January 10th, 1902.

A meting was held at Mrs. Harriet Welling's. Miss King was chosen temporarij chairman, and a secretary pro. tem was also appointed.

Discussion of constitution was first taken up, point by point. The name. "Fortnightly Club" was decided upon.

Mrs Herrman read the proposed constitution, article by article and section by section. It was adopted after full discussion, with some changes.

Officers were then elected, as follows:

President - Mrs. Mary King.
1st Vice-Pres Mrs. McAdam.
2nd " " Mrs. Joseph Parsons.
Secretary-Treas. Mrs. Eric J. Nelson.
Librarian - Mrs. B. H. Herrman.

January 15th 1902.

The first regular meeting of the Fortnightly Club was held at the home of Mrs. B.W. Herrman seventeen members being present.

After being called to order by the President, the Club began the study of Macbeth, under the direction of Mrs. Jos. Parsons. The reading was prefaced by a short account of the historical origin of the story, by Mrs. Herrman, an explanation of the meaning of the word tragedy, by Miss Welling, and by the story of Lady Macbeth as told by Richard Grant White, read by Mrs. Will Parsons- Mrs. Parsons asked that the fact be noted that the climax of the play occurs in the middle act, also that the story is divided into four parts or stages - viz. "temptation", "deed" "concealment" and "nemesis or "retribution". The first act was then read and discussed -

At the business meeting which followed - five names of candidates for active membership were presented, and referred to the Board of Directors:

By Mrs. Herrman - Miss Grace Griffith
" Miss Welling - Miss Lee -
" Miss Atkinson - Mrs. Harvey Gruver
" Mrs. Phinney - Miss Mabel Phinney

By Mrs Jos. Parsons - Mrs. Penelope Smythe. A letter of application for books to be loaned by the State Library, was read, and ~~was~~ signed by the members present, after which adjournment was had -

The Club was called to order by the First Vice-President, who occupied the chair until the arrival of the President.

Before beginning the reading of the second act of Macbeth, Inverness, the supposed site of Macbeth's castle, was located on the map of Scotland, and a short account of the town was read by Mrs. Meadam. Mrs. Parsons told the club of hearing a lecture by Prof. Moulton, in which he gave the play as a Greek tragedy, and said that Macbeth was the most poetical of Shakespeare's characters. Mrs. Hill Parsons read an account - both legendary and historical - of the coronation stones, which has been for many centuries a part of the coronation chair used in the crowning of British sovereigns -

The minutes of the last meeting were read, and corrections ordered. The Board of Directors reported favorably upon the names of candidates submitted at the last meeting, after which a vote was taken which resulted in the unanimous election of each of the five ladies to membership in the club.

The subject of a reception for the benefit of the Worthington Library and Reading Room was then discussed, and it was decided to hold such a reception at Mrs. Herman's house on the afternoon of February 14th.

A special meeting was called for January 31st, to make arrangements for the proposed entertainment, after which the Club adjourned.

With nineteen members present, the Fortnightly read the 3rd and 4th acts of Macbeth. Mrs Parsons suggested a review of Scottish history, as a preparation for the next meeting, and asked that something be learned of Edward the Confessor.

It was voted that the expenses of the proposed reception be met by a tempoary loan of funds in the Club treasury, the matter of final settlement to be adjusted at some future time. There being no further business, the Club adjourned.

The Fortnightly Club met at Mrs Herman's, sixteen members being present. The last act of Macbeth was read, and Mrs. Parsons reviewed the play deducing as its great moral lesson the fact of the possibilities for evil which are in every character. This speech of Macbeth's, in regard to the witches that tempted him, she wished us to remember: "They met me in the day of my success." The temptation of Jesus Christ in the wilderness, was spoken of, as also coming just after his hour of triumph. Mrs Parsons also read Sir Henry Irving's comments upon the character of Macbeth, whom he styles "a poet with his brain, but a villain with his heart."

The Tempest was agreed upon, as the next play to be read.

After the reading of the minutes the matter of the disposal of receipts from the Club's reception was taken up, and it was agreed that the sum of twenty-five dollars should be turned over to the Treasurer of the Public Library & Reading Room, to be used as the Board of Directors of that institution should see fit.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Hurman for the use of her house on reception day, and the Secretary was instructed to convey the thanks of the club to Mr. Ward for his donation of invitations The other members of the club also expressed their gratitude to the Committee in charge of the reception, and a small rembrance was voted to the maid who attended the door.

There being no further business, the Club adjourned.

The meeting was called to order by the President. The study of Shakespeare's Tempest was begun. Mrs Parsons made a few introductory remarks, reading what Lowell has to say of this play. Miss Griffith read the plot. Mrs Parsons then assigned the parts and the first act was read.

Business meeting was then held, it being the regular time for the annual meeting and election of officers. The former officers were reelected, without exception. A report from the Librarian was heard. It was voted that no member should retain a book from the club library for a longer period than two weeks without returning it, in order that other members may have opportunity to read it. A book may be renewed for another two weeks, in case there is no other application for it.

The club was called to order by the President, sixteen members being present. The second and third acts of the Tempest were read - Mrs Parsons first speaking of the fact that the keynote of action in this play is struck in the very first act - that this is true of every one of Shakespeare's plays - Miranda, Ariel and Caliban were named as the three principal characters, Ariel being the connecting link with the higher, Caliban with the lower world, & Caliban representing the lowest type. She also spoke of the fact that all tribes of people have some conception of a deity, always like themselves, no better, no worse. The nobler a man's nature, the higher his conception of God.

In discussing what work should be undertaken next year, it was voted to continue the study of Shakespeare, and each member was asked to submit, at the next meeting, a list of the six plays she most wished to study. The subject of a club calendar was touched upon, but full discussion of it was postponed to another meeting. The resignation of Mrs Dodsmith as active member was received. With eleven members present the Fortnightly Club was called to order by the President. Before reading the concluding act of the Tempest, Mrs Parsons called attention to the significance of the names of the characters — Caliban being an anagram of the word cannibal; Ariel being almost aerial; Miranda meaning wonderful. She spoke of the beauty of Miranda's character and the conditions under which her life had been spent, saying that no other one of Shakespeare's characters could have filled her place.

In the matter of selecting plays to be read at next year's meetings, the Club agreed to leave the choice entirely with Mrs. Parsons.

The resignation of Mrs Dr. Smith, on account of her removal from the village, was accepted with regret.

Mrs McAdam presented the name of Mrs Bless, as a candidate for active membership

Mrs. Parsons had a set of questions prepared. A diagram of the plot was explained by Mrs. Smythe. A number of opinions concerning the play were quoted, and Browning's beautiful "Caliban" was read.
Then the program for the next year's work, which Mrs. Parsons had prepared, subject to the approval of the club,
was read. It is as follows:

1902
October 1-15-29 Cymbeline.
November 12-26 Julius Caesar.
December 10-24

January 7-21 King John
February 4-18

1903

The meeting was called to order by the President. Before taking up the study of "As you Like It," Mrs Parsons read Prof. Dowden's comments on the play, which he calls the prettiest and happiest of Shakespeare's comedies, having no plot, no hero, no tragedy, no climax. She also read a description of the forest of Arden, saying that bits of it could be found in all of the plays. The first three acts were read.

The subject of a club calendar was again brought up, but it was decided to devote the money in the treasury to another purpose. The club then adjourned

Mrs. Herman proposed the name of Mrs. Steckel as an associate member.

Annual report. Year ending Jan 31, 1902.

The Fortnightly Club was organized in January 1902, its object being, in the words of the Constitution: "to stimulate intellectual and moral development, and to promote good fellowship among its members."

Twenty charter members were enrolled and at the second meeting, five additional names were proposed for membership, so that the constitutional limit of twenty-five active members was soon reached.

One member has been lost, by her removal from the village, but the vacant place was immediately filled. Ten associate members are provided for by the constitution. Nine of these still remain open.

Ten regular meetings have been held since the club's organization, with an average attendance of fifteen. Three members have been present at every meeting: Mrs. Parsons; Mrs. Herman; and Mrs. Smyth. Those who have been absent but once during the half-year of the club's life, are as follows: Mrs. Aldrich; Miss Sill; Mrs. Phinney; Miss Mabel Phinney; Mrs. McAdam; Mrs. Wing. Absences, in nearly every instance, have been unavoidable, and a spirit of interest has been manifested by the members, which gives fair promise of pleasant and profitable work in the future.

Three of Shakespeare's plays have been read and studied: Macbeth, The Tempest, and As You Like It. This work has been done under the direction & leadership of Mrs. Joseph Parsons, who has most freely and generously given to the club of her store of garnered comment and opinion, and of personal thought and study, brings to her task an unbounded enthusiasm, and a joy in her work, that have proved to all an inspiration and a delight. The Club has also had helps in the way of books pertaining to the study of Shakespeare. These were loaned by the State Library.

Not all of the Club's efforts, however, have been with an eye to self-advancement. Early in February the sad plight of the Worthington Reading Room & Public Library was brought to notice, and it was decided that a benefit reception should be given. This reception was held on the afternoon of February 14th, at Mrs. Herman's home. The rooms were lighted with many candles, & quaint gowns of long-ago were worn by the hostesses, who looked as if each might have stepped from some old-time picture. The result of this pleasant afternoon was a gift of twenty-five dollars to the reading room.

For next year's work, Mrs. Parsons has outlined for the Club the following program:-

1902 - Oct 1-15-29 Cymbeline.
Nov. 12. 26 Dec 10. 24 Julius Caesar.
1903 Jan 7, 21, Feb. 4-18 King John.
Mch 4-18 Apl. 1-15-29 Hamlet.
May 13-27 A Winter's Tale, or Midsummer Night's Dream.

With most of the members of the Fortnightly, attendance at the club meetings requires some extra effort. The temptation is often strong upon some busy woman to give up going, and to work on in the rut and grind of her every-day living. But it is something more than an understanding of Shakespeare that she gains, something that cannot be measured nor estimated. The outdoor air sets her jangling nerves in tune; after five minutes' walk she is ready to say, with Whittier:

"The windows of my soul I throw Wide open to the sun."

And when those windows are opened, the pleasant air comes in, the sunshine, and the singing birds. She meets her sister members, themselves refreshed, bright-eyed, glad-hearted. When she goes home again, she is a new creature. Life is brighter, for some of the dust has been rubbed off.

The Fortnightly Club has reason to be proud of its season's work. Perfect harmony and accord have characterized its meetings. This club of women has had no dissensions; there has been, throughout, good-fellowship and always it has lived up to the spirit of its motto:

"Who does the best his circumstances

allonro,
"Doc well; acts nobly; angulo could no more".

THE FOREST OF ARDEN

One always associates "As You Like It" with the forest of Arden, naturally, and if that forest cannot be found in close proximity to a club gathering, at least the next best thing is to read the play out of doors and under the trees, which if not situate in the delightful forest made famous by Rosalind and Orlando's love episode, are at least every bit as beautiful.

The last meeting of the Fortnightly club of Worthington was devoted Tuesday afternoon to the finishing of the play of "As You Like It," to the accompaniment of rushing wind, the whistle of the oriole, the trill of the meadow lark, and the occasional note of the blue bird, who reiterated the fact that it was "lovely, lovely," as the club unanimously agreed. It was a lawn fete as well; a basket picnic, a feast mental and material, and the meeting place, the lawn of Mrs. Parsons' house, could not have been improved upon.

A committee of gentlemen representing the Worthington Reading Room, for which the Fortnightly club has done much in the way of money and donations of books, was present and urged upon the club the advisability of the members assuming responsibility of conducting the affairs of the library. This was discussed and a committee composed of Miss Dill, Miss Faith Welling, Miss Grace Atkinson and Mrs. Groover was appointed to confer with the other committee and to see in what way the Fortnightly club might assist in the work of keeping up the library and reading room without assuming the entire responsibility. After the reading of the secretary's report by Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Wing, president of the club, presented to Mrs. Parsons on behalf of the members a set of Denton J. Snyder's notes on Shakespeare. Mrs. Parsons was taken utterly by surprise, and while her words were few, no one could doubt her pleasure and delight in this evidence of love and admiration on the part of the club she has so faithfully directed over the devious paths that lead to clearer Shakespearean understanding. There are few women so well versed in the work of the great dramatist as Mrs. Parsons, and none who love him better, and it is this thorough appreciatoin and knowledge on her part that has been the means of enthusing the members of the club to such an extent.

At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served from a flower decked table, and the Shakespeare study club ended its year in a blaze of glory.

Mrs. Smythe's report in Columbus Dispatch
June 4 '02.

June 3rd 1902.

The Fortnightly Club held its last meeting for the season at the home of Mrs Parsons - making of it a gala occasion, with guests invited & refreshments served. The final reading of As You Like It was out of doors & under the trees.

A committee of three — Mrs Badger, Mr. Gruver & Mr. Goble, representing the Worthington Reading Room, waited upon the Club, ~~and~~ spoke in behalf of the library, asking if the ladies would not be willing to take the management of it. They reported the library in debt, about $45.00. This, or at least a part of it, they would try to liquidate. As to the patronage of the library, 250 books had been drawn out during the month of May, with an average of 300 books every month.

The Club declined to assume the entire responsibility of carrying on the library, but a committee of four — Miss Welling, Miss Dill, Miss Atkinson & Mrs Gruver — was appointed, to confer with the people & to agitate the question of carrying on the reading room.

Mrs. Steckel was voted an associate member of the club.

After the reading of the Secretary's annual report, Mrs. Parsons was presented with Snyder's Commentaries on Shakespeare, in three volumes; in token of the Fortnightly's grateful appreciation of her devotion to its interests.

"CYMBELINE" STUDIED.

Worthington Woman's Club Takes Up Shakspeare's Drama.

A delightful afternoon was spent by the members of the Worthington Fortnightly club, at their first meeting of the season, held yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Harriet Welling was the hostess for the afternoon and 15 ladies were present.

Mrs. Parsons gave an introductory talk on the drama "Cymbeline," speaking of it from an historical and literary standpoint and calling attention to its exquisite poetry, the sweet purity and dignity of Imogen, its principal female character, "A shop of all the qualities that man loves woman for."

Following this the first act was taken up, each member being assigned a part for reading.

When the study of "Cymbeline" is concluded, "Julius Caesar" will be taken up to be followed by "Hamlet" and "A Winter's Tale." Should time permit, still other dramas will be added to the list so that a most interesting year is anticipated.

At the business session five applications were received for membership, and were referred to the membership committee.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 8 at Hotel Central, where all subsequent meetings will be held.

Sept 24th 1902.

The Fortnightly Club met at the home of Mrs. Harriet Welling, and was called to order by the President.

The first act of Cymbeline was read, after an introduction giving the story of the play.

The resignations of Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Griffith and Mrs. Pinney, from the active membership of the club, were accepted, with regret.

To fill the vacancy in the Board of Directors caused by the resignation of Mrs. Griffith, Mrs. Elless was elected.

Mrs. Smythe, at her own request, was transferred from active to associate membership.

Mrs. Pickel's name was placed upon the active list, she formerly having been an associate member.

The following names were proposed for associate membership.

Mrs. Turner by Mrs. Dr. Welling.
Mrs. McGinnis " " Wing
Mrs. Sullivan " " Nelson
Mrs. Cleveland " " Elless
Mrs. Coomler " " Kerrman.

It was decided that the place of meeting should be, for the present, at Hotel Conrad, & the Club then adjourned, to meet

The Golden Years

Love, do you remember
Our childhoods happy Springtime in the days
Long ago
How we picked the golden blossoms all along the wayside growing Till my pinafore and basket both were filled to overflowing
And we said we'd love each other long as dandelions blow?

Love, do you remember
That perfect Summer evening and the light on sea and land
When the roses, golden hearted in the sunsets dying glory
Seemed to listen as you whispered in my ear
the old, old story
And my answer was a rosebud, softly laid within your hand.

Love, we do remember How together we have journeyed when the summer days were bright
Till all their bloom is faded and the golden rod is shining
We will walk our Autumn pathway, hand in hand toward days declining
For we know through lengthened shadows we are going to the light.

Love we will remember
The weiles day is coming when our wayfaring will cease
With our golden sheaves all garnered for the Masters re-appearing May the Lord & faithful pilgrims, when our journeys end is nearing Grant us entrance in together to the Beulah Land of Peace.

Annual Report of Secretary for 1904-1905

From Oct 5th 1904 to July 19th 1905 there were seventeen meetings of the Fortnightly Club of Worthington with an average attendance of fifteen. Not a large showing as to numbers, but as to intellect - immense!

The Treasurers report shows that there has been paid for all expenses of Library and Club leaving us now in Club fund $6.30 in Library fund $127.79.

The Librarian tells us that there have been 337 issues of books - of which the largest - 40 - was in March. Last Catalogue number being 819.

Our first meetings were distinctly discouraging. Only Nov. 2nd three resignations were received. but those left worked on with renewed vigor. The active membership of twenty five was filled immediately from the waiting list, while there were two new associate members.

Early in December a Bazaar was held. All labored faithfully - plead with our town folk to subscribe to the Ladies Home Journal and Saturday Evening Post - bought each others handiwork, enjoyed ourselves, filled ourselves completely out, and with goody assistance from those who benefitted by the books, netted a goodly sum for the Library.

As custodians of the Library we have received help as follows: Col. Kilbourne gave us our Booklovers Shakespeare and eighty miscellaneous volumes. Mrs Lewis his commission on Mrs. of books. Mrs. Bishop his store room for Bazaar while Mrs Marshall Kindly tendld our fires during that time. Through Mrs McGuire we received Howes History of Ohio - Misses Frankle, Harvey Gurney and J J McDonald donated periodicals - Mark Myers worked long and faithfully at the Bazaar - Cchecks were received by Mrs Parsons from Jeffrey and C A Millet - donations of books from Mrs. Kinnes and The Little Helpers of Mrs Eldridges school. Nor must we neglect to mention one of our own members, Mrs Elinor Smith, who generously gave us one hundred copies of her famous book "Forty Cooks"

As a Club we thank Mr Steckel for our beloved map, which shows so many hours of patient skillful labor - Mrs Halford Postle made type written copies of Constitution and By Laws which have proved very useful.

Owing to the severe weather and the serious illness of Mrs Parsons, there were no meetings of the Club from Feb. 1st to April 12th and even since then we have had various unavoidable interruptions to our work.

We have read the play of Henry V - the three parts of Henry VI and a Midsummer Nights Dream.

We enjoyed renewing acquaintance with our old friend Prince Hal - now bearing his Kingly honors. We rejoiced in his victories over the French both in Love and war.

We have waded Knee deep in gore with la Pucelle and have seen her led away to torture and shameful death. We have stalked solemnly beside the sheet shrouded, candle bearing Duchess of Gloucester in her penitential pilgrimage. We have listened to the scoldings of the ambitious and bitterly disappointed daughter of frisky King René - fair Margaret of Anjou.

We have wandered in a rose garden with the quarrelsome Dukes of York and Lancaster - have witnessed the rise and fall of their foe Jack Cade.

We have wondered at the wiles of the King Maker and have felt real grief over the untimely untitles of the unworthy offspring of our bluff King Hal Henry V and his lovely Katharine of France - Almost are we relieved when assured that he is really dead.

Months of reading interruptions, griefs and disappointments during the past season we have had one really truly great pleasure.

Mr Jos. H Parsons and Miss Myra Clarke were married in Worthington Mass. May 30th 1855. on purpose to allow the Fortnightly Club of Worthington Mass to finish their season with a Golden Wedding of their very very own.

We flatter ourselves that we did it.

"And we're sure We'll love each other Long as dandelions blow."

Secretary's Report.

During the Club year now ending, from Oct 4th 1905 to May 16th 1906 there were seventeen meetings of the Fortnightly Club with an average attendance of 19-Jan. 19th found us removed from our former airy room to our present bright quarters.
In addition to donations from our old friends of last year the Reading Room received 100 book from First M. E. Church & Columbus- Miss G. Robinson gave sixteen years of teaching Magazines. Mr Miles McCullough and his able wife gave the whole proceeds of his original play to same object. Mr. A C Myers Kindly gave his lecture on Grafi. The Grafites, alas, did not come, so we were a very small, tho eminently respectable audience. We mailed to be an Old Maids Convention, we tried to get up a play, but warned by the sad experience of others decided that we must feed the crowd. We advertised an all day market, which lasted exactly one hour and netted a goodly sum.

On March 14th equipped with big aprons, paste pots and unlimited quantities of "E Pluribus Unum" eleven hard working women wrestled with broken backed and otherwise mutilated books, and came off conquerors.

As a result we now have 25 active 5 associate members. We have decided to continue the study of history as taught by W. Shakespeare, beginning next year at the very first. We have finished the ten English Historical plays - also read A Midsummer Night and Othello. Have plans for the summer in prospect.

Who can tell what working together, we may not in the end accomplish.

October 3, 1906. The Fortnightly Club met at the Reading Room, sixteen members present. The minutes of the usual business of the Club first was dispensed first. A communication was received from the Educational Committee of the Mens Club, inquiring in what way they could best assist in the library work. Mr. Gunn as chairman of that Committee was asked to confer with the Ladies and discuss the matter. Mr. Gunn stated that the Committee was willing to canvass the town to solicit subscriptions for the current needs of the library. The Club gladly accepted the offer. The Book Committee, consisting of Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Clark, was appointed to confer with the School Board and Educational Committee to formulate some plan of action. Mrs. Clark was excused from serving on account of illness at home and Mrs. Miller was asked to take her place. Mrs. Ward was authorized to see to the purchasing of a set book shelves for the Fly of the Pelpo School; provided the cost of the shelves and the transportation did not exceed $10.00

It was decided that no one person should take more than two books from the library at a time. Mrs. Whittlesey offered the use of her Victor Talking Machine to give an entertainment for the benefit of the library. The ladies accepted her kind offer and it was decided to hold a "Victor Musical" at School Hall, Saturday evening, Oct. 13. It was afterwards thought best to postpone the musical on account of there being other entertainments about that time. Five active members resigned since the last meeting. Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Stockbridge and Mrs. Turner. Five names were proposed for associate membership - Mrs. Edwards Sayles, by Mrs. Miller; Mrs. Eldridge by Mrs. Lucia Sayles; Mrs. MacKay by Mrs. Clark; Miss MacKay by Mrs. Babbitt, and Miss Robinson by Miss Harris. Mrs. Ward's motion to hold an all day meeting on Friday, December 28 to repair the library books, was carried. It was afterwards found necessary to postpone the meeting on account of lack of mending material. Mrs. Ward reported having written requests of the Encyclopedia Britannica for the library at the remarkably low price of $3.00 and donating ten volumes of reborn, making a complete set.
The President instructed Mrs. Ward to pay the bill and tendered the thanks of the club for

ing. As there was a greater amount of business than usual before the club, they was no reading done, Mrs.
Parsons merely assigning the parts to be taken at the next meeting. The principal business before the club was the introduce of the library. A misapprehension having arisen in regard to the offer of assistance from the Educational Committee of the Civics Club, which was accepted by the Fortnightly Club at a former meeting, it was suggested that an official letter, asking for the promised help, be presented at a called meeting of men interested in the proposition, which was

The club met Jan. 23, with 13 members present. The first act. of Coriolanus was read with introductory reading by Mrs. Joseph Parsons. The President stated that she had been subscribed by the citizens of Northville for the maintenance of the library. Also that a letter had been received from the Educational Committee of the Men's Club expressing their appreciation of the services rendered by the Fortnightly Club in maintaining and conducting a free public library. Mrs. Miller moved that the Secretary be instructed to write a letter of thanks to Mr. Greene, Chairman of the Educational Committee. Car carried. Mrs. Myers moved that the Men's Club be asked to appoint three of their members to meet with our officers to form a board of control for the ensuing year of the library. Mrs. McCullough's motion that the treasurer return to Mrs. Jos. Parsons fifty cents paid by her for translocation of traveling library, was carried. Mrs. Wards motion that the library be opened Tuesday and Sunday afternoons from 1:30 to 4:30 and Friday evening from 6:30 to 8:30 was carried. The Secretary was instructed to thank Mr. McCullough for book shelves made by him for the library and also Dr. Pagels for the loan of a writing desk and book case. The Librarian's report was read and accepted. Mrs. Parsons reported that Miss Mahony was willing to give her services entertainment at any time the club might choose, but as the season is so far spent it was thought best to postpone it indefinitely. Mrs. Dinkel's name was selected to act on membership in the Club.

Mrs Allen O Myers
President Fortnightly Club
Worthington Ohio

Dear Madam

I have been asked by the Educational Committee of the Worthington Men's Club to express to you our appreciation of the valuable community service rendered by the Fortnightly Club in maintaining and conducting the Public Library. We heartily endorse your policy for the library and congratulate you on the number of books used in proportion to our population.

With you we feel the need of more good books, some standard and some of recent issue. We also think that if the rooms were open more frequently much more benefit would be derived with but little additional expense.

Our interest is attested by the meeting called last week at which a subscription was started which will materially further your plans.

Hoping the meeting next Thursday may still further aid, I am

On behalf of the Committee

Respectfully yours
