as he reaches as far back as he can to save the game.

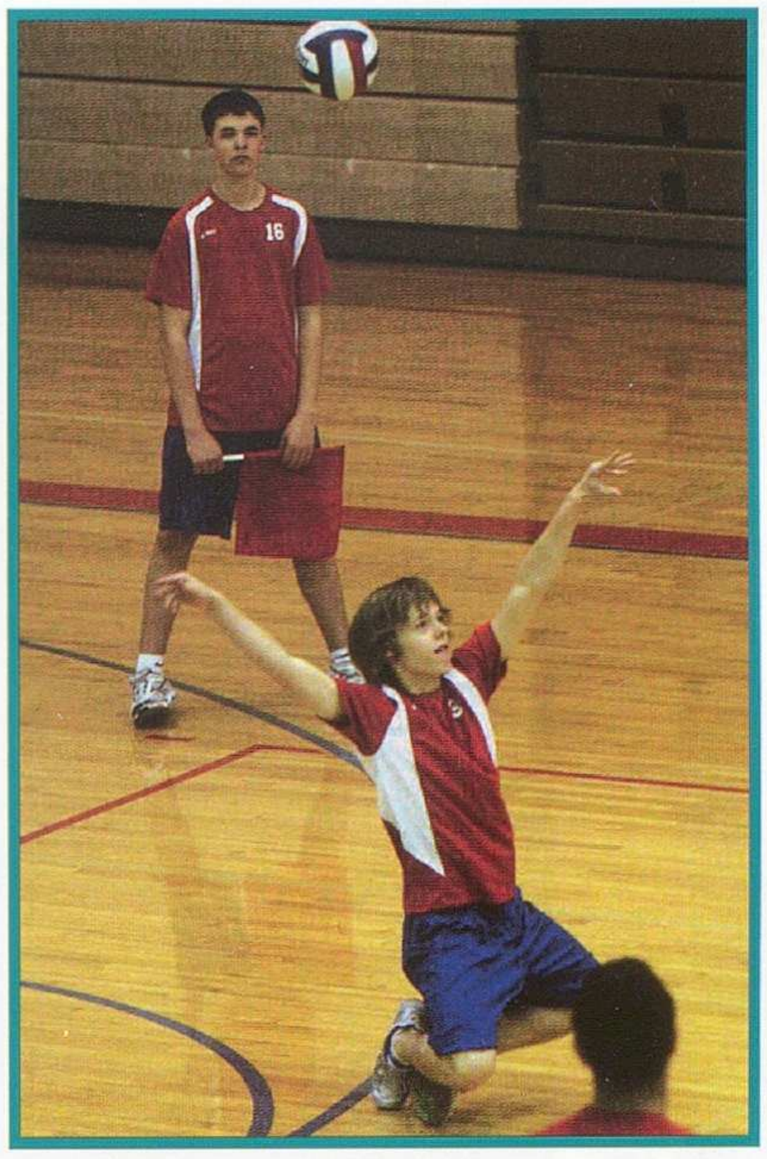
Throwing it up for a quick pose before he hits the ball is Steve Tatz.



Captains



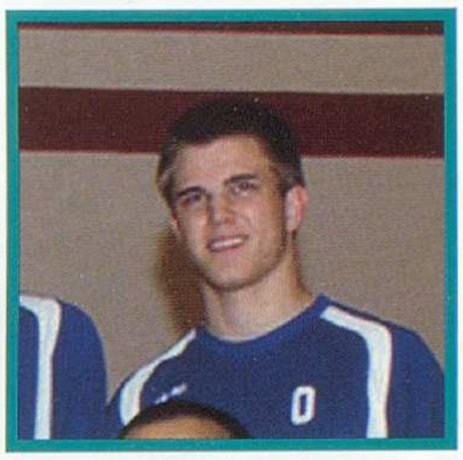
Braden Alsnauer shocks the crowd with his amazing serve and his new Nike Shox.

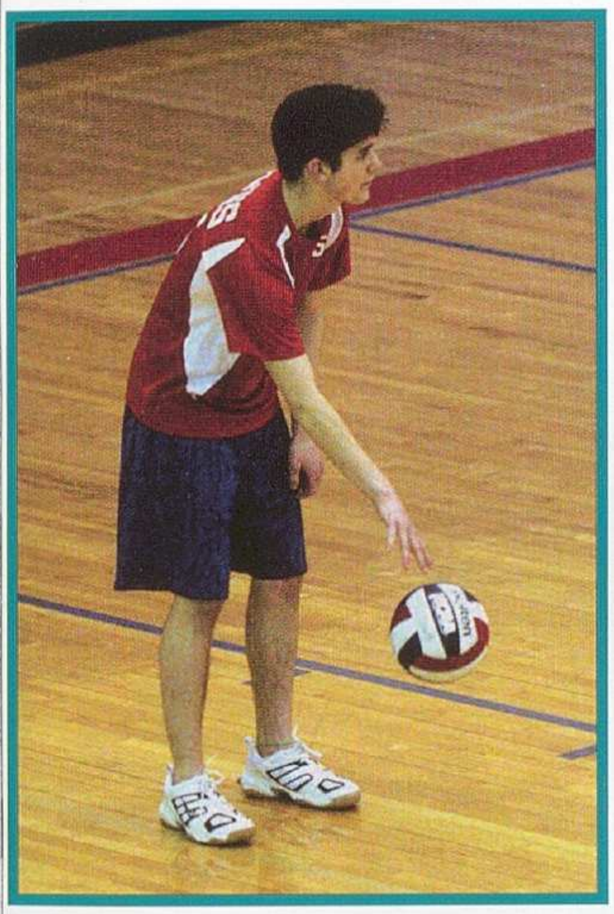


Devin Fraze, I didn't know you were in the movie Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon.

"Keep them working hard Mango and good luck next season guys. RAY CHARLES!"
-Drew Daugherty
Senior

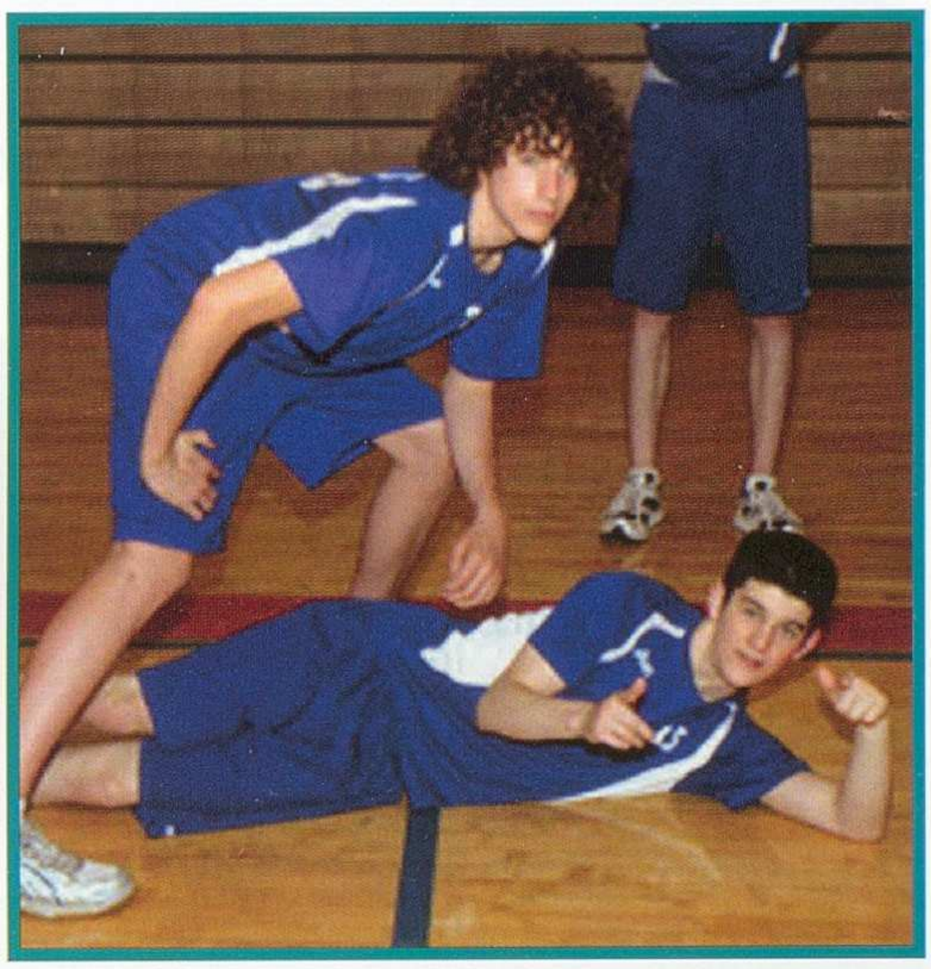
" I had really fun time this season, I'm going to miss the seniors and I hope we can keep improving and achieve a winning season!"
-Braden Alsnauer
Junior



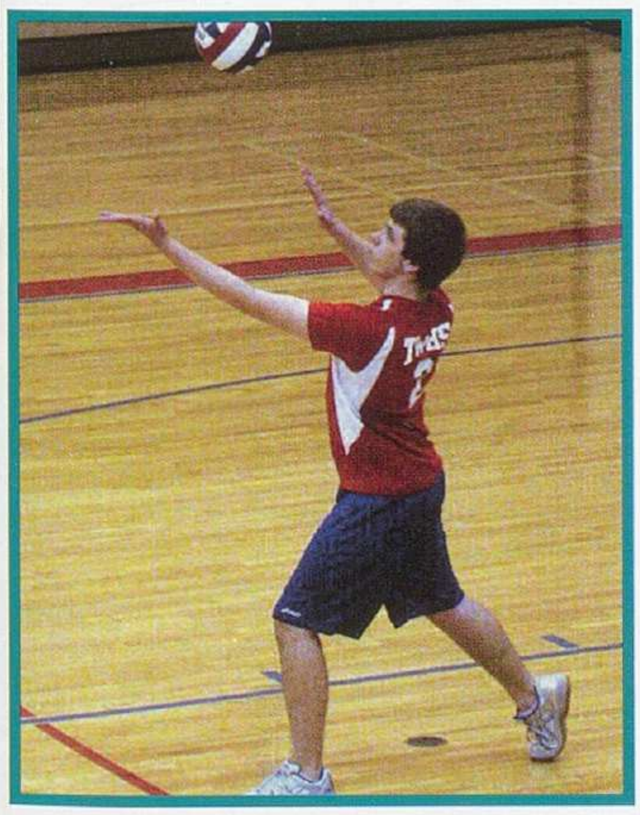


Dribbling the ball before he serves it to the other side is Tyler Savage.

The team sets up Nick Murden for a spike that is sure to win them some points.



Chillin like a couple of villans these boys should be paying attention to the game instead of laying around and posing for a camera.



Did you take ballet when you were younger Drew Daugherty?

The opponent is about to get served by Ahmed Saheen.

Kelsey,
You are such a wonderful daughter. I have enjoyed watching you grow from a tiny little girl always trying to keep up with your two older sisters to a young lady that is driven, competitive, sensitive, and confident. Follow your heart and fulfill your dreams, but remember that your family will always support you in all that you do. You will always be my baby girl and a best friend. Please remember I will always be there for you.
Love, Mom.

To Kenzie,

When you come to the edge of all the light you know and are about to step into the darkness of the unknown, FAITH is knowing that one of two things will happen...
There will be solid ground to stand on or you will be taught to fly.

Love, Mom, Dad, Amanda and Carrie.

Congratulations Josh!

We are so proud
of you.
Here's to your next big jump!

Love always,

Jackie,

From the first time you took the stage as a "runaway orphan" in Annie at age 6 you have been running away with our hearts. The spotlight has been yours whether on stage at community theaters or at school. You wowed us as Veruca Salt in Pleasure Guild's Charlie and the Chocolate Factory at the Palace Theatre, and again as the Artful Dodger in Oliver! at Colonial Hills. With the TWHS Repertory you have been able to hone your acting, directing, and writing talents in My Fair Lady, The Music Man, Song of Survival, The Skin of Our Teeth, Pegora the Witch, Quilters, Tell Me on a Sunday, Amadeus, Acts, Fiddler on the Roof, The Fabulous Fable Factory, Little Shop of Horrors, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten, A Piece of My Heart, The Wiz, Charlotte's Web, and Little Women. At Hope college you will continue to shine brightly---and then it's off to Broadway, Hollywood, London, "on location"---wherever your dreams take you! My dear, dear Jo, you are extraordinary and therefore shall not lead an ordinary life. Though I know I will miss you desperately, you are ready to go out into the world. Wonderful things will come of your talents.

I love you.
Your Proud Stage Mama,
"Marmee"
